HETFIELD TO BE BOROUGH COUNSEL

Mayor W. L. Smalley Names All Officials for Year of 1916.

FRED MARTIN CLERK

John Y. Barrett Becomes Street Commissioner and William McCullough Chief of Fire Department—Hand Still Recorder.

The appointment of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., as corporation counsel, that of John Y. Barrett as street commissioner and Frederick A. Martin as borough clerk, were the principal items of interest in the naming of new officials for the borough of North Plainfield by Mayor William L. Smalley, who assumed his duties as chief executive of the borough government with the new year.

Mayor Smalley read his appointments to members of the Borough Common Council at the meeting held at noon Saturday. They follow:

Rowley, Charles Arnold, Charles Amerman, Frank Haulenback, Al Van Nise, Alfred Eledeker, Frank Schuck, Joseph Flack, S. C. Mundy, George W. Cardis.

Callmen, Claude Hann, Frank Haulenback, Garret Shepherd, Frank Shepherd, Charles Stahl, Fred Koller, David Allen, William Hogan, Albert De Camp, John La Maire, Winton Conover, George Gaddis, L. B. Bodine, W. Daley and Arthur Fritz.

In taking the chair as mayor and presiding officer of the Council, Mayor Smalley outlined his policies for the new year. He said that he favored the widening of Somerset street, from Jackson avenue to Johnston's Drive, the extension of Watchung to Johnston's Drive, the sale of the present team of fire horses, and the purchase of a combination automobile hose and chemical wagon for the fire department, the remodeling of the present engine house and the erection of a partition wall so as to allow space for housing various borough departments of the borough in addition to the fire company. This improvement would include the moving of the police station and tax collector and treasurer's office to the fire hall and would save the borough the cost of heating and lighting the police station and the rent on the tax collector's office.

Mayor Smalley also declared that the street commissioner was not appointed for a term of one year, as he did not believe this policy best for the borough, but that he would be employed only when actually needed on street work.

He urged the co-operation of all officials and citizens of the borough during his term and pledged to them his best efforts for the common good of the people.

The new chief executive of the borough was enthusiastically applauded when he concluded his initial address.

Retiring Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., pledged that all citizens of the borough would uphold the hands of Mayor Smalley, in his efforts to give them good government and urged all to commend his public service, instead of devoting their time to lurking in highways and byways and criticising the management of public affairs, as was frequently done. He called attention to the fact that those who criticised public officials loudest usually gave absolutely nothing toward a solution of various municipal problems. He extended to the new mayor

SOCIETY EXCHANGED NEW YEAR GREETINGS

Reception Followed by Dance is Enjoyed at the Park Club.

The New Year's Day reception and dance attracted a large number of members and guests to the Park Club. The affair was in the nature of a dansant and was much enjoyed by all present. The large auditorium was bright and cheerful in its holiday decorations, comprising greens and poinsetta, the arrangement about the stage being especially attractive.

The hours for the reception were from 4 to 7, during which there was a happy exchange of New Year's greetings. During the latter part of the afternoon dancing was a feature. The music for the occasion was furnished by Van Eps Brothers, the program being a popular one.

The function was given under the direction of the entertainment committee of the club, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Alson M. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Murray, Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Du Bois. There will be an informal dance at the club, Saturday night, while on Thursday night, January 27, the club will give a leap year dance.

PLEASING FEATURES AT HOSPITAL DANCE

Miss Ruth Taylor and Francis Day Awarded Prize in Lucky Number Contest.

Several hundred Plainfielders fittingly ushered the new year in last Friday night and Saturday morning at the dance given in the High School Auditorium by the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital. It was probably the largest affair of the kind that has ever been held by this city, and was marked by a number of pleasing features. Shortly before midnight confetti and paper streamers were distributed to the dancers, and were thrown about the darkened room. A lantern threw the figures 1916 on a screen, and just at 12, accompanied by all sorts of noises made by the spectators, they gradually changed to 1916. Colored lights were thrown on the dancers, and the effects produced by these on the many colored gowns were pleasing.

Earlier in the evening a lucky number dancing contest was held, which was entered by about one hundred couples. At frequent intervals the music was stopped, and numbers drawn by William B. Tyler from a hat held by Allan Cowperthwait were announced, the persons holding corresponding numbers withdrawing from the floor. The elimination continued until the prize, a handsome picture frame, went to Miss Ruth Taylor, of Morristown.

Music was furnished by an excellent orchestra composed of five colored men, who played all the popular airs as only that type of musician can play them. Shortly before 1 o'clock a light supper was served. Too much credit for the success of the evening's entertainment cannot be given to the following committee members, who worked unceasingly:

Miss Eva Browne, chairman; Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, Mrs. Henry W. Brower, Mrs. Frederick Goddard, Miss Helen Harman, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. Walter L. Righter, Mrs. William B. Tyler, Mrs. Edward J. Waring. The floor committee consisted of Warren Ackerman, J. Whitney Baker, Henry W. Brower, Kenneth Browne, Thomas M. Day, Jr., Owen Fleming, James Fleming, William Flanders, Frederick W. Goddard, E. W. Jeffcott, Sherman B. Joost, Howard Ladd, John Martin, J. Hartley Mellick, Roger Mellick, James O. Murray, Walter L. Righter, Rex Schoonmaker, Lawrence Smith, William Palmer Smith, Jr., Edward F. Stevenson, John Valiant, William B. Tyler and Edward J. Waring. It is earnestly requested by the committee that these having tickets make returns to Miss Helen Harman as soon as possible.

JUVENILE APPENDIX VICTIM.

William H. Anthony, Jr., the four-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Anthony, of Park avenue, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, New Year's night, for an acute attack of appendicitis. It was performed by Dr. E. W. Hedges and this morning the little fellow was reported as "doing nicely." The boy is the second child of the same age to undergo an appendectomy at the hospital within the past week, the other one being Logan Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murphy of Bloomsbury, formerly of this city.

MAYOR SUGGESTS MANY REFORMS

Annual Message is Read to Newly Organized 1916 Council.

WOULD WIDEN AVENUE

He Also Recommends Police Improvements, Permanent Pavements, Public Parks and the Employing of Municipal Experts.

Among the public improvements recommended for the new year by Mayor Leighton Calkins in his communication to the Common Council of Plainfield read at the initial meeting of the 1916 board held on the evening of January 1, were the widening of Park avenue; the installation of a system of municipal parks; the securing of expert advice on all municipal matters; an enlargement of the police system; the laying of permanent pavements in downtown streets, and an improvement of the system of municipal accounting.

Mayor Calkins briefly reviewed the work done by members of the Council and other city officials during the year just passed and declared that all had honestly, faithfully and efficiently fulfilled the trust imposed in them by the people.

His message follows:

"To the Honorable, the Members of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

"In extending to you at this time my best wishes for the year upon which we enter, I am happy to add my very hearty congratulations on your record of accomplishment for the year now concluded; and in this I am sure that our people whom you have served with singular harmony of purpose will most cordially concur.

A Review of the Year.

"Closer relations have been established with the Board of Education in the preparation of the preliminary estimates for the school and municipal budgets. Thus Council and Board have each acquired a business knowledge of the needs of a co-ordinate department, and this co-operation in fixing the expenditures for the year is a long step in the direction of efficiency and economy in the administration of the city as a whole.

"For the first time, so far as I am aware, the tentative school and municipal budgets were advertised and definite dates were set apart for hearings thereon. At first we were disappointed that only a few persons presented themselves at these hearings, preparation for which had been made with painstaking care, yet upon second thought it was seen that the success of a meeting held for the purpose of hearing objections may fairly be measured not by the attendance but rather by the lack of it. Nevertheless it was gratifying that the citizens who did attend the hearing on the city budget attested their interest in the new plan by a resolution commending the Council for its adoption. It should be continued as a fixed policy as should also the public hearing on the school budget.

"You were able by unusual application to the task at hand to restrain, at least for one year, the advancing tendency of the tax rate. This was possible only at the cost of some entrenchment, yet in essentials there has been no falling off in the public service. We have simply tried to practise in our public affairs that kind of economy which we do not hesitate to apply to our private concerns when necessary. There are of course many things which we should have, and cannot have, without paying for them. But the public will more readily approve of plans and expenditures for betterments and improvements when officials have shown that they are interested also in balance sheets and operating expenses.

"Proceedings have been started for the widening of Central avenue and Second street. The fee system has been abolished. Your committees have inaugurated the practice of keeping a record in detail of all their proceedings, in order that the decisions and discussions of one year may be available for successor committees, thus preventing a loss of precedent and of valuable sources of information. In the fire department the call system has been superseded by the full-paid system; six additional men have been added to the force; and another horse-drawn apparatus has been replaced by a motor combination chemical and hose wagon. In the street department, West Third street, between Plainfield avenue and Liberty street, has been rebuilt with a permanent concrete pavement; fifty-one miles of streets have had thorough surface and repair treatment, and additional storm sewers have been installed at various points. In the police department we have adopted the military type of uniform, and a new graduation which enables us to have a superior officer at all times in charge at headquarters. A note-

SHOOTS WOMAN IN WELCOMING 1916

Italian is Arrested for Reckless Use of Firearms New Year's Morning.

Maria Trocciuo, an Italian woman, living on Midway street, was shot in the side and painfully wounded at midnight Friday evening. She was struck by a bullet from the pistol of Fortunata Ventritia, who was wildly shooting in celebration of the coming of the new year. The Italian fired a pistol from his window on George street, and the woman looked out of her window almost directly behind him to see if she could locate the shooting. A bullet from his pistol struck her in the side. She was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. The man was arrested. He will be tried in police court next Monday morning. The case was continued until a time when the woman will be able to appear against him.

CITY WINS OUT IN POSTOFFICE SUIT

Injunction Growing Out of Ferngrown Arrest is Dismissed.

The temporary injunction against the city of Plainfield restraining its officials from interfering with the construction of the new Federal postoffice building now being constructed on Watchung avenue was dismissed by Judge Relstab in United States District Court in Trenton this morning. The controversy between the city and Federal authorities grew out of the arrest of Fred Ferngrown, a contracting plumber, for attempting to do work without a license. The contention of the government officials was that Plainfield had no authority to interfere, as the postoffice site is government property and therefore not amendable to municipal regulations.

Attorney Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., appeared for the city of Plainfield and Assistant U. S. District Attorney John A. Hartpence appeared for the government. After seeing the evidence prepared by Mr. Hetfield the U. S. attorney agreed to a dismissal of the prayer for a restraining order. The case of Ferngrown will come up in police court next week. The government will insist on its being dismissed and will continue its contention that local ordinances affecting building cannot be applied to a government work.

MRS. SARAH A. MILLIKEN DIES IN HER 73D YEAR

After an illness of but a week with pneumonia, Mrs. Sarah A. Milliken, 73 years old, wife of Elias Milliken, of 1810 West Front street, this city, died Saturday night. JAP FLEET IS MOVING

Admission of P. & O. Steamship Company That Persia Carried Gun Does Not Affect Case—Wilson on Way to Washington.

London, Jan. 3.—The British liner Glengyle, bound from Yokohama for Genoa, has been sunk in the Mediterranean Sea by a submarine. The loss of life is believed to be heavy. Several Americans are reported to have been among the passengers. One hundred survivors were picked up by other ships. The Glengyle was a bigger vessel than the Peninsular and Oriental liner Persia. It displaced 9,000 tons.

London was the ultimate destination of the Glengyle. She carried a cargo of foodstuffs in cold storage. Many of the survivors were taken to Malta and it was from that port that the captain of the liner cabled news of the disaster. There were about 100 passengers on the Glengyle, he said, and all were saved.

The British steamer St. Oswald, 3,100 tons, has been sunk by a submarine, it was announced this afternoon. She was employed in the government service.

Official announcement was made by the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company today that the liner Persia carried guns.

A despatch from Tokio says that the Jiji Shimpo announces that a squadron of Japanese warships will steam for the Suez Canal.

Word has been received in London that the Japanese steamer Kenkon Maru, owned by the Inui Gomei Kaisha Shipping Company, has been torpedoed. The crew it is said, was saved. It was reported today that several more shipping firms will announce suspensions of sailings through the Suez Canal within twenty-four years as the result of increased activity of submarines.

Washington, Jan. 3.—President Wilson will leave Hot Springs, Va., late today on a special train, arriving at the White House early tomorrow morning.

U. S. to Demand Facts.

The State Department today sent an inquiry to the Vienna foreign office asking for all the facts in regard to the sinking of the Persia. Secretary Lansing declared that the nationality of the submarine which torpedoed the Persia had not yet been determined. He said no official information had been received regarding the disaster since last night. He admitted that a despatch from Consul Garrels stated that the Persia carried a 4.7 inch gun.

The forthcoming joint note to the Central Powers is expected to cover all contingencies. The State Department does not yet know positively that Consul Mc Neely was drowned, but officials are acting on the assumption that he was lost in the disaster and will continue to so until word comes that he has been saved. Officials ridicule the idea that a mine may have sunk the Persia. They admit that a 4.7 inch gun was large enough to sink a submarine if it had gone into action, but declared that this fact did not alter the status of the vessel or relieve the submarine commander from taking the usual precautions regarding the safety of the passengers and crew. Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is preparing to call a meeting of his committee Wednesday to consider the country's neutrality rights on the high seas, with the torpedoing of the Persian presumably by an Austrian submarine. The demand, however, has arisen that the Senate and House foreign committees deal with the issue.

Germany Calls It Transport.

Berlin, Jan. 3 (via Amsterdam).—Officials of the German admiralty declared today that the liner Persia on every voyage from England had carried British soldiers and supplies for the British army in Egypt, that it was under the direction of the British admiralty and that it carred guns for defense.

Demands Release of Consuls.

Sofia, Jan. 3 (via Berlin, wireless).—The Greek authorities have demanded that General Sarrail, the French commander at Saloniki, release the Teutonic, Bulgarian and Turkish consuls on the ground that their seizures was illegal according to information received here today.

New Market road to the Dr. M. J. Whitford bungalow on Whittier avenue.

Treasurer B. K. Burke, of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, was a visitor at Hopewell over the New Year.

Kaspar Fuchs, of Greenbrook road, is convalescing from a severe attack of the grip.

'Plains & Fanwood.

At the organization of the Township Committee, held New Year's Day, Ira Gage Walker was elected president again, and William Ward was also re-elected treasurer. The other member of the Committee is Samuel Hetfield. Mr. Walker made reappointments to all the local offices: Walter, Hetfield, Jr., of Plainfield township attorney; Charles Elliott, township engineer; Dr. F. W. Wescott, township physician, and Philip Jahn, recorder.

The Borough Council is still without a president, and will be until Wednesday night anyway, because only one councilman and Mayor Hoar were present at 12 o'clock New Year's, when the meeting was to have been held. Besides the election of a president at the first meeting of the year, Mayor Hoar will also announce his committees for the coming year and also the appointees to the offices of borough recorder and borough clerk. The entrance of new men into the Council will necessitate the changing of the various committees, but the two local offices will, it is believed, be as before.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church, who is supervising the running of the Memorial Parish House, has announced a schedule which will be effective until he gives out another one. On Mondays the hours will be from 7:30 until 10:30 in the evening; on Thursday from 2:30 until 5:30 in the afternoon, and from 7:30 until 10:30 in the evening. The hours on Saturday will be the same as on Thursday. The entrances at present will be by the bowling alley and gymnasium doors.

The Parish House boys' team will play another game on the home court tonight, when they line up against the Plainfield High School Juniors. In the preliminary the Boy Scouts will play a scrub game with local boys.

An interesting meeting of the men from Fanwood and Scotch Plains was held in the Parish House yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. Madison Hare who called the meeting, explained that they were to be held every Sunday for the purpose of discussing things of civic interest in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hallenbeck, of Martine avenue, entertained a number of their friends at a New Year's Eve party Friday night. The fore part of the evening was spent in playing cards and enjoying a number of musical selections, and at 12 o'clock all of the lights were put out. Later a buffet luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McAnneny and children, of North avenue, spent New Year's with Mr. McAnneny's brother George McAnneny, of New York.

Plans are already progressing for the annual supper of the Methodist church, which will be held in the Memorial Parish House on Tuesday night, February 8.

A number of people from the township and borough attended the watch night service in the Memorial Parish House Friday night. The fore part of the evening was spent in a social way with a basketball game and the bowling alleys proving to be centers of attraction. Shortly before 10 o'clock all gathered in the gymnasium and enjoyed stereopticon views. The Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church, and the Rev. Raymond E. Marshal, pastor of the Methodist, made short addresses, and afterward refreshments were served.

Now that the Parish House bowling alleys are again accessible, tournaments will be rolled on them from time to time. The first of these will probably be between the two Plains fire companies, Excelsior Hook and Ladder and Bucket and Engine. Plans have already been started for such a tournament, and with the numerous good bowlers in both companies keen rivalry should result.

At a meeting of the board of officers of the Methodist church, held Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alden, of Front street, all business of the past year was closed and reports found things to be in a flourishing condition.

The first meeting of the new year for Bucket and Engine Fire Company is to be held tonight, when an election of officers will probably take place.

Another successful dance, that was attended by about fifty couple, was held by the Entre Nous Club New Year's night, in the club hall, on Park avenue.

James Reilly is seriously ill at his home on Woodland avenue with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Lambertson, of Westfield, but until a short time ago local residents, are the parents of a daughter born yesterday.

Chester Reed, of Hunter avenue, is recovering from a slight attack of pneumonia.

Graham Pentz, of Brooklyn, has been spending several days with the Misses Kyte, of Martine avenue.

William Beeken, of North avenue, who has been a student at Vermont Academy for the past year, will not return from spending the holidays at home, but may enter Exeter.

The first meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Literary Club since before Christmas will be held tomorrow afternoon.

WILLIAM DE LAR. ANDERSON IS RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN

The North Plainfield Township Committee organized at noon Saturday, when W. de La R. Anderson was re-elected chairman. Walter Shotwell qualified as a committeeman and was elected treasurer; H. O. Hance was named counsel and Lewis Snoden was appointed overseer of the poor. Frank D. Seidner was named constable; E. J. Hughes, fire warden; George A. Schmidt, recorder. The following qualified for the volunteer police force: Louis K. Hyde, Dr. Richard Moldenke, Edward F. Bodin, Seymour F. Smith, Herbert Van Fleet, Theodore Pollin and W. H. Demler. After the meeting all adjourned to the Washington House to enjoy an excellent dinner as guest of Dr. Charles E. Moldenke.

The masquerade dance given at Improvement Hall New Year's Eve was enjoyed by a large number of people. The affair was arranged by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Improvement Society. Music was furnished by Naylor's orchestra. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Menus were served by the hostesses.

SEVEN LOCAL RIDERS PEDAL AT PROCTOR'S

Times Made on Rollers Below World's Amateur Mark Made on Track.

Seven Plainfield cyclists and four from out-of-town competed for the silver cup offered to the rider making the fastest time for one mile on the rollers used by Madden and Fairon, the six-day racers, who appeared at the Proctor playhouse last week. The cup was won by a rider named Stanley, whose time was announced as 57 1-5 seconds.

Willie Simon led the local contingent, being fourth. He was clocked in 1.05. The times of the other Plainfielders follow: Holger Mortenson, 1.07; William Rilling, 1.11 2-5; Harry Meyer, 1.12; Aleck Campbell, 1.12 1-5; Charles Woodruff, 1.18 2-5; "Egg" Dunham, 1.29 2-5.

The time announced from the stage were better than any record ever made in amateur competition over a regular track. The fastest time ever made for the mile by an amateur was made at the Newark Velodrome last September by Hans Ohrt, the national and world's champion, whose time was 1 minute 57 2-5 seconds.

ORGANIZATION OF DUNELLEN COUNCIL

Mayor Latham Present Annual Message and Makes Usual Appointments.

The Dunellen Council met at noon on New Year's Day, when Mayor Ernest B. Latham made the following appointments.

President of the Council, Richard M. Ryan; borough clerk, William R. Deering; borough attorney, Rene F. F. Von minden; chief marshal, Owen Mohan; regular marshal, Patrick J. Tarpey; special marshals, Weimer J. Snyder, William H. Snyder, Ernest Kepler and Roger Sturgis. All of these were reappointed.

The Mayor left the matter of the appointment of a [illegible] commissioner, borough recorder and borough engineer open. Isaac T. Smalley, David S. Campbell and Lewis T. Barnhill, the respective incumbents of these offices, were instructed to continue in office until action was taken.

The Mayor also appointed these committees: Streets, W. [illegible] Castner, R. M. Ryan, E. M. Jones; sidewalks, F. G. Neighbour, E. M. Jones, H. D. Williams; finance, E. M. Jones, R. M. Ryan, R. S. Craig; law, R. M. Williams; buildings and parks, Williams, Castner, Neighbour; fire and water, Craig, Neighbour, Jones; lighting, Ryan, Neighbour, Jones; joint sewer, Craig, Jones, Castner; collecting sewer, Williams, Jones, Ryan; North avenue drain, Craig, Neighbour, Castner; Madison avenue drain, Jones, Ryan, Williams; Front street, Neighbour, Craig, Williams.

In his annual message Mayor Latham advocated the paving of North avenue from Gallagher's corner to Jefferson avenue, and called attention to the fact that many street improvements had been made and that 90 per cent. of the sanitary sewer is now complete and that 54 per cent. of the joint outfall sewer and 74 per cent. of the disposal plant is finished.

The Mayor also stated that the borough should now adopt a policy of retrenchment and let the municipality grow up to the expenditures. He did not favor the suggestion that North avenue be made a county road, preferring to settle the matter by a vote. "I think," said Mr. Latham, "a borough which can finance a $140,000 sewage system should be able to maintain one mile of street through its main business section." In conclusion the Mayor praised the work of all departments.

INDICTED CONTRACTORS TO BE TRIED JANUARY 10

John Ryan, John Cunningham and Edward L. Bader, members of the contracting firm installing the joint sewer beds on the Darling farm who were recently indicted by the Somerset Grand Jury for maintaining a nuisance at the Chimney Rock Quarry where they were blasting out stone were arraigned before Judge Blackman at a special session of the Somerset County Court this morning. All three pleaded not guilty and trial was set down for January 10.

The contracting firm has been securing its stone for the sewer bed filtration system from the Chimney Rock Quarry, operating the plant itself. Harry Opdyke and other residents of Bound Brook made complaint that they were annoyed by the blasting and that damage had been done to their homes as a result of it. The work at the quarry has been stopped temporarily.

Freeholders Meisel, Krouse and Teller were appointed on the legislative committee, and a statment by Freeholder Charles A Smith was read for the purpose of showing that Collector Leavitt's salary was smaller than is paid elsewhere.

At its meeting Friday afternoon the old Board passed a resolution commending the management of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium and appointed a committee to draft resolutions on the death of County Clerk James C Calvert. Annual reports, the substance of which have been published from time to time, were received. Collector Leavitt's report showed that he had received a total of $2,854,049.37 and expended $2,238,086.10. The election account last year totaled $53,486.86, $5,448.86 more than the year previous, which was due to the suffrage election. The county road committee reported a heavy increase in county traffic. Freeholders Hennessey, Bourdon, Meyerholz, John Woodruff and Trembley retiring members, were lauded for their work.

Mayor William V. Steele re-appointed W. R. Sutphen, borough recorder No action was taken on the clerkship.

COLLECTOR TOWNSEND IS ADVOCATE OF THE SINGLE TAX

Tax Collector W. R. Townsend addressed the members of the "Round Table Club" at its monthly dinner at the Hotel Kensington today. He advocated the abolishment of the personal and poll tax inasmuch as the business man especially pays a sufficient tax on his stock, a portion of which is not always paid for, and if he owns an automobile he also pays a tax on that, in addition to a Federal tax.

Mr. Townsend was inclined to favor the single tax idea, an exemption of $500 and the plan of having one assessor who thoroughly understood his business. Mr. Townsend stated that he had collected $500,000 out of the $596,000 assessed for this year.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. TOWNSEND IS HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Townsend was held at the late home, 35 Pearl street, the borough, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, this city, officiated. Interment was at the North Plainfield cemetery. The honorary pallbearers were four nephews: Eugene Arthur Elias and Edward Barnom, of New York.

Mrs. Townsend, who was the widow of Hugh Townsend, died suddenly Friday afternoon, after a short illness with pneumonia. The deceased was born in this city eighty-four years ago and had resided in the borough for thirty-five years. She was a daughter of the late Ezra Wooden of North Plainfield, and a descendant of the late Rev. Peter Wooden, an early preacher of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of this city

She was a former resident of Newark and at the time of her death was a member of the Peddie Memorial church of that city Since she moved to the borough she had been an attendant at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Surviving her are one son, Alfred Wooden, of Newark, one brother, Martin E. Wooden, of Elizabeth, and a sister, Mrs. J. L. Bradley, of the borough.

AFRAID OF LOSING HOME, KILLS SELF

Somerville, Jan. 3.—William D. Dilts, aged fifty-three, committed suicide some time before 7 o'clock last night in the kitchen of his home on West End avenue.

When found a double barreled shotgun and a small wagon wheel spoke was discovered under his body. The police believe that Dilts placed the stock of the gun on the floor, and bent forward, pressing the trigger with the spoke.

Dilts' wife and young daughter had left him about six months ago, and this with the fear of loosing his home, which was covered with mortgages, is believed to have prompted the act.

Dilts was related to William Dayton, at once time minister to France. The deceased lived alone in the large house and kept a sign on the rear door warning relatives to stay out.

Many handsome floral tributes were in evidence, among them being a set piece from Bucket and Engine Company of Scotch Plains and from the associates in Scotch Plains who had been his cloest friends in recent years.

Burial was in Evergreen cemetery this city, the casket being borne to its final resting place by six friends, Roy Day, Frederick Clark, Frederick Johansen, Warren McCauley, William Frech and Clarence Sharkey.

Entering a New Year

We have just passed another white mile-stone in the Journey of Time.

Years come, as years will; and when they leave us have aught but the memory of a twelve-month sadly or wisely spent.

To 1915 we shall ever be grateful, for it brought us the largest business in our history.

And right here seems a good place to say that the methods that have brought this store to the position it occupies today will never be forsaken; to us Joaquin Miller's words in his poem of Columbus, "It will go on and on and on."

MAYOR SUGGESTS REFORMS

[illegible] event has been the settlement of a vexed question concerning the [illegible] of free speech. In reference to [illegible] on the streets of the city. [illegible] the constitu[illegible] of public assembly and [illegible] be invoke[illegible] of public streets [illegible] meetings in de[illegible] of such reg[illegible] as the authorities in their dis[illegible] may impose for the main[illegible] of peace and good order and to secure [illegible] public the free and orderly use of the streets as a means of getting from place to place.

"But it is in your valedictory—the purchase of a beautiful site for a city hall—that we find our best opportunity to commend your record without danger of exaggeration. To such as may have indulged in good natured speculation as to how we reconcile our state policy of full publicity in all matters affecting the public interest with the quiet and unavoided procedure attending the selection of this admirable location for a municipal building which will be not only a credit to our city but in the long run a well-paying investment, it may be said that if there had been involved any question of general policy, any question as to public approval of an expenditure for city owned headquarters for the transaction of the municipal business, we should not have taken action in the manner we did. But there was no question other than one of administrative detail; and some things cannot be administered by mass meetings and hearings. One might as well ask the voters to pass upon styles of uniforms for policemen and firemen, grades of fire hose or of macadam for the streets, locations for fire hydrants and for street lights, as to select and purchase a piece of real estate to advantage by the referendum. The city is to be congratulated upon a forward step which has been taken with an eye to the future. I hope that the same considerations may attend our further undertakings for civic development.

Park Avenue Widening.

"In particular I would urge two subjects for your special consideration during the coming year. The first is the widening of Park avenue between West Second and Front streets. I think we may reasonably expect to find that the attendant increase in adjacent values will go far to offset what might otherwise throw a considerable expense upon the city. But be that as it may the fact remains, as I pointed out a year ago, that this is an improvement which sooner or later must be made and which therefore may be deferred indefinitely only at great ultimate cost to the city. It is the sort of problem which can more easily be solved now than later.

Municipal Park System.

"The other matter on which I hope a start will be made this year is that of a municipal park. Here again it is a case where time should be taken by the forelock because no other question than time is involved. Improvements as to parks to be made wisely must have reference to a well defined plan which takes into consideration the future as well as the present. I therefore again suggest for your consideration the appointment of some permanent organization with facilities for keeping records, for studying the development of the city and for formulating plans to care for its growth. This may be done by the appointment of a City Plan Commission under Chapter 170, Laws 1913, or possibly we could name a commission under authority of a city ordinance to be enacted, and thus avoid the danger of future meddling by the State with a matter purely of local concern. Whatever method is adopted there should be authority for the appropriation of funds to defray necessary expenses which in any event would be inconsiderable in amount and would at all times be within your control. The commission itself would serve without pay, its function would be the study of locations and values, the formulation of a plan with estimates of cost, and recommendations to the Council for such action if any as it may deem best to take. I believe that we shall find, if we take this matter up energetically without further loss of valuable time, that there are opportunities now for the city to acquire, at relatively small cost, not only a suitable but really an exceptional site for a splendid municipal park, located with reference to the convenience and need in future years of those for whom it should be our concern at this time to make generous and foresighted provision. We should also consider the acquisition now, when prices are not prohibitive, of locations for small auxiliary parks or breathing places in various sections of the city—thus laying the foundation for a system of parks which will be an integral part of a future City Beautiful and will some day reflect great credit upon those whose faith and foresight made it possible of achievement.

Expert Advice.

"The program which it was my privilege to lay before you a year ago and which in large part you have already carried out, included among other things a recommendation for an administrative survey of departments. Twelve months of practical experience with the inside machinery of our local government has served but to strengthen my belief that, assisted by the successful methods of modern business, we are not organized as we should be for efficiency and economy of administration. Nor shall we be in full measure until adequate home-rule for cities is an accomplished fact; nor until a community like ours is permitted to manage its business affairs by a small board of directors, serving without pay and passing only upon the high points of questions of policy, while entrusting the details of departmental administration to a well-paid superintendent or general manager of proved business ability, with broad general powers, responsible for results to the directors who employ him.

"On the other hand this same experience convinces me that we need a different form of government less than most cities; less, in fact, than any city I know. We are getting on very well as it is; and this is owing in no small degree to the ability and integrity of our heads of departments; to the absolute lack of petty politics in all matters which really concern the community well; and to a certain freedom of action which is ours by virtue of our charter powers.

"Still it is possible to go on drifting. We should be observant of the trend of municipal reform and should secure for ourselves such benefits as we may under existing laws. Neither Council nor Mayor are experts in municipal affairs. But there are such experts; and they can point out for us not only defects in organization which may be remedied without legislation, but also the best modern practice in operating such departments as those of public safety, finance and public works.

Police System.

"The importance of expert advice can be shown by a single example. For several years we have discussed in the board of police the question of fixed posts and flash-light signal systems, with a reserve always on duty at police headquarters with adequate motor-propelled equipment ready for immediate service. By this means when a crime is committed, a telephone call to headquarters instantly puts the whole machinery of the department in motion. Signals are flashed not only to the railroad and trolley stations, but to the fixed posts throughout the city. The police officer at the nearest of such posts is immediately notified and is quickly on the scene; followed in short order by the reserve from headquarters. One does not often hear of a second-story man detected by the officer on the beat. The best way to prevent certain crimes which are not usually committed with patrolmen looking on, is to reduce the chance of escape after the event. Of course the patrol system is necessary to report fires, defective street lights, broken wires, health and other violations, and for traffic purposes. But burglaries and other serious offenses are not to be prevented by doubling or trebling the number of uniformed police. We need headquarters equipment, plainclothes service, fixed posts and flash-signals. This, at least, has long been my belief and is shared by the chief of police and by members of the board of police. Why then, it may be asked, has not a new system been installed? Because of its cost and our uncertainty as to its proved value. If we first had an expert report on the subject, marshaling the exact facts as to cost and the experience of other cities in that regard, we could proceed in a business-like way to select and install a system, or modify the one we have. It is all right to learn by our own mistakes when there is no other way to learn, but if we can learn as well by the mistakes of others it will be less costly to do so. There is no useful purpose to be served by experimenting with methods if the experimenting has already been done by others.

Permanent Pavements.

"Another department which would benefit by the recommendation of experts is the department having charge of our streets. Most of them are in fairly good and some are in excellent condition. But those which are most used as through highways such as Front street, Park avenue, Fourth and Seventh streets, Plainfield avenue, and short stretches on some others, must sooner or later be provided with a more permanent pavement if they are to stand up under the increasingly heavy wear and tear to which they are subjected. The extension of the style of permanent pavement which we have in the business section may be desirable on West Front street, on Second street between Watchung and Madison avenues, and further south on Park and Watchung avenues. We should have a definite plan for the reconstruction of the streets which most need it; not undertaking all the work at once, but proceeding with the improvement gradually and methodically. A study of relative costs in the maintenance and up-keep of the old water-bound macadam and more modern pavements would no doubt reveal a saving which would go far towards meeting the interest on the investment. Expert advice with regard to such matters will be worth while if it serves only to affirm our own conclusions with respect to improvements which, on account of their cost, should not be lightly undertaken. That the commissioner himself has asked for a check on his own recommendations in this regard ought, especially in view of his knowledge of the subject and exceptional ability, to be an all sufficient reason for providing it.

Modern Accounting.

"In the department of finance, which has to do with the accounting, auditing and purchasing systems, we have not kept pace with the development of recent years. I respectfully refer you to my recommendation last year on this subject, and again direct your attention to the fact that all city officials are seriously hindered in their work if the accounting is inadequate. Business problems require decisions; and correct information, immediately available, is indispensable to the exercise of judgment. Furthermore, under present methods, it is impossible to keep the people at all times informed as to existing financial conditions. An expert report on this subject will cost little if any more than the usual yearly audit, which for all practical purposes would be included therein, and I therefore recommend that immediate provision be made to obtain it.

The Survey.

"In suggesting that we obtain the advice of experts in matters relating to finance, police systems and road building, I have selected the three departments which on the whole I think would most benefit thereby. A survey is not an investigation in the usual sense of the term. It is merely seeking expert advice voluntarily. It is an analysis of systems undertaken solely for the purpose of getting at the facts so that they may be studied with reference to the experience of other cities, and in order that suggestions based upon accepted standards of sucessful business may be presented for our consideration, and to assist us in making wise decisions. It is inconceivable that a survey proposed in this spirit could be resented.

"While the survey of departments which we hoped to have before now has been delayed for reasons beyond our control, yet it would be ungracious not to recognize the generous purpose of those who undertook to secure it for us without cost to the city. I understand that they have raised funds which may suffice for a survey of two or three departments; and as you have already officially endorsed the principle involved and have pledged the co-operation of heads of departments, I feel confident that, should the opportunity be afforded, you will gladly avail yourselves of whatever aid they may feel that they can place at your command. If a partial survey is had we shall then be able to judge as to the value of expert advice in such matters. If we are not benefited at least the experiment will have cost us nothing.

"It would not be fitting to close this communication to your honorable body without expressing my regret at the loss from its membership of your associates who have just retired after years of devoted service. I wish also to record my appreciation, in which I know that you also will join, of the services of our esteemed counsel to the corporation. He has been more to us than legal adviser. Our work has been his; it is as if he regarded himself as in same way equally responsible with us that the affairs of the community shall be managed solely in the interest of the people whose agents we are. I thank you for giving me the opportunity during the year to attend your deliberations and the meetings of your several committees. By this means I have been able to acquire a much better understanding of our municipal problems than would otherwise have been possible. I acknowledge my indebtedness to officials and employes for their help and never failing courtesy. Once more I pledge my full co-operation in all that pertains to the welfare of the city."

NEW MEN NEEDED SAYS CHIEF DOANE

Also Wants Auto Apparatus For Netherwood and Down Town.

In his annual report for the year Chief Doane, of the fire department, recommends the addition of several men to the department, the purchase of a new automobile fire engine for the Netherwood section, the motorizing of the hook and ladder now drawn by horses and the purchase of 2,000 feet of hose.

The report of Chief Doane on work done last year and recommendations for improvements follows:

"I have the honor to submit herewith my twenty-eighth annual report of the condition and operation of the fire department under your control for the year ending December 28, 1915.

Manual Force.

"Twenty-eight men are now permanently employed and one trial man: One chief engineer, one assistant chief, four captains, twenty-two privates.

Apparatus.

"The department has in service one Knott auto combination pumping engine and hose wagon, 600 gallons capacity; one-third size Amoskeag steam pumping engine, 400 gallons capacity; one Hayes aerial hook and ladder truck, 65-foot extension ladder (horse drawn); one 60-gallon double tank auto chemical and hose wagon; one double tank 35-gallon auto chemical and hose wagon (both Mack built); one double tank 35-gallon (horse drawn) combination chemical and hose wagon; one (horse drawn) straight hose wagon; one automobile for chief; three supply wagons.

Horses.

"Ten horses are owned by the department, only six of which are in use. I recommend that the Council authorize the sale of the four surplus animals as soon as possible.

Hose.

"There are about nine thousand feet of hose in use in the department. About six thousand feet of this is good; the rest is only fair. We should have two thousand feet of hose at once.

Fire Alarm.

"Our system is the Gamewell type consisting of fifty-six boxes. This branch of the service is cared for by the Allan B. Laing Company, under the direct management of Mr. A. V. Searing, Jr. The entire system has been kept in splendid condition during the year.

"For the second time within a year every fire alarm box in the city was out of service. In March, 1914, practically every foot of fire alarm wire was down, and on Monday, December 18, 1915, we were similarly crippled, and for several hours every fire alarm box was out of service. I again urgently request that our fire alarm wires be placed underground.

Alarms.

"There have been two hundred and six (206) alarms of fire during the year, as follows: 'Phone 136; box 59; verbal, 11; total, 206.'

Insurance and Losses.

"Insurance on buildings, $165,400; insurance on contents, $159,185; total insurance, $324,585.

"Loss on buildings, $12,782.55; loss on contents, $27,213.44; total loss, $39,995.99.

"Value of buildings, $273,500; value of contents, $194,935; total value, $468,435.

Recommendations.

"We now have in service three motor apparatus. These do better service and are very much more economical than horse drawn apparatus.

"I regret to report that the motor pumping apparatus intended for No. 4 engine house did not come up to specification and was, therefore, returned to the manufacturers. I trust your honorable body will take immediate steps to procure a pumping engine for this house, as that company has an exceedingly large territory to cover, as has the engine now in service (No. 2) at headquarters. The water pressure in the greater portion of the territory covered by both of these houses is not sufficient for fire streams except when we catch the fire in its incipiency.

"In the center of the city we have many figures where two or more engines are needed, and it is possible for one of these engines to be out of order; or, upon the breaking out of a fire in one section of the city, one of the engines may be in use in another section. So you can readily see the necessity for at least two pumping engines of reasonably large capacity.

"There should also be purchased for No. 1 engine house a motor combination hose and chemical engine similar to the one just obtained for No. 3 engine house.

"The hook and ladder truck should be motorized. The apparatus responds to all fires in every part of the city and should be, if not the first, at least one of the first to arrive at a fire instead of the last, as at present. This apparatus weighs four and one-half tons, and it is an act of cruelty to animals to permit a team of horses to draw it to fires even when there is no snow upon the ground, and it certainly is doubly so when the ground lies covered with snow and ice. Our city is more than four miles long and two miles wide at its widest part.

"Our engine houses are so located that after all of the apparatus is motorized, as I have suggested, all parts of the city can be quickly covered. The city is spreading out most rapidly and we can do better work for a number of years to come than we possibly could with houses located in other portions of the city.

"The need of more men is very apparent at every fire of any size, and several times this year I have been compelled to send in a second alarm, as much to secure more men to assist as for additional apparatus.

"When you take into account the fact that the men work twenty-four hours a day with the exception of three hours for meals and each sixth day off; that sometimes we have men sick and very often injured; during meal hours we frequently have men insufficient to man the apparatus, when all the men are present, except those whose day off it is, we have barely men enough to get to work at an ordinary fire—the fact is quite evident that we do really require more men.

"If a fire has gained headway, or is in a large building, we must send a second call for help. I would recommend that not fewer than four men be appointed the first of the year. We have had more than two hundred fires and alarms of fire this year, several more than we have ever had in any one year before. If you compare the amount of loss with the amount of insurance and value involved, you must acknowledge that the men of this department have done excellent work. My thanks are extended to them and to my officers, for it is due to them that efficiency exists."

BLATZ NOW COUNCIL HEAD

Sullivan, Jacob Blimm, G. J. Weinman, Peter Fleurisch, Henry Windham, Michael Divine, M. F. Watson, E. W. Westcott, Eastern Bottling Company, Frank Linke and Thomas Gleason. Gleason is the only new applicant. He wants to open up in the building formerly occupied by the Findlay place on East Second street. All were referred to the license committee.

A request from the Dental Society that it be allowed $500 for work during the year was referred to the finance committee.

Frank Spillotto, of George street, made application for a street light and his communication was referred to the lighting committee.

A communication was received from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church respectfully calling the attention of members of the Council to the fact that the plot of ground lying in front of the church between Watchung and Crescent avenues is not public property, but belongs to the church and cannot be used for public purposes, such as a site for a soldier's monument, as was suggested recently.

CITY NEEDS NEW DISPOSAL SYSTEM

Report of Chairman Blatz Shows Poor Condition of Beds.

That the new disposal tanks of the city are badly needed is shown by the report of the streets and sewers committee for the past year. Interesting parts of it follow:

Sewers and Appurtenances.

There are now 59.25 miles of sanitary sewers, with 4,842 house connections, 79 of which were made during the year.

No new sanitary sewers were constructed this year, but some preliminary work was done on plans for sewers in the southwesterly part of the city and an ordinance has been adopted for their construction. Most of these sewers were recommended by George W. Fuller, sanitary expert, in a report dated December 15, 1913.

The principal expense this year in maintenance has been the cleaning of sewers.

Pumping Stations.

At the Randolph road and Monroe avenue pumping stations, rotary pilot valves were designed and installed. These valves, operated mechanically by the air compressors, control the filling and emptying of the ejectors. The filling head being always sufficient to fill the ejectors, the maximum efficiency is obtained when they are completely emptied, and this result is secured by the compressor control.

A portable gasoline-driven centrifugal pump was purchased (capacity 750 gallons per minute against a total head of 30 feet), for use in case of the disabling of the regular pumping machinery or of its being cut off from electric power. The outfit cost complete, $485.

Disposal Works.

The following notes are taken from a report by John R. Downes, manager and chemist at the disposal works:

"The septic tanks were cleaned in October, 1914, about two months earlier than usual, in order to have the sludge dried and removed from the beds in time for a spring cleaning of the tanks. In consequence of unfavorable weather, the drying of the sludge was so slow that it was impossible to carry this plan into effect.

"The inability to clean the tanks resulted in a very large volume of suspended matter being carried over with the septic effluent during the months from June to December. As pointed out in last year's report, there is no satisfactory analytical method of determining or expressing this increase of volume of the suspended solids carried over with the septic effluent when the tanks are overloaded with sluge and scum.

"Of the total amount of material handled (858 cubic yards), 362 cubic yards consisted of dirty cinders removed, 241 cubic yards of washed cinders returned to strainers and 254 cubic yards of stone removed from beneath the cinders.

"The secondary beds are nearly full of solid deposit, but are still working. Considerable labor was expended in removing the luxuriant crops of weeds which followed each other on the secondary beds in quick succession all summer. The condition of these beds makes the early completion of the joint disposal works most desirable."

MANY STREETS IN NEED OF REPAIRS

Commissioner Gavett Suggests Work for the New Year.

Recommendations for the improvement of East and West Front streets, East and West Second streets, East Third street, East Fifth street, East and West Seventh streets, Richmond street, Watchung, Park and Plainfield avenues, are contained in the annual report of Commissioner Gavett, of the street department. Mr. Gavett's report follows:

We submit herewith our annual report of work done and moneys received and expended during the year 1915.

Concrete Pavement.

The novelty in this year's street work was the construction of the concrete pavement on West Third street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue. This street is given the same care in cleaning as the brick pavement receives, and it promises to be a very satisfactory pavement. A large majority of the property owners urged the improvement of this block, understanding that a considerable portion of the cost would be assessed upon them.

The street is to be kept in repair by the contractor until September, 1916.

New Macadamizing.

Only three short streets were macadamized by contract this year. As the ordinance was not adopted until October, 1915, they were not fully completed before cold weather set in. The streets referred to are:

Sherman avenue, from Grant avenue to Stillman avenue.

East Fourth street, from Richmond street to the present macadam near Washington street.

Fillmore avenue, from North avenue to East Third street.

In accordance with the policy of your committee for several years, these streets were macadamized for the full width of the roadway.

Resurfacing Streets.

Bids were received for resurfacing streets by contract, but no work was done in this way, as it seemed to be the opinion that the work should be kept for Plainfield men, when possible.

Resurfacing or rebuilding work was done on the following streets: East Second street, from Washington street to Richmond street; West Second street, from Park avenue to Madison avenue; Randolph road, from Park avenue to Arlington avenue; Woodland avenue, from South avenue to Putnam avenue; Berkeley avenue, from Leland avenue to Ravine road; Plainfield avenue, part; Arlington avenue, part.

Patching With Bituminous Binder.

Patching with bituminous binder has been continued through the greater part of the year. Bermudez asphalt, applied hot, was used, covered with stone from screenings size up to ¾-inch. In deep holes the material was applied in two or more layers, using one-inch stone at the bottom.

Grading.

Considerable work was done on the grading of Midway, the laborers being unemployed men furnished by the Charity Organization Society.

Future Construction.

It was the advent of motor-driven vehicles which necessitated the protective coating on our water-bound macadem streets, and the recent phenomenal increase in the number of motor trucks and busses calls for a further improvement in the construction of the more traveled roads.

The line of travel generally follows good roads a soon as they are constructed, and pavements which are of ample strength when they are built mayprove inadequate for the greatly increased travel drawn to them by their superior condition.

There are a number of Plainfield streets which should, on account of the difficulty of maintaining the present macadam roadways, be provided with more substantial pavements. Among the streets which need better pavements are East and West Front streets, East and West Second streets, East Third street, East Fifth street, East and West Seventh streets, Richmond street, Watchung, Park and Plainfield avenues, and the macadam streets in the business section of the city.

Yard and Siding.

Attention is again called to the need of a yard with railroad siding. At present the city pays for the use of the siding at Park avenue for unloading tank cars into the distributing wagons. In case of unfavorable weather for tarring, we are obliged to pay demurrage on cars detained.

Miscellaneous.

Last year the street department was entrusted with the burying of dead cats and dogs, and $82.50 was paid for this work from the street appropriation (the cost in 1915 was $108.50). This year the care of the recently installed traffic posts was committed to this department, and while it cost the street fund $144.34, we believe that the posts have been a decided benefit in regulating traffic and preventing accidents.

A "Ford" automobile was purchased in October for the use of the employes of the street department, to take the place of the "Brush," which served for six years and was then turned in for $30.00.

Opening and Widening Streets.

On East Second street most of the trees have been removed and the sidewalks relaid to the new lines.

The opening of East Fourth street from Richmond street to the angle point near Washington street, was completed, the street was macadamized (as elsewhere noted), and a concrete sidewalk was laid.

An ordinance for widening Central avenue, from West Front street to the C. R. R. of N. J. has been adopted; it will next be in order to treat with the property owners and appoint commissioners.

The proceedings for widening Madison avenue, interrupted by the writ of certiorari, are again started, a meeting of the commissioners having been held on December 28. It is hoped that these important improvements may be carried through to completion during the coming year.

The south curb line of East Ninth street was changed by ordinances so as to give more room for the trees, and the appearance of the street has been greatly improved thereby.

Brooks.

A petition was received at a recent meeting of the Common Council and referred to the Council of 1916, requesting the removal of obstructing dams in Green brook. We recommend that a thorough investigation be made of the overflows of this brook, which are becoming more and more objectionable as improvements are made in the district affected.

Statistics.

Length of streets—Brick pavement, .78 mile; concrete, .23 mile; macadam, water bound, 54.79 miles; macadam, bituminous (not including South avenue), 5.63 miles; unpaved 27.64 miles; total, 84.89 miles. The length of storm sewers is seven miles.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Burlesque may come and burlesque may go, but it is doubtful if any of them will obtain the vogue that has been vouchsafed Barney Gerard's "Follies of the Day," that ringing, swinging, joyous, jingling burlesque from the pen of Barney Gerard, who has written a new book for the coming season, entitled "What Does the Public Want?" "Follies of the Day" comes to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow for one matinee and night.

Plainfield, N. J., January 3, 1916.

OUR NEW HOME.

After several months consideration of the matter the Plainfield Daily Press, as announced in the issue of Friday, has taken the building at 193-195 North avenue, now occupied by Den J. Galbraith, for its future publishing house. Alterations necessary to adapt the building to our purposes will be started in a few days and publication will be best made from the new location on February 14.

A new Scott press, by far the fastest ever erected in this city, printing 12,000 papers an hour, will be installed and ready for use several days before the time set. Another linotype will be added to our present battery of three and the plant will be used entirely for the production of the Daily Press. Modern steel composing room furniture and a complete stereotyping outfit will complete the list of more important improvements to be found in the new plant.

We feel that in selecting this location we are better serving our patrons than could be done anywhere else in the city. Directly across the street from the railroad station; forty-five seconds from the new postoffice and the police station; not over three minutes from the new city hall site, and with every trolley line in the city passing within one hundred feet makes the spot one that could not be improved upon for the gathering and dissemination of news.

The publishers of the Daily Press have realized for some years, in fact almost since taking a five year lease on the present location, that a new place would have to be secured at the earliest possible moment. The present plant with composing room on the top floor and press room in the basement is not at all adapted for efficiency or economy of operation and could not be made so by a large expenditure. Hence when the State Trust Company purchased the building and offered to relieve us of our lease, which has over a year to run, we accepted the opportunity with combined alacrity and pleasure. It is the belief of the publishers that after February 14 next the Daily Press will be second to no publication in a city of its size in the United States, so far as service to its readers is concerned.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Taxpayers who are delinquent in their atention to municipal affairs can find an exhaustive report on all matters pertaining to the city business in another column of the Press in the form of Mayor Calkins' annual message to members of the Plainfield Common Council. In it he reviews all important matters done during the year of 1915 and makes recommendations for improvements needed during the new year. Some of the recommendations of Mayor Calkins are visionary, but all are needed and each one would work to the advancement of all Plainfield people. In suggesting that Park avenue be improved he is calling attention to a need that has been long felt and universally recognized, yet one that will require an expenditure far in excess of present possibilities of municipal finances. However, a Mayor and a Council that found a way to secure a new city hall may be able to devise some methods of widening Park avenue, and in this movement they will have the support of every taxpayer in the entire city. The suggestions of Mayor Calkins that the police department be improved, a more efficient system of municipal accounting be instituted, that expert advice be secured for the management of all city departments are reforms that will necessitate only a small outlay originally and will prove economical at the end of the year. They are accomplishments set for the Council of 1916 by the man most capable of task-making, and the man best fitted to comment on the needs of the city, and old and new members of the governing board should see that each one is carried out. The message, as a whole, is another of the able writings of Mayor Calkins, brimful of clear logic and facts, and one that should be read by every man interested in municipal affairs.

In the selection of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., as Corporation Counsel for the borough of North Plainfield, Mayor William L. Smalley has made a fortunate appointment and one that will be approved by all of those interested in borough affairs. Mr. Hetfield is not only an attorney of ability and integrity, but one learned in municipal affairs and peculiarly fitted to advise city fathers in the management of the intricate affairs of the borough. He will reflect credit on the administration, as his predecessor has done. All of Mayor Smalley's appointments show an honest desire to find men for office who will best serve the people, but none more than the naming of Mr. Hetfield as Corporation Counsel.

MAYOR RECEIVES NEW YEAR'S DAY

Almost a Hundred Call and Sign Official Visitors' Book.

Almost a hundred officials and citizens called at the office of Mayor Calkins on New Year's afternoon to extend to him official and personal wishes for happiness and prosperity during 1916. The annual reception of the Mayor brought out a larger crowd than on any previous occasion. Mayor Calkin's desk was decorated with a handsome bouquet of roses, sent by a friend in memory of the occasion. He inaugurated a new custom, and one that will prove popular in future years, in having each man who called sign a register that will be kept for this purpose. Mayor Calkins will keep this book for future municipal heads.

A Confession

I do not dress as well as some,
Before the public, or to hum.
My loved ones call me, with a sob,
A name that sounds to me like "slob."

It is not that I am averse
To looking very much less worse,
It is not that I like to be
The shabby hick folks know as me.

No, it is merely that in youth
I had such scanty duds, in truth,
That when guests came I up and hid—
This is no jest! I surely did.

Full oft my trousers (do not grin!)
Had scarce a trace of bosom in.
Such things are not a source of joy
To any half-way modest boy.

I wore this sort of uniform
Through summer's sun and rain and storm
Until I was too old to learn
To look as now to look I yearn.

But I've grown reconciled unto
The way I have to look and do,
Though I don't dress as well as some,
Either in public or to hum.

Health Talks

The Baby Sheds His Band

IS the baby's band efficacious? Does it really serve the purpose for which it is intended? Once more we find ourselves at variance with old, accepted ideas.

It is the ancient argument that the baby band makes his little tummy warm and helps digest his food; that it strengthens his back; and that babies have worn abdominal bands ever since cloth was first woven, and hence should continue the habit.

Science holds that the only function or excuse for a baby binder is to retain the umbilical dressing. Science deposes and says that a band won't keep the baby any warmer than his shirt; that the band is so loose and twisted out of place half the time, that it can't offer appreciable support to the back, and anyway the back needs no such support.

A good many anxious fathers have paced the floor many and many a night with a cantankerous baby, made so by the irritation of a needless band. A good many doses of colic cure, soothing syrup and other poisonous dopes have been poured into babies who were endeavoring to explain that they wished some sane person would remove that confounded, itchy, twisted, annoying, heating binder.

At the age of three weeks in most instances, and surely at the age of one month, every baby should shed his binder, whether his parents like the idea or not. This advice we give the babies in the interest of the health and strength of the coming generation. If babies would only use a little common sense and not be guided by foolish old tribal customs handed down by our savage ancestors, the binder evil would soon be corrected.

A baby's tummy will stand a great many hard knocks. It is sturdily built for the purpose. Give it a chance. It is capable of keeping nice and warm against heavy odds. Don't coddle it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sitting Up In Bed

How soon after confinement should a mother sit up in bed? How soon may she get out of bed? How soon may she go downstairs? How soon may she go outdoors? How soon may she wheel out the baby?

Answer—She should never sit up in bed. When she sits up she should sit in a chair. Sitting up in bed is hard work. She may sit up as soon as she wishes, in an uncomplicated case—say, the second or third day—this is the modern practice. She may go downstairs, as a rule, at the end of two weeks. She may go out for a short ride, or a very few steps walking, after the end of three weeks. She may wheel out the baby after the end of four weeks. Meantime father should take the baby for a ride, when the weather is not extremely severe. It is never too soon to take a normal infant out for an airing, and most babies suffer for want of open air.

Hookworm

Please give a remedy for the hookworm disease.

Answer—Five or ten drops of the oil of chenopodium (American wormseed) given in capsules or on sugar, on empty stomach, followed in two hours by about a double dose of castor oil—the treatment should be repeated for two or three days.

JANUARY

JANUARY is the first month of the year. For this reason we should not be too impatient with it. The succeeding months improve steadily, which shows that practice is necessary to make even a calendar perfect.

January arrives after winter has taken off its things and has settled down for keeps. It is one of our finest indoor months, but is not affectionately regarded by fishermen, baseball players or scenery sellers. Nature is as beautiful in January as she is in July, but very few people worship her. It is too much trouble to shovel snow off of her face.

January is a fine month in which to read "Pickwick Papers," "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," "Potash and Perlmutter," and other gems of literature. It takes some practice to do this, but a man soon learns how to chauffeur a book with one hand and a furnace with the other and can absorb a great deal of learning during the cold winter evenings. When January is in good form and is going strong, the owner of an old-fashioned tepid-air furnace has to have his meals brought down to the cellar to him and only escapes now and then to shovel 345 lineal feet of sidewalk after each snow. It takes a broad man to accommodate a snow-shovel lame back and a coal-shovel lame back at the same time without confusing the two and getting his treatments mixed.

January is a favorite month with the amateur gardener. In this month he does his finest work. At no time of the year is he so happy as he is in January as he sits by the fire during the evening, growing ten-pound potatoes and melons which have to be cut with a two-man saw. Nursery men become rich in January by accompanying amateur gardeners in their dreams, but no nursery man is foolish enough to come around in July to pay a friendly call.

In Canada, January is greatly beloved because of the toboggan slides,

To shovel 345 lineal feet of sidewalk after each snow ice palaces and hockey games which flourish in that climate. The style of January used in the United States south of Minnesota is not stable enough to encourage ice palaces, however. The only ice palaces erected in the United States are those built by ice men. They are made out of ice and last all summer, but they are not popular.

In January the principal amusements are skating, sleighing, and attending annual meetings. January is now a more pleasant month than it was when it was first discovered, but it will be still further improved as soon as some method of heating, cooling and ventilating street cars at the same time can be devised.

Views Of The Press

In The Name Of Art

A CORRESPONDENT to the New York Times recently expressed himself as follows, regarding an art exhibition:

"I am something of an artist myself, and while I do not belong to the very old school of highly finished work, I do admire a picture that bears some resemblance to the thing it was intended to represent.

"At the late exhibition at the Fine Arts society's gallery there were "nudes" that do not and never did—and, God willing, never will—resemble "the human form divine." What the new line of art is to lead to is beyond my comprehension. I doubt if the artists themselves could guess. Can it be possible they see things as they paint them, or are they just "seeing things" in the vernacular? It occurs to me how terrible it would be if, in the progress of the ages, human being would grow to look like some of the monstrosities that are exhibited in the name of art.!"

It is not strange that a lover of art is sometimes constrained to wonder what has come over the spirit of artists' dreams that they should so maltreat the ideas and ideals which have passed muster for ages.

It is not only the devotee of the academic style who is hurt over the exhibitions of wanton disregard for all the laws of drawing, composition and color, but even the modern artist who has accepted the trend of things in the art world and marched along with the procession, cannot swallow the awful concoction which extremists have provided.

The Futurists, the Cubists and other devotees of "isms" of one kind or another, have their mission but it is not the painting of beautiful pictures or even realistic pictures. Just what ideas actuate these men whose work has, from time to time, startled the artistic world, it is difficult to say. They may have been ill balanced, or they may have had an eye for the advertising which their outlandish work was bound to attract, but one thing is sure—they rattled the dry bones and made real artists justify their own creations.

People who were attracted to exhibitions merely by the hue and cry raised over the extremists, stayed to enjoy the normal after they had been satiated with color and line horrors. Interest in art in general was given an impetus by the abnormal things masquerading under the name of genius. Conversation was punctuated with lively tilts about art because the extremes had shown the virtues of real art.

So by and large, the superlatives in the art world, the extremists, are responsible for arousing an interest which the more normal could not have compelled.—Meriden Morning Record.

Q. A certain person agreed to put in a piece of corn for me. I was to provide the ground and plenty of fertilizing material. He was to do the work and each of us was to have one-half. I did my part to the letter and he put in only about half of what he agreed to, and didn't work it enough to make it do well. He cut only part of it and left the rest to be destroyed by the rain and wind, and shows no signs of husking it. Can I take charge of it and take his share to pay for the husking?

Lincoln's First Murder Case

The following instance of the success of cross-examination is doubly interesting as it shows Lincoln in his first defence at a murder trial.

The evidence of the guilt and identity of a certain witness (the last was morally certain. But his story was to the effect that he saw Grayson (Lincoln's client) fire at Lockwood (the murdered man), saw him run away, and then picked up the deceased, who died instantly.

Lincoln: And you were with Lockwood just before and saw the shooting?

Witness: Yes.

Lincoln: And you stood very near to them?

Witness: No, about 20 feet away.

Lincoln: May it not have been 10 feet?

Witness: No it was 20 feet or more.

Lincoln: In the open field?

Witness: No, in the timber.

Lincoln: What kind of timber?

Witness: Beech timber.

Lincoln: Leaves on it are rather thick in August?

Witness: Rather.

Lincoln: And you think this pistol was the one used?

Witness: It looks like it.

Lincoln: You could see defendant shoot,—see how the barrel hung and all about it?

Witness: Yes.

Lincoln: How near was this to the meeting place?

Witness: Three quarters of a mile away.

Lincoln: Where were the lights?

Witness: Up by the minister's stand.

Lincoln: Three-quarters of a mile away?

Witness: Yes—I answered ye twiste.

Lincoln: Did you not see a candle there, with Lockwood or Grayson?

Witness: No. What would we want a candle for?

Lincoln: How then did you see the shooting?

Witness (defiantly): By moonlight!

Lincoln: You saw this shooting at 10 at night, in beech timber, three-quarters of a mile from the lights,—saw the pistol barrel, saw the man fire, saw it 20 feet away, saw it all by moonlight? Saw it nearly a mile from the camp lights?

Witness: Yes, I told you so before.

The interest was now so intense that men leaned forward to catch the smallest syllable. Then the lawyer drew out a blue-covered almanac from his side-coat pocket, opened it slowly, offered it in evidence, showed it to the jury and the court, read from a page, with careful deliberation, that the moon on that night was unseen and only arose at one the next morning.

Following this climax Lincoln moved the arrest of the perjured witness as the real murderer, saying: "Nothing but a motive to clear himself could have induced him to swear away so falsely the life of one who never did him harm!"—Tracts in Court.

Bystanders

You are either on the side lines or else in the Game. If you are on the side lines you are merely watching. You are inactive. You are contributing to your personal pleasure. If you are in the Game you are playing hard, you are getting pleasure and you are contributing Service.

You will always get more pleasure out of the Game if you are a Player instead of a Bystander.

All along the streets of any town or city are lined the Bystanders. Inside the Stores and Offices and Factories are housed the Workers. The Workers are the ones who support the Bystanders.

Let no man do for you what you ought to do for Yourself.

To be the mere title-holder of a Job counts for little. You must be the Job in every sense of the word or else you may be classed with the Bystanders.

The worst thing about the Bystander is that he Contributes neither to himself nor other people—he is a Blank.

The surest law in the world is the Law of Compensation. Its Justice works continually. If you do a Service you get back a Service. If you do Nothing you get back Nothing. Mere existence is not living.

Into your twenty-four hours put Work and Play and Rest, but at no time be a Bystander.

Physical Geography

Hortense is bounded on the north
By such a pretty hat.
It seems a bit of Eden which
My eyes are looking at.
To eastward, lace and furbelows
Of wondrous shape and kind.
Quite dazzling to my vision, prove
That love's not always blind.
To south of her are tiny feet
In candid silken hose,
That carry her across my heart
In shoes with velvet bows.
To westward, sheerest draperies
In rainbow tints, suggest
That goddesses, at least, should be
Not always too much dressed.

But where to find her inmost thoughts
I hold no magic chart,
Geography does not compute
Degrees to find her heart.
So I'll explore, both far and near,
Its secret for my own,
In frigid or in temp'rate or (Fate grant) in torrid zone.

A Sea Nymph Came In Form of a Sea Bird.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Shipwrecked, Odysseus Made a Raft and Went to Sea.

"YOU'LL both be glad to know that Odysseus, the wanderer, neared home at last," daddy told his children. "He had adventures and long delays still, but even when he was stopping at little islands he was nearer home than he knew. When the thunderstorm almost broke his raft in two he was saved by a kind sea nymph who came in the form of a huge sea bird and perched on one corner of his raft. Now guess what she gave him?"

"A new ship!" shouted Jack.

"A pair of oars!" cried Evelyn.

"Good guesses," said daddy. "But exactly what she gave him was a life preserver in the shape of a girdle to tie around his breast, very much like the little air filled wings you children wore down at the beach this summer—remember? This sea nymph bird taught Odysseus how to tie on the girdle, and advised him, if another storm broke his raft, to throw himself right into the sea and let the life preserver buoy him till he could swim to land."

"What a lovely bird!" cried Evelyn.

"Odysseus was glad to take this advice, and when the timber under him held together no longer he struck out with a strong stroke to swim ashore for dear life. Minerva, the goddess, took pity on him and smoothed the billows before him. She even sent a wind that rolled the waves right toward shore. But the surf beat terribly on the rocks, and Odysseus began to fear that he would never find a safe place to land. Finally he saw still water at the mouth of a gentle stream, and, quite breathless, entirely speechless and almost dead from his struggle with the waves, he floated. The very first thing he did was to kiss the land—then he fainted. For a long time he lay so, and even when he awoke he could not decide what to do. A little way off he saw a small grove and walked to it. Imagine how good the dirt felt under his poor water soaked, tired feet! When he found some branches that hung together, shutting out the sun and the rain, in this shelter he heaped a pile of leaves. Then he flung himself on this bed, scattered some leaves over himself—his clothes had been torn off him by the terrible waves—and fell into a deep sleep, the first he had been able to take in many days."

"Oh, tell us what land it was, daddy!" cried Jack.

"It was the island of Corfu, off the coast of Greece," said daddy. "But his adventures there will make another bedtime story."

"Thank you, daddy!" cried the children, with two kisses.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

These New Fangled Ideas Do Not Appeal to Olive Ellson's Mother.

"All this fighting of germs comes from marrying a doctor, I suppose." Mrs. Dunn's tone showed pained irritation. "People were as well and far happier when everything they touched did not have to be boiled, steamed and baked to be sterilized. One would think the human touch was poisonous from the fuss that's made."

Olive laughed and her mother continued:

"Everything one buys is done up in waxed paper or pasteboard cartons, and is sealed and stamped germ proof. That's what makes things cost so much more."

"Oh, mother!" objected Olive.

"It certainly has increased the cost of living very appreciably," insisted the mother.

"Well, you certainly are willing to pay for having your bread done up in waxed papers and your milk put in bottles, aren't you? They certainly are cleaner." Olive was amused at her mother's irritation.

"There is nothing so certain about that; it depends on how the papers are handled," persisted Mrs. Dunn.

"That is nonsense, mother," said Olive. "You can see that as the bread is to be handled by so many different people, it would be much safer to have it wrapped."

"Oh, I have no objection to their wrapping the bread. I suppose it is a good scheme. It isn't that; it is the constant trotting of the subject to the fore. I think it really hurts the health more to be forever safeguarding it than all the germs we so unconsciously swallowed years ago ever did. Really, if I lived according to scientific rules I could not have a free moment in the day. It's regular bondage." Mrs. Dunn patted her braids and adjusted her skirts to a nicety.

"You must admit that the death rate has been greatly lessened by the hygienic improvements science has introduced. Take it among babies, for instance." Olive smiled cheerfully as she crocheted on a little sock.

"In the slums, yes," admitted her mother. "People are teaching those slum dwellers how to be decently, ordinarily clean. They are supervising their food supply, for they are too ignorant to do it themselves. When they can get them educated to be just old-fashioned clean, I hope there will be less hue and cry over germs. Nobody wants dirt, but I am tired of hearing about it all the time."

"So am I, mother. Let's change the subject." Olive was losing her cheerfulness in some degree.

Mrs. Dunn rocked jerkily for a few minutes in silence. Then she raised her head and, looking at Olive, said solemnly:

"I was very much surprised, Olive, to have you speak of your expected child before your husband and me. It was very indelicate to say the least."

Olive laid down the sock and went off into a gale of laughter.

"I do not think it was much of a surprise to either of you," she said.

"In my time," said the little lady, bridling, "people were not expected to speak of such things in a mixed company."

"Oh, mother, I shall never get over shocking you, I fear." Olive wiped the tears of laughter from her eyes and picked up her work. "How did you ever happen to have so unconventional a daughter?" she sighed.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DAY NURSERY

The tenth anniversary of the King's Daughters' Day Nursery will be celebrated at the West Front street home, with a tea and reception on Wednesday afternoon, January 19. The committee in charge of the affair are completing arrangements. The ways and means committee, of which Mrs. John A. Peterkin is chairman, have had a thousand stars made with an appropriate inscription. On each a small circle is cut to hold ten dimes The stars are to be returned not later than the 15th of the month to Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, 1002 Park avenue, the treasurer of the fund.

Stars have been distributed to every member of the King's Daughters' Circles, but there are still a few remaining. The committee would be glad to have any friends interested in the work take them. They can be procured by applying to any member of the committee or to Mrs. Bird, at the Day Nursery. The purpose of raising this extra money is for a very necessary addition to the nursery and a partially enclosed outdoor winter pavilion for the children to play in.

JOHN T. YORKS DIES IN HIS 77TH YEAR

Passes Away at Son's Home After a Few Days' Illness With Pneumonia.

John T. Yorks, aged 77 years, a resident of this city for the past five years, died yesterday morning at the home of his son, Robert A. Yorks, on West Front street, following a short illness. He was taken with the grip about Christmas time and this malady developed into pneumonia, which made his condition critical from the first.

Mr. Yorks was born at Danville, Pa., where he spent his boyhood Later he removed to Stanton, Hunterdon county, where he lived the greater part of his life. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the Fifteenth Regiment, N. J. Vols., serving the entire three years. After the war he returned to Stanton, where he remained until coming to Plainfield He was a member of the Reformed church at Stanton, and was admired for his sterling Christian character Although he lived a quiet, retired life, he had a large circle of acquaintances. Beside the son with whom he lived, Mr. Yorks is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Anderson, of Stanton, and Mrs. John Sheats, of Three Bridges.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at the Reformed church, Stanton, and the burial will be at the latter place.

1,153 ARRESTS MADE DURING PAST YEAR

Chief Kiely Wants Finger Print System Taught to Local Police.

That Plainfield police were active during the year of 1915 is shown by the fact that they made 1,153 arrests. Chief Kiely recommends that an instructor be employed to teach the men the finger print system of identification, also that flashlight methods be adopted in addition to the Gamewell alarm system, and that headquarters reserve squad be instituted His report follows:

"I have the honor to submit herewith to your honorable body, this, my sixteenth annual report of the work performed by this department for the year of 1915:

"Number of arrests for the year 1,153; composed of males, white, 903, males, colored, 182; females, white 38; females, colored, 30, total, 1,153.

Results of the Arrests.

"Amount of fines collected, $1,840; number of cases disposed of, 1,153; number of suspended sentences, 288; number committeed to the county jail, 72; number fined, 130; number arrested for other cities, 25; number probated, 10; dismissed, 44; number of bond forfeitures, 2; number held for grand jury, 21; number held for juvenile court, 4; number returned to Jamesburg, 1; number returned to Rahway Reformatory, 1; number of cases untried, 15; total, 1,153.

"Number of complaints investigated by the department during the year of 1915 were 1,837.

"Number of electric street lights reported by the officers as being not lighted between December 16, 1914 and December 16, 1915, were 912 On December 14, 1915, all lights east of Park avenue were out and not counted in the above list.

"Ambulance calls answered, 172; patrol calls answered, 98.

"Total expenditures of the department for the year were $35,231.41 of which $31,714.33 was paid in salaries.

"The numerical strength of the department is twenty-nine, including six superior officers, sixteen regular patrolmen, six special patrolmen and one patrol driver.

"The identification branch of the department should be developed, and I would therefore suggest to your honorable body that an instructor be employed so as to teach the men engaged in that work the finger print system.

"I am in accord with the views of his honor the Mayor that we might be aided in improving our police system if we had expert advice as to the success elsewhere of the fixed post and flash signal methods, to supplement the regular patrol, and to be used in connection with an efficient headquarters' reserve and motor equipment to facilitate quick action.

"The police force of this city is thoroughly disciplined and in a high state of efficiency will be admitted by all citizens.

"The year ending has been comparatively uneventful in a police way; law and order has been maintained throughout the city."

PLAINFIELD GOLFERS FORM INDOOR WINTER GOLF CLUB

Two Courses and a Putting Green to Be Installed—Paraphernalia Ordered, and Formal Opening is Planned for Saturday—Located on Park Avenue—More Than Thirty Men Join.

Golfers of this city, most of them members of the Plainfield Country Club, have formed a Winter Golf Club, to be located at the physical culture school of Max Maximus, in the building located on Park avenue, and formerly used by the Woodbrook Farms. There will be two courses and a putting green, with an instructor in charge.

The club, however, is being organized, not for teaching golf, but for practicing swinging until the opening of the outdoor season four months hence. Between thirty and forty men are members. Besides keeping the golfers in practice, the indoor game will provide interesting diversion, and the members are exhibiting considerable enthusiasm over the project.

The nets and other paraphernalia have been ordered from Spalding Bros., and are expected to arrive this week. The formal opening of the new club will probably take place next Saturday. Those who have joined the club are T. S. Wheeler, George L. Babcock, Dr. F. C. Ard, L. H. Van Buren, Albert MacDonald, Howard A. Colby, W. G. Cooke, Frederick W. Wallace, J. B. Stevens, Henry L. De Forest, A. M. Collens, H. C. Phillips, H. A. Robinson, Wilbur H. Rogers, F. C. Osborn, S. H. Patterson, Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, Sherman B. Joost, W. W. Cortell, W. B. Tyler, J. F. Middledith, George P. Mellick, W. H. Williams, Walter L. Righter, Howard H. Craig, Harry Williams, J. H. Brewster, Jr., H. S. Brown and C. B. Lawrence, Jr.

This will not be the first time indoor golf has been played in Plainfield. Seven years ago a school was opened in the Marsh building, under the supervision of Marty O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club. O'Loughlin owned the first indoor game ever used in this country.

The indoor game, as it will be played here, consists of driving the ball into one of six large holes in the end wall of the playing space. The holes, which are in two horizontal rows of three each, will be labeled 200, 175, 150, 125, 100 and 75 yards to represent shots going such distances. After playing into the hole, representing an equal number of yards to the green being played, the player putts out, scoring his strokes in the usual way. The driving courts will be completely surrounded by nets, to check the flight of balls driven wide of the holes.

SOCIAL AFTER GAME

Players and Friends Banqueted, and Games Are Played—Porter Leads West Fourth Streeters to a 37-to-7 Victory Over Experienced Rivals.

Only one field goal was made by the Men's Union League five, of Irvington, on the Hope Chapel court here Saturday afternoon, the Fourth street church team winning by a score of 37 to 7.

The visitors had several experienced players in their line-up. Hartman, who played center, has been a member of the Germans Baptists, of the Newark Sunday-school League, for eight years. Vey is a Firemen's Insurance Company man, while Gray formerly played with Vermont Academy.

The Hopes ran up 15 points before their opponents scored. The visitors made three points on one play, when Ted Snyder was called for fouling an opponent who was shooting. The only other point the Irvingtons made in the first half was a foul shot just before the whistle blew. Three free throws was the extent of their scoring in the last half.

Porter starred, making 8 baskets. The winners missed 12 out of 15 attempts from the 15-foot mark.

After the game the players and a few others sat down to a "feed." Singing, quoit playing and bowling also helped make the occasion enjoyable.

PLAINS PARISH HOUSE QUINTET BACK ON JOB

Team Returns After Two Years and Defeats Mt. Pleasant.

The Scotch Plains parish house basketball team played its first home game since that recreation center was closed two years ago, Friday night, and handed the Mt. Pleasant basketeers a walloping 28 to 15. The visitors had a slight edge on the Plains quintet at the end of the first half, but the parish house aggregation, led by Hatfield, made counters from all angles of the floor and tallied eleven baskets in the last half.

Johnson was the only new man on the team, and traces of the old teamwork occasionally cropped out. Hatfield still retained his weather eye at forward, and Marston, standing six feet two, was a caution at center. Besides scoring two baskets, Banks, of Mt. Pleasant, made the only free shot of the game.

Local bowling tournaments will get back on regular schedule this week, after the usual lull during the Christmas holidays. All the teams will begin the second part of the winter, determined to make every opponent hustle.

Plainfield Columbians will draw a tough assignment tonight, when they tackle the champion Bayley outfit at Elizabeth. Although the two-time champs are making a poorer showing than any year they have been in the K. of C. League, their high average proves that their low standing is due to hard luck. Bayley is seventh now, two games behind Watchung, the locals being fifth. Two victories tonight will put Plainfield tie with Bayonne for fourth place, while only a triple disaster can cause the Watchungs to relinquish their present position.

Charley Starr, Lee Johns, and the other experts who roll on New York Lodge, No. 1, will come to the Elks' Club here tomorrow night for a match in the B. P. O. E. circuit. Starr used to make it his business to finish every season at the top of the individual average list. Johns was formerly one of Newark's best bowlers. As all the Gotham pinners are clever alley artists, a large crowd will doubtless be on hand tomorrow night to see 885 battle with the Manhattan Antlers.

Plainfield's team in the Elks' Junior League will be idle, the tilt scheduled for Friday night having been postponed by New Brunswick. Somerville will go to Newark tonight, to line up against the new team the cellar occupants will present.

F. O. E. pin-knights will get busy again Wednesday night, the Elizabeth Aerie team, which lost the championship last season by a margin of one game, being scheduled to come to this city.

The same night, several hundred members and friends of the T. A. B. Societies of this city and Elizabeth will gather in the new home of the local Tabs, for a three-game series. The first match was rolled at Elizabeth last month.

Head-pin teams of the Columbus Club will renew their games Thursday night. A match of importance in the Westfield League will be decided Thursday night, when the leading Westfield Club pinners roll their closest rivals, the Royal Arcanums.

The Congregational and Trinity teams of the Westfield Sunday-school League will break their tie for second place when they clash tomorrow evening.

BASKETBALL AT Y. M. C. A. AGAIN

First of String of Games Against Local Teams is a Victory.

COLLEGIANS DEFEATED

Largest Crowd of Season at Front Street Gym Sees Fast Contest—Former P. H. S. Players On the College Five.

Basketball games at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday nights and holidays, between an association team and outside quintets, which practice was recently discontinued, was resumed Saturday night, when a team of local college men was licked by a score of 32 to 21. Another schedule of games will be arranged, but the opposing teams will all be from this city.

The game Saturday night was well played, and was enjoyed by the largest crowd that has gathered around the East Front street court this winter. The collegians who played were Bill Peacock and Monroe Good, of Colgate; Fred Chamberlain, of Brown; Jim Nash, of Washington and Lee, and Clyde Doane, a graduate of Williams. All of them formerly played on Plainfield High School.

The Y. M. C. A. was represented by Harry Moulton, Al Manley and Ted Gavett, of the quintet that was playing together earlier in the season; Merton Glover, a former Y. M. C. A. man, who will play regularly from now one, and Dave Berse, home from a Philadelphia prep school for the holidays.

Both sets of guards played strong defensive games, breaking up much of the teamwork. Berse, Manley and Peacock each recorded five field goals, while Moulton made four. Gavett caged a long shot that drew applause.

ONE-ARMED SHOOTER DOES WELL IN RIFLE PRACTICE

The New Market Rifle Club held its first target practice at its ranges on the Frank O. Nelson farm, Saturday. On account of the disagreeable weather only seven of the members participated in the shoot. They were: Frank Ruckman, of Plainfield, George Endicott, William T. Piddington, F. O. Nelson, George Bennett, Paul Loder and Rene P. F. Von Minden, Jr.

Standing at a distance of 200 yards from the target, which was six feet high and four feet wide, there were three matches at rapid fire with ten shots each match for a man.

The regular sliding targets had not arrived in time to be put up for the shoot and the exact scores were not kept. The best shooting in the first match was done by Rene P. F. Von Minden, Jr. Frank Ruckman captured second honors. George Endicott was third.

Rene P. F. Von Minden, Jr., also won the second match; Frank Ruckman was second, and William T. Piddington, Jr., was third.

The third match was won by Frank Ruckman; George Endicott being second and Rene Von Minden third.

George Bennett, who only has one arm, scored four hits during the first match; two hits during the second, and four during the third.

JACK MARTIN TRADED TO MILWAUKEE BY PHILLIES

Plainfield Big Leaguer Didn't Know About Deal Until He Read it in the Papers—Has Placed His Claims for Back Salary From Philadelphia Club in Hands of Baseball Players' Fraternity.

Jack Martin has been traded by the Philadelphia National League Club to the Milwaukee team, of the American Association, in exchange for Pitcher Harry Rhoades. This New Year's announcement greeted Plainfielders Saturday, not even Martin knowing of the deal until he read it in the papers.

Martin's being traded does not come as a surprise, however, since the Phillies cannot use the local infielder. It is well known that the National League champions are satisfied with the first year's showing of their Portland recruit, Dave Bancroft, who beat Martin out for the job of shortstop last spring. Milwaukee has been after Martin for several months. The local boy played with St. Paul last summer, under the terms of his Philadelphia contract, and has some back salary coming from the Phils. He has placed his case in the hands of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, in which organization he is a director.

Jack has done considerable traveling since he broke into organized baseball. He has played on the Richmond Virginia League Club; with Rochester in the International League; with New York in the American League; Boston and Philadelphia in the National League, and St. Paul, in the American Association. He joined the Phillies in the middle of the 1914 season, figuring in the trade that sent Josh Devore to Boston. He played shortstop for the Phillies during the remainder of the season, and President Baker, owner of the Quakers, pronounced himself as satisfied with Martin's work.

The work of Bancroft, one of last season's sensations, cost Martin his job, and he was sent to St. Paul where he played a bang-up game for the Saints.

The trade by which Milwaukee exchanged Rhoades for Martin was man for man, no cash bonus figuring. As Captain Neal, the big league scout, considers Rhoades the best pitching prospect in the American Association the pitcher would have brought several thousand dollars in money. The only reason Milwaukee let him out, according to the Philadelphia Club, is beause the Brewers are badly in need of a shortstop, and they consider Martin just the man they want.

Rhoades, who is a graduate of the Northwestern League, is a big right hander, built much like Ernie Shore of the Boston Americans. He worked in twenty-two games in less than two months last season.

BOWLING LEAGUE TO BE FORMED TONIGHT

Representatives of Teams Will Meet in the Tabs' Club.

Representatives of local bowling teams interested in forming a City League will gather in St. Mary's T. A. B. S. Club tonight, when it is expected that the proposed circuit will be organized. The meeting will not be held in the Plainfield Daily Press offices, as originally planned, because Jim Scott, who is manager of the Tabs' team, will have to be at the Abstainers' Hall tonight to help run the big fair being held there this week.

At least four fraternal organizations in this city are interested in the venture. They are the Tabs, Knights of Columbus, Eagles and Elks, and the first three are expected to have delegates present tonight. The other teams expected to join are the Ramblers of this city, and the Imperials, of North Plainfield.

Every disaster in school, church, theatre or factory emphasizes the necessity of providing for quick exit from buildings where people gather, in case of panic caused by fire or in other ways.

There are thousands of public auditoriums which have doors that could not be opened quickly—perhaps not at all—in case of fire or panic.

THE SARGENT GRAVITY LOCKING FIRE EXIT BOLT is effective, simple and low in cost; it affords certain protection against entry from outside and operates instantly from the inside in case of necessity.

NEW ORDINANCES BEFORE COUNCIL

One Prohibits Lighting of Fires in Any Part of the City.

BROOKS DEED IS FILED

Corporation Counsel Reed Approves Transfer of Property to Be Used for New City Hall—Saloon Licenses Will Come up Jan. 17.

Two new ordinances, the first of 1916, were presented at last night's adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Common Council, and both were passed on first and second readings and ordered engrossed and advertised. The first prohibits the lighting of open fires in the city proper, and the second was a supplement to the building code pertaining to school buildings, providing that minimum strength of 70 pounds to the square inch should be provided in floors of rooms used for class rooms only.

Both were presented by Chairman Edgar, of the fire and buildings committee, after consideration and favorable action from his committee.

Mayor Calkins announced the appointment of B. van D. Hedges as a member of the Board of Education to serve during a term of five years. This was approved by the Council in official resolution.

The report of the shade tree commissioners for the year of 1915, telling of work done to preserve and add to the trees of Plainfield, was read and ordered filed. That of the City Board of Health for the same period was received, but was not read because it is to be printed in pamphlet form within a short time.

Corporation Counsel Reed presented to the Council a deed from Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks and joint owners to property on Watchung avenue, which is to be used as a site for the new City Hall. This deed has been approved by Senator Reed, and the city is now in possession of the property having paid the $31,000 purchase price. The deed was ordered recorded.

Bonds of Frank Dunham, civil engineer; Alexander Ayers, overseer of the poor, and William R. Townsend, tax collector, were received and approved by the corporation counsel and ordered recorded.

The finance committee was given an appropriation of $250, to be used in having plans drawn for sewer extension work. An appropriation of $200 was authorized to be used by Frank J. Hubbard in having maps of the city corrected to show transfers and divisions of 1915.

The license committee reported favorably on the application of T. W. Hanson to open an employment agency in this city, and moved that it be allowed.

The meeting was adjourned until January 17, when saloon licenses will be taken up by Council in addition to other matters that may arise before that time.

OBSERVE THEIR WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes Entertain Friends on Fiftieth Anniversary.

SHOWERED WITH GIFTS

Afternoon and Evening Reception is Attended by Many Guests Including Members of Railroad Veterans' Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes, of Emerson avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday, and the affair was marked by a reception held at their home during the afternoon and evening, when a large number of guests called to extend congratulations and the season's greetings. Among the guests were a number of members of the New Jersey Central Veterans' Association, of which Mr. Haynes is the president. There were also guests from New Hampshire, New York, Hunterdon county and this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes were married at Annandale by the Rev. Robert VanEmburgh, then pastor of the Reformed church, of Lebanon. The bride was Miss Mary Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cramer. The couple have two children, Mrs. F. L. Palmer, of Fanwood, and John C. Haynes, of Annandale.

Mr. Haynes was born in Branchville, Sussex county, and at the age of fourteen years entered the employ of the New Jersey Central. He continued with that company for fifty years, retiring eight years ago. His first position was that of flagman on a local train running between Hampton Junction and Elizabethport. After a series of advancements he was finally appointed a passenger conductor in the year 1864, which position he filled for six years. He was appointed general agent at Elizabeth in 1870, and in 1876 was transferred to a similar position in this city.

Mr. Haynes is a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., in which he is greatly interested. In the early days, when bicycling was a craze, Mr. Haynes was president of the Crescent League, being himself an enthusiastic rider of a bicycle. Both he and his wife are members of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Haynes never tires of relating interesting incidents of his railroad career. The couple received a large number of gifts from relatives and friends and altogether the occasion of yesterday was one of the most pleasant in the lives of the couple.

"MAYOR BILL," WHO RULES THE BOROUGH

Newly Elected Executive Adopts Efficiency Methods.

Those who refer to the new chief executive of the borough of North Plainfield as Mayor Smalley are going to "get in bad" in the borough, because there was another Mayor

Mayor Wm. L. Smalley.

Smalley not so long ago, and, anyway, the present head of the government there wants to be nearer the people. He is to be "Mayor Bill" and hopes that he will be that to his friends and his constituency throughout his term, or terms, as the case may be. The borough of North Plainfield has entered upon a period of economy and efficiency. Under the direction of Mayor Smalley, who assumed his duties with the new year, many changes have been made in the borough government, all for the purpose of reducing operating expenses and increasing the amount of service given taxpayers.

DEATH COMES TO BEN F. LA VERE

Well Known Citizen Succumbs to Heart Failure at Muhlenberg Hospital.

LIVED HERE 30 YEARS

Was Prominent in Local Musical Circles—Gave Many Concerts in This City—There Survives a Mother, Two Sisters and One Brother.

Following an illness that first became apparent a month ago, and which took a serious turn last week, Benjamin Franklin LaVere, prominent in local musical circles for the past twenty-five years, and known to nearly every adult in the city and borough, died early this morning in Muhlenberg Hospital. Heart failure was the primary cause of death, although complications had ensued, and for the past forty-eight hours his condition had been critical. He was removed to the hospital from his home in the Endress building last Friday, and the end came at 2 o'clock this morning.

Mr. LaVere was born at Rahway fifty-four years ago, and after completing his education in the local schools, learned the trade of carriage trimmer, Rahway in those days being a carriage manufacturing town. About thirty years ago he came to Plainfield and entered the employ of L. M. French, whose carriage manufactory on Somerset street was one of the largest in this section. He remained with Mr. French for twenty-four years, severing business relations when the latter gave up his carriage work. Since then Mr. LaVere had been with various automobile concerns as trimmer, but about two months ago went into business for himself as a manufacturer of automobile tops and slip covers. He was located at the old French stand on Somerset street, and was enjoying

300 IN PERIL ON GREEK STEAMER

Sends Out S. O. S. Calls—Has Been Adrift For Two Weeks.

New York, Jan. 4.—The Greek steamship Thessaloniki, which has been adrift in the Atlantic for the past two weeks, sent out wireless calls for help early this morning, and it is feared that her 300 passengers are in danger. The engines of the boat are dead, and she is helpless in the heavy sea now raging. Several boats are standing by, and many others are making for her position under full steam, but her situation is called dangerous by marine experts.

The early reports of this morning received regarding the steamship Thessaloniki were somewhat erroneous in that the location of the ship was given as five to ten miles east of Fire Island. Authentic wireless reports from steamers standing by state that at 6 o'clock this morning the location of the Greek steamer was given as 150 miles east of Fire Island, with her engines having given out. At 7 o'clock this morning a wireless message was received from the commander of the S. S. United States saying: "Am steering off course, Thessaloniki asking for assistance. Will save lives, but will not tow."

A wireless report has been received from the United Fruit steamer Sarramacca, bound from the West Indies, saying that she had picked up an S. O. S. call from the S. S. Thessaloniki, and would proceed to save lives but not tow. The Swedish-American Line steamer Stockholm has also Marconied that she is in the vicinity of the disabled vessel.

Officials of the Greek Line stated to a representative of the New York News Bureau that they had received a wireless message from Captain Gagoras, of the steamer Patris, sister ship of the S. S. Thessaloniki, reporting his position as 280 miles east of Sandy Hook, on January 3, at 10:38 p. m., with the sea very rough and high winds prevailing. The Greek Line officials again stated today that the passengers on the Thessaloniki had been transferred to the Patris. Shipping men at the Maritime Exchange, however, have declared that it would have been almost impossible to transfer the passengers at sea in the gale that has prevailed without the outside world knowing about it. A wireless message just received says that the S.S. United States is going to the assistance of the Thessaloniki, and that she expects to reach the disabled vessel at 2:30 this afternoon.

NATIONAL ISSUE IN LOCAL CASE

City Judge DeMeza to Decide the Question of Federal Responsibility.

HEARING NEXT MONDAY

Plumber on Building of New Postoffice Will Be Charged With Violating Local Health Laws and U. S. Has Taken up His Fight.

Judge William DeMeza will be called upon to decide a case of national importance next Monday, when Fred Ferngrown is arraigned in police court on a charge of violating the Board of Health regulations of the city of Plainfield in failing to file plans of plumbing work being done with the health authorities, and failing to make bond with the city before beginning work here.

Ferngrown was arrested two weeks ago by Lieutenant Higgins, of the local police department, on a complaint made by Inspector Addis, of the local Health Board. He is a sub-contractor on the construction of the new Plainfield postoffice. The case was not tried because of an injunction secured by Federal authorities restraining the city from interfering with work on government property. A temporary restraining order was issued, and it came up for hearing in Trenton yesterday in United States District Court. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., appeared for the city of Plainfield, and he secured the dismissal of the order, which dissolves the injunction and leaves the city free to act. In deciding in favor of the city Judge Rellstab ruled that an appeal to the Federal court should not have been taken until the case had been fought out before Judge DeMeza, and that the government officials had no ground for the presumption that they would not be fairly treated here. There was no discussion of the point at issue here as to the authority of municipal authorities over Federal property and government work.

An assistant district attorney will come to Plainfield next Monday to appear in police court for Ferngrown. It will probably be Assistant John A. Hartpence, who appeared against Attorney Hetfield in the case Monday. He will fight the case on the grounds that Plainfield health regulations do not extend to Federal property here and that the new postoffice site is under no law but that of the United States.

Local attorneys are of the belief that the case will be won by the government, and that the prosecution of Ferngrown will be dropped.

FIRST LEAP YEAR DANCE OF SEASON

Young Women Who Aided Belgian Relief Fund Give Delightful Affair.

The first leap-year dance of the season was given at the Park Club last night by the young women who acted as waitresses at the recent "Cafe Concert" which was held for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund. Miss Leila Hedges, who was chairman of the committee of waitresses on the previous occasion, arranged last night's affair with the assistance of other young women.

The leap-year idea was carried out the young men waiting for the young women to ask them to dance, and this feature added greatly to the pleasure of the affair. Brooks and Denton furnished the music, the program being a popular one throughout. The musicians responded to many encores.

The clubhouse was attractive in its holiday decorations arranged by Henry Johnson, the steward. Later in the evening refreshments were served under the direction of the general committee in charge. Dancing was continued until an early hour this morning.

Mr. Glenney and his bride will be "at home," at Crescent Court, this city, after February 15.

MOUNTAINEERS OF THE CAUCASUS

George Kennan Tells Monday Afternoon Club of Travels in Southern Russia.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION

Speaker Appears in Native Crimson and White Costume—Lecturer Gives Interesting Talk Concerning Habits and Customs of People.

Attired in the native crimson and white costume of the mountaineer of the Caucasus, George Kennan, of the reportorial staff of the Outlook, came here under the auspices of the literature department of the Monday Afternoon Club and pleased a large and appreciative audience in the Plainfield High School Auditorium yesterday afternoon, with his splendid word pictures of the "Mountains and Mountaineers of the Caucasus," a subject with which he is thoroughly familiar and well informed to speak about. Mr. Kennan, who has written several books of his travels and explorations, spent considerable time a number of years ago in a close and careful study of the huge mountain ranges of southeastern Russia.

Preceding the story of his trip, the speaker gave a brief resume of the diversities of the Caucasus, which are among the most remarkable mountain masses on the earth, abounding with glaciers, peaks and variations of climatic conditions. Geographically they are a boundary line between southeastern Europe and Asia and stretch along from the Black Sea to the Caspian Sea. They are 700 miles in length and about 10,000 feet in heighth; a continuous unbroken wall of solid rock. Taking his audience along the stretch of mountains, Mr. Kennan pointed out the many climatic changes as one ascends or descends a slope—on this

SEN. ACKERMAN IS GRAND JURY HEAD

Union County Court Organizes for the January Term.

Elizabeth, Jan. 4.—Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was named as foreman of the Union County Grand Jury this morning at the organization of the January term of the County Court. Judge James J. Bergen opened the session and delivered his charge to the grand jury, after it had been formed and organized for work of the term.

There are three Plainfielders on the grand jury. Frank Hubbard, George J. Tobin and Leslie R. Fort. Mayor Victor Mravlag, of Elizabeth, and the Rev. Frederick C. Mooney, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, of this city, are also members of the jury.

In charging members of the body clothed with inquisitorial powers into violations of all criminal laws, Judge Bergen declared that there had been no rumors or reports of serious violations to which their attention might be directed. He said that their oath of duty should serve as a guide for their actions, and that all violators should be indicted when evidence against them was secured.

Former Chancellor William J. Magie presented a memorial to Louis H. Noe, a leading attorney, who died in Elizabeth two months ago. In ordering the memorial spread upon the records of the court, Judge Bergen said that he had known Mr. Noe since 1869 and he also paid a tribute to the character of the deceased practitioner.

The court will get down to routine business tomorrow.

VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA.

Julia Svencak, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Svencak, of Newark avenue, South Plainfield, died last night at the home of her parents following a brief illness with pneumonia. The funeral will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will take place in St. Mary's cemetery, this city. The young girl is survived by three other sisters and two brothers.

MRS. MARY A. ROGERS.

Mrs. Mary A. Rogers, a former resident of this city, and widow of Daniel B. Rogers, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, in Horse Head, New York. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

The junior department of the First Baptist Bible school will meet Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and enjoy a special program prepared by the superintendent, Mrs. F. W. Jones.

WILL CELEBRATE PROSPERITY DAY

Business Men to Hold Dollar Sale and Have Big Dinner at End of February.

SCHWED IS PRESIDENT

Re-elected at Annual Meeting Held Last Night—Twenty-nine New Members—M. C. Van Arsdale Vice-President.

Tuesday, February 29, promises to be a red-letter day in Plainfield's business history, for that date has been set as National Prosperity Day, and the members of the Plainfield Business Men's Association will fittingly celebrate it by the first Dollar Day of leap year. On March first a dinner will be held under the auspices of the organization, so that the members can congratulate themselves on the success of the sales the day before. All this, and the election of officers for the ensuing year, was decided upon at the annual meeting of the association, held in the Coward building, last night.

Herman Schwed, who had steadfastly declined to accept re-election to the presidency until yesterday, finally consented to stand again, and he was nominated and elected by acclamation. He was renominated by Samuel Rothberg, who said that there was no man who knew conditions in the city better, or who could look after the interests of the organization in a more satisfactory manner. John J. Varley seconded the nomination, and Mr. Schwed said that under the circumstances he guessed he would have to accept the honor, and stood ready to serve the organization, and do anything that he could do for Plainfield. M. C. Van Arsdale, who has been treasurer during 1915, was made vice president, and John J. Varley, who has been vice president, was made treasurer, while J. H. DeMott, after receiving the compliments of those present on the efficient way in which he has done the work during the past year, was re-elected secretary. The new executive committee will consist of John D. Johnston, Leslie R. Fort, George J. Finger, Frank Neidig and A. E. Force.

Twenty-nine new firms were elected to membership as a result of the campaign which was held about two months ago, and it was decided to recall Harry B. Salter, who conducted that campaign, to finish up the work at an early date.

The committee which will have charge of the Dollar Day arrangements consists of John J. Varley, Albert F. La Rock, Samuel Rothberg, A. H. Osmun and George J. Finger, while the prosperity dinner will be arranged by George J. Finger, A. H. Osmun, Paul R. Collier, A. E. Force and Edward F. Conshay.

All declared that the Persia was torpedoed without warning.

Shortly after the little girl arrived there she was taken ill with pneumonia. The operation, which was eventually performed, is believed to have been successful.

TWO CHRISTENINGS.

There were two christenings at St. John's church, Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. Father Dunphy. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thamer, who are stopping with Rinehart Rauner, of Grove street, was christened Lillian, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dinke, of South avenue, Julia.

Bartholomew Kelly, who is ill with pneumonia at his home, 322 Madison avenue, passed the crisis of his illness on Sunday, and is improving.

ENTERTAINED AT BRIDGE.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Phillips, of Fourth street, entertained a number of their friends at a bridge party on New Year's Eve. Refreshments were served during the course of the evening. 'Plains & Fanwood.

The first meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Episcopal church in a month will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Riblet, of Hunter avenue, tomorrow afternoon. A Christmas party, with a large decorated Christmas tree as a feature, will take up the greater part of the afternoon.

The Borough Council meets in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

"Chip" Archibald has been enjoying a short furlough from his station on board the U. S. S. "Philadelphia," and has been spending it with friends in town.

The recent expenditure of $16,000 on a new four-room school in the Graceland section of the township does not seem to have relieved the congested condition of the other two local schools, as much as it was first thought. Yesterday S. Dana Townsend, the supervising principal, sent the members of the kindergarten class of School No. 1 home and gave out the announcement that there would be no sessions of that class until further notice. There are at present approximately 450 students in the local schools, with two-thirds of that number in School No. 1 and fifty in each of the other two. The new school is the only one having any available space, and that is at the eastern extremity of the township and too far to send children from the Fanwood or Scotch Plains section to.

That there is no chance of a revival of interest in the Fanwood Rifle Club is evidenced by the fact that the fire-arms and other paraphernalia of that organization have been sold. Under the tutelage of Louis Tuzo, a captain in the Spanish War, and at present a writer about fire-arms for sporting magazines, the club flourished last spring, but it turned out to be short lived.

The Misses Ruth Dunn, Ethelwyn Walker, Emily Carder and Katherine Russell have returned to their studies at the Newark Normal School after enjoying a ten-day Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Floyd Jones and daughter, of Paterson road, are visiting friends at East Orange, where Miss Jones is ill with scarlatina.

Few and far between were the cases during 1915 where the minion of the law had to exert his authority in the borough. Of these there were three cases of vagrancy, two of disorderly conduct and one each of petty larceny and fish and game act. The last named was the only one where a heavy sentence was imposed, and then it was because it was mandatory. It is the best police record that Fanwood has had in several years, and in a place of seven hundred people it is really good.

William Beeken, a student at Vermont Academy for the past year, has entered the Westfield High School.

There was only one game at the Parish House last night, the one between the regular team and Plainfield High School Juniors being called off. The Boy Scouts played a game with a pick-up team and won out. The Parish House will be closed today and tomorrow, but will open Thursday afternoon and evening.

Miss Meta Soper, of Metuchen who is a teacher in the local public school, is still too ill to resume her duties at the school. Miss Margaret McDonough, of Plainfield, is substituting in her place.

MRS. ADRIAN'S WILL FILED.

Somerville, Jan. 4.—The will of Mrs. Sarah C. Adrian, of Franklin township, widow of Robert Adrian for many years a prominent Middlesex county lawyer, was filed for probate with Surrogate McMurtry. The value of the estate is placed at $1,000, but it is worth many times this amount. The bulk of it is left to a nephew, Robert Adrian, a nephew who is also named as the executor. The will bears the witness names of Fred Weigel and Jennie A. Adrian.

DISTINGUISHED FRENCH GUESTS

Maurice Damour, chairman of the French Chamber of Deputies, who is in this country arranging financial matters for his government, was the guest over Sunday of H. B. Stedman of Washington avenue. Mr. Damour had dinner here and met a number of prominent citizens, to all of whom he asserted that when the present war is over the United States would be called upon to rebuild France.

MRS. DALY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen B. Daly, whose death occurred at the home of her daughter on Westervelt avenue yesterday morning, will be held in St. Mary's church, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

PARENTS OF A GIRL.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Smalley, of Central avenue, are the parents of a girl born to them Sunday.

Charles W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, who has been quite ill with the grip, is reported to be improving slowly. A physician and trained nurse have been in attendance.

Four young men were received into membership at the communion service at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

SIZES OF SARDINES.

The Big Fellows Are Eight and Even Ten Inches Long.

Sardines are found chiefly in the Atlantic ocean, forming great schools or banks extending from the coast of Ireland to the Canary islands. They are also found in considerable quantities in the Mediterranean, probably coming from the Atlantic, attracted by the higher temperature of the water. However, sardine fishing is of less importance on the Mediterranean shores of Spain than on the bay of Biscay and the gulf of Cadiz, where the principal factories for canning sardines are located.

The supposed difference between sardines found in various parts of the world has been much disputed, but repeated investigation has demonstrated that no generic difference exists, as the sardine is not a sedentary fish and in habits the ocean at large, migrating from coast to coast in search of food and mild waters. This explains its appearance and disappearance, both dependent upon the movement of warm currents, and its particular abundance on the coast of Galicia. Near Finisterre, in close proximity to the gulf stream, the sardine is usually first seen.

The length of the sardine varies from four and three quarters to eight inches and the weight from 0.84648 to 2.39836 ounces. Sometimes a few are found measuring as much as eight and three quarters inches long, but this is extremely rare, and none exceed ten inches. The sardine is known by many names, according to locality and development. In Galicia those of nine centimeters (3.54 inches) in length, weighing less than 26.4555 pounds a thousand, are called "parrocha" and when six or six and one-quarter inches long "mediano" or "medianillo." They are really known as sardines only when they reach the size of from seven and one-quarter to seven and three-quarters inches in length, weighing from 132.2773 to 154.3236 pounds a thousand. There is also a class of small sardine found in Cantabrian as well as Galician waters, called "anchoa." This variety does not exceed two and one quarter to three inches and ordinarily weighs 0.17637 or 0.21164 ounce.—Consular Reports.

GOLD ACTUALLY GROWS.

In Certain Cases Nuggets Placed In Water Increase In Size.

It has been found gold nuggets under favorable conditions actually increase in size.

Gold is known to have grown on mine timbers which have long been immersed in mine water. In the California state mining bureau museum there is a specimen of a piece of jointed cap and post token from the Comstock lode, where it had been under water for years. Gold had formed in the joints and pores of the wood. Gold is constantly being formed in rocks and veins and placers. Just what it is that the baby gold formation feeds on is not known. If it were a new and wonderfully lucrative industry might be born.

As in the case of the animal or vegetable, existing gold has existed in some other state before assuming its present form. Waters which seep the earth's crust are said to contain substance from which gold is formed. Like animals and plants, gold must have water in order to thrive.

The gold in the water is deposited when it meets with the proper precipitant—an earth current of electricity, some vegetable growth or some chemical in the rocks.

It has been claimed that the nuggets found in placers are formed from the waters that percolate through the gravels and not from decomposed quartz, as generally supposed. Those who so contend cite the fact that in the center of nuggets a small grain of iron sand can often be found. This was the nucleus around which the current of electricity created or deposited gold from the substance in the waters just as it is deposited in electro plating.—Popular Science Monthly.

And Suppose She Didn't.

A certain college president wore side whiskers. Whenever he suggested removing them there was a division of opinion in the family. One morning he entered his wife's dressing room, razor in hand, with his right cheek shaved smooth.

"How do you like it, my dear?" he asked. "If you think it looks well I will shave the other side too."—Boston Transcript.

Teeth as War Weapons.

A New Zealand dentist has invented a set of teeth which can be used as a war weapon. "In a clinch with the enemy," he writes, "the soldier could slip these out of his mouth and gouge the neck of his opponent or slice off his ear or his nose. I have used them on a pinch to scrape out a rabbit hole and as a light screwdriver."—Boston Transcript.

Unusual Loquacity.

"Here this author begins his story, 'The wagon groaned as it crept up the hill.'"

"Now, that's strange."

"What's strange?"

"About the wagon's protest. It has a tongue, but yet it was the wheel spoke."—Baltimore American.

The Venus of Milo.

It is said that the base of the Venus of Milo, with the name of the sculptor upon it, was destroyed for the purpose of deceiving a king of France into the belief that it was more ancient than it really was.

PATIENT LEAVES BONNIE BURN

Oscar Harris Reports That He Was Not Properly Treated There.

IS BACK IN DUNELLEN

Borough Council Hears His Story and Decides to Use Money to Make Him Comfortable at Home—Other Business.

At last evening's meeting of the Dunellen Borough Council, the board was acquainted with the fact that Oscar Harris, who through the efforts of a Council committee, was sent to the Bonnie Burn Sanitarium at Scotch Plains, on November 16, had returned from that institution on Saturday. Councilman Ryan said that he had visited Mr. Harris at his home on Front street yesterday. Mr. Ryan said that Mr. Harris told him that he had not received proper attention at the sanitarium, there only being one nurse for forty-eight patients, and that he had lost seven pounds. Mr. Ryan's object in presenting the matter to the Council was to find out whether the money, which his committee had raised to assist in meeting Mr. Harris' expenses at the sanitarium, could be diverted to his comforts here. Mayor Latham didn't think that anybody who had subscribed to the fund would offer any objections and all of the councilmen concurred with his honor in that opinion. There is a little over a hundred dollars remaining in the fund.

A communication was received from the Watchung Water Company, in which that company stated that it would expect a settlement from the borough in connection with the cost of repairing a water main at the intersection of Fourth street and Washington avenue, which it claimed was broken by the settlement of a sewer trench. The water company stated that this main was broken through the negligence of the sewer contractor, who disclaims any responsibility.

The engineer asked for the concurrence of the Council in granting the H. K. Corbin Company an extension of time in completing the sewer from January 1 to May 1. The Council granted the same.

Chairman Ryan, of the law and ordinance committee, submitted the annual report of the police department, showing that 104 arrests had been made. The recorder collected $347.35 in fines and the Mayor $2. The department collected $85.84 from delinquent poll taxpayers and $56.20 from delinquent personal taxpayers.

It was recommended in the report that the care of the hall be transferred from the department to the Borough Hall committee, so that the time which the regular marshal at present employs in cleaning the hall can be spent in patroling his beat. It was also recommended that the special marshals alternate in patroling North avenue Saturday nights, so that the regular marshal can patrol his regular beat. These recommendations were adopted. The special marshals who will alternate in patroling North avenue will be on duty from 7 o'clock in the evening until 2 o'clock the next morning. This extra protection will cost the borough $2 a week.

The Mayor and clerk were authorized to float a demand note for $1,553.65 to meet bills of the North avenue drainage system. The floatation of improvement certificates amounting to $6,200 were authorized to meet collecting sewerage bills.

The report of the borough treasurer for the month ending December 31 showed a balance on hand of $753.97. Among the receipts for the month were $299 for hotel licenses, $25 for dog licenses, $23 for recorder fines, $3,879.16 for tax and interest, and $144.17 for sidewalk assessment.

MISCHA ELMAN'S TOUR A NOTABLE SUCCESS

World-Famed Violinist to Appear at High School on February 9.

Mischa Elman, the world-famed violinist, who will appear in a recital at the Plainfield High School on Wednesday evening, February 9, recently made a tour of some of the Canadian cities, meeting with overwhelming success that greets this youthful genius at every turn in his career. In Quebec, Mr. Elman played to an enormous audience and the Chronicle of that city praised the concert in the following words:

Mischa Elman,
At High School, Wednesday, Feb. 9

"One of the most enjoyable and notable musical triumphs ever scored in Quebec was won by Mischa Elman, the famous Russian violinist, last night, in Columbus Hall, where he played to a large audience that will retain a lasting impression of his marvelous genius and remarkable technic."

Tickets for the concert will be placed on sale at Miller's drug store on January 15.

DEATH OF BEN. F. LA VERE

a prosperous trade when his fatal illness began.

It was as a musician that "Benny" LaVere was best known to thousands of people in this vicinity. He had a natural talent, and when only a boy became proficient as a cornetist. He joined the old Plainfield Cornet Band when he first came here, and within a few years became a leader. LaVere's band will long be remembered, not only in the Plainfields, but throughout the State, as it was called upon for parades throughout New Jersey. Practically all the public concerts that have been given in the city or borough for the past twenty years were due to Mr. LaVere's efforts. He personally solicited subscriptions, and for many years gave a weekly concert that drew thousands of people. For a number of seasons these affairs were held on Watchung avenue and Chatham street, in what was known as the Boice tract, now known as Orchard Park. Mr. LaVere originated the idea of adding fireworks displays to the concert, and the double offering drew people for miles around. "Benny" was never happier than when leading his band in a popular concert, and although at times he had to privately pay for musicians' services, he always felt amply repaid by the knowledge that his efforts were appreciated. His cornet solos were usually one of the feature numbers on the program, and he always stood willing to contribute his talent for any public entertainment.

For the past seven years Mr. LaVere had made his home with Mrs. Helen A. Homann in the Endress building, none of his relatives living here. He was never married. His mother, Mrs. Benjamin LaVere, and one sister, Mrs. Grandin Estelle, reside at Lakewood. Another sister, Mrs. R. Edson LaForge, lives at Rahway, and a brother, Luther LaVere resides in Newark. The last named is also prominent in musical circles, having been connected with Newark bands for a long time. Mr. LaVere was a member of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, and Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. At the Elks' bazaar in October he had charge of the professional singers, whom he brought from New York for the purpose. His acquaintanceship with these artists was almost unlimited, and whenever any of them were wanted, he could readily secure the services gratis of such well-known vocalists as "Billy" Redmond, "Billy" Murray, "Johnny" Nestor, Edward Madden and many others equally as well known.

In accordance with one of the last requests of the deceased, the funeral will be held in the lodge room of the Elks' clubhouse on Watchung avenue, tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The officers of the lodge will conduct the service, and the eulogy will be delivered by Assemblyman William N. Runyon. Burial is to be made in the family plot at Rahway.

WM. W. WARNOCK GIVES UP BUSINESS

Closes Old Established Bakery to Assume Management of Orange Concern.

W. W. Warnock, who has been identified with the bakery and confectionery business in Plainfield since he was a young men, first with his father and then for himself, closed his establishment on West Front street New Year's Eve, and will retire from the local trade. The store effects are to be disposed of at public sale Mr. Warnock took the step in order to assume the management of a large baking concern at Orange, although for the present at least he will maintain his present residence at 2 Craig place, the borough.

The name of Warnock has been closely related to bakery and business interests in Plainfield for more than half a century. Mr. Warnock's father, the late Alexander Warnock first located a bread and cake establishment on West Front street, where Frank Linke's building now stands in 1862. It was the leading place of the kind in Plainfield for many years, and after being in other locations, was sold by the proprietor to Jacob Voehl in the late 80's. The elder Warnock and a son, the latter having learned the trade, went to Englewood, where they opened a large establishment. W. W. Warnock left Englewood in 1896 to come back to Plainfield, and began business again at 138 North avenue. The trade grew so rapidly through the knowledge that the Warnock standard of bread and cake had been returned to the city that larger quarters were needed in 1901, and Mr Warnock removed to 144 West Front street. He remained there ten years when, after a short time at North and Park avenues, the business was moved to the last address at 239 West Front street.

The opportunity at Orange to develop a large establishment became apparent to Mr. Warnock several months ago, and in transferring his business interests to that city, he leaves with the best wishes for success from his hundreds of local friends.

SOMERVILLE HEADS NAMED BY COUNCIL

No Chief of Police—Old Officials Are Re-appointed for 1916.

Somerville, Jan. 4.—The Borough Council of Somerville met last night and organized for the year. Walter Durling was re-elected president of the Couuncil. A. M. Beekman was reappointed attorney; Dr. G. I. Halstead, physician; Jacob H. Gernert superintendent of fire alarms; Dr. T H. Flynn, member of the Board of Health; W. A. Ackerman, trustee of the public library; Jacob Klotz, superintendent of streets, and J. B. Varley, clerk.

A surprise to many of the citizens present came when a petition was presented requesting the Council not to make an appointment of a chief of police from the force. The petition set forth that the taxpayers are satisfied with the present management.

President Durling was made chairman of the police committee, and will act as chief. Mayor Steele appointed Clark Aboard, chief of the fire department, with J. E. Griggs first assistant; Henry Weill, second and S. B. Van Ness, third.

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR REPUBLICAN BANQUET

At the regular weekly meeting of the North Plainfield Republican club held last evening in its club room on Somerset street, it was voted to hold the banquet to be tendered to the past mayors of the borough in Debele's Hall on the evening of January 31.

The original committee in charge of the affair, composed of Howard Woolston, J. K. Arnold, Grover Kipsey and William Trembath, was increased last night by the appointment of William Debele, William Campbell, Edward Mundy and Howard Conover. It was voted to invite former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, of Somerville, Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook; Judge Clarence Case, of Somerville; Assemblyman Odgen H. Hammond, of Bernardsville; Judge W. Runyon and former borough Counsel Charles A. Reed.

The price of the tickets was decided upon as $1.00. They will be out by tomorrow. The hall will seat about 200 people. The caterer will probably be Erwin Neighbor.

Following other business which was of a routine nature, there was an entertainment and a "smoker." There was speaking by Mayor W. L. Smalley, former Mayor Clark, J. E. Vanderhoef and Henry Dumont.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HEALTH BOARD

J. V. E. Vanderhoef is Again Elected President of Borough Body.

Officers were elected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Health held last night. A remarkable fact is that during the past year there was one case of typhoid fever, the first in three years. These officers were elected:

President, J. V. E. Vanderhoef; secretary, treasurer and registrar, Dr. A. H. Dundon; auditing committee, J. L. Love and John I. Brower. The report of Inspector J. L. Olliff showed the following contagious diseases for the year: Scarlet fever, 3; diphtheria, 8; measles, 28; chicken-pox, 18; tuberculosis, 5; typhoid fever, 1. There were 1,100 inspections. The registrar reported 133 births, 77 deaths, 5 still-births and 38 marriages. The board approved of Mayor Smalley's efficiency and economy policy.

WEEK OF PRAYER SERVICES.

Week of prayer services are being held at the Crescent Avenue church this week, commencing tonight, when Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will speak especially to young people. He will also be in charge of the meeting tomorrow night, and on Thursday night, T. Guthrie Speers, a returned missionary from China, will make the address.

—Needing a partner or backer in a really good business enterprise, why not make advertising the most important part of your program for the immediate future?

Character

A few years ago J. Pierpont Morgan testified before the Pujo Committee in Washington.

Among some of the interesting things he told us concerning Wall Street was that "Character is the basis of credit."

Character is not only the basis of credit, but of everything worthy in the conduct of life.

It is the basis of every successful business—it is the basis of our own business.

The character of this store is based on the practice of measuring every sale to the Golden Rule, an "instrument," which, although 2,000 years old, has never been improved upon.

DARING DEATH DAILY TO GIVE PHOTOPLAY FANS A THRILL

HELEN GIBSON, AND SCENES FROM "THE HAZARDS OF HELEN."

THE photo play fans know her as "the girl who won't take a dare." Helen Rose Gibson is her name, and, judging by the photographs shown on this page, she is fully deserving of her sobriquet. Once a day, six times a week, over 300 times a year, this eighteen-year-old miss grits her teeth, mutters an involuntary "Do or die" and then for many long minutes stands on the brink of death—just that you photo play fans may have the sensations you crave.

But no common daredevil is Helen Gibson. She describes herself as "a specialist in thrills," with railroad hazards the particular specialty. Helen rides on a private road that boasts of its official report of "an accident a day." The reason for the boast is that all the accidents are carefully planned beforehand; they are evolved by a scenario writer in the security of an office, prepared for by a motion picture director and then, when the danger comes, executed by "the girl who won't take a dare."

Photo play followers are frequently of the opinion that thrills and sensations of the screen are faked by various camera tricks. It is true that many daredevil feats may be secured through camera deceptions, but when Helen Gibson decided to specialize in railroad thrills she chose a field where the camera cannot help her. Take the scene on this page which shows her leaping from the roof of a station to the speeding limited train. A fraction of a second's miscalculation and Miss Gibson would have been tossed through the space between the trains to the tracks below. As it was, the shock of landing atop the train severely bruised the plucky girl, and it was with difficulty that she clung to the flying surface.

Slim, pretty and a trifle bashful, Helen Gibson impresses you as the sort of girl who would climb atop a six foot bookcase should an innocent little mouse poke his nose out of a hole in the corner. Perhaps she would, but it is pretty certain that if the scenario said, "Stand unflinchingly," that's what she would do. In fact, we put the question to her:

"Is there anything you would not do if you thought it would provide a thrill for the screen?"

"Perhaps," she replied laughingly. "I haven't met it yet, but I suppose that some day a wildly imaginative author may think of something that I will balk at. A friend told me once that I was 'the girl with nine lives.' He's only partly right. I must have had at least ninety nine lives when I started in motion pictures, but I am pretty certain that ninety-eight of them have been lost by this time."

Helen Gibson's story is one of the many true ones of "stars made overnight" uncovered in the fascinating screen world. Years ago the Kalem Company, one of the pioneers in the picture producing field, discovered that stories of railroad adventure were unusually popular with photo play fans. The series of railroad tales they then originated had much to do with the banishment of the time worn cowboy and Indian picture. One day a distracted director was running about the company's California studio with an air approaching that of a madman.

"The company has sent me a corking story," he said, "but I can't find a girl with nerve enough to play the leading part. Guess I'll have to send it back and tell the author to curb his imagination. It's a shame to waste such a good story though."

"Let me try it, Mr. Director," spoke up a shy girl, who had been playing small parts and whose name the director did not even know. "I don't care what the risk is; I'll do anything."

"You will?" replied the director. "Well, I want a girl to pursue a runaway engine in an automobile and then leap from the machine to the engine and stop the train. But, then, you can't do it anyway, for you don't know how to run an engine."

"Oh, yes I do." The little known girl was gradually gaining confidence. "I can handle the throttle with any one. Give me the chance."

A few more questions brought out the fact that the girl was Helen Gibson, the daughter of a railroad engineer, and a telegraph operator in a railroad office. It was the railroad series that inspired her with the ambition to be a photo play star. She had been quietly biding her time, waiting for the opportunity that she was sure would come, because of her thorough knowledge of railroads and her daring spirit.

The director's despairing search for a "girl with nerve" gave Helen the opportunity, and she was made as a star from that time. So daring were the exploits which she performed in each succeeding picture that they became known to picture followers as the "Hazards of Helen." And hazardous they certainly were, for the leap from the auto to train which gave her the much wanted opportunity was only an ordinary feat to many that followed though the thought alone of that one is sufficient to startle the average man.

"But really," she told an interviewer recently, "there isn't any reason why I should fear to perform any feat that is concerned with railroad life. I was born in the shadow of a roundhouse and brought up amid the hustle and bustle of a switchyard. Often when I was only a tot I rode in the cab of my father's engine, and I was competent as a telegrapher long before I had completed my schooling and was able to work on the road myself."

Helen was forced to puzzled thought for quite a few minutes before she could reply to a question as to her most perilous experience.

"Life is just cluttered up with perils," she said thoughtfully. "But I think the one which made me think I was nearest to eternity was the time I had to go over an open drawbridge on a handcar into a river thirty feet below. I came at a terrible speed down a hill just before reaching the bridge, and for a moment, as I looked across the yawning space into which the car was to be hurtled, I felt a wish that I had remained a sedentary telegraph operator, without aspirations for a career of fame on the screen. It's weird, all the things that you can think of in a few seconds of danger like that. But above all other things I could hear dozens of my friends saying dolefully, 'I told you so.' You see, my friends were never enthusiastic over the career I had chosen.

"There wasn't anything left for me to do but to hang on, though, and keep pumping at the handles of the handcar. Then suddenly I reached the edge of the river; the next second the water seemed to rise up to meet me. I know that I was not frightened, for I had presence of mind enough to jump clear of the handcar. To carry out the action of the story I had to swim hurriedly ashore and rush to the switch to prevent a box car from taking the same disastrous flier into the river.

"Another unusually thrilling experience I had came in a story that called for me to leap from a handcar to the cowcatcher of a locomotive that was pursuing me. It had all been carefully planned and timed, but believe me, there is no pleasure in seeing a locomotive bearing down upon you. At the right moment I leaped for the cowcatcher, and then something seemed to go wrong. We had expected the handcar to be tossed aside, but when the locomotive struck it the car seemed to climb up after me, and I was very close to losing my slim grasp on the cowcatcher. Then the next second I was safe, for when the full force of the impact hit the handcar it was smashed to splinters."

Struggles with ruffians on top of racing trains, the feat of letting herself down from the top of a passenger coach through one of the car windows, allowing herself to be placed in a bag and snatched from a mail crane like a sack of mail by a flying train, these are among the many ordinary events in a day's work for "Helen of the Screen." Is it any wonder that she was recently named official mascot at the last convention of the International Brotherhood of Trainmen, a token of the admiration felt by the workers of the rails for the red blooded girl who typifies their work so well?

The film company's officials are unusually proud of the fact that with all the risk of the work of producing the "Hazards" the records show not a serious accident occurring to any of the players in the films. In order that the playing company at work on this series may be provided with every facility for staging the pictures, the spur of a California railroad has been leased outright and a studio erected in the switchyard. This studio has all the facilities of an up to date producing plant, but is devoted solely to the staging of the tales of the rails. Here the director and his players breathe continually the atmosphere of railroad life, which accounts for the realistic grip of the pictures. And if you want to see some fur fly just suggest in the hearing of a member of the company or one of the railroad men at the nearby roundhouse that you have a thrilling incident for the motion picture screen if you could only find a girl nervy enough to perform the daring deed.

"Come right this way," they'll tell you. "We have the 'girl who won't take a dare.' If Helen won't do it, then it can't be done!"

MOUNTAINEERS OF CAUCASUS

side a person sees stretches of barren rock, on another slope as far as the eye can reach, a series of fertile valleys appear, green with abundant growth, sheltered from storm and glowing with a tropical luxuriance, while on climbing up a few hours a person will emerge on a cold, snow-capped and windswept peak. During his stay among them, Mr. Kennan had ample opportunity to learn the peculiar social and political ceremonies of this remarkable people, who are made up of a variety of tribes. Included in their population are Mongols, Greeks, Circassians, Romans, Arabs, European crusaders, Jews and Armenians. In many cases these people were travelers who eventually took up their abode among the sheltering rocks, while others were refugees from persecutions. In time these different clans blended together into one people and in the course of 500 years developed into a liberty loving people. Until the early nineteenth century they were never conquered. Army after army sent against them had been defeated until the conflict with Russia, a struggle of seventeen years, subdued the mountaineers and the Caucasus became a part of the Russian empire. The brave and hardy populace subsist chiefly on pasturing, cultivating wheat and agriculture. In religion they are Mohammedans.

Hearing much of the Caucasus, commonly called "Russia's Switzerland," Mr. Kennan early in August determined to explore these wonderful mountains. Early in September he landed in Temir Khan Shura, one of the principal cities along the Caspian Sea, and awaited a chance to explore the ranges. During one of his wanderings through the city, he chanced to overhear the proposed trip of a Georgievek Prince, who was at that moment preparing to leave the city of Temir Khan Shura with a corps of guides and escorts. Realizing that this would probably be his only opportunity to go through the dangerous Caucasus with a guide, Mr. Kennan sought out the Prince and laid his wishes before him. It was with many misgivings that the Prince told him of the colds, privations and dangers that would confront him throughout the journey and asked if he would be able physically to cope with them. Mr. Kennan assured the Prince that he was and told that distinguished personage with somewhat a sense of bravery that he was willing to follow wherever the Prince cared to lead him. Continuing, Mr. Kennan told of his regret that he ever uttered the latter dare, and he foreseen what was to follow in the days of the journey; the Prince with a sly smile determining to take the impertinent American traveller upon his word.

The journey to Georgievek led through deep ravines, shallow valleys, a chaos of mountains, gloomy canyons, along precipitous paths, below which roaring torrents shouted, and up, down and around zig zag courses. It was at the most dangerous descending point in the journey that the Prince meant to test the American's courage. Coolly lighting a cigarette, sitting upright on his horse, the Prince looked at Mr. Kennan with that "now we'll see if you will follow where I lead" look and began the descent. Not to be outdone, Mr. Kennan related his determined coolness also. Following the example of his guide, he also lit a cigarette and stared after him along the narrow path. The remaining guides all led their horses and made the journey on foot. Just before turning a sharp corner, however, Mr. Kennan heard a shout of warning from the Prince ahead, that whatever happened not to pull the reins of the horse but to let him feel his way. The warning was barely uttered than Mr. Kennan felt his horse slip and slide along the slaty path, coming to another sharp corner. Here he distinctly remembered his dare and in order to reassure his Prince that he was not afraid, he started to sing, "Kingdam Am A Coming." Before he came to the second verse, however, his breath was cut short by another slide of his horse. Here it was that the speaker spoke of the wonderful self possession of these horses of the mountaineers who feel their way inch by inch along the precipitous cliffs, where the slightest balance on the edge may mean a headlong plunge into an abyss of nothingness, for looking down from the seat on his horse, Mr. Kennan recalled vividly the deep ravine far below. It was with an extreme sense of relief that the descent was terminated. Feeling like a person just convalescent from a long and tedious illness and pale from the severe strain on his nerves, he nevertheless felt a pride in his boast and earned the cordial invitation of the Prince to spend several weeks with him in his castle at Georgievek.

Mr. Kennan concluded his lecture with a number of vocal selections of the natives. Practically each showed the fierce and indominable spirit of heroism of the people, and their passion for music.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The bus line to Stirling and Warrenville has become very popular to the residents of these places as well as those of Watchung, who very much appreciate the convenience afforded. Last night I had occasion to come up on the run, leaving the station upon the arrival of the 6:13 train. By the time I obtained my satchel from the baggage room, which took less than a minute (having sent it ahead early in the day), I found the bus crowded beyond its capacity, including standing room. Also three other residents of Watchung besides myself unable to obtain access.

We were therefore obliged to walk to Front street and wait for the next trolley car, having of course missed the car ahead, which endeavors (by the courtesy of the Public Service) to wait for the 6:19 train. At the end of the car line the above mentioned belated passengers were forced to walk to Watchung, one of the number being sick and in no condition for the effort. I would respectfully suggest to the management of the Transit Company that if they desire to cater to the "short riders," who leave the bus before reaching the end of the car line, who pay a nickel a ride, it would be well to provide further accommodation for the through fares, who pay double for the ride to the top of the hill. Permit me further to suggest to the residents of North Plainfield that the trolley which waits for the 6:19 train is as easy of access at Watchung avenue, as the bus at Park avenue and will transport them as quickly at the same expense, and much more smoothly. Somerset street being proverbially the "roughest street" in the State, as the Warrenville bus, and at the same time they will not be preventing the suburbanites from the privilege of riding, to which they are obviously entitled.

G. H. UNDERHILL,
Watchung.

Borough Boys Lead at South Side, 9 to 3, Until the Newarkers Get Started.

FINAL SCORE 48 TO 21

Home Players Outscore North Plainfielders Almost Four to One After First Few Minutes—A. McDonough Plays Well at Center.

North Plainfield High School boys were snowed under at South Side High School, Newark, yesterday, S. S. H. S. opening the season with a 48 to 21 victory.

The passwork of the home players was of exceptional calibre. The fieldgeal caging, considering the fact that it was the first game of the season was also good. The winners presented a well-balanced aggregation as the summary indicates, the forwards, guards and center all contributing to the total. The borough though outclassed, played hard and aggressively, making the South Siders travel at top speed throughout.

The fact that Allsopp, Cirlincionne and several other of the South Side team's star candidates could not play because of deficiencies in studies, did not prevent the South Side coach from putting a classy aggregation on the floor. The winners used nine players and had several more at their disposal had they cared to put them into the fray.

Weinstein, Seidman, Captain Fava and Huntington scored nearly all of the winning quintent's points. Weinstein caged seven field goals. Seidman made five field goals and five free throws. Fava dropped in five baskets, while Huntington, playing a guard, caged three baskets. Wren Townley was the heaviest point scorer for his team, being credited with two field goals and seven free throws. Andy McDonough played well at center, leading the locals in field goals, and holding his man to five baskets.

The first few minutes of play favored the locals. For a time it appeared as if the North Plainfield bunch was going to swamp the homesters. Townley broke the ice by dropping in a free throw. Seidman evened up. Dilts scored a field goal for the visitors, and Captain Townley followed suit. Dilts came through with another score from the field. The tally read 7 to 1 in Plainfield's favor when Fava, after many attempts on the part of his teammates to score from the field, finally dropped the ball into the basket. Townley missed a free throw. The "Sunny Siders" could not check the Plainfield combination's passwork, and A. McDonough, a guard, added another field goal. It took "Ding" Seidman to start the home team on its way to the front with a pretty overhead shot from the side of the court. After Seidman had missed a free throw, Weinstein scored from the field. Seidman again missed on a chance from the fifteen-foot mark, and Fava, following up Seidman's miss, netted the ball. Weinstein put his team into the lead with a basket from the field. Huntington then pulled off the most sensational shot of the game, a one-hand shot from the side of the court. This rally on the part of the South Side players was not to be checked and it continued to the end. Apparently defeat was turned into an overwhelming victory. When half-time was called South Side was on the long end of a 33 to 13 score.

There was not a doubt as to the outcome after the sensational spurt on the part of the homesters. Yet all through the second period the Newark boys were obliged to go at top speed to hold their big advantage.

Newark's Elks' Junior Leaguers moved out of Plainfield's company in the cellar by taking three games from Somerville last night. The predicted rejuvenation of the Newark team resulted in the winners posting three totals that were higher than any score they had made before this season.

The Newarkers averaged 926. The losers did not roll poorly, banging up 896 in the first game and 893 in the third.

Sutter twice touched 212. Keppler rolled 215 and 200, while Bill Schaub went two sticks over the double century.

LOCAL ELKS HAVE TO BEAT NEW YORK TO STAY FIFTH

One of the stellar attractions of the season at the Elks' Club alleys is billed for tonight, when New York Lodge's team comes to this city. The Manhattan stars, although not occupying their customary place near the top of the heap, are bowlers of the first magnitude and can never be held lightly.

The series will be of importance to both teams, for if New York wins, the Gothamites will take sixth place away from the locals. Three reverses will send Plainfield down next to the foot of the ladder. A victory tonight will enable Captain Waldorf's men to remain at the head of the second division.

The New Yorkers have been inconsistent this season. They have been whitewashed three times, twice on their own alleys, once by Elizabeth and once by Newark. And what is worse, they lost a series to Rahway. On the other hand, the Gotham Bills claimed two wins at Rutherford, defeated Paterson and stopped Jersey City three times.

OFF FOR SUNNY CLIMES.

New York, Jan. 4.—Arthur Irwin and Joe Higgins, two big league scouts, have recruited a baseball team from semi-professional and major league ranks, with which they will sail today for Cuba, Porto Rico and Panama. The government will pay the expenses of the team in Panama, as they will play games with all the local teams on the isthmus.

Plainfield K. of C. Leaguers, minus the services of Blatz and Kiely, dropped three games to Bayley, on the alleys of the Columbia Club at Elizabeth, last night. The locals fell from fifth to seventh place, changing places with Bayley.

The opening game was decided by 10 pins, but in the other tilts the Plainfield team's score was below 800, the Elizabethans winning easily. The winners averaged 885.1. Hasson shot 232 in the first game, which was the biggest factor in defeating Plainfield. Schenck rolled 206. MORE THAN 100,000 AUTO DRIVERS IN NEW JERSEY

There are in New Jersey more than 100,000 licensed drivers of automobiles. During the year ending on Friday nearly 80,000 cars were licensed in the State. These figures represent an increase of about 40,000 in the number of drivers during the last twelve months, and the number of cars registered here represent 16 per cent. of all the motor vehicles in the United States. The same proportion of increase obtains in respect to motor cycles and trucks as it does to touring and other cars.

The receipts of the motor vehicle department of the Secretary of State's office for the year were approximately $1,050,000. This is an increase of $230,000 over the receipts of the department for 1914.

AVERAGE LEADER MADE OVER NIGHT

Max Schenck's Work Against Plainfield Last Night Puts Him on Top.

PASSES JACK SPEARY

Bayley Pinner 14 Pins Ahead of Newarker in K. of C. Singles—Plainfield Team Has Low Average—Kiely and G. Taylor High.

The Plainfield team of the Knights of Columbus League still has the poorest average in the league, excepting the tail-end Olive Branch team. The Watchung Council men have a mark of 831.14 for 24 games. The Bayley champions have the best average, the Elizabethans setting a pace of 886.22.

Jack Speary remains at the top of the individual averages announced last night by Secretary John E. Hastings, but the official figures do not include last night's match between Plainfield and Bayley. Max Schenck, the Bayley man, who was second yesterday, averaged 194 against Plainfield last night, and today leads Speary by 14 pins.

Chief Kiely has advanced to fifth place in the league list, and leads the Plainfield team. His average for 12 games is 184.10. George Taylor is also moving upward, and his mark up to yesterday was 180.11 for 21 games. As he averaged 183 last night, he gave his average another little boost. He is in ninth place. These two are the only Plainfielders near the top. Duffy, in thirty-first place, is the next highest 552 pinner. His mark is 168.12.

P. H. S. INTERCLASS BASKETBALL DATES

First Game Next Monday—Junior Class Team is the Favorite.

Plainfield High School's annual interclass basketball race will start next week and from present indications it will be closely contested. The schedule, made public today by Physical Director Patch, includes twelve games, extending through January and February.

The Juniors are conceded a slight advantage over the other three teams, and the first game of the schedule between the Juniors and Seniors next Monday should give a line on their chances. All of the games will take place in the P. H. S. gymnasium, and in the majority of cases they will start at 4 o'clock.

The schedule follows:

LONG ISLAND GETS MET GOLF TITLE TOURNEYS

At last night's meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association's executive committee, the following links and dates for four championship tourneys were selected:

Amateur—June 7-10, Nassau C. C., Glen Cove, Long Island.

Open—July 6-7, Garden City G. C., Garden City, Long Island.

Father and Son—June 19, Sleepy Hollow C. C., Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y.

PRINCETON AND RUTGERS ELEVENS MAY NOT MEET

Princeton and Rutgers football teams may not meet next fall, because they are unable to agree on a date. Princeton no longer wants to play Rutgers early in the season, because the New Brunswick combination is getting to be one of the Tigers' toughest opponents. Princeton and Syracuse may not meet this year, for the same reason.

ELIZABETH ABSTAINERS HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Elizabeth and Plainfield T. A. B. S. bowling teams will hook up on the new alleys of the local Abstainers tomorrow night. It will be the second half of the annual home-and-home series, which the Betsytowners generally win. The visiting delegation will, as usual, be accompanied by a large force of rooters, and the homesters' supporters will turn out to greet their guests.

PLAINFIELD GOLFER IN TOURNEY AT PINEHURST

A. C. Penn, of East Seventh street, is entered in the thirteenth annual mid-winter golf tournament which begins today at Pinehurst. Philip Carter, who won the metropolitan junior title over the Plainfield Country Club links, is another starter. A. C. Penn was in the second pair to start out in the 18-hole qualifying test this morning, his partner being J. D. Barnhill, a member of Fox Hills.

FORMER LOCAL ATHLETE ON RUBIEN'S ALL-STAR TEAM

Following an annual custom inaugurated by his predecessor, the late James F. Sullivan, Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, has selected an all-American athletic team for 1915. Platt Adams is accorded a place for the three standing broad jumps. R. Walker, a Passaic High School boy, is named as the best discus thrower on an all-American scholastic team.

RUTGERS AFTER SCHOOLBOYS; MAY PLAY HOLY CROSS TEAM

The Holy Cross College football team may be seen in action on a Newark field next season, meeting Rutgers. The New Brunswick collegians have communicated with several colleges for a game in Newark, and from Worcester comes word that Holy Cross is willing to make the trip. Rutgers expects to enroll some of the best players of the prep school ranks, who shone during the 1915 season. Efforts are being made to lasso Whitehill, of Rutherford; Hummell, of Barringer; Brooks, of Blair; Eberhardt, of Dickinson; Rollins, of Cliffside Park, and several of the Peddie players, including Mills, a backfield man. Whitehill is also receiving overtures from Brown, where his former teammate, Hillhouse, is studying.

P. H. S. SWIMMERS BECOMING ACTIVE

Practice Dual Meet With the Y. M. C. A. Fish to Be Held Saturday.

FIRST MATCH MONDAY

Commercial High School, of Brooklyn, Opposing Team—Six Events in Meet Saturday—Other Local Aquatic News of Interest.

Plainfield High School will inaugurate its swimming season next Saturday afternoon by holding a dual meet with the Y. M. C. A. As this will be a practice meet to try out the different candidates of the school team, there will be no admission charged, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The program will consist of the following events: 160-yard relay (four men to a team), 50-yard swim, 100-yard swim, 220-yard swim; plunge for distance and fancy diving.

This should be a closely contested meet, as both teams are about equally matched. The Y. M. C. A. team will be composed of A. Manly, Ostrom, Willard, Brower and Hansen. The likely starters for High School are: Snyder, Johnson, Searles, Fitch, Tomlinson, Mumford, Condict, J. Brownlee, A. Brownlee, Stevenson, Erickson, Marder and other members of the squad.

The meet will commence at 3 p. m.

Next Monday afternoon the Plainfield High School swimming team will be opposed by the Commercial High School team, of Brooklyn. This will give the local High School followers a chance to get a line on the home team. Both teams are quite evenly matched, and well-contested events should result. High School has arranged swimming meets with several of the high school teams in the metropolitan district, and also with several of the New Jersey schools.

Owing to the indifference and the poor school spirit shown by the boy members of P. H. S., the swimming team is in hard straits for men, most the best men being lacking for the coming events because of illness and ineligibility on account of studies. It would seem, out of about 350 boy members of the school, that it would be possible to get more than a dozen candidates to draw from. The boys should show more spirit. Even a mediocre swimmer has a chance of becoming a good one before the season is over.

Lorenzo Brower, the local High School swimmer is coming around in great shape, and it will be but a short time before he will be able to hold his own with the best scholastic swimmers in the district. But one man does not make a team. With proper support, Coach Hansen could build a formidable team around Brower.

ELIZABETH BIRDS HERE.

Elizabeth Eagles will come here tomorrow night for a league set-to with the Plainfield shooters. At the same time the undefeated Newark champions will invade Rahway.

HAROLD THROCKMORTON ILL.

APPRECIATE WILSON'S INTEREST IN POLAND

Representatives of Polish Organizations Send Letter of Thanks to President.

Representatives of Polish organizations, comprising a membership of over half a million American citizens, have sent to President Wilson a letter of thanks and appreciation of his interest in destitue Poland. In part the letter says:

"We have learned with gratification of the introduction by John W. Kern, United States Senator from Indiana, ably seconded by Harry Lane, United States Senator from Oregon, and of the unanimous passage by the United States Senate, of a resolution calling attention to the situation in Poland and suggesting that the President of the United States designate a day during the holidays on which contributions should be made for the relief of the sufferers in that country. We further learn with profound satisfaction of the prompt action of the President of the U. S. in issuing a proclamation, designating January 1, 1916, as the day upon which the people of the U. S. may make contributions for the aid of the stricken Polish people, such contributions to be transmitted to the American Red Cross at Washington.

"The generosity of the American nation in this instance shall not be misplaced. The Polish nation will survive even this, the greatest of all disasters and trials. From this baptism of blood, fire and pestilence there will emerge a nation sanctified by misfortune and purified by suffering which will find ways and means in the future, not far distant to give substantial expression of gratitude for the assistance rendered by the people of the United States in this hour of greatest distress."

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Today patrons of the Plainfield Theatre are witnessing two performances of "The Follies of the Day," a syncopated burlesque revue direct from the Columbia Theatre in New York. This attraction is billed as the show that "turned New York Upside Down," and it is really credited by the New York press with having made a decided hit among the theatregoers of Gotham. There are sixty people in the cast and no small part of the big company is made up of beautiful shapely girls who can sing and dance. "The Follies" is the biggest thing of its class that will be offered during the season.

Wednesday night will be Japanese night in addition to the regular vaudeville bill which pleased three big houses yesterday. Another Far East riot of good times and presents for many of the lucky holders of seats is promised by Manager Shannon.

The regular bill for Wednesday will be headed by the clever and original act, "After Two Thousand Years," which was declared by those who saw yesterday's show to be the best seen in vaudeville in Plainfield this season. In it is Julius Caesar, Mark Anthony and Cleopatra, who awake after a sleep of 2,000 years.

Gertrude Hayes,

Their lines are modern.

Other acts on the bill are "War Orders," The Three Comiques, and Hansen and White.

Y. M. H. A. BALL.

The Y. M. H. A.'s eleventh annual ball, held at Columbus Auditorium, Saturday evening, proved a big success. The hall was decorated with American flags and bunting and over three hundred people attended. A playlet entitled "The Truth" was presented. There were guests from Newark, New York, Perth Amboy, Elizabeth (who came in an auto bus), Somerville and New Brunswick.

ONLY WAY TO WIN.

Declaring that "there are two men, and two only, who have a ghost of a chance to defeat President Wilson next November—Justice Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt—," Charles Sumner Bird, who twice ran as the candidate for Governor of Massachusetts on the Progressive ticket in 1912 and 1913, receiving 116,000 and 126,000 votes, respectively, has written an open letter to George W. Perkins, chairman of the Progressive party. He says that the two million Progressives in this country are largely anti-Democratic, but will vote that ticket rather than support a reactionary Republican.

Assuming that Justice Hughes, because of his position on the United States Supreme bench, is barred from running, Mr. Bird sums up the situation regarding Mr. Roosevelt as follows:

Theodore Roosevelt was a great President, a strong executive, who called to his cabinet the ablest men of that time. First of all he is a patriotic and loyal American. At all times, under all circumstances, he has hit hard for Americanism, for national honor and for our national responsibility in the work of the world. Had he been President during the past three years the crimes done in Mexico would have been averted; the Lusitania would have been afloat and our rank among the nations of the world nothing to be ashamed of. Col. Roosevelt is the only prominent public man who has protested effectively and openly, against the crime of Belgium; the rape of American women in Mexico, and the murder of American citizens on the ocean. Other public men have ducked and dodged and played the coward. He has swept aside all shams and called a spade, a spade. While giving due praise to the German people for the economic results accomplished in the last generation, he has condemned in no measured terms their militant bureaucracy that has ridden rough-shod over treaties and promises. He has not been stopped by the fear of losing German-American votes, but "has stood 4 square to every wind that blew." Theodore Roosevelt is known world-wide as an exponent of national patriotism and he, above any other man, can make a real fight against the milk and water foreign attitude of the Democratic administration. He can not only unite the Progressives and Republicans, but he will get many Democrats who, under no conceivable condition, would follow any other Republican candidate.

Theodore Roosevelt for President, Elihu Root for Secretary of State. What a sigh of relief and confidence would come from every section of the country. I repeat—put it up to the Republican leaders. If they refuse to see; if they decline to act, then the responsibility for another Democratic victory will be theirs.

That Mr. Bird sums up the sentiments of millions of American voters, both men and women, is indisputable. There are scores who cast their ballots for either Wilson or Taft in 1912, who are now out-and-out advocates of the Colonel's candidacy, but none of them went to see him leading a third party fight again. They believe that he should be named by the Republican party at its convention in Chicago in June, and that he will be triumphantly elected over Mr. Wilson. The trend of affairs is unmistakable. While millions of voters want a change, they do not want it, as Mr. Bird says, to the extent of voting to put a standpatter of the Taft type in office.

That Mr. Bird's letter, because of his prominence in the Progressive party, and because of the fact that he twice ran ahead of a Republican candidate for Governor in a State usually so strongly Republican as Massachusetts, will have great weight all over the country, and help to crystallize sentiment all over the country, is indisputable.

SEN. MARTINE PRAISES WILSON.

While some political leaders and others who dabble a little in the political affairs of New Jersey are promising that President Wilson will openly oppose the re-election of James E. Martine, of Plainfield, to the United States Senate, some remarks of the Senator no later than Saturday are worthy of notice. Sen. Martine spoke at a New Year's celebration held at Elizabeth. His subject was "The Future America." Among other things he said:

"I praise God, and every American thanks Him, for giving to this nation, that great Christian man, President Wilson, and years from now, if not at the present time, mothers and fathers will praise the Almighty for Woodrow Wilson." Continuing, he declared himself against "peace at any price," but declared that he would think long and hard before voting for war. "I want to keep every home in the United States happy," he said.

Which indicates that if there is a fight on between President Wilson and Senator Martine, as some would have us believe, it is a one-sided affair.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Francis J. Blatz has made a good start as president of the Plainfield Common Council. One of his first announcements was that meetings of that body should be held promptly at 8 o'clock, when called for that hour, and that all committee meetings should be held on the hour specified in the call. Although there was a large amount of business transacted at the meeting held last night the session had been adjourned by 8:30 the hour at which the 1915 Council was accustomed to meet. Mr. Blatz handled routine affairs of the body with despatch and has already evidenced natural ability as a presiding officer. Many good and big things are expected of the Common Council during the coming year and not the least of these are to be brought about through the efficient leadership of its newly elected head.

Henry Ford admits that in thirty eligible years he has cast but five votes. A man who shows such little interest in the affairs of his own country and then sta ts out to reform the world certainly cannot have much kick when someone calls attention to the fact that a poor little squirrel is going without breakfast every day he walks the streets.

A Washington correspondent for a national news service wired that President Wilson was "cutting his honeymoon short just exactly forty-eight hours." Somebody bring that young man forward. The world has been trying for centuries to find out when a honeymoon was over.

A leading manufacturer of modern motor cars announces that an automobile adds ten years to the owner's life. It ought to. Look how many it takes off the other fellow's.

Germany and Austria are not playing fair. They are sinking them faster than we can write notes.

An Impertinent Question

Christmas dinner was a hummer!
How's your tum?
Did it leave you feeling glummer?
How's your tum?
Did you eat too much of turkey,
So your sleep was kind o' jerkey
And your head, next morning, murky—
How's you tum?

Did you stuff and stuff serenely?
How's your tum?
Sunday were you feeling meanly?
How's your tum?
Did you gorge on pie and tater
Till you even scared the waiter,
Then regret it sadly, later?
How's your tum?

Did you make good resolutions?
How's your tum?
Say "No more of such pollutions"?
How's your tum?
Don't you know, you dub egregious,
You'll forget those vows religious
Ere next Christmas? To obleege us—
How's your tum?

(This will shock some people sorely—
"How's your tum?"
They'll regard us mighty porely—
How's your tum?
They'll get mad and "stop the paper"
O'er this literary caper
Born of superheated vapor—
How's your tum?

Men And Women

Men and women are in the world together.

What to do about this juxtaposition has kept all the philosophers guessing and all the gossips talking, since the meeting occurred.

Marriage was about the best they seemed able to do about it.

And poor as it is in many cases nobody has succeeded in improving on it yet.

The world is open to suggestions, however.

Many a woman has married a man to get rid of him, and did.

A few old-fashioned men, who were born under conditions one would think might be conducive to breeding good sense into people, have held the theory that in marriage a man and his wife were friendly partners in the business of living and maintaining the life of the world.

Equal partners, at that.

Sometimes a man has had that idea until he went to a dancing class and found that a man was merely a dry nurse to his wife, who was supposed to be as helpless as possible.

Or, if you prefer, he might be called a he-ladies' maid or valet.

The fact that this helplessness is purely figurative and a pose, doesn't seem to have changed the conventions much.

The average right-minded man loves to fetch and carry for his wife until she lets him know she absolutely demands that of him, and then if mulish feelings do not arise in him he is sure a wonder and ought to be on exhibition.

The average woman lets a man think he is just the sort of chap she wants, until she has him hog-tied in the h. b. of m., and then she has a frank moment some time and lets him know just what kind of man she would like to have married.

By the time Friend Husband gets through comparing the preferred stock to himself, if he has any egotism left in him, he is a humdinger, that's all we've got to say about him.

But when the non-wedlock, unconventional method of coagulating is attempted, then things get balled up RIGHT.

The marriage ceremony could be vastly shortened into this:

"Join hands. Are you game?—the two of you?"

"We are—game as pebbles."

"Then go to it. If you've good sense and decency, you'll get along somehow. Otherwise, GOOD NIGHT! Ten dollars, please."

The Law's Injustice

"It ain't right, it ain't!" wailed the grouch, who had just returned from a visit to the country.

"What ain't right?"

"Why, the law makes it a capital offense to kill the smart aleck in a little town, just the same as it is to kill a regular human!"

The Ideal School Lunch

WHAT would be the ideal lunch for a child of six to fifteen years of age to carry to school?

Half a pint of certified or otherwise insured milk, in a vacuum bottle in the warmer season. Two thin slices of well-baked, preferably home-baked bread, spread with a thick layer of butter and generously topped off with sugar, preferably brown sugar. The two slices may be clapped together and wrapped in some waxed paper. And for dessert—an orange, an apple, a banana or any fresh fruit in season.

Every other day the child might carry some cold meat, perhaps two small sandwiches of scraped beef, chicken, mutton or bacon, instead of bread and butter and sugar. If meat and bread are carried, there is no need of milk. A drink of water would go better with meat. Of course no child under twelve should have any tea or coffee or cocoa, and it isn't necessary for any school child to carry these stimulants to school. On days when meat and bread takes the place of bread and butter and sugar, something in the way of sweets may be carried for dessert. A couple of small sugar cookies, or a piece of home-baked cake—no bakery stuff—or perhaps a stick of pure candy, about the only cheap candy that is fit to eat.

Pie, ham, tea, coffee, cocoa, puddings, sausage, any other than home-cooked meat or home-baked breadstuffs, have no place in the school-child's lunch.

Crackers, peas, beans, cheese, eggs and such preserves as the mother herself knows are wholesome, make suitable additions to the lunch.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Milkweed Again

J. F. G., B. R. and A. P. C. have written encomiums of the juice of milkweed as a cure for warts. They applied the juice to the warts for periods of many days on end. The warts disappeared many weeks later.

Answer—A fair illustration of human credulity. Warts come and go, uninvited and untreated, and if you happen to cross your fingers a few weeks before the going of a wart you have discovered a new cure. Milkweed would no doubt have a similar influence upon pneumonia, typhoid fever, sour stomach or a boil on the neck. People seem to think there must be some cure for everything—why doesn't some one market the Infallible Essence of Milkweed for Warts, Miseries, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh?

Method In Our Madness

When I first began to read your articles, writes Mrs. S. H. G., I was inclined to think you were mean, cranky, unfeeling, insincere. Now I never miss anything you have to say. Take it as a compliment from a sister of two doctors and a mother of a good surgeon that Health Talks have a respected hearing in our home. I have heard several persons remark that your humor and satire and delightful style combine to make one's ills lighter—and that means much.

Answer—If we laugh we laugh with the reader. The world is dull enough. One may find amusement and humor even in an attack of appendicitis.

Vaccine For Whooping-Cough

Our two older children have whooping-cough, and the two younger ones have been exposed. Will you please explain what you deem the best mode of treatment?

Answer—Have the doctor administer the whooping-cough vaccine all around, both as treatment and as preventive, and keep the children outdoors as much as possible, and make them abdominal belts with an insertion of elastic webbing, for support.

Perspiring Feet

What is the best local application for perspiring feet.

Answer—One good one is a solution of salicylic acid (one ounce) in alcohol (half pint)—apply once daily.

ON BILLS

THERE are a great many Bills in this nation who are greatly beloved, including Bill Taft, Bill Bryan, Bill White and others of almost equal size, both nationally and equatorially.

There are also a large number of Bills which aren't loved at all. They wear their last names first and include the well-known and despised Gas Bill, Grocer's Bill, Coal Bill, Overdue Bill and Millinery Bill. It is of these Bills and their ilk that we propose to speak.

This sort of Bill is a bigger nuisance than the mosquito bill and is much more serious. No screens or smudges can keep it out of the home. It cannot be settled by a slap of the hand. Cold weather has no effect upon it. It sneaks into a happy household by way of the mail-box; or when the sleepy citizen has drawn on a pair of window curtains and has stumbled down-stairs at 7 A.M. to answer the door-bell, it is waiting, in the hands of a collector, to pounce upon him and drain his pocketbook dry.

Bills arrive on the first of the month in vast flocks and remain persistently around, blocking off pleasure in the most hopeless manner. Many a new overcoat has been pushed forward a year by a burly ice bill. Many a hat bill has oozed craftily into the house just in time to slaughter a summer vacation; and many a dream with a bright blue automobile in it has been shattered by the arrival of a bill for last year's coal with hurry marks all over it.

Bills are remorse to the extravagant man, bloodhounds to the unfortunate man, nuisances to the prosperous man, and boon companions to the dead beat. A bill, next to a weed, is the quickest growing thing in creation. You can start a tiny bill at a department store and when it comes to visit you the next month it will have a tail like a comet.

A brand new bill is not disagreeable to have around, but its disposition sours very fast. A month-old bill is grieved when you meet it; a two months' old bill is surprised, a three months' old bill is indignant and a four months' old bill is a raging lion. Some people can live happily with bills three years old. But then other men live happily with bearded women, indigestion and a last year's bath. There is no accounting for tastes.

Next month it will have a tail like a comet

Bills are dangerous but not fatal and can be easily rendered entirely harmless. To dehorn a bill take a sum of money equal to the size of the bill and give it to the perpetrator of the latter. He will then stamp the bill on the face with the word "Paid" which renders it as harmless as a fly that has been stamped on the face with a flatiron.

Views Of The Press

A Good Editor

A GOOD editor, first of all, should be a limitless reservoir for receiving advice, yet receive it as the ocean takes the rivers, and still retain his own saline, individual flavor. He should aim to be understood rather than admired, and should desire a reputation for sense rather than philosophy. Wisdom is doubtless desirable, but effects its purpose quicker when clothed in the garb of wit. He should know how to say things. An editor must be a word artist, a cunning moulder of phrases. He must be Gothic and not classic in his word structures, with sharp cornices and friezes, with jagged and unsuspected towers. He must be interesting or be content with a small subscription list. A reader enjoys a shock better than a soporific and it is a nice question for ethics to settle whether it is not better to intoxicate than to drug a man. The American people read too much, and over-readers, like over-eaters, require much spice, pepper and condiment.

An editor should possess a superficial knowledge of all things, and should be able to use that knowledge at all times, without a moment's warning and without special effort. His pen should transcribe the image of his thought as quick as the sun casts a shadow. Rapidity is his golden virtue. The firstling of his heart must be the firstling of his hand, and he has no time to transform his thoughts in the alchemy of reflection. Lack of time must be his spur and the cry for "copy" his inspiration. He must be as healthy as an immortal god.—Alexandria Democrat.

"Your Men Due!"

Q. If you rent a furnished room to a person and then put him out for non-payment of rent, but keep his trunk and tools, how long must you keep the same before you can sell them if he does not pay up?

A. The statute of your state (Wisconsin) provide: "Every innkeeper, hotelkeeper and every keeper of a boarding-house shall have a lien upon and retain the possession of the baggage and effects of any guest, boarder or lodger for the amount which may be due him for board or lodging from such guest, boarder or lodger until such amount is paid." Every person having a lien of this character may, "in case such debt remain unpaid for three months and the value of the property affected thereby does not exceed $100, sell such property at public auction and apply the proceeds of such sale to the payment of the amount due him, and the expenses of such sale." But the statute further provides: "Notice in writing of the time and place of such sale and of the amount claimed to be due shall be given to the owner of such property personally or by leaving the same at his place of abode, if a resident of the State of Wisconsin, and, if not, by publication thereof once in each week, for three weeks successively, next before the time of sale, in some newspaper published in the county in which such lien accrues, if there be one, and if not, by posting such notice in three public places in such county. If such property exceed in value $100, then such lien may be enforced against the same by action in any court having jurisdiction."

An Odd Reason For Divorce

It was a Kansas City man, a veteran of the civil war, who applied to the courts for a separation from his helpmate and her numerous collection of cats and dogs. Not that he had any prejudice against "pets," as he informed the judge, but that they were eating him out of house and home, and even crowded him out of bed at night.

Fifteen Angora cats, kept in the kitchen of his home, were just fifteen too many for another plaintiff suing for a divorce.

An East St. Louis jury, after deliberating twenty-four hours, decided a woman could not obtain a divorce because her husband had given her a good spanking. There was no argument as to the soundness of the spanking, though it had been admitted that the spanking was a sound one.

Sand On Your Tracks

There are few happenings in this world that do not contribute in some way to some useful purpose—even misfortunes. Fate may overtake you to-day with evil intent and seem to be set against you. On the morrow you may be brought to realize that misfortune was but Fortune—simply wearing a mask.

The Irregularities of Chance are never permanent. And they are sure to bring balance and Power to the strong man on watch for them.

So, if frictions, misfortunes, criticisms, enmities come, let each and all merely act as Sand on your Tracks—to keep you steady and the more easily to hold to the track and move more powerfully ahead. This is one of the secrets of Getting There. Use what seem to be Barriers as Propellers and there will no longer be any Barriers.

Very little is ever accomplished by anyone until opposition begins to camp about and to load its guns.

Have you ever stopped to realize the tremendous value of keeping your life track sprinkled with Sand? Have you ever stopped to realize and be convinced that you can take the misfortunes and troubles and failures of your daily experiences and convert them into real motive power? Or, without thinking, are you letting these things break you up and slow you down? Remember—you can make all these things Sand on your Tracks, to give you Grip and Grit—and Glory.

A Song For December

When crows croak in the leaden sky
O'er prone gray field and spectral wood,
And all that greets thine ear and eye
Sends eerie echoes through thy blood,
Oh, close the door and come within
Where never winter's chill may win;
For here, my dear,
Proportioned to thy need of me
The measure of my love shall be.

When boding night winds snarl and moan
'Round gabled roof and frosted pane,
'Tis not our common hearth alone
That makes the winds' forebodings vain.
But those twin sparks of fire divine
It feeds from in thy heart and mine;
For here, my dear,
Thy need of me, my need of thee,
The measure of our love must be.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Bobbie Took His Squirrel to Walk With Him.

The Time For His Experiment Had Come.

"DO you know any more squirrel stories, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Lots of them!" cried daddy. "I know one about Bobbie."

"Goody! Goody!" sang out the children, clapping hands.

"You remember that each of the three children had a pet squirrel and that all three squirrels lived together in a wonderful cage with a wheel. Well, beside this home Bobbie made his pet a wonderful sort of a personal cage, so that he could go about all over Uncle Ben's farm with the boys and Bibbley Wah, the little girl."

"More, more, daddy!" cried Jack.

"Well, Bobbie had a little barrel about ten inches high. He carefully took out the head of it and tacked soft cotton all over the inside of the barrel. This made a comfortable, soft lining, you see."

"How could the squirrel get inside?" cried Evelyn.

"Wait and I'll tell you," daddy promised. "Before he put the head back on the little barrel he cut a hole in one side near the top, just like a window. Then he fastened the head back carefully.

"When his pet was tame enough to know him and eat nuts out of his hand and jump up on his shoulder when Bobbie clucked, he felt sure the time had come to try his experiment. So he opened the door of the big cage, held the barrel, window side up, in front of the door and waited. And what do you think his pet did?"

"Walked right into the barrel!" cried Jack.

"That's exactly what he did. The barrel was just big enough so that when he squatted down on the bottom of it his head came where the hole was. It was just as if he had sat down in front of a window."

"Wouldn't he jump out?" asked the children.

"He could have done so, but he never did. He seemed to love his cage which was something like a private carriage. For Bobbie would take it under his arm or put it in his coat pocket and, with a walnut and a pecan to keep his pet happy and busy, carry him about with him all the morning."

"Did Jim's squirrel have a barrel too?" asked Evelyn.

"Jim made him one, but he would never go inside it like Bobbie's pet would. It seems just as if squirrels have as many likes and dislikes as children have," daddy finished.

"That was a lovely story, daddy!" cried Evelyn. "If I give you two kisses and a big hug will you tell it again some night?"

And daddy smiled and took the kisses.

Household Hints

REPAIRING CHAMOISETTE GLOVES.

When the finger tips begin to go through turn the glove inside out and stitch the end finger on the machine; shortening each one enough to remove the worn spots. Then trim the seams and turn. This is quicker and neater than darning, does not shorten the fingers enough to be noticeable and lengthens the life of the glove several weeks.

TO KEEP WALL PAPER CLEAN.

To keep wall paper from becoming blackened from hot air furnaces, try this: Purchase as many wire dish drainers as you have registers, cover with thin, unbleached muslin, a few pins only being required to fasten the muslin covers; turn over registers. It is necessary to wash covers occasionally, but your paper and curtains will not be blackened. Wire dish drainers may be purchased at any 10-cent store.

TRANSPLANT PARSLEY.

Now is the time to transplant the parsley which has been growing in the garden. Fill a large crock for your use now and put one plant in each of several very small crocks. By the Christmas season these small plants will be well started and will make a beautiful as well as useful addition to any Christmas basket that is to be sent out.

PREPARING POPCORN.

Popcorn Muffins—Blend thoroughly one pint of sifted flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, one heaping tablespoon of butter and one pint of freshly popped and ground popcorn. Add one pint of milk and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour into hot buttered muffin rings and bake in hot oven until brown. Serve immediately.

Popcorn Fudge—One-half pint sweet milk, one and one-half pints brown sugar, one tablespoonful butter, one pint ground popcorn, one teaspoon vanilla. Cook first three ingredients until a soft ball forms when a little is placed in cold water. Add the popped and ground popcorn and vanilla and beat until creamy. Pour into buttered pans.

Popcorn Souffle—Into six well beaten eggs stir one cup of finely ground and popped corn. Add a pinch of salt and dash of pepper. Pour into hot buttered baking dish and place in hot oven until fluffy and brown. Remove gently from oven and serve at once before it falls.

Popcorn With Cheese—Mix together one quart of finely ground popcorn, one heaping tablespoon of flour and one cup of ground cheese. Pour into buttered baking dish, add salt, pepper and tablespoon of melted butter. Pour over it sufficient milk to cover and bake in hot oven until brown.

THE TABLE.

Mashed Chops—Six "Frenched" mutton chops, two tablespoons chopped ham, two potatoes, one egg, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, butter or drippings. Boil and mash potatoes, add chopped ham, salt, pepper; mix well. Heat pan. Put in drippings or butter. Sear chops on both sides. Heap on one side enough potato mixture to make a little mound. Dip chops in beaten egg to which a tablespoon of water has been added. Dust with crumbs. Fry slowly until brown. Stand them in center of a round dish, slip chop papers over bones, fill dish with hot peas (nicely seasoned) and send to the table.

Creamed Macaroni—Boil two cups macaroni broken into small pieces, until soft, then make following cream sauce: Two tablespoons butter blended with one tablespoon flour; add one tablespoon finely chopped sweet green pepper and one cup milk. Pour sauce over the macaroni and grate a little cheese over top. Serve hot.

Butter Beans With Onions—Boil until tender one quart of butter beans. Fry well about a half dozen large sliced onions. Add the beans to the onions and let all cook slowly in plenty of butter for a few minutes. Season well and serve very hot.

NEWS AND VIEWS
Conducted by THE W. C. T. U.

How Alabama is going to be reimbursed for the loss of money from saloon licenses is most satisfactorily answered in the report recently given out by Deputy Sheriff E. B. Knight, of Jefferson county, as reported in the Birmingham Ledger. "Five months under prohibition law have now elapsed, and the results are beginning to be very apparent. The decrease in crime in Jefferson county is clearly indicated by the jail records, which show a total number of State prisoners now in jail of 160, against 336 December 1, 1914, one year ago today, and this despite the fact that no 'straw bonds' are being taken, and that every care is taken to ascertain the absolute sufficiency of every bond approved."

This decrease of 176 prisoners, the Montgomery, Ala., Journal estimates, will save the State $52.80 each day, as the State pays thirty cents a day for feeding its prisoners in the Jefferson county jail. Multiplying this amount by thirty gives $1,584 as the amount saved each month; and multiplying it again by twelve, the number of months in the year, we find that $19,008 will be saved the county annually.

If a similar situation exists in a few other counties, the total saving will easily offset the license fees lost by prohibition.

Among the new governors who are willing to be classed in the ranks of the opponents of the liquor traffic is Hon. Samuel W. McCall, governor-elect of Massachusetts, who has given the following statement of his views on the subject.

"I devoutly wish I knew a cure for the disease of drunkenness, which is as ancient a plague as afflicts mankind. The great factor in securing temperance is the creation of a public sentiment in its favor. No effort should be spared in educating the people to its benefits. Alcohol destroys human energy. Our laws should increase in the direction of restraint to the very limit to which they will be supported by public opinion."

Effective answer to the charge made by the liquor interests that "Prohibition does not prohibit," is furnished by the report of Commissioner Osborn, of the Internal Revenue Department, for the fiscal year ending June 1, 1915. According to this report the manufacturers of both distilled and fermented liquors has very materially decreased. The production of distilled liquors, exclusive of fruit brandies, was 24,477,492.8 gallons less than for the preceding year. The figures for 1914 were 174,611,645 gallons, and for 1915, 132,134,152.2. There has been a decrease of 6,358,744 in the number of barrels of beer manufactured, the number of barrels for 1914 being 66,105,445, and for 1915, 59,746,701.

The only liquors showing an increased production are fruit brandies, with 8,521,951 taxable gallons this year, as against 7,307,897.2 gallons in 1914, an increase of 1,214,053.8 gallons.

For the first three months of this fiscal year, for which figures have also been made public, there is also a satisfactory decrease in the output of distilled and fermented liquors as compared with the corresponding three months of the previous year. Of fermented liquors the output for the first three months of the new fiscal year was 17,458,565 barrels as compared with 19,181,605 for the same months last year. Of distilled liquors there were withdrawn during the first three months of the current fiscal year 27,903,829 gallons, and for last year 38,456,420 gallons.

Edenton, N. C., was scheduled for a week of court the early part of December. The day for the opening of court arrived, and with it the solicitor and the judge. There was lacking only a criminal docket, for in this prohibition town there was not a single criminal case to be tried. As there was nothing for the grand jury to do, the jurors were discharged, and the time of the court was given to the consideration of minor civil cases.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

THE LOCOMOTIVE, THE COW AND THE LAWYER.
A Fable.

A spotted Holstein heifer once opposed a certain railway project, and was badly hit in the General Smash-up. In fact, for many weeks she could walk only on Three Legs, and for a while she was compelled to forego her customary Vernal Diversion of dancing on Tulip Patches and Onion Beds.

Whereupon the Holstein Heifer secured the services of an Able Attorney, and took out a suit against the Railroad Company for Ten Thousand Dollars as compensation for Injuries Suffered. Subpoenaed Witnesses galore, who testified that the Engineer neglected to sound the Whistle to warn her of the Train's Approach and give her an opportunity to save herself by frisking along ahead of the Engine. The Railroad Company also produced Witnesses, as numerous as a rich bachelor's heirs, who swore that the Whistle sounded so loud that they contemplated suing the Company for Producing Deafness.

The case finally went into the Jury's hands. Said the Jurors among themselves: "How many Witnesses did the Defendant produce?" "Eighty-six," answered those of the Twelve Peers who had kept a record of the Number. "Yes, and how many witnesses had the Plaintiff?" "Just Eighty-seven." "Then, Gentlemen," said the Jurors among themselves, "the Case is plain as a north and south Highway."

The Spotted Holstein Heifer received a verdict for Five Thousand Dollars, and began trying to work up a Milk Route in order to be able to pay her Witnesses for some Expert Testimony.

That same season the Able Attorney purchased a Summer Cottage for Five Thousand Dollars.

Moral—The Matter litigated is usually bad enough without mixing a lawyer up in it.

HIS PREFERENCE.

"Sportleigh is bound to be in style, isn't he?"

"Oh, yes! He'd rather be in style than out of debt!"

QUITE LIKELY.

Sunday-School Teacher—It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter heaven. Do you know why that is, Bobby?

Bobby—Yes, Ma'am! I s'pose it's 'cause a rich man always has so many women tagging after him!

A DRAWBACK.

The Captain—Oh, yes, this is the right boat! It's the most comfortable trip a newly-married couple cauld take except for just one thing.

The Groom—What is that?

The Captain—Well, of course, we can't get the other passengers to mind their own business.

NEW IDEA NOT WELL RECEIVED.

"Jonas, they keep furs in cold storage now."

"They do! Well I don't think we are going to take extra ice for that little scuffed-out rabbit-skin seal-collar of yours; I've got all I can do to meet the regular bills!"

WHY HE DID IT.

First Pickpocket—If you knowed he only had a nickel, it was hardly worth while pinchin' it.

Second Pickpocket—Oh! I tuk it on principle.

HIS MASCOT.

Mrs. Farmer—Why is it a big, strong man like you doesn't get work?

Tramp—Why, it's dis rabbit's foot, Mum! Dat's all wot saves me!

PERHAPS.

First Convict—De unions object to us doin' any kind of work dat competes wit' "honest labor."

Second Convict—May be dey'd be willin' to let us spend our time makin' burglars' tools.

ABSOLUTELY DEPENDABLE.

"Can you depend on what Bondword says?"

"You bet your life! Why, man, I've known him to quit a poker game loser just because he'd promised his wife he'd be home early!"

—Find the "likely-looking" ads. in today's classified columns—and solve that problem of yours.

ANIMAL DISCIPLINE

Wild Beasts Obey a Sort of Code of Military Tactics.

BABOONS AS REAL SOLDIERS.

They Post Sentries at Night and When Feeding and Have Front and Rear Guards When on the March—A Wild Horse Company In Battle Array.

In these days of general interest in things military it is interesting to know that certain animals are governed by what appear to be almost military regulations. Among animals only the gregarious, of course, show qualities of leadership and discipline.

Wild horses obey their leader more implicitly than any soldiers, however well disciplined. Mustangs are wary, difficult to approach and almost impossible to capture, owing to the devotion with which they follow their leader and to a code of signals that they never disregard.

A short, shrill neigh is a command to flee; a long drawn, far carrying neigh is the rallying call when the herd is scattered; a squeal orders the stallions to stand ready to fight off dangerous beasts, and a wild snort indicates the sight or scent of man. The snort of a mustang can be heard half a mile or more.

Certain movements are also important as signals. At the first hint of danger the horse that detects it throws his head and tail high in the air, stands motionless and gazes fixedly in the direction from which he anticipates trouble. Usually that is enough to put the entire herd on the alert. Should the enemy prove to be bears, wolves or any foe against which the drove can defend itself the "signal horse" dashes forward, prancing from side to side, rearing and striking the ground. Should their most dreaded enemy, man, be approaching the horse will circle far in toward the main body, and as he turns for one last look he will snort out a trumpet-like blast. Then with a rush, a roar and a clatter of hoofs the entire herd is gone—the leader in front, the stallions in the rear, the colts in the middle.

Even old, well trained work horses when turned out to pasture will generally select a leader and be governed by him. The herd commander may be an old and gentle mare or the wildest and wariest horse of the drove. In the latter case the herd often becomes almost as difficult to handle as so many wild horses, whereas the old mare will keep her drove in the most tractable condition.

The peccaries of Mexico have a battle cry that is never disobeyed—a short, vicious squeal, quickly repeated and kept up without ceasing. That noise drives the little beasts frantic, all within hearing rush to get into the fray, and nothing short of death stops their charge. If the hunter does not shoot his peccary so dead that it cannot emit a single dying squeal his only safety lies in instant flight.

The peccary has also a note that sounds the retreat. It is a grunt something like the "Woof, woof, woof!" of a bear as he dashes away from danger. An American guide who lives in Sonora, in Mexico, can imitate that note and says that he can stampede a gang of the brutes at will with it.

The baboons of Africa probably have the best military regulations of any of the animals. While they are feeding in a dangerous place they set sentries on every side—big, wise, veteran baboons that sit perfectly quiet and keep a vigilant watch. At a sharp bark of warning from one of these outposts every ape ceases his occupation, even the babies hush their cries on the instant. At another bark all may resume work or play, or again, the second note may carry a different message; then the leader gives an order, and all retreat rapidly to the denser parts of the forest.

When traveling these creatures have both a front and a rear guard. A half dozen powerful apes scout well in front of the main body, now inspecting the woods from the ground, now climbing to the tops of the tallest trees. If the traveler comes on a tribe of baboons he usually sees only one of the scouts, which bares his teeth savagely, barks once and is gone. Farther away the hunter may observe the whipping of branches, as the rest of the tribe retreat so rapidly that no man can overtake them. Should the observer happen upon the rear guard, he will observe that they behave differently from the scouts. Not silent or cautious, they constantly give quick, sharp commands, now angrily chiding some lagging youngster or giving another a slap and a bite.

As far as we know the baboons are the only apes or other animals that post a sentry at night. Commonly they sleep in caves among the cliffs, and when all have retired to rest you may be sure that one of their number will be wide awake, sitting on some exposed rock or other point of vantage, from which he can see in every direction. Not even the leopard, the most determined foe of the baboon, dares to attack them at night unless he can surprise and kill the sentry. When attacked they will fight in defense of their families until the last "man" is dead.—Youth's Companion.

Innovation.

"Bliffins has a scheme for getting rich. Says it's sure to work."

"Well, it will do more than he ever did."—Judge.

The John Wanamaker Store

Tomorrow at 7.30 in the Morning Opens the Great Winter Sale of Men's Clothing

That Challenges the Attention of All Thinking Men

6,565 suits and 6,234 overcoats; fancy and staple fabrics of all good kinds—worsteds, cassimeres, cheviots, vicunas; blues, blacks, grays, browns and mixtures; more than 500 patterns; many of the overcoats silk-lined.

Made by twenty-one of the country's foremost manufacturers—in New York, Rochester, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston.

Most of the merchandise received within two weeks and not before on sale; the other is our own stock still selling today at the higher prices; reduced tomorrow to meet the new standard of value this sale sets. Our entire stock of fancy business suits and winter overcoats (English overcoats, fur and fur-lined overcoats and ulsters excepted) is included.

All made from fabrics and patterns we selected, over proved Wanamaker models and according to Wanamaker standard of making—the highest in ready-to-wear in the country.

All offered at the remarkable prices quoted on this page.

Yet guaranteed as though you paid full price—fabric, make, lining, satisfaction.

And no charge for alterations

The sale is clean through and through. There is nothing murky, misty nor musty about it.

The fabrics are clean and good. The tailoring is clean and well-done. The clothing is cleanly made, inside as well as outside.

And best of all—labor has received full pay for every stitch that went into the clothing; better still, labor has been kept in work when work ordinarily is slack.

The savings are clean, because they come out of these sources:

(1) From owners of piece goods, who had on hand a surplus and found it good business to dispose of them in lump lots for cash and begin the new year fresh. Some of the fabrics were acquired six months ago; we have been watching and taking advantage of the market since last Spring.

(2) From the twenty-one manufacturers, with whom we deal regularly, and from ourselves, who join hands and shave profits to do a big thing; to render a big service.

Individual saving on suits of $4 to $21.50; on overcoats of $2.50 to $45.50.

Yes, there are $70 overcoats for $24.50. Our own stock. Marked $70 today—here—their fellows sold for $70.

And there are 60 of these $70 overcoats to go for $24.50—and 557 more $50, $55 and $60 overcoats for $24.50—who will get them?

There are $45 suits for $23.50—186 of them when the store opens tomorrow at 7.30 in the morning; and 517 more $40 and $42 suits for $23.50.

These, of course, are the very remarkable things in the sale, but they are here, for early comers, and they are not in meagre quantities, except in comparison with the tremendous figures of the whole sale.

The table of grades, prices and quantities (at the foot of this page) tells the whole story — fully, exactly, fairly. It presents a complete analysis of the sale.

The statement of grades identifies the quality of each garment—Wanamaker rating. The statement of quantities shows exactly the number of garments at each grade. The prices show the economies.

These figures are taken from the duplicate orders given to manufacturers, and from our own stock sheets, both of which are compared with the bills and the actual garments as they come into the store and are inspected.

There is no guess-work. No hit-or miss claims. No claim of value at all. Merely a statement of facts.

Come to see, anyway, even though you may be skeptical of clothing sales.

Men from other stores in New York will come; men from other stores in Boston and as far away as Chicago will come—just to see.

We know this because they came other years, and some have already told us they are coming again.

Men will come from as far away as Rochester and Buffalo—to buy.

Alterations free.

Looking and asking questions—free. No one will button-hole you. No one will urge you.

But anyone — not busy — will serve you, if you ask.

Our selling force has been increased seven times over.

The selling space has almost been doubled.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THE HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of hot water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly haemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexion; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a merrie, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

WILL DESCRIBE GREAT CONFLICT

Dr. Howard W. Beal to Address Boy Scouts on Value of Preparedness.

EXHIBITION IS PLANNED

Distinguished Speaker Will Bring Actual First Hand Observation in the Trenches on Western Front of European War.

The value of adequate national preparedness as seen by actual first-hand observation in the trenches on the western front of the great conflict now raging abroad will be described in this city at the Plainfield High School auditorium on Wednesday evening of January 12, by Dr. Howard W. Beal, the man who was called to England by the titled American women of that country to take charge of the hospital and general Red Cross work by the American Women's War Relief Fund. Dr Beal comes here en route to report his observations as a regular American army officer to the American Red Cross Congress in Washington, and has consented, through the personal influence of Edward Harding, chairman of the finance committee of the local Boy Scout Council, to stop off in this city to give a gratuitous lecture to the Boy Scouts in particular, and people of Plainfield in general, on subject of national preparedness.

Just before his departure for this country Dr. Beal received the personal thanks of King George and Queen Mary for the excellent work he rendered among the wounded. He was also given a large loving cup by the women of the War Relief in recognition of his splendid service. Just before he sailed Sir William Osler tendered Dr. Beal a luncheon in London, at which he received the personal thanks of twenty-five of the leaders of the medical and surgical profession in England.

Dr. Beal twice visited the trenches on the western front, and had plenty of opportunity to form conclusions as to the actual conditions from his own observation as well as from the close contact he had with men in England who had just came from the front. He had wonderful opportunity of studying the value of the Boy Scout work in Red Cross and other helpful and constructive capacities, and his presence here is mainly to tell the story of the importance of the Boy Scout in times of national crises in constructive service. He has lately been the guest of Mr. Harding at his home in Terrill road, and as such has heard considerable about the plans of the local scout council in mapping out a plan of useful and practical work along the line of preparedness among the local boy scouts next summer. It is his interest in the local scout movement aroused by Mr. Harding that he was induced to make the stop over here.

The meeting will be open without fee to all the people of Plainfield, but particulary to the Boy Scouts and to Company K, N. G. N. J., and to the Plainfield Battalion.

Dr. Beal has expressed considerable interest in the work done by the Boy Scouts in this city, and, in order to give him an opportunity of seeing this feature of the scout activities, Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., First Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprowl, Second Deputy Commissioner F. E. Bach and other officers of the local scout movement, are co-operating with the scoutmasters to have an exhibition in the hall of bridge building, wireless, Red Cross work, signalling, equipment, field telephony and scout workmanship and a complete photographic display of scout field work by Paul R. Collier.

At the meeting of the scout council on Monday evening an invitation will be extended to all the members of the council to serve as a special committee of welcome, and in addition a number of prominent men have been invited to serve in that capacity.

PLANT GUILD TO MEET ON FRIDAY, JANUARY 14

The Young People's Society of the Christian Endeavor of the Trinity Reformed church, led by Miss Marie C. Hahn, will conduct the opening devotional exercises at the monthly meeting of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild, Friday evening, January 14. The meeting will be held at 7:45 o'clock in the Friends Meeting House, at Watchung and Third street. Dr. Birnie S. Hudson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will deliver a short address.

All members of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., are earnestly requested to meet in the lodge room on Thursday, January 6, 1916, at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of attending the funeral of Dr. Henry H. Lowrie, past master. T. C. Vail, master.—Adv.

APPEAL OF SEWER BOARD NOT HEARD

Middlesex Tax Assessing Body Adjourns Until January Seventeen.

There was no hearing on the appeal of the Joint Sewer Board of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen from assessments made by the assessor of Middlesex county at the meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Tax Assessors, held in Lincoln yesterday. Because of the illness of the tax assessor the matter was allowed to go over until the next meeting of the Board, which will be held January 17, at New Brunswick. The appeal is being made because the Joint Sewer Board believes that assessments of sewer property in Middlesex borough are unfairly high. Real estate is assessed at $27,000 and personal property at $11,700.

EATON AND BLANKENBURG INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Warren S. Eaton, formerly an aviator with Lincoln Beachey, and Leopold Blankenburg, a mechanic, who were arrested in November after an attempt had been made to steal the plans of the new Day-Sloane model aeroplane from the factory of the Sloane Aeroplane Company, at Bound Brook, were yesterday indicted for conspiracy and larceny by the Grand Jury of Middlesex county at New Brunswick.

At the time of the arrest of the men by John E. Sloane, of this city, president of the company, they were leaving the factory, and it is alleged they had certain aeroplane plans in their possession. Mr. Sloane is a son-in-law of Thomas A. Edison, and since the above incident the factory has been removed to North avenue, this city.

PICTURES OF OLD NASSAU GIVEN

Princeton Club Present Set of Photos to Westfield and Cranford High Schools.

$50 PRIZE IS AWARDED

Dale Warren, of This City, Honored for Passing Entrance "Exam" With Best Marks—Scholastic Tournament to Be Held in the Fall.

The Princeton Club, of Plainfield, is continuing its activities this year along the lines of previous years. At the December meeting of the executive committee it was decided to offer to the high schools of Westfield and Cranford a set of Princeton photographs handsomely mounted, and the president of the clubb, Samuel T. Carter, Jr., was asked to correspond with the principals of the two schools in question to ascertain whether such a gift would be acceptable.

At an executive committee meeting of the club held on Monday evening at the home of Duncan Taylor, Mr Carter reported that both schools had accepted with pleasure the gift of the pictures, and they were accordingly directed to be sent at once.

For some years past the Princeton Club has given a prize of $50 to the boy entering Princeton from Plainfield without conditions and with the highest marks for entrance. Albert Beers, the secretary of the club, reported to the executive committee that he had been advised by the Princeton authorities that Dale Warren had passed without conditions and with the best marks. The committee accordingly awarded the $50 prize to Mr. Warren.

The committee further decided to take the Plainfield schoolboys to Princeton at some athletic event in May, as heretofore, the exact date to be determined later, and it was also decided to hold in the fall the customary Princeton scholastic tournament at the Country Club. Elliott Laidlaw was appointed chairman of the committee having this matter in charge.

TROOP HEADQUARTERS WILL REMAIN HERE

Governor Fielder Following Hearing Decides Not to Revoke Previous Order.

Governor James F. Fielder, following a hearing in his office at Jersey City this morning, decided not to revoke his previous order transferring the headquarters of Troop D Cavalry, N. G. N. J., from Hoboken to Plainfield, and therefore the headquarters will be retained in this city. Captain Borden and First Sergeant Sherman B. Joost, of the Plainfield contingent, appeared for the purpose of having the first order made permanent, while Corporal Seiden and several other members from Hoboken, argued for the transfer of the headquarters back to Hoboken.

Governor Fielder, after hearing both sides, stated that he felt satisfield that the move to transfer the headquarters to Plainfield was for he best interest of the troop, and therefore decided not to revoke the order.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. MILLIKEN IS HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Milliken, wife of Elias Milliken, was held at the late home, 1810 West Front street, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, pastor of the Methodists church, Dunellen, of which Mrs. Milliken was a member, officiated, assisted by Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, Dunellen.

There were many floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery, this city, and the pall-bearers were William Milliken, of Brooklyn; Thomas Milliken, of New York, and Edward Milliken, of this city, sons of the deceased, and John Milliken, of Bound Brook, a nephew.

CHAS. MILLIKEN'S CONDITION.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 at the home of Miss Cook, 144 Crescent avenue.

ERNEST R. ACKERMAN APPOINTED DELEGATE

Will Represent Cement Industry at Gathering in Washington Next Month.

A signal honor has been conferred upon former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, by the Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers. Mr. Ackerman received word yesterday that he has been appointed a delegate to the United States Chamber of Commerce, whose sessions begin at Washington and continue through February 7, 8 and 9, to represent the entire cement industry of the country at these meetings. Mr. Ackerman, however, is an individual member of this body. He goes to the session with the endorsement of the national cement organization in favor of an adequate merchant marine.

Since his appearance before the International Trade Conference in New York a condition of freight embargo has developed at all points along the Atlantic Seaboard that emphasizes more than anything else possibly could the importance of establishing at the earliest possible moment an adequate merchant marine if this country is to gain permanent markets for its maximum productive mill capacity. His interest has given a healthy start to the national movement for proper shipping facilities for American manufacturers and the appointment by the national cement manufacturers is in recognition of the interest he has taken in this subject.

ELKS' SERVICE FOR BENJAMIN LAVERE

Plainfield Lodge Conducts Last Sad Rites in Compliance With His Request.

Complying with one of his last requests, members of the local Elks gathered in large numbers at the clubhouse on Watchung avenue this afternoon to hold the lodge funeral service over the body of Benjamin LaVere, the departed brother whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday morning. Exalted Ruler Alfred A. Prudhon and his brother officers were in charge and beside the members of the order there were many other relatives and friends. Past Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon delivered the eulogy, in the course of which he referred to the fact that "Benny" LaVere had given of the talent that was in him. That which had been made his by right of birth was not lost, being always at the disposal of those who were in need of it and whose lives were made brighter by it. A trio composed of Joseph C. Martin, Edward Harding and Bertram F. Tallamy sang two selections, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me." Arthur Titsworth acted as organist.

The great quantity of floral tributes included handsome set pieces from Plainfield Lodge of Elks, Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the local Musicians' Union. At the close of the service the body was taken to Rahway where interment is to be made in the family plot. The casket was born from the lodge room to the conveyance by six brother Elks, Messrs. Walter Apgar, A. D. Jennings, George Ballentyne, William Townsend, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Alfred A. Prudhon.

HEALTH BOARD REVIEWS WORK

More Than 11,000 Inspections Were Made During the Year 1915.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Better Regulations for the Handling of Foodstuffs Are to Be Enforced in Plainfield—Other Reforms Are Recommended.

More than 11,000 examinations were made during the year of 1915 by the local Board of Health, according to its annual report, submitted to members of the Common Council at the special meeting of Monday night.

The death rate of the city for the year was 13.13, which, although not so low as last year, shows a gradual increase.

A feature of the report is the recommendations that are made for activities of the Board for the coming year. They follow:

"The Board greatly desires to take up the following important new work during the year if the appropriation permits:

"The control of infant mortality and spread of infectious diseases. At the present time the Board is severely handicapped in this work owing to the fact that the appropriation is not sufficient to permit of the employment of a Board of Health nurse. This work cannot be carried on in an up-to-date manner unless a competent nurse is engaged, and we feel that Plainfield is considerably behind other cities of its size in this respect.

"When asking for an appropriation of an additional $500 last year the Board had it in mind to use this amount, as far as it would go, in nursing work. Your honorable body did not see your way clear to grant our request, although the same amount was appropriated to the poor department, and through it to the Nursing Bureau. Unfortunately, we were unable to make a satisfactory arrangement with the Nursing Bureau for the services of a nurse, and we could not carry out our plan. We have no criticism of the zeal and good

BUSINESS MEN TO OCCUPY NEW STORES

H. L. Viebrock and Moraller Brothers Plan Changes of Location.

Announcement was made today of two important business removals, practically resulting from the sale of the Vanderbeek building, at North and Park avenues. Henry L. Viebrock, who has conducted a grocery in the building at 217 Park avenue, now owned by the State Trust Company, will remove in February to William Van Sickle's building at 122 North avenue. The latter store is to be made strictly up to date for its new occupant.

The premises to be vacated by Mr. Viebrock will undergo extensive alterations, one of which will probably be the extension of the front in order to conform with the building lines of property on either side. After these are completed the store will be occupied by Moraller Brothers, the jewelers, who have been in business in the Vanderbeek building next door for many years. Their new store will be made to conform with their ideas of an un-to-date jewelry emporium, paying especial attention to modern show windows, entrance way and display room.

As previously announced, the Daily Press will vacate the Vanderbeek building in February to move to the Galbraith building on North avenue, and Councilors William N. Runyon and V. W. Nash, Jr., who have had their law offices on the second floor of the Vanderbeek structure, will remove this month to the Depew building, on the opposite corner of North and Park avenues, where commodious quarters are being prepared for them. The only other tenants in the Vanderbeek building, T. S. Armstrong, the druggist, on the ground floor, and the Plainfield Trap Rock Company on the second floor, both forced to move because of the State Trust Company's plans to erect a new home for itself, have not yet announced where they will move.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES.

Two still alarms were received at fire headquarters last night, both of them being for chimney fires. No damage occurred in either case. The first call came at seven thirty from the home of Thomas M. Day, at 648 West Eighth street and the second at 7:58 from C. O. Holmes, of 712 Berkeley avenue. Apparatus from headquarters took care of the Day fire and No. 4 company of Netherwood answered the Holmes alarm.

CLERK DOLLIVER IS HONORED BY FRIENDS

Members of Election Board Present Him With Silk Umbrella.

Retiring Clerk Charles M. Dolliver, who has been in office in the borough of North Plainfield for the past four years, was yesterday presented with a handsome silk umbrella by members of the Borough Board of Elections The presentation came as a surprise to Mr. Dolliver. He was called to the police station yesterday evening, and the purpose of his visit was not explained. When he arrived he found members of the Election Board assembled there, and David C. Allen explained to him that they wanted to make a little gift to show their appreciation of his courteous treatment during his term of office. Mr. Dolliver expressed his thanks in a happy speech.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS ARE CONGRATULATED

Burleson Sends Out Letter on Work Done During the Holidays.

Postmaster A. E. Hoagland has received a copy of the following letter sent to all men in the service:

Reports at hand show that the postal service handled during the holiday period just past a volume of mail greatly in excess of the largest estimated possible increase over that for the same period last year. That this immense volume of mail—in some places 5 per cent. above that for the year before—was handled promptly and without congestion or delay, is due to the loyalty, energy and co-operation of the entire force of the service, who, in the emergency that confronted them, gave every resource at their command. The result reflects great credit upon the service, but most of all upon those who, by their efforts and self-sacrifice, made the result possible. To each of those I desire to extend my personal thanks and congratulations and my best wishes for a happy and successful New Year.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster-General.

ELKS WILL CALL ROLL AT MEETING TONIGHT

The regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elgs scheduled for this evening will be of more than usual interest from the fact that it has been designated as "roll call" night. Every member is supposed to be present and answer to his name when the roster is called by Secretary Townsend, but if unable to attend because of illness or other causes, must send a message or note. It is believed that there will be a big turnout with something like an old time reunion.

The house and entertainment committees have been uniting to arrange a suitable program. A feature of this will be the conferring of the second degree in the initiatory work which has not been used in a number of years. It was a part of the regular ceremonies when the lodge was first organized, but owing to a change in the constitution of the order was eliminated. Many of the newer members have never seen it done and two candidates have voluntarily offered their services for the demonstration.

CONSIDER THE UNION OF CHRISTIAN CHURCHES

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this city, and Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Gardiner, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, were among those present at what perhaps was the most remarkable gathering of clergymen and Christian laymen which ever took place in the history of the world, which opened yesterday afternoon at Garden City, L. I. It was an informal conference to consider the uniting of all the Christian churches in the world. Twent different communions were represented and the session was called by the Commission of Faith and Order of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The most significant happening at the session last evening was the reading of a letter from Cardinal Peter Gasparri, Secretary of State at the Vatican. This letter was interpreted by the almost one hundred delegates to be a promise of approval and co-operation from Pope Benedict.

WILSON WAITING FOR ALL FACTS

Will Not Act on Sinking of Persia Until He Can Make Positive Move.

CONGRESS BUTTS IN

Members Want to be Called Into Consultation Before Note is Sent, But This is Not Probable—Cabinet Not Called.

Washington, D. C., January 5.—Determined to take positive action when he does move, President Wilson is waiting patiently until all facts concerning the sinking of the Persia are in hand before he addresses a note to any of the central powers that may have been guilty of torpedoing the British liner and causing the loss of at least one American life, that of Consul Robert McNeeley.

Congress wants a hand in the affair, and it is feared that activities on the part of Senators and Representatives may complicate matters. President Wilson is keeping members of the Senate and House committees on foreign affairs in touch with all new developments, but he has not called them into consultation, and has not called a meeting of the Cabinet.

Secretary Lansing has sent instructions to American Consuls at all ports where information may be obtainable to secure affidavits and forward them to the State Department at once. It is not probable that an American note will be sent out until it is determined whether an Austrian or German submarine sank the Persia.

Washington does not officially know that the Persia was torpedoed. It has official knowledge of the sinking of the liner, also a message from its representative in Alexandria stating that Consul McNeeley was probably drowned, but so far no evidence that a torpedo caused the catastrophe has been filed.

Senators Postpone Meeting.

No meeting of the Senate foreign relations committee will be held today. Senator Stone, chairman, having decided it is best to postpone consideration of the pressing matters before the committee until a full membership can be in attendance.

Conscription Bill Is Up.

Van Fleet, who was a carpenter by trade, had only been in the employ of Gabriell & Schall for three days. He was oiling the bearings of the line shafting when he slipped and his clothing caught on the shafting. He was picked up bodily and whirled around and around. When the machinery was finally stopped all of the clothing had been practically torn from Van Fleet's body. His chest was crushed in, he had a deep gash over one eye and one leg was broken. An ambulance was at once summoned from the hospital and he was removed there as speedily as possible.

BOARD REVIEWS WORK

work being done, but it appears to us that a closer co-operation between all the organizations doing medical investigation and nursing would result in even better work and greater economy, that the ground might be more thoroughly covered and duplication of effort avoided. It further appears to us that the logical head of such a bureau is the health department.

"The department expects to formulate better regulations for the handling of foodstuffs, and to require a certificate of health from all persons handling food in hotels and restaurants; also, from candy, ice cream and sausage makers, and all other persons employed in the handling or manufacture of foodstuffs; this same requirement of health certificates will be made concerning barbers, hairdressers and persons engaged in similar occupations.

"The Board hopes to be able to further safeguard the health of the community by preventing the misbranding of foodstuffs and drugs.

"The following recommendations are respectfully made:

"That the Common Council consider the proposition of the disposal of garbage and refuse. A full report from the joint committee of the Common Council and Board of Health will be found in the annual report of 1914, and it is greatly desired that this year some action be taken which will enable the city to care for the disposal of garbage and refuse.

"That each summer, when Green brook contains little or no water, it be thoroughly cleaned by the city: it seems that this could be readily accomplished through the joint action of the street departments of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

"That public comfort stations be established at convenient points in the city. This is a matter of decency as well as health, and an up-to date measure which our city cannot afford to overlook.

"That the matter of a contagious disease hospital be again considered. Muhlenberg Hospital is not properly equipped to handle these cases, and a serious condition is likely to result at any time on this account:

The following table will show the total number of inspections made during the year 1915:

Number of inspections in connection with milk supply	992
Number of inspections in connection with food supply	1,096
Number of inspections in connection with nuisances	1,909
*Number of inspections in connection with general work	4,848

ANNUAL MEETING FEATURED BY DINNER

Temple Baptist Bible School Elects, Receives Reports And Listens to Address.

The annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the Temple Baptist Bible School was held in the Baraca class room of the church last night, being preceded by a dinner at which all of the officers and teachers were present except two who were unable to attend. The dinner feature was a new departure and was so much enjoyed that it will probably become an annual affair. The dinner was served by the Non-Quit Circle, a class of young women in the school.

The reports were most encouraging, the school having attained a high standard of efficiency. Although not large in numbers, no part of the work has been neglected. This is one of the few schools in Union county that received not only the ten points of excellence, the county standard, but as well the gold international standard seal. The treasurer's report showed that all bids were paid and there is a small balance on hand. The past year's expenditures were about $600.

These officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, L. W. Randolph, who is beginning his twenty-fifth year in this office, being chosen when the school was first started; assistants, George E. Hall and Frank Stewart; secretary, Harry Bouton; treasurer, C. J. Utzinger; pianist, Miss Bessie Carson; representative of adult department on executive committee, U. B. Crane; department superintendents, primary, Mrs. Evarts C. Conover; junior and intermediate, Mrs. Edward Baker Jr.; home, Mrs. A. Pierson; standing committees, missionary, Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., chairman; prayer meeting, Frank Stewart, chairman; social George E. Hall, chairman; decoration, Charles Griffen, chairman.

The guest of honor for the evening was the newly-elected president of the State Sunday School Association, Joseph H. Wright, of Trenton. Mr. Wright is the superintendent of a Bible school in Trenton having a membership of about 1,400. He spoke of his own personal experience giving not only a pleasant, but profitable talk, showing not only how to have an efficient school, but how to carry out the slogan of the State Association, "More scholars won to Christ during the year." The year opens full of promise for the Temple Baptist Bible school.

If Your Baby is Handicapped

with a Delicate Digestion

Do not Add to his Trouble by Improper Diet

IMPERIAL GRANUM

the unsweetened FOOD

For Babies is easily Digested

and Rich in Health-giving Nourishment

"As I could not nurse my baby I was feeding him condensed milk, and he was losing in weight daily. He was born with stomach trouble. We had the doctor for him, and tried all kinds of different foods, but he did not gain on any of them. I thought I would give Imperial Granum a trial. I have used it for three weeks now, and I can see he is gaining every day. He has stopped vomiting, and is in good health."

A Galley o' Fun!

THE DIFFERENCE.

He loved his fellow men with a deep, abiding, self-sacrificing affection, and wore off his excess adiposity, ruined his eyesight, and at last caused himself to be inserted into an untimely grave, by digging deeply into the whys and wherefores of life, seeking ways and means whereby he might make those around him better and happier; and everybody called him Old What's-his-name, laughed merrily at his quaint, absent-minded eccentricities, and rudely opined that his intellectual belfry was infected with bats almost as large as condors, the while they respectfully designated as "Professor" a low-browed, wedged shaped man who made a business of smiling indifferently while a 50-pound rock was smashed on his constitution with a sledge-hammer. Thus runneth the average mind, my children.

NOT AN EXTREMIST.

"Dis hyah new minister ought ter be popular. He seems ter hab lib'ral views on the chicking queschun."

"He do, eh?"

"Yes. He says he's knowed some purty good men what done lubbed dere neighbor's chickings as dere own."

FULLY OCCUPIED.

You must wake and call me early,
call me early, Lizzie dear;
For tomorrow'll be the busiest day of all this busy year.
Of all my busy days, Lizzie—and,
goodness knows circumstances have kept me going at a pretty larruping lively lick most of my life—the busiest up to date,
For I must hustle, Lizzie, to keep my grin on straight.

I've worked so blamed hard at it I know I'll never wake Unless you call me loudly when the day begins to break.
They are coming on the morrow—
Niece Luella, who eloped last week with a chap who has never done anything more meritorious than to dance divinely—and a giddy, gladsome bunch;
I must greet them with the placid smile of Grimalkin after lunch.

Luella writes real sweetly; to forgive she's now inclined
All my opposition—I didn't know my mind!
She'll arrive here in the morning—and the fellow she married actually puts up his blond front hair in curl papers!—of tomorrows' fateful day,
And bring the bridegroom with her for a nice, long, joyous day.

So be sure to wake me early; wake me early, Lizzie dear.
Break up my matin slumbers though you drag me by the ear.
For our kinfolks and relations—including Cousin Ezra Differdaffer who scoffs at my views on the Initiative and Referendum, and his wife who is interested in psychic matters, and their children, all of whom have elocutionary talent—have announced that they will come
To help me greet the happy pair and bid them welcome home.

And the Glee Club's coming over, with the poet of our town,
To entertain the prodigals and do the thing up brown.
Tomorrow I must wear a smile—in spite of all I have hereinbefore set forth, together with the fact that I have a note coming due and a touch of the rheumatism already here—
the whole enduring day,
And beam like a gosh-darned Peri, also like a Queen o' the May.

AS TO THE ANCIENT MARINER.

"Queer old salt, isn't he?"

"How?"

"Why, he never says 'shiver my timbers' or anything like that—swears just as you and I do."

UNEARTHING A FOSSIL.

A Delicate Task Demanding Great Care and Preparation.

When the bed of a fossil is found the serious work begins. In many beds the bones are without any infiltrated filling, so that, though perfect in form, they are soft and fragile. To remedy this defect a coat of shellac is applied and allowed to soak in. Then a second and third, and often more, are put on, until the sandstone, or matrix, and bone cease to take up shellac. As soon as the bone has hardened strips of cloth are dipped in flour paste and adjusted to make a firm bandage. When dried in this stage the whole is firm enough to work around, and the adjacent rock is gently removed, leaving the specimen on somewhat of a pedestal.

The preparation and the work of quarrying take three or more days of careful, patient work. Then finally the slab containing the bones and hardened with shellac is wrapped in straw and shipped to the institution which is to receive them. To take the bones from the slab and prepare them for mounting require all the patience and skill of a master mechanic. Very carefully, often with the finest of dental tools, it is necessary to dig away the sandstone covering the bones.

The work becomes more delicate as the fragile bones appear. As soon as exposed to the air the pulverized mass is given a coat of shellac, and this process is continued until it becomes firm and durable. After the preparator has the material in working shape he must add the missing parts, restoring them with plaster. This requires a careful study of other prehistoric bones. The skeleton is then mounted, a work which is comparatively easy as regards the fixing process.—Argonaut.

DANGER IN MUSHY FOODS.

They Affect the Saliva and Lack Necessary Mineral Elements.

If you want to prevent your teeth from decaying keep your saliva alkaline. The saliva has two functions, the first of which is to saturate the food while it is being chewed and to prepare it for the action of the gastric juice. The second, and no less important, is to keep the teeth and the cavities of the mouth clean.

In an article in the Medical Review of Reviews T. Benedict Furniss says that we have got so far away from natural life that only five persons in 100 have alkaline saliva.

Chewing stimulates the salivary glands. Soft, starchy, mushy foods from which the mineral salts have been extracted, need little or no chewing, so the salivary glands are not stimulated. And they do not supply the mineral elements that are necessary to the fluids of the body. Such foods stick between the teeth and in the recesses of the mouth, where they ferment and decay and become the breeding ground for bacteria. The bacteria generate acids which eat away the substance of the teeth, making holes in which more food lodges, and so the evil process goes on.

The normal alkaline saliva is one of the best of the protectors of the body against the attack of bacteria. Not only is the saliva slightly bactericidal, but its alkalinity counteracts the acids produced by these bacteria.

Starchy foods should always be accompanied by fruits or berries, for the acid in these has the peculiar property of changing to an alkali in the body, and besides, they are the best of stimulants for the salivary glands.

Bears.

Bears vary in price, the most expensive being the polar bears, which cost about $150. Most of the arctic expeditions bring back polar bears and, notwithstanding the heat, they are happy and contented in captivity. Native bears are much cheaper. One member of the bear family in Bronx park, New York, is a spectacle bear, so called because of the makeup about the eyes. He comes from South America and was a present from a private individual, being as far as is known the only specimen in captivity.—Boston Herald.

A City Once Too Loyal.

Bristol has always been a loyal city and once displayed its loyalty to its own eminent disadvantage. When Henry VII. paid the city a visit in 1490 the citizens turned out in such style to welcome him that the miserly monarch, casting an eye upon the finery displayed, promptly levied an impost of £20 on each inhabitant "because their wives went too fine."—London Chronicle.

The Lamp of a Man's Life.

Dr. Holmes said the lamp of a man's life has three wicks—brain, blood and breath—and to turn down any one of them makes the other two go out. The wounds a man will survive and even disregard so long as his head, heart and lungs are unhurt have long been one of the wonders of war history.

Voltaire and the Doctors.

Voltaire despised doctors and like Macbeth, thought it well to "throw physic to the dogs." The French author once said, "A physician is a man who pours drugs of which he knows little into the body of a man of which he knows less."

Attentive.

"Is Watson still paying attention to that widow he was courting two years ago?"

"You bet he is. They are married now, and he has to pay strict attention to everything she says."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WORDS IN FETTERS.

Many Expressions That Are Slaves to the Tyranny of Custom.

There is no bondage more galling than that of custom, and it is inescapable also. Words which by nature have a wide latitude of real and metaphorical meaning are fettered to a single significance by the custom of using them more commonly in one way than in another.

When it was announced that a preacher had been sued for "breach of promise" every one at all interested in the case immediately assumed that he had declined to marry a woman whom he had agreed to make his wife. As he had a wife already, there were the elements of a scandal in the report. But it seems that the minister is not accused of breaking his promise to marry, but his promise to pay certain sums of money in a business contract. "Breach of promise," however, is chained so securely to the post of a single meaning that it connotes but one idea in the popular mind.

"Elope" is another word that is not free. It means merely to run away, but only people who run away to marry surreptitiously are allowed to elope. "Notoriety" is simply the state of being known. A notorious man, however, is a man of bad reputation. "Suggestiveness" likewise means merely having the ability to suggest, but it is used in a bad sense. And "criticism," however much it would like to describe friendly as well as hostile comment, finds itself unable to convey any meaning save that of faultfinding. The number of such slaves might be multiplied indefinitely to prove that words are but symbols that mean what we agree they shall mean and not what their ancestry would justify us in supposing that they do mean.—Philadelphia Ledger.

BIG PULL OF THE ROBIN.

To See It at Its Strongest Watch Him Get Breakfast.

Relatively speaking, the robin has more pull than the wiliest politician that ever drew breath or a contract. We mean, of course, in comparison to their sizes. By similar comparison, he's stouter than a 100 horsepower stump puller or a steel magnet. If you want to see him test his strength get up early some seasonable morning, go out on the lawn and watch your friend, the robin, grubbing for worms.

You'll have to be early because the robin is. Likewise the robin is early because the worm is. Earthworms, you know, crawl out of their underground tunnels at nighttime and feed on dead leaves and grasses scattered over the lawns. The robin gets his breakfast before the worms have time to get far down in their burrows.

Mr. Robin goes hopping around over the grass like a boy in a sack race with his feet tied, stopping to inspect a hole so tiny that you'd never see it. He sloots his bill down in the hole, gives his head a little twist—yes, he's found a worm.

Then begins the tug of war. With the end of the worm fast in his bill the robin braces his legs and pulls. He doesn't jerk the worm out. If he did the worm might break, and you'll seldom see a robin get only half a worm. No, he plays with it like a skillful angler who has caught a big fish on his line. Little by little the worm gives way, and presto, the robin has him in his mouth.

Once in a great while a young robin, who hasn't learned the art yet, will be caught off his balance by a sudden release of the worm and go tumbling on his back. But that doesn't happen often.—Philadelphia North American.

Queer Looking Worms.

New Zealand, Australia, the Samoan and the Solomon islands as well as portions of the Hawaiian group are the homes of various species of worms with thick, heavy bodies and with a well defined neck connecting the body with a head that is a startling reminder of that of the monkey. In the Sandwich islands they are called "me-ta-lu-ki," which means "creeper with a child's head." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time they were of immense proportions and threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

North American Camels.

Camels were common in North America during the miocene epoch, and several forms have been found. One was about the size of a sheep and is supposed to be the ancestor of modern camels and llamas. Others were large and had long necks like the giraffe. All these ancient camels had hoofs like cattle.—Argonaut.

A Pungent Player.

The comedian had his benefit and, thankful for the patronage of "kind friends in front," let off this impromptu, which was applauded:

Like a grate full of coals I glow,
A great full house to see,
And were I not grateful, too,
A great fool I should be.

—London Mail.

Delay Explained.

"What are you doing there, Ellen?"

"Excuse me, miss, but my apron caught in the door."

"But you left the room ten minutes ago."

"Yes, miss, but I only just found it out."—Passing Show.

Usually a Liberal One.

"Pa, what is graft?"

"Graft, my son, is a sort of tip pocketed by the servants of the people."—Boston Transcript.

One word, one look, can efface years of affection.—Balzac.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Like all the celebrated and popular stars of the Famous Players Film Co., including Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick, Hazel Dawn and Marie Doro, John Barrymore came to the screen with every faculty for success in his possession. Youth, an abundance of talent that may even be termed genius, grace, an attractive personal appearance and intelligence, made screen success as certain as was his popular record on the stage. The comedy successes in which he has previously been presented on the screen indicated what a far greater triumph he had attained as a film star than the stage could ever provide, but his greatest ability is represented in his next appearance under the management of the Famous Players Film Co. on the Paramount program, "The Incorrigible Dukane," the current feature attraction at the U. S. Astor Theatre.

A story with comedy, drama and romance, each in itself an important element of the plot, and combined, constituting a photo-play of unusual appeal, "The Incorrigible Dukane" is one of the strongest features released in some time. John Barrymore achieves a triumph rare even to a Famous Players star. The subject will remain today and tomorrow, until Mary Pickford presents herself Friday and Saturday.

In the title role of "Esmeralda," Mary Pickford, the screen's most popular star, attains the greatest heights she has ever reached in all the years of her phenomenal success as the world's most prominent motion picture favorite.

Faith

Faith can be classed with the really tremendous influences of life. Faith makes stepping-stones of obstacles. It is like a powerful magnet, which brings to the surface every one of man's worthy qualities.

The Rothberg Store is builded on faith. The nature of our business is a peculiar one. We do not recognize the term "Commercial Honesty." In our opinion there can only be one kind of honesty, commercial or otherwise. The strongest asset of this establishment is the good will of our customers. The greatest trademaker we know of is the combination of sterling principles and sterling merchandise.

Some day you will have occasion to deal with this store, if you have not done so already. Then you will realize the full meaning of FAITH in a commercial enterprise.

OIL COMPANY MAY LOCATE IN FANWOOD

Residents Heard Glowing Reports But They Prove Untrue.

Reports that have gained circulation in Fanwood of late concerning the probable location of a large oil company in the Graceland section have assumed such proportions that some of the residents are beginning to picture a city in place of the little borough in a few months. From one quarter has come the information that has gained publicity that the Standard Oil Company was the interested party and that upward of two hundred and fifty houses would be built to house the workmen. Careful inquiry has resulted into the whole affair being simmered down to the fact that an oil company, which is said on good authority to be the Pure Oil Company, is negotiating with the various owners of property in that section in an attempt to secure land on which to build a supply tank for the neighboring towns. The affair has become a general topic of conversation as Fanwood has no industry to boast of, and although it is true that such a company as reported, if considering locating a substation there, there has been no sale of land reported to the local authorities.

PETER MEYERS INJURED AT CENTRAL ROUNDHOUSE

Peter Meyers, the fifteen-year-old son of Mrs. T. V. Meyers, of Linden avenue, was injured yesterday while engaged in putting tools on an engine at the roundhouse of the New Jersey Central at Communipaw. He was on the tender of the engine, and in handling a heavy iron hoe it quickly swung round, striking Meyers over the eye and injuring his wrist.

Meyers returned home last night, and is now under the care of Dr. Albert Pittis. The latter will make an X-ray examination to determine whether the young man's wrist is broken. The lad's father was killed a little over a year ago while working on the Newark bay bridge for the New Jersey Central. Meyers and a brother are the main support of the family.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

A basketball game of the Y. M. C. A. League will be played tomorrow night between the Saurer office and the factory teams. There is considerable rivalry between these two teams and a good game is looked forward to.

MAURICE HARRISON RESIGNS

Maurice Harrison, who was manager of Muhlenberg Hospital for five years, and who resigned about a year ago to become superintendent of the Jersey City Hospital, has tendered his resignation at the latter place. It is now in the hands of City Clerk Michael I. Fagan and will be acted upon this week. The reasons for Mr. Harrison's leaving Jersey City are not known to his local friends.

PLAN INSTALLATION.

A special meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps was held in Reform Hall yesterday afternoon to make preparations for a public joint installation of the W. R. C. and the Grand Army on Tuesday, January 11. Miss Clara Barton Smith, tendered her resignation as conductor at the meting and Mrs. Ada T. England was elected to fill the vacancy.

ELIZABETH TABS WILL ATTEND FAIR TONIGHT

Tonight will be the biggest night of the week at St. Mary's T. A. B. S. fair. Corps of workers are today making the hall hum with preparations for the throng that is expected tonight. Word has been received that over two hundred Elizabeth Tabs with accompanying friends will be present early this evening, coming in special trolleys and bring along a fife and drum corp of their own. The visitors will be met by the local T. A. B. S. Fife and Drum Corps and escorted to the hall.

A feature of the evening will be a bowling match between the Plainfielders and the Elizabethians. Comments as to the outcome of the game have been heard on all sides, inasmuch as there is considerable rivalry among these two societies in the bowling matches.

Dancing will again continue until a late hour, music being provided by Prof. Squier's orchestra. The booths continue to be well patronized and offer unusual bargains.

BASEBALL THE ONLY PROFESSIONAL SPORT TO SUFFER DURING SEASON OF 1915

With the exception of baseball, professional sport enjoyed a high degree of prosperity during 1915. Ty Cobb shines as the greatest individual performer on the diamond, although Bill Carrigan's Red Sox won the world's championship. Willie Hoppe reigned supreme in billiards. In motor racing Gil Anderson and Eddie Rickenbacker carried off the principal honors. Jess Willard became the heavyweight champion in the boxing world. Several horses distinguished themselves in racing, William remaining the pacing champion.

"Getting along" with half-competent help, in home, office, store or factory, is a poor plan—a poor business policy.

A WARNING TO NEUTRALS.

In establishing a defense for the sinking of the Persia on the grounds that she carried a 4.7 gun mounted astern, the Teutonic powers are giving a warning to neutrals everywhere not to go armed. The Persia was a peaceful ship on a mission of peace. If she was to be torpedoed and sunk because she carried a squirrel gun what is to prevent the Germans from blowing up a pleasure launch because the captain carries a pistol. The submarine that sank the Persia had no more to fear from its gun than it did from the billy of a Broadway cop. The new German idea of self-defense is queer, but even now there is no danger of the United States being attacked as a "dangerous character."

If former President William Howard Taft can be accepted as a spokesman for the old Republican party, and where can a more typical conservative be found than the standard-bearer of 1912, there is death ahead for the party of Lincoln. In an interview of this week Mr. Taft announces himself to be a Republican Bourbon of an extreme type. He wants no fads or isms. He proclaims that "the backbone of the party is the business men of the country," thus ignoring the farmers and workingmen that formed the rank and file of the party in its triumphant days. He wants no compromise with progressivism. He says that only Real Republicans, as he calls them, should be placed in charge. Of the 3,000,000 or more Republicans who refused to vote for Mr. Taft in 1912 he wants no one to be allowed to come back unless he returns abjectly, making no conditions.

There are many in the so-called Republican party who agree with Mr. Taft, and they would sacrifice everything upon the altar of pig-headed conservatism. If it should become apparent that this element will control the 1916 convention then political writers may prepare an obituary for an old friend.

In making his recommendations for a larger police force Chief Kiely should have the ear of every member of the Council as well as each taxpayer and resident of Plainfield. Through excellent work done during the past year the local Police Chief has demonstrated again that he is fitted to guard the community against violence and disorder and his annual report attests the loyalty and efficiency of the men who make up the department. Chief Kiely has not complained of the inadequacy of his force during the year. He has done the best possible with the equipment at his command, and he has done his work well, but now that the year has closed and city fathers are preparing to improve all departments for the new year, he tells of imperative needs of the police force. This is not an attempt upon the part of the chief to establish an "alibi" for himself and his men, for he has every reason to be proud of their record and his, as every Plainfielder is proud of their work, and the improvements recommended by him should be made as soon as possible.

Puck calls attention to the fact that the poor, broken-spirited Serbian army, officially pronounced exterminated, has only 40,000 men, or about the same number as the United States army in full strength. And some people still fight preparedness.

George W. Perkins promises that the condition of the United States will soon necessitate the drafting of Theodore Roosevelt into public service. This act of conscription will not cause as much protest as the proposed drafting in England.

A national weekly is asking that its readers submit their list of the seven funniest wonders of the world. The first one submitted was "newspaper neutrality" and there the contest should have ended.

In our humble opinion England made a master stroke when she put Sir Douglas Haig in charge of her armies. If it's the same fellow we know by that name he has an awful record for slaughter.

Mayor Smalley wants his constituency to call him "Mayor Bill." We Will.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Japanese Night," with its accompanying comedy, will be the big feature at the Plainfield Theatre tonight. This innovation in local amusement circles bids fair to win a place in the hearts of patrons of the theatre, the number being filled with thrills and novelties of many kinds. All ticket-holders at tonight's performance will share in the festivities, numerous artistic and useful presents having been secured for the occasion.

The usual five-act program of vaudeville will be inaugurated for the week-end "trick," the feature being snappy and unique. This afternoon and evening, "A Soldier's Oath," a thrilling photo-play in which William Fox presents William Farnum, will be shown.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Announcement is made to the effect that Mrs. Eva Fay will appear at Proctor's for the latter part of the week, and will continue to astonish her listeners by her marvelous power of thought reading. She is without doubt one of the greatest women in the world, and she commands an enormous salary for her work. She will give a private performance for women only Friday afternoon, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock. The Triangle plays to be offered, starting tomorrow, will be Douglas Fairbanks in "Double Trouble," a comedy drama in which this famous young star assumes a dual rôle, and he scores a triumph that even excels his great work in "The Lamb." The Keystone comedy offered for the latter half of the week introduces Fred Mace, one of the greatest of the Keystone comedians, who provides hundreds of hearty laughs, in "A Janitor's Wife's Temptation." Vaudevillians who help entertain include Tom Kuma, a diminutive Japanese, who does a cyclonic contortionist act. Stanley and Le Brack present a comedy singing and dancing act that is way above the average, and introduce a novelty in the way of an imitation of Charlie Chaplin that will bring down the house. Frankie James will conclude the bill by rendering several popular song numbers. Miss James is the possessor of a fine voice. The big bazaar will take place tonight and a number of special gifts have been added. On Saturday afternoon the kiddies will all receive toys beside many handsome presents to be given from the stage. "The Red Circles," the greatest and latest Pathe serial, will be presented on Friday.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Samuel B. Howe will give his next lecture on current events at the association tomorrow afternoon. His subject will be "Pan-Americanism." Mr. Howe has just returned from Washington, where he attended the Pan-American conference and has a health of material to speak about.

Members of the association will enjoy an evening of games Friday night. All members are invited to attend. Refreshments and a general good time will be enjoyed.

Miss Agnes Downey, a graduate of the New York Training School, will speak at the vesper service at the association Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Downey will speak on "Christian Work in South America." Miss Downey returned recently from an extended trip through Chili and is well qualified of the conditions existing in the South American republic.

DEATH OF INFANT.

Jesse Willard Stranzenbach, the eight months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stranzenbach, of 40 Harmony street, died after a brief illness from whooping cough, Tuesday night. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will take place in Hillside cemetery. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will have charge of the service.

The Head-On-The Hand Picture

When he had his picture taken with his head upon his hand,
We were good and proud of Billy—he was looking something grand!
He had started in to college and was tagged for father's frat,
Or some other great achievement
quite as wonderful as that.
So we were impressed with Billy and were proud to beat the band,
When he had his picture taken with his head upon his hand.

That is, all we kids felt that way.
Father seemed to like it less,
For he said, "Good Lord!" when shown it, and he seemed in deep distress.
Mother grinned a bit and giggled, and somehow it wasn't joy
Of the kind we had expected, for the honor of her boy.
And she said, "Remember, Father?"
"Yes," he said. "I cannot stand
To recall MY picture taken with my head upon my hand!"

Merit Rewarded

The man who resists evil tendencies had had a horrible night in the sleeper, owing to the heat and the disturbances.

The porter woke him for the wrong town, just as he had started in on his first sound sleep of the night.

He left his toilet set in the washroom and somebody swiped it.

He rushed into the lunch-room at the breakfast station, and asked for some provender, including buttered toast.

When it came in, it was not buttered. The waiter apologized, and the good man assured him it was all right.

The waiter then spilled the coffee all over the counter, so that the man was saturated with it.

But the patron only smiled politely, though yearning to kill the stupid chump.

As he was standing at the cashier's desk patiently explaining to her that she had short-changed him, he heard the blundering waiter say to his side-partner:

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Worry And The Cold Bogy

MRS. BLANK stopped for a brief chat on her way home the other day. She had a bundle, and from the end of the bundle protruded a small whip. We wondered what the whip was for. Well, Mr. Blank had asked her to get one. It seemed that little Dorothy Blank was becoming incorrigible. Why, the little vixen ran away down the street to meet him yesterday, and she didn't have a thing on her head! So Mr. Blank felt that stern duty compelled him to arm himself in defense of the health of the household.

Now if one of our little girls should do a thing like that we wouldn't consider it criminal. We assume that our youngsters are not morons, and that any child of normal mentality is quite capable of coming in out of the cold if the cold is uncomfortable. And of course if the cold isn't uncomfortable it can't possibly do any harm. Why, it may even do good!

Think of the tremendous amount of needless, silly worrying people do about "exposure."

We dare say no competent critic will produce any scientific evidence to disprove the statement that "colds" are just as contagious as diphtheria or tuberculosis. And we venture the opinion that no evidence will be forthcoming to prove that "exposure," without contagion, can ever cause any kind of acute respiratory disease, be it "grippe," coryza, bronchitis, pneumonia or just a general and ill-defined "cold." To be sure, the casual observer will cite all sorts of instances of real or fancied "exposure" followed in due course by illness. Well, before the rôle of the stegomyia mosquito was discovered, people were so sure that yellow fever was contagious that they enforced shotgun quarantine when cases developed. We all know better now; we know that mosquito-netting is the only absolute bar to the transmission of the disease.

Exposure which is evidently not uncomfortable or actually enjoyed by the exposee, is assuredly not a predisposing or contributing factor of ill health or disease.

Running out without anything around the shoulders never yet caused an illness, unless it was frost-bite.

Here is a rule which we commend to old folks, young folks, and folks of middle age, concerning the question of exposure to cold weather. If it is comfortable it is healthful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Salt Not Antiseptic

I am advised that salt, taken in hot water each morning, is a splendid antiseptic to assist digestion. Do you approve of it?

Answer—It is not an antiseptic, and anyway an antiseptic would tend to delay digestion. A pinch of salt in a glass of hot water sipped early in the morning is a good laxative.

Lemons And "Acidity"

Are lemons bad for one with too much acidity of the blood?

Answer—Lemons contain citric acid, which combines with alkalis and circulates in the blood as alkaline salts. Hence lemons make blood and urine less acid, or rather more alkaline—blood never becomes acid in life.

Vest Pocket Essays

FIRES

FIRES are a form of national entertainment which is becoming more popular in America with each decade. The American fire has been so improved in effectiveness and in spectacular features in late years, that it is now able to draw its audience from a baseball game, a prize fight or an aeroplane race with equal ease.

Fires are viewed with pleasure and enthusiasm by all classes, from the limousine to the kerosene strata. A good fire costs more to produce than grand opera, and is even more unprofitable to the proprietor as a rule.

Fires are caused by over-heated chimneys, spontaneous combustion, cigarettes, crossed wires, exploding stoves and poor business. When a building becomes feverish from any of these causes, the fire department is instantly called and it adds to the horror of the occasion by squirting water on the piano, the hardwood floors and the cook. America has the most talented and resourceful water squirters in the world, which is only natural, however, because they have three times as many fires to practise on as the firemen of any other country.

Fires usually visit our homes in the night and are more terrible as guests than burglars or convention delegates. Almost every American citizen has been compelled at least once in his life to rise at a very few A.M., dress himself in a plug hat and a portière and lower himself down the smoke-filled back stairs with a baby in one hand and a waste basket in the other. When fires occur in schools, hotels or theatres, the consequences are unspeakably sad at times, because of the prevailing American habit of making buildings safe for their occupants only after they have burned down. However, each holocaust causes a new law to be passed and many lives are thus saved. Among our most valuable martyrs are the men, women and children who have given their lives as evidence that our building laws

Lowering himself down with a baby in one hand and a waste-basket in the other need improving and enforcing. Other countries adopt reforms before hints of this sort can be given, but we are not so stingy with our citizens. We have plenty of them, and can well afford to lose a few hundred now and then, rather than to harrow the sensitive soul of some politician by insisting that he work at his public job.

Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of buildings are burned in America each year, and this fact is alluded to with great scorn by our critics. However, as far as the burning of buildings goes, the fire fiend is one of America's greatest friends, because through him we are rapidly getting rid of most of the architecture of the seventies.

Views Of The Press

Moral Education

A YOUNG man arrested for safeblowing gives as an excuse that he was tired of living off his brother and friends, and so undertook to get money in some other way, an honest way apparently not suggesting itself to him. There is something radically wrong when a young man of 19 years, in good health and with a fair education, has to live off his relatives and friends. That he is willing to do it at all shows a lack of character and manliness that bodes ill for his future. In this instance it was in all probability less of a revival of manliness of spirit than impatience and displeasure at the trouble and small result of working his friends, which led to his effort to work the safe of a stranger instead, for his spending money.

Parents who fail to instill into their boys a spirit of manly independence and a habit of industry do them a terrible wrong. When boys are overindulged in their youth they are apt to be impressed with the idea that it is not necessary for them to do anything to get what they want or need, but that somebody will give it to them. When they are not taught to work they are apt to get fixed in their minds that there is a better way of getting a living than by working for it. When they early develop a tendency to get things by sharp practice or to neglect the clear dividing line between what is theirs and what belongs to somebody else, if that tendency is not checked and its evil inspiration made clear, it is certain to develop into a habit of life which can mean nothing else than failure, disgrace, crime and the penitentiary or the gallows.

The greatest things in education that can be given a young man is independence and integrity of character. It is greater than grammar, literature, science, art or music, or all of what we commonly call education put together. It is one of the failures of our modern machine system of education, that we are giving our boys less of character building than was formerly the case in our public schools, colleges and universities. This is now practically left to the churches, Sunday-schools and parochial schools. The movement on foot to add religious instruction to the public school system, but to do it denominationally outside the school walls, is an evidence of a growing realization of the failure of our schools to do this essential work of character building.

There has been a great deal said about saving the world from sin and misery through education, but mere education in the ordinary sense will not save our social organism. There was more stability and integrity of character in the Puritan colony of Massachusetts, with mighty little education as compared with that of to-day, than there is in the same State now. That was because attention was given to developing the moral and religious life of the young, which is now almost entirely neglected in educational work outside religiously conducted and controlled institutions. The growing numbers of boys in our reform schools and young men in our penitentiaries is an eloquent plea for a great increase in the moral element in our educational methods.—St. Louis Star.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

An Unlucky Accident

Q. When a man breaks his leg, or sustains any other injury, while at work for a lumber mill company, is he entitled to some compensation from the company? To make my case more clear, I will say that I was driving a one-horse, two-wheeled lumber truck loaded with railroad ties. As a rule, these trucks are loaded seven ties wide and five high. This certain truck was loaded eight ties wide and seven high—wider than the frame of the truck. When I unhooked the chain to release my horse, one tier of seven ties fell on my leg and broke it. Could I get damages in a law-suit?

A. From your statement of the facts, there would be no liability.

Mother's Estate

Q. If a mother dies and leaves a small bank account, and the father is living, can the son get the money as soon as he may like?

A. No. The procedure pointed out by the law must be observed.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Portia Before The Judge

A New York Supreme Court judge recently pointed out how technical was Portia's construction of Shylock's contract with the merchant, Antonio, but the young lady was not at all troubled by the frightful precedent which she was establishing.

It is difficult to consider the trial scene in "The Merchant of Venice" seriously from a legal point of view. Imagine it! Such a contract actually brought into court with a demand for specific performance! And yet the fair jurist calmly decides that Shylock is legally entitled to his pound of flesh if he can manage to take it without spilling one drop of Christian blood!

The dramatic effect of all this is wonderful, but from the legal point of view the absurdity has only just begun. Having decided this peculiar equity suit, Portia proceeds to formulate a criminal accusation against Shylock, and, without the formality of arrest or indictment, places him on trial on the charge of conspiracy against the life of Antonio, finds him guilty, on the evidence adduced him in the civil action, and then and there sentences him to the forfeiture of his entire estate, both real and personal, and reduces him to beggary. A most effective denouement, but it isn't justice and it isn't law.—The Stage Lawyer.

Pepper Talks

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Want To

Back of all genuine Service is a warm Willingness and a restless Desire to render that Service. In other words, the Want To spirit is there. It is about the healthiest quality that a man or woman can cultivate.

Render Service because you Want To.

To be guided in your conduct solely by mere Duty is to follow the hind end remnant of a musty morality. Duty, without the Want To garment, is bare. For Want To is Love of Doing—that which makes the most menial task easy and grand to perform.

Want To—then you will Love To.

We inherit tendencies only. What we are, we make ourselves. We have ourselves alone to blame if we are but Underlings and Followers. We have with us always the Chance and Opportunity of Want To waving its wand of golden Inheritances about our heads. We have but to submit to its Influence and put it to practice and satisfying Accomplishments follow, overflowing with human Happiness.

Want To—then you will Love To.

Want To be the biggest Man or Woman that it is possible for you to be. Want To grow Strong and full of Health. Want To be Happy and to make those about you Happy. Want To do your Work better than anyone else can do it. Want To see Yourself Grow, and to be able to recognize it at the close of each day. Want To be Helpful. Want To be Unselfish. Want To Lead. If you wish Success to come your way—

Render Service because you Want To.

Current Poetry

Conflict Corner

On Conflict Corner, loud and shrill,
The little rebels shout,
On Conflict Corner every night,
They sneer and leer and flout.
Here on the soap box altars rise
The puny priests of doubt.

Under a pallid lamp holds forth
The oracle of peace,
And there a flame-tongued demagogue
Is eyed by the police,
While just across the street one tells
How poverty will cease.

A preacher prays, an organ plays
The wheezy hymns of right;
A red-faced radical demands
Uncompromising fight;
Half mad, a youthful mystic glows
With sudden, borrowed light.

And oh, the half true truths they tell,
And oh, the earnest lies!
With what gay ardor they unfold
Their picture Paradise!
For what unproved Utopias
They raise their strident cries!

On Conflict Corner, loud and shrill,
The little rebels meet,
And to the shifting multitudes
Their clashing creeds repeat
And thus on Conflict Corner make
A temple of a street.

The Supreme Court has decided that the Manhattan cocktail is intoxicating. And there are a number of other pleasant things to be said of the Manhattan cocktail.

Ambition assumes various guises. But no young man ever wanted to look like Abe Lincoln.

The industrious man has his points, but he seldom is as good company as the loafer.

If they refer to it as the "show troupe" you can make up your mind that you have left the paved streets far behind and are near to nature's heart.

It is easy enough to name a boy "William," but it is mighty hard to make it "take."

If the obituary notice of the deceased mentions the date on which he united with the church, his minister wrote it. If it doesn't, one of the reporters wrote it.

In selecting a dog pick out a mongrel. A finely bred dog attracts so much attention that his owner is overshadowed.

Opinions vary as to whether putting a pair of mittens on a baby or teaching a calf to drink out of a pail is the most difficult feat.

The books say no man over forty-eight has appendicitis. Still, most of us would rather have appendicitis than be forty-eight years old.

In a small town a popular citizen is one who is willing to lend his palm to the neighbor who is giving a party.

Considering the fact that he has to meet the competition of Henry Ford, William Jennings Bryan manages to attract a good deal of attention.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache, or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure, for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub pain from back with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.—Adv.

Are Still Digging Up Marvelous Stories.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Vesuvius Buried Beautiful Pompeii by the Sea.

"Do you want a fairy story or Vesuvius?" asked daddy.

"Vesuvius is lovely and terrible," Evelyn preferred.

"In the year 79 Vesuvius broke out in a terrific uproar of fiery sand, which flowed down its sides in such huge rivers that a charming little town by the name of Pompeii quite vanished from the face of Mother Earth for more than 1,500 years," daddy stated. "There was a clever Roman, Mr. Pliny, who wrote a wonderful description of this eruption and later lost his life with the Roman fleet that carried food to the peasants whom cruel Vesuvius drove from their happy homes. But one beautiful Italian day—and surely Italian days are the loveliest on earth—after lying buried under tons of lava so many centuries, Pompeii began to live again. For a peasant was digging a well on his little farm at the foot of his terrible neighbor, Vesuvius, when quite by accident he dug up a wonderful old vase."

"Whose vase was it, daddy?" cried Jack.

"Who knows? Maybe a lovely Greek lady's, for Pompeii was half a Greek colony, although belonging to Rome. In 1755 King Charles became interested in this vase and set a lot of expert diggers at work. And from that time till ours men have been digging up the marvelous stories of this ancient village by the sea, as its buried furniture, vases and people tell their tales of love and life in the past."

"Tell us the kind of things the diggers find, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"Oh, whole streets and houses of poor people and palaces of the rich, a theater, Roman baths, cellars with rare vases and jugs that once held olive oil and wine. One cellar had twenty men in it, where the poor fellows had run to hide away from the perilous rivers of flame that were pouring through their streets. Pompeii's city wall had eight gates, and some diggers once found Roman soldiers still standing on guard by these gates, just as they stood 1,800 years ago. Faithful soldiers! Sometimes, after digging months without finding anything, the men unearth shields and helmets that gladiators once wore; sometimes a school where gay, happy little Pompeiians used to learn their A B C's, and always rare silver candlesticks, mirrors and bits of walls either scribbled over with news or politics (for there were no newspapers in the year 79) or frescoed with family pictures or history in brilliant, bright colors. For pictures like ours were unknown, and Pompeiians painted the walls of their homes, which made frescoes. Some day you children must visit Pompeii and walk through its marvelous streets that slept so long."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Molly and Miss Ellson Discuss the New Arrival at the Doctor's.

"It's a girl!" exclaimed Miss Ellson dropping into a chair and letting her shawl fall off her shoulders, "and she wanted a boy so that she could name it after her father." There was commiseration in her tone.

"Was the doctor disappointed?" asked Molly.

"I asked him once which he wanted, a boy or a girl. He said, 'I want a baby.'"

"Well, I am glad he's got one. I do not know a man who would enjoy one more," said Molly. "How is Olive?" she continued. "I know she is all right or you would not be over here. Was she very sick?"

"Desperately. But she is young and strong, and when the little mite was laid in her arms she whispered, 'It is worth it all.'"

"Dear Olive." Molly wiped her eyes. "Now the heaven of motherhood has opened for her. It will be a heaven in real earnest for her too," continued Molly.

"So it isn't always?" laughed Miss Ellson swaying softly back and forth.

"Oh it takes so much judgment to know how to bring up a child that if one is really conscientious the worry takes half the joy away."

"Olive has studied a great deal to fit herself for training the child, but her biggest asset, after all, is her sound common sense. She will have the ability to meet the unexpected and that is principally what one has to meet in bringing up children. I brought up four motherless kiddies and I know." The comfortable motherly figure shook with reminiscent laughter.

"Do you like the nurse?" asked Molly.

"Like is not the word. One does not like an assemblage of all the virtues. She makes me think of a ship under full sail. She glides majestically about the house and comes to port by the side of the bed. I am the same as a grandmother to the little dear and I took it up this morning as it was crying. Miss Gaffin came alongside and took the child out of my arms saying, 'I never allow any one to touch any of my babies.' I stared and she continued, 'It is my business to get good habits established and a baby should not be handled by more than one person.' I hung my head and disappeared."

"I see this is to be a thoroughly modern baby," laughed Molly.

"She knows that I am next in line in the succession, so she is taking great pains to be a lamp to one sitting in darkness. She allows me to be a spectator when the sacred bath is taken. A cool bath in a cool room, in fact the water is cold before she finishes, and the little delicate thing, she weighs only seven pounds, is laid on a board to be dried and is handled as little as possible." There was nothing but sunny amusement in the recital though the words sounded sarcastic.

Molly laughed heartily at the picture she presented.

"Never mind, her reign is sure to be shortlived. When she goes you can do as you please," she comforted.

"I do not know. I imagine the rules will have to be very strict, with grandmothers to tie and tuck under. Mrs. Dunn counts for five or six." Miss Ellson rose and put her shawl over her head preparing to leave.

"How do you mean?" asked Molly.

"Oh, no one can do anything to suit her. She even arraigned the terrible Gaffin this morning and advised her to change her ways." She laughed.

"Go on," grinned Molly.

"She said, 'Madam, I am in charge of your daughter and am perfectly competent to handle the case,' and swept by her into the sick room."

"I am coming over when the powers that be issue a permit," called Molly as her caller went down the walk.

A. C. Penn, of this city, landed in the fourth sixteen in the 18-hole qualifying round of the thirteenth annual midwinter golf tournament at Pinehurst, N. C., yesterday. Philip Carter led the field by several city blocks. His score was 73, making fifteen of the holes on No. 2 course in 4's.

ELABORATE PLANS FOR BIG BOWLING TOURNEY

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the sixteenth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress in Toledo, March 4 to 25. Toledo bowlers are well organized, and will contribute as their share of the entries about 200 teams, being followed by Chicago with 100 teams, while it is predicted that the lists will include over 600 teams of five men each, 1,500 teams of two bowlers each, 3,000 individuals, bringing the total entry fund close to $45,000. Two-thirds of this will be returned to the contestants in prizes, which will approximate $30,000. The plans call for the installation of sixteen new bowling alleys, and contracts have been signed for 600 sets of hard maple pins. All are to be delivered four weeks prior to the opening date of the tournament, in order that they may become thoroughly acclimated.

New York took two games from Plainfield at the Elks' Club last night. The teams changed places in the standing as a result of the match, New York being sixth and Plainfield seventh.

There was never a doubt as to which side would capture the first game. New York had more than 40 pins to spare at the finish, and earlier in the game was more than 70 out in front. The second looked like a home victory, but the Gothamites nosed out the Queen City men by 17 sticks, 949 to 932. Plainfield's Ten teams will be formed for the five-man house tourney which will start on the Elks' Club alleys next week. The teams will be drawn at a meeting of the bowling committee tomorrow night.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, head ache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv.

DEATH SUMMONS WALTER G. RUNYON

Prominent Citizen of Dunellen Passes Away at His Home.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

For Nearly Thirty Years He Was Engaged in Undertaking Business—Formerly Chief of Fire Department—Leaves Son and Brother.

Walter Grant Runyon, one of the best known residents of Dunellen and widely acquainted throughout Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, died at his home on Front street, that borough, at 9:20 this morning. He had been in poor health for several years, but was able to continue exercising personal charge of his undertaking business until last Thursday, when he was compelled to take to his bed. He sank rapidly from that time, and the end had been expected for the past twenty-four hours. Complications resulting from stomach and intestinal ailments is given as the cause of death.

Mr. Runyon was the son of the late Eugene Runyon, who lived for many years at Front and Liberty streets, this city, and where Walter Runyon was born fifty-one years ago last month. His mother was Miss Randolph, daughter of the late Barzilla Randolph, one of Plainfield's pioneer hatters and tailors, whose residence in his latter days was at Sixth and New streets. When only a boy Walter Runyon removed to New Market, where his father opened a grocery business, but who later disposed of it and continued in the same line of trade in Dunellen. The son took an embalming course in a New York school, and twenty-eight years ago purchased the undertaking business at Dunellen established by John Runyon. He continued this up to the time of his death, for the last two years having associated with him his only son, Russell F. Runyon, under the firm name of Walter G. Runyon & Son.

Mr. Runyon always took a deep interest in the public affairs of Dunellen, and was especially active in the fire department. He was assistant chief for a number of terms, resigning two years ago on account of his health. He was also a far-seeing business man in the local real estate field, entertaining the belief that Dunellen properties were destined for a big boom. He erected the Runyon block on North avenue, which extends from the First National Bank to John H. L. Peters' building, and invested in residential structures, all of which verified his optimism.

Mr. Runyon's wife, who was Miss Addie Apgar, sister of Walter Apgar, of Park avenue, this city, died about twenty-two years ago. His nearest surviving relatives are his son, Russell, and one brother, Oscar Runyon, proprietor of the Dunellen apparel store. There are also two aunts, Miss Martha J. Runyon, of 512 West Front street, Plainfield, and Mrs. Grace D. Harris, of Pasadena, Cal.

A family reunion was held at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Martha Apgar, of Front street, Dunellen Christmas Day, and Mr. Runyon was one of those who attended, although he had not been feeling well for several weeks. He remarked at the close of the dinner that he had probably exerted himself too much, and as a matter of fact, it proved to be the last formal affair he attended. His condition became worse, and he was compelled to take to his bed a few days later.

The deceased was a member of the First Baptist church, of New Market, and of the following fraternal organizations: Court Dunellen, I. O. F.; W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Washington Camp, No. 98, P. O. S. of A., and Lakeside Council, D. of L., the last named of New Market. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

FRANCIS X. HERRMANN DIES AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

Francis X. Herrmann, aged sixty years, died early this morning at his home, 211 East Fifth street, following a brief illness of pneumonia. He had been a resident of Plainfield for the past seventeen years, and was well known throughout the city and borough. He is survived by a widow, one daughter, Miss Phebe Herrmann, of this city, and three sons, Frank, of Oak Tree; Benjamin, of Brooklyn, and George, of this city. Funeral services will be held from the residence at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, January 8. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

MR. FLEMING IMPROVES.

Howard Fleming, of Park avenue, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, was reported this afternoon as being considerably improved, and both his family and physician are more hopeful of complete recovery.

HIGHWAYMEN GET $38 AND MISS $47

Manager of Plainfield Store is Victim of a Bold Robbery.

Henry Lazzi, manager of the Red Star store on West Front street, in this city, was held up and robbed by two white men late last night near the Dunellen car barns. He fought the highwaymen and managed to save $47 of $85 he had in a large bill fold in his inside pocket.

Lazzi closed the store here and caught the 11:02 train. He lives in South Plainfield, but went to sleep on the train and did not alight until he reached Bound Brook at 11:30. He started to walk back in the darkness, and had reached a point near the tanks, back of the Dunellen car barns, when two men suddenly appeared out of the darkness and demanded his money. They were not armed, and he fought them. One of the men got a bill fold out of his pocket that contained $85 in bills, but Lazzi held on to the remainder. Believing that they had all the money the two robbers fled.

Lazzi says that both men were white and appeared to be hoboes. One was about eighteen years of age and the other near 30. The robbery has been reported to the police, and watch is being kept for the two men.

DISTRICT DEPUTY INSTALLS ROYAL COUNCILS' OFFICERS

District Deputy Townley, of Elizabeth, visited Royal Council, No. 77, O. U. A. M., of this city, last night, and installed the recently elected officers. The ceremonies were followed by a social session during which addresses were made and refreshments served.

The officers installed were as follows: Councilor, F. G. Welch; vice councilor, F. L. Soper, Sr.; recording secretary, John G. Bicknell; financial secretary, Guy D. Thomas; treasurer, L. C. R. Dunham; inductor, C. L. Van Norden; examiner, William L. Whitney; inside protector, Edward Rowland; outside protector, George Van Norden; trustees, F. G. Welch, J. L. Bennett, I. N. Wikoff; representatives to grand council, F. G. Welch and I. N. Wikoff.

BRIDE-TO-BE UNDER AGE, LICENSE REFUSED

Miss Marietta Terry, 16 years old, daughter of Andrew Terry, of 30 Race street, and Joseph Cosantion, 20 years old, who has been a boarder in the Terry household for the past year, applied to Dr. A. H. Dundon, of the borough Board of Health, for a marriage license this morning. On account of the girl being under age Dr. Dundon refused to grant the license.

The young girl was told by Dr. Dundon that if her parents would sign papers giving their consent to her marriage that the license would be granted.

LAWMAKERS WILL MEET ON TUESDAY

New Jersey Assembly to Be Called Together at Noon.

PROGRAMS AGREED ON

Senator Reed Will Lead Upper House and Assemblyman Pilgrim Lower Body — Assemblyman Runyon Holds Attention of the People.

All is in readiness for the opening of the 1916 New Jersey Legislature, and at noon on Tuesday of next week the lawmakers will assemble for the work of the session.

Programs, not only for organization, but for important legislation of the entire session, have already been mapped out and adopted, and are now well known to taxpayers over the State. There will be a last-minute conference of Republican members at the State-house at 10:30 Tuesday morning, but its purpose is to see that each part of the law-making machinery is in working order, so that there will be no friction after it gets in motion.

According to caucus agreements Senator Reed, of Camden, will be elected president of the Upper House and Assemblyman Pilgrim, of Essex will lead the House.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of Union, who was the rightful leader of the lower House, but who was prevented from becoming the caucus nominee by Essex county donimation of State politics, will hold the public eye during the session, it is believed, because of his peculiar position. He is a member of the party in control, and yet not in sympathy with all its methods of conducting the Assembly and therefore not bound to support every part of its program, and he has already been accepted as leader of the independent or progressive elmnt in the Assembly, which promises to be a potent factor in all its deliberations.

Governor Fielder has just completed his annual message to the Legislature, and has delivered it to the State printer. It will be submitted to the two Houses next Tuesday as soon as they declare themselves regularly organized for business. The

SPLENDID RESPONSE TO ELKS' ROLL CALL

Nearly Two Hundred Members Answer to Their Names—Others Send Messages.

In addition to one hundred and ninety-five members personally responding to their names, messages were received and read from fifteen others when Plainfield Lodge of Elks held its "roll call" in the lodge rooms last night. The response to the call of the officers for an old fashioned "get together" was more than gratified and in consequence of the big gathering a most enjoyable evening was held. This is the first time that such an affair has been held and it will hereafter be an annual event.

Exalted Ruler Alfred A. Prudhon was in the chair and the roll was called by Secretary William R. Townsend. Many of the members had made a special effort and hurried from distant places in order to attend but all felt well repaid for the trouble. Among the fifteen messages read was one from Charles Waring, who has been in Portland, Oregon, for several years, and another from John A. O'Keefe, who stated that when his lines were made known to the gathering he would be on a railroad train somewhere between Boston and Buffalo. Much originality was contained in the little missles but all recalled some of the boys who had been absent from the lodge room for many years. One of the entertaining features during the evening was the conference of the old second degree of the Elks which was abolished about five years ago. The newer members have never seen it and it was both a surprise and a treat.

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed sprang a surprise on the gathering by personally presenting Past Exalted Ruler Frank H. Smith with an unmounted elks' tooth. It was taken from the mouth of an elk which the senator "bagged" himself while on a trip in the Rocky Mountains some time ago. He stated in making the gift that he wanted to see some member of the Elks deserving of it to get the emblem and he knew of no better one to be its possessor than Mr. Smith. Two other presentations were made during the evening, both of them being handsome oil paintings, one of them a picture of "Psyche at the Spring," and the other the reproduction of a beautiful elk. One was given jointly by A. E. Force and A. D. Jennings and the other by "Ted" Budenbach and Chauncey F. Stout. They will be hung in appropriate places in the clubhouse.

At the close of the formal ceremonies, the members congregated in various parts of the building and enjoyed a period of handshakes and reminiscent talk. Refreshments were served by Erwin Neighbour, the clubhouse chef, under the direction of the house committee.

GOV. WHITMAN TO DROP SUPT. RILEY

Demands the Resignation of Chief Enemy of Thomas M. Osborne.

Albany, New York, Jan. 6.—Gov. Whitman today requested the resignation of John B. Riley, Statae superintendent of prisons.

It is believed that this action on the part of Gov. Whitman means the ultimate vindication of Thomas M. Osborne, warden of Sing Sing prison, who is now under indictments charging misconduct, mismanagement and other violations of his oath of office. Osborne and Riley have been at war since the former instituted his prison reforms, and the state superintendent has been freely charged with having stood sponsor for the attempt to oust Osborne. When the Osborne indictments were first made public Supt. Riley declared that he would remove him, but Gov. Whitman prevented this action. No reasons for the removal of Riley have been made public.

TELLS OF WORK AMONG ESKIMOS

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell Expresses Appreciation for Many Kind "Helps."

RELATES EXPERIENCES

Missionary Describes Conditions and Life Among the People in Labrador—Miss Tatnall Thanks Guild for its Contributions.

Mrs. Percy Hamilton Stewart, of this city, has just had published for circulation among friends of the work a small pamphlet containing letters from Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, who is head of the mission work in Labrador, and Miss Anna C. Tatnall, secretary of the American-Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild of America. Mrs. Stewart is the president of the Plainfield section of the guild.

In her letter Mrs. Stewart says that "she believes that the members of the guild, after reading the letters from Dr. Grenfell and Miss Tatnall, will feel well repaid for all the work they have done in connection with the Plainfield section of the Needlework Guild, and will feel inspired to make the collection of garments for the coming year not only larger in number, but superior in quality, and of the kind, wherever possible, of which Dr. Grenfell speaks of being in such need.' Dr. Grenfell's letter follows:

"I have long intended to write you a letter and let you know how the many kind "helps" that you have given to the work among these northern fisherfolk have not left us really ungrateful. But there are so very many thousand things that keep breaking up one's time, where one tries to fill so many functions as we do here, that we must appear to be in the same class as the ungrateful nine lepers only too often.

"On my table lies a paper with a long account of your splendid baby saving work—and my last patient has been a sickly woman expecting her fourteenth, but who has already lost eight before one year of age was reached! This finalized matters, and I determined as soon as I got to sea I would write and ask you if you had any publications of the work you

MEDICAL MEN ATTEND DR. LOWRIE'S FUNERAL

Grace Episcopal church, on East Seventh street, was well filled with relatives and friends at 2:30 this afternoon when the funeral service of Dr. Henry H. Lowrie was conducted. The gathering included practically all the medical men of the city, while others came from nearby places and distant points. The service was in charge of the rector, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, and its simplicity was in keeping with the life of the deceased. There was a profusion of floral tributes, one of the set pieces being the gift of the medical fraternity of the city.

Burial was in Hillside cemetery and six Plainfield physicians who had practiced contemporaneously with Dr. Lowrie for many years carried the casket to its final resting place. These were Dr. T. H. U. S. FAILS TO SECURE PROOF

No Evidence That a Submarine Sank the Steamer Persia.

Washington is Disappointed Over Affidavits Secured—England Faces Rebellion of Labor Forces on Conscription.

Marseilles, Jan. 6.—The British steamers Middleton and Helia have been torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean, it was announced here today. There was some loss of life on the Helia. Both vessels are reported to have been destroyed without warning. Seventeen passengers on the Helia and thirteen members of her crew were rescued. All members of the Middleton's crew were saved. The Middleton was a vessel of 2,500 tons, hailing from Hull. Lloyd's register does not list the Helia.

Washington, Jan. 6.—State Department officials were disappointed today by a despatch from Consul Garrels at Alexandria saying that the affidavits collected from survivors of the Persia shed little more light on the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the vessel than the original despatches received. Consul Garrels states that many of the affidavits show that neither a submarine nor a torpedo was seen by the survivors. He is cabling the affidavits to the State Department without any delay, however. It is recognized that unless the State Department is able to obtain some tangible evidence that the Persia was torpedoed it will be unable to make vigorous representations to the Central Powers regarding the disaster.

Britons Threaten Rebellion.

London, Jan. 6.—England is facing what threatens to become open rebellion against the crown and the government in labor opposition to the conscription bill that has been introduced calling all single men to the colors. A monster mass meeting of the National Labor Congress held in Central Hall this morning passed a resolution protesting against compulsory enlistment in the name of 3,000,000 trade unionists, and there was little in the entire meeting to encourage officials.

That the crisis is grave is shown by the fact that the resolution regretted that "the solidarity of the nation has been gravely imperiled and industrial and political liberty menaced by the attitude of the conscriptionists."

The conscription bill will be passed. This much is certain and it adds to the seriousness of the situation.

Briton Recalls Officers.

Rome, Jan. 6.—All the British officers who have been in Italy on leave of absence were recalled to England today. These include most of the officers who are serving as observers with the Italian army.

German War Statement.

"Western front—Artillery duels are taking place at numerous points on the front. The enemy is shelling the town of Lens. A hand grenade attack by the enemy northeast of Le Mesnil was easily repulsed. Enemy aircraft attacked Daoui without success. German aviators shot down two English aeroplanes.

"East front—A German reconnoitering attachment advancing in the forest of Jakobstadt was compelled to retire before attacks by superior forces of Russians.

"Balkan front—There is nothing to report."

A meeting of the sewer committee of the Borough Council was held last evening in the Council room. Besides the members of the committee Mayor W. L. Smalley, the engineer and the two inspectors, James Walker and Charles Stahl, were present.

On Monday, Mayor Smalley, Chairman Tingley of the committee, and the two inspectors made a tour of inspection over the entire system. Few defects were found and steps were taken to correct these at last night's meeting. Both contracts are rapidly nearing completion. Estimates of the work will be furnished by the engineer at the Council meeting tomorrow night.

WHOOPING COUGH EPIDEMIC.

The epidemic of whooping cough in the local schools appears to have been broken. Against a maximum of 50 cases at one time there are only 15 cases at present.

In his message to the Council at its organization meeting on New Year's Day, Mayor E. B. Latham said among other things, "The recorder has also done credit to his office." In view of this many boroughites are wondering why David S. Campbell, who served as recorder last year, was not reappointed to that office.

NO CHANGE IN CONDITION.

The condition of Charles Milliken who is critically ill with pneumonia, was reported to be about the same today. His fever was lower, but he was somewhere weaker.

CHANGE IS FAVORED.

Favorable comment has been heard about town over the action of the Borough Council in deciding to relieve the police department of the care of the Borough Hall. This will enable the regular marshal, Patrick Tarpey, to use the time which he has heretofore devoted to cleaning the hall in patroling his beat. It is understood that Chairman Williams, of the building and park committee, in which committee the care of the hall has been placed, has received quite a number of applications from those who would like to be janitor of the hall. The salary is $6 a month

Plains & Fanwood.

At a joint election of the two Scotch Plains fire companies, Bucket and Engine and Excelsior Hook and Ladder, held on Tuesday night a chief and first and second assistants were elected to have jurisdiction over both companies in case of fire. The latter organization did not put up any candidates and so it resulted in the election of three Bucket and Engine men. Charles F. Meyer was re-elected chief, while Frank Weldon was the choice for first assistant and William F. Meyer for second.

A meeting of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held in the Excelsior Hall lodge rooms tonight. It will be the first one of the new year and the installation of the recently elected officers will take place. Henry C. Meyer, Jr., is counselor; Samuel B. McCauley, vice counselor; Harry Wade, outside sentinel; William Lindsay, inside sentinel; Walter Traynor, warden; John Reinhart, conductor; William I. Guest, financial secretary, and John Clark, recording secretary.

The Parish House will be open tonight from 7:30 until 10:30, but will be closed tomorrow. The Sunshine Weavers, who are to be the feminine representatives of the Parish House on the court this year, will have the use of the gymnasium for practice during the forepart of the evening, after which the boys will have it. The bowling alleys will be open and the high mark established since the recent re-opening of the place will be a mark to shoot at. William Beeken is the holder of the mark with 198.

A Christmas party proved to be a very entertaining feature of the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Episcopal church, which was held at the home of Mrs. Albert R. Riblet, of Russell road, yesterday afternoon. Twenty members of the society were present and after a short business session all gathered about a Christmas tree and spent the remainder of the afternoon in a social way. Considerable laughter was occasioned over some of the gifts that were received. None of them could be over ten cents in value. Refreshments were served later in the afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Townsend, of Russell road, next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The year that has just closed marked the adoption of a number of new ordinances by the Borough Council that have already proved their worth. Included among them were the junk dealers' ordinance, hawkers' and peddlers' ordinance, ordinances fixing the salaries of the overseer of the poor, the assessor and the recorder, ordinance regarding the digging up of roadway for plumbing purposes, and the ordinance requiring the licensing of dogs. In the majority of cases these ordinances were passed to gain control over the peddlers, plumbers and other more than for the sake of the additional revenue. One case happened recently when a peddler cheated a local resident. The Council was unable to reprimand him and have the power if the case requires to keep him from doing business in the borough. The proper committee from the Council is now engaged in compiling all of the ordinances adopted with the view of printing them under one cover and distributing copies to all of the residents.

A horse to cost not more than $250 has been ordered by the Council for the use of the police department for a mounted police officer on the outskirts of the town.

Because he slept in the cellar of the Apgar house at the corner of Carlton road and Park street, Officer John Dorsey has been fined ten days' pay and cautioned that a repetition of the offense would mean dismissal from the force.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED AND SORE FEET

Use "Tiz" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.

LAWMAKERS MEET TUESDAY

Governor said today that his message contained about 4,000 words, but refused to discuss what his message contained.

After the Senate has been called to order by Senator Rathbun, of Morris county, the Republican leader, the new Senators and those re-elected for a new term of three years will take the oath of office. They are: George F. Martens, of Hunterdon, re-elected; Samuel T. Munson, of Sussex, re-elected, and W. Edwin Florance, of Middlesex, Democrats, and Harold B. Wells, of Burlington; Lewis T. Stevens, Cape May, and Thomas F. McCran, of Passaic, Republicans. The Republicans, with their majority of five votes, or four more than last year, will organize the Senate.

Senator Reed, of Cambden, will be elected president, this honor carrying with it the postion of Acting Governor whenever Governor Fielder may be out of the State this year.

The nonor of being temporary president during the preliminary organization in the Senate is always given to the minority. The Democrats have selected Senator Ackley, of Cumberland county, for this position, and he will be elected president pro tem. The Republican majority will re-elect Francis B. Davis, of Gloucester county secretary, and will fill all the other minor offices. The Democrats will make nominations for these places, but the Republicans will be selected by the party vote of 13 to 8.

The House of Assembly will be called to order by Upton S. Jefferys, the clerk of the last session. The certificates of election of the sixty members will then be presented and they will take the oath of office. The action of the Republican caucus will be followed, and Charles C. Pilgrim, of Essex, will be chosen Speaker by the party vote of 40 to 20. Upton S. Jefferys, of Camden, will be elected clerk, and Captain James Parker, of Passaic, assistant clerk. The other minor officers will then be named by the Republican majority over those nominated by the Democratic minority.

Senator Rathbun will be the Republican leader in the Upper Branch, with Assemblyman Kates, of Camden, as the majority pilot in the Assembly. Senator Ackerson, of Monmouth, will lead the Senate Democrats, and Assemblyman Geran, of Monmouth, will look after the minority interests in the Lower Branch.

The Belgian Relief Association has received up to date for the portable house $2,699.32, which enables it to meet the bill of $2,685 for the house itself and gives it $14.32 of the sum necessary to move the building from the vactoy to the ship. The balance of the hundred dollars will probably come in during the next week and the committee hopes for more in order that it may send 100 beds with the house. These beds can be bougat for $165. Mrs. Megrew, chairman of the committee on bedding, thanks the members of the association for their contributions of $34 enabling her to buy the rubber sheeting and asks for the $63 necessary for the pads. Among those who have recently contributed to the fund for the house are Mr. and Mrs. John Doull Miller, Miss Mary Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Van Bosberck, Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt, Mrs. J. A. A. E. NICHOLS HEADS FANWOOD COUNCIL Elected President Last Night Announces Appointments for Ensuing Year.

The first meeting of 1916 for the Fanwood Borough Commission Council was held last night, when the election of a president for the ensuing year was made and Mayor William H. Hoar announced his various committees and other appointments. Albert I. Nichols, one of the oldest members in point of service in the Council, was unanimously chosen to fill the office as president of that body, a position left vacant by the retiring of Thomas H. Norton.

Mr. Hoar's appointments in the Council were of necessity greatly changed owing to the inexperience of the incoming members, and are as follows: Audit and finance, Fred W. Cressy, chairman; Offley Brown and Albert I. Nichols; streets and sidewalks, Augustus Sheelen, chairman; William G. Britten and Offley Brown; lights, fire and water, Albert I. Nichols, chairman; Augustus Sheelen and Albert R. Riblet; rules, regulations and ordinances, Offley Brown, chairman; Fred W. Creesy and Albert R. Riblet; poor and police, Albert R. Riblet, chairman; Albert I. Nichols and William G. Britten; printing and stationery, William G. Britten, chairman; Augustus Sheelen and Fred W. Creesy.

The Mayor's appintments were in all cases the same as for the past year and include William R. Cedington, attorney; Samuel W. McAnneny, clerk; Charles Sheelen, recorder; William J. Logan, marshal, and George Reiner, overseer of the poor.

The annual report of the finan ial condition was filed by Collector Charles Sheelen and showed the largest total of receipts in the history of Fanwood, totaling $18,082.24. The summary follows: Balance, 1914, $2,611.93; amounts miscellaneously collected, $923.27; 1915 taxes, $14,590.24, and franchise taxes, $487.87. The expenditures amounted to $13,434.60. Cash on hand January 1, 1916, was $2,625.54, while the delinquent taxes figure up to $1,922.10.

In submitting his year's report, Augustus Sheelen, chairman of the streets and sidewalk committee, briefly stated the work what had been accomplished, and submitted a table of expenditures that totaled $1,452.96, distributed as follows: 551 tons and 1,200 lbs. of stone, $509.77; 6,099 gallons of road oil, $200.05; labor on streets, $688.32, and labor and material for work done jointly with Fanwood township, $63.82.

An annual report was also presented by Frank G. Urner on behalf of the board of trustees of the Fanwood Public Library, giving a brief outline of the activities of the library during the past year. The number of books was increased to 1,317 by the donating of 32 volumes by various persons and the purchasing of 23 additional. The circulation was 1,107, an increase of over two hundred in the preceding year, and a cash balance of $120 was reported. The board also mentioned that the term of S. Dana Townsend as a member of that body had expired and recommended his re-appointment by the mayor, which was done.

Only a short business session of the Council was held. Albert I. Riblet, who took his seat in the Council, tendered his resignation as a member of the Board of Health to take effect at once. In filling the vacancy, Mayor Hoar appointed Mr. Riblet's brother, Ronald F. Riblet, to complete the unexpired term. Besides the auditing of eight bills aggregating $273.15, the Council approved the payment of a Board of Health bill amounting to $4 for inspections.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Mr. Earley announced today that the mid-year examinations would commence January 26 and continue for two days. The number being exempt will be limited this year as compared to former years as ninety per cent. has been affixed as the exemption mark, while previously an average of eighty-five was sufficient to excuse the pupils.

The treasury of the B. A. A. is at a low ebb and plans are now in progress to replenish it. A large supper will probably be given the latter part of this month. Members of the Parent-Teacher Association have signified their willingness to help boost the financial conditions of the school boys, and with this association behind the project, the affair should be a success from every angle. Now that the annual games with P. H. S. are drawing near, cheering practice will commence to teach all the yells to the new pupils and also the school songs. No definite cheer leader has been selected, but Clarence Roddy, of the senior class, will probably assume this role.

The monthly report cards will be given out next Friday. The marks in January will also be included in the work of the half year, and will play a prominent part in exempting the pupils from examination.

The junior class is making arrangements for the annual play to raise funds for the annual banquet to the graduating class.

TELLS OF WORK AMONG ESKIMO

were doing: I mean any simple, plain tracts on baby work, especially with large print, simple words and possibly illustrations. I think if you have and care to send us some, we might be helped to save many more babies.

"Among the Eskimo women in the north, I found that no woman, who had children, had not lost one out of every three babies before one year of age—and yet that is no worse than some are here. We have been bringing the Cleveland and Baltimore work for teeth among children to our people. One of my volunteer workers this year was a Miss Ball, of Cleveland, a most efficient woman and a charming personality. The settlers suffer all the ill resulting from poisonous teeth, and we have that splendid prophylactic movement going nicely. Of course, we do a good deal among babies, apparently But really ten times more should be done, and I feel every year more and more that the truest work for the Christ, the most undeniable, most indisputable, and the most permanent is the wise scientific work of love that really improves environment and gives the individual a chance to work out his own salvation.

"Both my wife and I expect to be in America this winter—indeed she and the two boys are now at Dr. Mixter's cottage at Swampscott, that he has lent us for the winter. I shall personally be lecturing. I seem destined to be ever wandering, but if I do get any chance to study that new baby prophylaxis I shall certainly consider the time well spent.

"The clothing is just splendid that the guild sends along. I am alone on board—doctor, magistrate, policeman, preacher, and clothes and charity distributor, besides skipper. So I have to keep things all ready, and I only wish you could see my cabin NOW. It is entirely laid out with baby garments, woolens, undercloth ing, a few outside garments, and some little heaps of 'heterogeneous supplies.' The poor fishing in this bay (White Bay) has left many destitute, and the high prices of flour (ten dollars a barrel) has left not one cent for clothing and little for fats. So the Labrador Guild clothing is invaluable. I use every inch and every rag. But I am very short of men's outside clothing, and women's under clothing and boy's outside clothing I see your sewing girls have most generously been permitted to make things for our work. It is along these lines that I am far most needy now. I have now some children's clothing, and that is all, and I am dealing every day with real hungry and naked people, who will work out the clothing in wood, or berries, or mats or labor. Good men, good workers.

"I must not further trespass on your time. Only please accept this very delayed letter as an expression of the sincerest gratitude for help I feel we owe you and your workers Please, if I may convey the thanks of the people to you and them, accept this hasty line as no measure, but only an expression of real heartfelt gratitude."

Miss Tatnall's letter follows:

"In making out my itemized report, I have been impressed each time I have come to your report, with the splendid things which you sent, and in such generous numbers, and I just want to write and tell you. All the dresses! and the petticoats! and the socks!! But I cannot enumerate them all. How they will be, probably already are, appreciated.

"Our collection this year is wonderful, and you have helped mightily to make it so.

"My heartfelt thanks and appreciation."

THE popularity of beer is not confined to any particular class. It may be found in the humblest cottage and in the most pretentious mansion.

It appeals to the workingman because it is a mild and inexpensive beverage which promotes home sociability, relaxation and comfort.

With the wealthier class beer is a popular beverage because it quenches the thirst, improves the appetite and aids digestion.

Capital and labor, both, have learned that the moderate use of beer means sobriety, steady nerves and a healthy body— that beer is the great liquid food, just as bread is the great solid food.

Beer has earned its reputation as the world's greatest food beverage. Its nutritive qualities promote health, its pleasant flavor satisfies and its mildness encourages temperance.

Because of these qualities and its absolute purity, we recommend the moderate use of the Real Temperance Drink—

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"The Old Soldier Fiddlers," four grizzled veterans of the late rebellion who style themselves as "Sons of the Civil War," will be the headline feature of the new vaudeville program which begins at the Plainfield Theatre today for the last half of the week. Despite their advanced years the old soldiers can handle the bow with the masterful energy of a youthful artist, and extract the kind of harmony from the violin that either brings tears to the eyes of the listeners or makes them clap with rapturous applause. The act is one of the most unique on the stage today, and comes direct from the largest houses in the country, where they have received hundreds of flattering press notices. Other numbers on the new bill will include Ben Levan and company, in a comedy dramatic playlet; Foy and Staats, in a musical comedy offering; Martin and Simes, "that entertaining pair," and Arbuckle and Dwyer, nifty nonsense. Another of the popular Will Fox feature photo films will be an added attraction to the program. It is the five-part masterpiece "Bought," which has created a sensation throughout the country through the boldness of its theme and the virile acting of its main characters. The leading roles are taken by Frederick Lewis and Miss Edna Gray Terry, both of whom are popular with Plainfield audiences Beside the regular program, the popular "country store," at which many handsome and costly gifts are presented to patrons, will be held tomorrow night.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

Wireless apparatus that weighs but eight pounds yet will transmit messages twenty-one miles and has received signals more than 300 miles, has been invented by a New Jersey man.

PITH AND POINT.

It takes ammunition factories to keep a good long war going.

Some of those Galician towns seem to be easier taken than pronounced.

There is also a falling off this year in the demand for seasickness cures.

There are different causes of popularity, but telling the sad story of one's life is not one of them.

While the inventors are inventing they might invent some cheap and sane substitute for war.

People seem to have more time to meet with accidents on Sunday than at any other time, and Sunday is a good day for better things.

Anna Howard Shaw's yellow car bids fair to become as famous as Dr. Langley's aeroplane or the late Mr. Holland's undersea terror.

WEATHER AND THE SCHOOL.

Cold, Calm and Clear Days Show the Pupils at Their Best.

Teaching children is not the easiest thing in the world. It presents a problem complicated by many and diverse factors. Some of these are only now beginning to be properly appreciated. One such is the influence of weather conditions.

Investigation has shown that the state of the weather has a marked effect both on the children's conduct and on their mental and physical powers.

This was first clearly brought out a few years ago by an American psychologist, Professor E. G. Dexter, whose researches still are among the most exhaustive and informing that have been made in this novel field of inquiry.

Professor Dexter, studying conditions in the schools of cities at sea level, like New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and of others at high altitudes, found that in the former the pupils were best behaved on cold, calm and clear days. Muggy days were productive of the greatest unruliness. A marked tendency to misbehavior was also noted on hot days and on windy ones.

In high altitude schools, such as those of the city of Denver, where mugginess is seldom in evidence, windy days were found to have the most disastrous effect on conduct. Cold, calm and clear days were again the days of best behavior.

With respect to working ability the same results were observed. Both mental and physical tasks were best performed on cold, calm and clear days.—H. Addington Bruce in New York Globe.

MACE OF THE SPEAKER.

Ancient Emblem Used in the House of Representatives.

In one respect the house of representatives surpasses the senate in dignity. The senate has no mace. Now a mace is not much in the way of furniture. It is a silver eagle mounted upon a staff around which are bands of silver.

This mace is always an emblem of the house of representatives. It is the duty of one employee to look after it. Just before a session of the house begins he takes it from the office of the sergeant at arms into the house chamber, and as soon as the speaker's gavel falls he inserts it in a socket in a stone pillar at the right of the speaker's chair. The mace remains there while the house is in session and is taken out and stood beside its pedestal when the house is in committee of the whole. When the house adjourns the mace is carried back to the office of the sergeant at arms.

This ancient emblem has not a thing to do with the order of business of the house save as one of the old time regulations that are continued. When the house is turbulent an officer seizes the mace and walks through the aisles. Only once or twice when the speaker failed to preserve order, said a Washington correspondent, have I seen an officer seize the mace and walk through the house, waving it backward and forward. Possibly the sight of it brought members to their senses and they retired to their seats. At all events, that is about the only real use for the mace that I ever have observed.

What a Toad Enjoys.

There are few things more amusing than to watch a toad submitting to the operations of a back scratching. He will at first look somewhat suspiciously at the twig which you are advancing toward him, but after two or three passes down his back his manner undergoes a marked change, his eyes close with an expression of infinite rapture, he plants his feet wider apart, and his body swells out to nearly double its ordinary size, as if to obtain by these means more room for enjoyment. Thus he will remain until you make some sudden movement which startles him or until he has had as much petting as he wants, when, with a puff of regretful delight, he will reduce himself to his usual dimensions and hop away, bent once more on the pleasures of the chase.

Fish In Former Times.

Men of former ages, unless they lived near the sea or a river, had great difficulties in gratifying their taste for fish. The great houses had their fish ponds or stews, but sea fish, such as cod, bream, sturgeon, herring and sprats, were salted, and the excessive consumption of highly salted fish in the middle ages is said to have produced leprosy. Fish was also baked in pies to enable it to be carried for great distances.

A Hint of Plagiarism.

"And why do you spurn this child of my brain?" asked the disappointed author as he received his manuscript back.

"Because," replied the editor coldly, "certain familiar passages it contains led me to suspect that it is an adopted child."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Different From Her Ma.

He—Why is it that there's never a match in this house? She (curtly)—I can't make matches. He—That's strange; your mother could.—Boston Transcript.

Equivocal Sympathy.

He—I feel nervous, Miss Sibyl. My head feels so full! She—Don't worry if your head feels that way, Mr. Simp. There's nothing in it.—Baltimore American.

LIFE IN THE SEA.

It Exceeds That of the Land, Square Mile For Square Mile.

The sea teems with plants and animals, and it has been estimated that the amount of life in the sea exceeds that of the land, square mile for square mile. Animal life is found nearly everywhere, even at the greatest depth; but it flourishes best at or near the shore. On the other hand, plant life seems to be absent over the bottoms of the ocean basins, but plentiful at the surface, where the sunlight plays an important part in its growth.

It is believed that the original forms of life began in the ocean many million years ago, and at no time since has life there ceased. Many of the earliest forms are now extinct; others have gradually increased in number and variety from their beginning to the present time. How long ago life began no one has definitely determined but it is known to have been many million years ago, for the remains of extinct animals and plants are found in the oldest sedimentary rocks.

According to geologists, the oceanic waters have made many incursions upon the continents and at times have nearly submerged them. Long ago, even in a geologic sense, before the birth of the Appalachian or Rocky mountains, the sea made frequent visits to the interior of our continent and left, after each retreat, a sandy, muddy or slimy deposit mixed with shells and other organic remains, which later became solidified into rock. Were not the organic remains still found in the deposits it would be difficult to believe that the ancestors of many present day sea animals once lived along the beaches of an ancient inland sea.—Geological Survey Bulletin.

FATE HAD WILLED IT.

So, In Typical Far Eastern Style, They Made the Best of It.

We were standing round a small fire—wrote Arminius Vambery, the Hungarian linguist and traveler, in his account of a caravan journey to Bokhara—when we were startled by two reports from firearms and the loud yelling of some person who was badly hurt. The whole caravan was alarmed, and we all ran to the rear, where we found one of our companions with a shattered arm.

The cause of the affray was this: Several horsemen who were conveying the annual taxes from Shiraz to Teheran had come up with two Jewish shopkeepers, whom they first insulted and then started to assault, when a Persian of our company interfered. One of the horsemen became so enraged that he lifted his rifle and shot at the Jews. He afterward declared that he had intended to frighten one of the Jews by shooting through his cap, but he missed his aim and hit the Persian's arm.

The incident so exasperated the whole caravan that our men pursued the culprit and brought him back securely tied. The poor wretch was given such a beating that he was unable to walk and was placed with his victim on one of the caravan mules. Left to themselves, the would be murderer and his victim became quite friendly. They tied up each other's wounds, consoled one another and went so far in their newborn friendship as to kiss each other, for according to the eastern way of thinking neither of them was to be held responsible for what had happened. Fate had willed it.

Hit Him Coming and Going.

An attorney went to a livery stable and hired a team for two or three hours and at the end of that time, in a state of absentmindedness, left the team at another livery stable, where it remained eight days. At stable No. 1 there was no worry about the team. They knew the attorney was perfectly good for the pay. At stable No. 2 there was equal freedom from anxiety. The attorney came there, left the team and went away, saying nothing. They put the horse into a stall and "chalked it down" on the office slate, knowing him to be a business man who paid cash. Discovery came at last, and the lawyer was presented with two bills, one for eight days' hire and the other for eight days' keep. He paid both bills promptly, but it cured him of being absentminded for nearly a whole month.

A Fearful Poison.

From the microbe which gives rise in human beings to the disease known as tetanus, or lockjaw, a poison called tetanine is obtained which is over 100 times more powerful than strychnine. A fragment of tetanine so small as to be invisible to the naked eye would kill almost instantaneously the strongest man. One fifteen-thousandth part of a grain of it has caused the death of a horse 1,600,000,000 times its own weight.—Pearson's.

Purely Feminine.

Small Niece—Uncle John, if you don't give me a cent I'll be mad at you. Uncle John—Here's the coin. Small Niece—And for 2 cents, Uncle John, I'll like you ever so much and for 3 I'll love you and for 4 I'll simply idolize you.—New York Globe.

Romance in High Life.

"Do you love me?"

It was an old question, but he sprang a variation of the stereotyped reply:

"I love the very ground you motor over," he said.—Kansas City Journal.

Must Be Pretty.

He—Have you ever looked in the glass when you are angry? She—No; I'm never angry when I look in the glass.

Who has deceived thee as often as thyself?—Franklin.

IT'S NOT WHAT WE SAY WE DO -- IT'S WHAT WE DO

How often have you read the promises of men?

How often have you paid the penalty afterwards?

We often question the advisability of telling about the clothes we sell, for talk is cheap. However, there is only one way to interest the man who doesn't know us and that is to advertise.

So, we are forced to use this method in getting in touch with you.

This advertisement is not going to say a single word about our clothes. Its only object is to invite you to visit our shop. When you are here, we'll show you. After all, that's the best way.

May we expect you in today?

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Starting today an entirely new bill of photo-plays is presented at Proctor's Theatre, and the vaudeville acts have all been changed except Miss Eva Fay, who will continue to entertain during the rest of the week. The Triangle plays include Douglas Fairbanks, who assumes a dual role in "Double Trouble," a comedy drama which abounds in interesting situations and contains lots of good wholesome comedy. The Keystone comedy presented the latter half of the week has Fred Mace, one of the greatest of comedians, in the leading role and is entitled, "A Janitor's Wife's Temptation." Special attention is called to the fact that tomorrow afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5, Miss Fay will give a private performance for women only, no men being admitted during those hours. Another feature that is introduced tomorrow is the new Pathe serial, "The Red Circle." Pathe is noted as the producers of the greatest serials ever released. Other artists who contribute to the vaudeville entertainment for the latter half of the week are Tom Kuma, a diminutive Japanese, who performers a series of contortions with lightning-like rapidity; Stanley and Le Brack, who offer everything from good clean comedy to several song and dance numbers. Mr. Stanley imitate Charlie Chaplin. Frankie James, a winsome lass, completes the entertainment by rendering several of the most popular songs. On Saturday afternoon the big toy matinee for the children will take place, and beside the many handsome presents given away from the stage, each child attending will receive an attractive toy. Send the kiddies and come yourself; you will all enjoy it.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

John Barrymore, king of light comedians, was the magnet that attracted a large audience last night to the U. S. Astor Theatre, when he was seen in a superb Paramount-Lasky comedy, "The Incorrigible Dukane," in which he attains one of the successes of his career in the films. Always amusing, Mr. Barrymore is positively a scream in this sprightly subject. There are numerous situations that cause riotous laughter Barrymore has been provided with a part that fits him like a glove, and he gives to it every bit of dramatic resource he possesses. In last night's audience were many admirers of Mr Barrymore, of whom there are many in Plainfield. Friday and Saturday the film attraction will be "Esmeralda," with Mary Pickford in the leading role. It is a Paramount picture in five parts, and little Mary is seen at the height of dramatic form.

SAVAGE ATHLETICS.

Canary Islanders Who Would Have Made Star Ball Players.

The Canary islands came into subjection to Spain about the time Columbus discovered America. The conquest was due solely to the superiority of European weapons and not to better skill and prowess. Native soldiers were trained athletes developed under a system that held athletic sports to be an important business, like military drill.

Spanish chronicles have left accounts of sports of the islanders. From babyhood they were trained to be brisk in self defense. As soon as they could toddle the children were pelted with mud balls that they might learn how to protect themselves. When they were boys stones and wooden darts were substituted for bits of clay.

In this rough school they acquired the rudiments of warfare which enabled them during their wars to catch in their hands the arrows shot from their enemies' crossbows.

After the conquest of the Canaries a native of the islands was seen at Seville who for a silver piece let a man throw at him as many stones as he pleased from a distance of eight paces Without moving his left foot he avoided every stone.

Another native used to defy any one to hurl an orange at him with so great rapidity that he could not catch it Three men tried this, each with a dozen oranges, and the islander caught every orange. As a further test he hit his antagonists with each of the oranges

FIFTH WHEELS.

They Are of Many Varieties, and Some of Them Are Human.

I am what is known as a fifth wheel—a useless piece of paraphernalia carried along as necessary impedimenta in other people's journeys.

There are lots of fifth wheels in the world. Some are old and rusty and out of repair, and down in their inmost nubs they long to roll off into the gutter and lie there quiet and undisturbed These are the old people, silver haired, self effacing, who go upstairs to bed early when guests are invited for dinner

Some are emergency fifth wheels, such as are carried on motorcars, always ready to take their place on the road if one of the regular wheels breaks down and needs to be sent away for repairs. These are the middle aged unmarried aunts and cousins—staunch, reliable—who are sent for to take care of the children while mother runs over to Europe for a holiday.

And some are fifth wheels like myself—neither old nor self effacing, neither middle aged nor useful, but simply expensive to keep painted and very hungry for the road. It may be only a matter of time, however, when I shall be middle aged and useful and later old and self effacing; when I shall stay and take care of the children and go upstairs early when young people are having a party.—Olive Higgins Prouty in American Magazine.

Disenchanted.

There is a maiden lady in Boston who useds to be very fond of Omar Khayyam. She quoted the Rubaiyat on all possible and some impossible occasions as though it were her Bible. But a short time ago she went to the play, "Omar, the Tentmaker," in order that she might see her favorite hero in propria persona. But instead of being pleased with the play she came home disgusted. Her copy of the Rubaiyat (limited edition, numbered copy, Holland paper, vellum binding, Vedder illustrations) has been burned or buried. She neither mentions Omar nor allows any one else to quote him in her presence. When asked the reason of her change of taste she replies gently, but firmly, "I didn't know he was a drinking man."—Independent

Children.

What are children? Flowers! They are flowers of the invisible world, indestructible, each with a multitude of angels and evil spirits underneath its leaves, toiling and wrestling for dominion over it. Blossoms! They are the blossoms of another world whose fruitage is angels and archangels. Or dewdrops! They are dewdrops that have their source not in the chambers of the earth nor among the vapors of the sky, which the next breath of wind or the next flash of sunshine may dry up forever, but among the everlasting fountains and inexhaustible reservoirs of mercy and love.—John Neal.

Quickness of Mind.

Quickness is among the least of the mind's properties and belongs to her in almost her lowest state. Nay, it doth not abandon her when she is driven from her home, when she is wandering and insane. The mad often retain it, the liar has it, the cheat has it, education does not give it, and reflection takes away from it.—Landor.

Your Faults.

THE CURIOUS KANGAROO.

A Theory Its Queer Style of Animal Architecture Suggests.

The kangaroo family is unique and is found only in Australia. It is the most remarkable branch of the order of the marsupials, or pouched animals, the pouch being a kind of pocket in which the young are nourished and protected for a long time after birth. The opossum is an example of a marsupial inhabiting America, but it bears no outward resemblance to a kangaroo.

The marsupials arose in very ancient geological times somewhere in the mesozoic age and later on nearly disappeared except in Australia and neighboring islands, where today they constitute the characteristic native fauna.

There is one curious fact about the kangaroo which appears all the more singular when we reflect upon the great antiquity of the order of the marsupials. It almost looks as if this extraordinary Australian animal represents a survival of a style of animal architecture which was once a favorite with nature, but has since been abandoned.

The frames of these creatures are characterized by an enormous development of the posterior parts, including gigantic tails and massive thighs and hind legs. If any of the dinosaurs had a leaping power comparable with that of the kangaroo the terror inspired by their forms must have been matched by that arising from their movements. —New York Journal.

HIS DAY OF REST.

A Town In France Where a Legal Holiday Is Strictly Observed.

The jeweler's face expressed bewilderment and astonishment and amusement. He looked from the artist to me and back again at the artist. He started at the end of every sentence to say something, but the artist didn't give him a chance. The artist kept on talking, while I kept on trying to control my sense of humor. I wanted to shriek. I longed for the ability to write shorthand, so that I could put it all down for posterity.

The [illegible] watch which to be mended, and we were standing in front of the jeweler's shop on one of the narrow streets of Douarnenez, a town in the extreme west of France. The shutters were up in front of the shop, and the jeweler was in his shirt sleeves, looking as if he had been waked up by our knock from an enjoyable after dejeuner sleep. The artist and I were leaving by the 3:15 train for Pont Croix, and we didn't intend to come back this way. It was Thursday, but the jeweler had politely explained that he could not give us the watch until tomorrow, although it was all ready and was hanging from its little hook in the shop at whose open door we stood. The reason was that Thursday had been chosen by the jeweler for his repos hebdomadaire—the one day in seven rest imposed by law.—Herbert Adams Gibson in Harper's Magazine.

Light of a Deep Sea Shrimp.

One of the most extraordinary crustacea ever discovered was dredged up by the Prince of Monaco from a depth of 16,000 feet. It has been named Oplophorus grimaldi. It is a sort of shrimp, and its peculiarity is that it squirts from two holes near its mouth a liquid which, on coming into contact with salt water, produces a fine pale blue light.

Absolute darkness reigns in the depths where it lives, but the little shrimp does not find it necessary to keep its light always burning. This would use up too much energy, so it squirts out the illuminating fluid only when it wants to look at something, or perhaps to attract the minute animalculae that form its food.—New York World.

A Poverty Stricken Queen.

Partly owing to the fact that she was wedded to an avaricious king and partly because she was generous with the little money allowed her Elizabeth of York, queen of Henry VII., spent but a small amount for dress. She was very often in debt, and the sums she spent were ridiculously small. 20 shillings ($5) being the greatest amount expended at any one time. Her gowns were mended and turned, and new waists were made for them, as is shown by the record of bills paid to her tailor These bills prove that she wore her clothes for a long time, for her gowns were obliged to be newly hemmed, and also that, though a princess of the great house of Plantagenet, she wore shoes costing but 24 cents, which were decorated with tin buckles Charm Cures.

Belief in charm cures is not quite extinct even today. Only a short while ago a child in East Anglia went to a chemist with a request from her mother for a spider in a nutshell to hang round baby's neck to cure his whooping cough. In the west country some still pin faith in the cure of whooping cough by administering cooked dormouse or by plucking a hair from the sick child's neck, hiding it in a piece of meat and giving it to a dog. No child will ever have the malady, others affirm, if it has ridden on the back of a bear!—London Telegraph.

THAT DALRYMPLE DINNER.

However well Essex county Republicans may have dined when they entertained Alfred W. Dalrmyple at dinner the other night, it is apparent that they have not entirely digested the meal, and that it may not be relished after all.

Everywhere in the State the dinner was accepted as a notification to voters that Essex is still in control of New Jersey and a defiance to independent citizens, and there are mutterings of rebellion. New Jersey Republicans have tired of Essex domination, it seems, and they will not meekly submit to it longer.

The Camden Courier leads the way.

The Essex Republicans who entertained Mr. Dalrymple are within their rights in continuing to hail him as their leader, but they should not forget there are other equally reliable and successful county leaders who are to be consulted in the management of party affairs, and that dictating who shall or shall not be candidates is not one of their duties. It is well to bear in mind the coming campaign that to insure harmony the people must have perfect freedom in choosing their nominees for Governor and United States Senator, and above all the Essex Republicans, powerful as they are when united, should not aim to "hog the trough" and seek to provide all of the nominees.

The Jersey Journal comments as follows:

Of course, the personal feature of the event last night is dwarfed by the larger significance that attaches to the proceedings, when the powers behind the scenes are considered. The banquet was the brazen announcement of the old Board of Guardians that it is on the job and that it is ready to defy the independents, as of old. It was notice to the progressive and self-respecting Republicans in the Legislature that the member who does not bow the knee may expect scant consideration.

It was a fitting supplement to the announcement of Franklin Murphy last week in declaring for Root for President and intimating that the Old Guard would attempt to produce twenty-eight votes in New Jersey for the Republican convention next June for any candidate upon whom the Old Guard might center.

Plainly, the banquet last night was a challenge. It is a challenge, too, that will be accepted. Let David Baird and Franklin Murphy be under no delusion as to that.

The Hudson Observer says the dinner proves that "Essex Republicans want all" and the Trenton Times insists that when Senator Colgate hailed Mr. Dalrymple as "Alfred the Great" he did not complete the sentence, he should have added the word "Joke." The Jersey Journal thinks that, of course, former Governor Stokes will not miss the point about the Dalrymple dinner. It continues:

"If Stokes and Bugbee needed any further tip that the Old Guard looks upon them as down and out, that tip has now been furnished.

ROOSEVELT AND THE HYPHEN.

Many newspapers, most of them anti-Roosevelt, to be true, are editorially tearing their hair over an imaginary tendency on the part of Theodore Roosevelt to flirt with the German-American or hyphenated American vote. We are left to figure for ourselves upon what act or assertion of the Colonel such an assumption is based. It is characterized as "sad nonsense" by the Boston Transcript, which is an apt description. Nonsense it certainly is, and it would be sad indeed for the little band of rabid Germans who still cling to their documentary citizenship in this country, for obvious reasons, to blindly put their trust in the Progressive leader should he become a presidential candidate. Whatever may be said of Roosevelt, he is American, truly and wholly. At a recent luncheon, Colonel Roosevelt himself declared emphatically that, much as he disliked President Wilson and his policies, "he would, in the event of the Republicans nominating any man on a hyphen platform or on hyphenated promises, support Wilson with all the strength at his command."

George S. Viereck, in a late issue of The Fatherland, finds comfort in the thought that as yet neither Roosevelt nor Wilson has received the nomination for 1916, and he declares that it is the duty of German-Americans "to fight their nomination, tooth and nail." But—

"If Mr. Wilson should be again the nominee of his party, and if Mr. Roosevelt should receive the Republican nomination, we can decide which of the two is the lesser evil. The German-Americans may vote the Socialist ticket rather than cast a ballot for either Roosevelt or Wilson."

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Fasting versus Starvation

THAT most of us eat too much and that most of our ills are directly or indirectly the result of over-eating, is now pretty well known. If good evidence is demanded to support the idea we have it in the remarkable good results obtained in the treatment of various ailments by fasts.

Right here let us beg both physicians and laymen to refrain from calling fasting, starvation. To fast means to abstain from food; to starve means to die from hunger. One may fast voluntarily and with good effect; one would not voluntarily starve. The careless misuse of the term starve or starvation when a fast is meant, tends to frighten timid invalids and perhaps oppose an insuperable obstacle to a very necessary, beneficial fast.

One of the most spectacular applications of therapeutic fasting is the new treatment of diabetes. By means of a preliminary fast of a few days it is possible, as investigators in the Rockefeller Institute, New York, and elsewhere have shown, to clear up the glycosuria (sugar in urine), and place the patient in a state of balanced metabolism which can be reached in no other way so promptly and safely.

A twelve or twenty-four hour fast is an old and efficacious remedy for an acute so-called "cold."

People are generally obsessed with the belief that it is dangerous to skip a meal or several meals. That three square meals a day are essential for good health and strength. That loss of appetite is a thing to be whipped into shape by all sorts of artificial stimulants, whereas in fact loss of appetite is mostly a fortunate thing for the overfed.

Missing a meal occasionally is a habit most of us ought to acquire. Especially if we are a few pounds overweight for our age and height. Especially if we are of a "bilious" type. Especially if we are subject to indigestion. And very especially, if we are victims of that many-sided condition, autointoxication. Missing a meal is a lot better than tamping a meal down by the help of cathartics.

Fasting, as a remedy for one whose health is frankly poor, for one with a definite disease, is not an experiment to be tried as a patent medicine, but a powerful therapeutic measure to be applied only by the physician who thoroughly understands the patient and his disease.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Grape Juice Propaganda

Is grape juice (unfermented) a nutritious, healthful beverage? How does it compare with wine?

Answer—Grape juice possesses at least ten times the strengthening qualities of the best or worst wine. Wine surely is a mocker when used with the mistaken notion that it is tonic or blood-building.

Why The "Schools" Are Not In Harmony

As you seem to take a broad liberal view of the healing art, says Francis, I would like to ask you why the various schools of healing do not harmonize, why the medical men sneer at the chiropractors, for instance?

Answer—There is only one reason that we know of, to explain any gulf between the schools. It is this. The art of healing isn't born in a man, nor is it inherited; it is acquired by hard study. The State fixes a minimum standard of educational preparation for physicians. All the medical men ask is that no short cuts be opened for uneducated or half-educated practitioners. Let all "schools" be admitted to practice on equal terms.

Vest Pocket Essays

BY GEORGE FITCH

THE DACHSHUND

THE Dachshund is Germany's masterpiece in the dog line. He is a long, flexible dog and is made by grafting the fore and hind quarters of an ordinary black-and-tan dog onto a large liverwurst. Science, thus far, has only succeeded in producing liverwursts about two feet long, but in time this record will undoubtedly be improved until eventually Dachshunds will be produced which will take several minutes to pass the reviewing stand and will wear pony trucks under their fifteenth ribs.

The Dachshund has a long, sharp nose, very bright eyes and a healthy contralto bark. His tail is thin enough to be used as a pipe cleaner and his long expressive ears hang down into the pan at dinner time. Like the new-fangled automobiles, the Dachshund is underslung and has very little road clearance. He has only about three inches of leg on each corner and it is difficult for a young Dachshund to tell at first glance whether he is standing up or lying down. Because of his abbreviated and badly located legs, the Dachshund is not a good traveler and is forever tripping on toadstools, beetles and grass blades and running his nose into the ground. Nature has, in fact, given him such ridiculously incompetent underpinning, that he is always falling down in one direction or another and when he desires to sniff the breeze he has to roll over on his back in order to get his nose out of the dust.

Dachshunds are very intelligent. They have to be, in order to manage their bodies, which they do with all the grace of a woman handling a four-section train. They are greatly beloved by the Germans, who cultivate them with all the passion displayed by the Hollanders in cultivating tulips. The German uses his Dachshund as a hunting dog and it is an impressive sight to see one of the enterprising animals winding busily over the landscape, nosing a rabbit out of a hole on one side of a hill and communicating the fact to its master on the other slope by wagging his distant but vigilant tail.

It is an impressive sight to see one of them winding over the landscape

The Dachshund is very affectionate and is a delightful companion. Speak to him kindly and his eyes will light with delight, while later on his tail, wherever it may be, will get the glad news and wag frantically.

Views Of The Press

Sailor's Slang

THE language of the sailor differs from other technical nomenclatures in being an old collateral growth with the standard language, and in being freer from the restraints of written forms. On the one hand it preserves old forms, and on the other, it still gives free play to the operation of phonetic changes. "Yawl" is the real nautical word represented in Dutch by "jol" and in Danish by "Jolle," while the form "jolly-boat" must have been nurtured on dry land, where the written word exerted its influence. The old variants, "strop" for "strap" and "strake" for "streak," used by sailors, as well as "bilge" for "bulge," and "taut" for "tight," show both the relation and the distinction between the technical language and the standard language. The free play of phonetic change is illustrated in "channels" for "chain-wales," "gunnel" for "gunwale," "rullock" for "rowlock" and "trunnel" for "tree-nail." The same thing appears in the pronunciation of "studding-sail" as "stuns'l," "forecastle" as "foc's'l," "bowline" as "bowlin," "leeward" as "loo'rd," "forward" as "for'd," "topsail" as "tau-s'l," and "boatswain" as "bo-s'n." But we can hardly expect that the dictionaries will ever acknowledge "flu'es" for "flukes," "davies" for "davits," "bully-beef" for "boulli beef" or "dilly-wreck" for "derelict." But pronunciations such as these are facts in nautical parlance, though "dilly-wreck" has not yet passed from the forecastle to the cabin. The dry forms preserved ashore for the instruction of landlubbers cannot stand the sea air.

The power of word composition, so generally lost in English, survives to some extent in the sailor's language. To be intelligible we must write "main-topgallant-sail," but the sailors says "main-t'gal-ns'l." He uses also the prefix "a," equivalent to "on," more frequently, as in "aboard," "abeam," "astern," "amidships," "aweather," "atrip." He puts the helm "hard alee" or "aport" or "astarboard." "Aft," "abaft" and "after" are nicely distinguished as adverb, preposition, and adjective, as "he walked aft, stood abaft the wheel and watched the after sails." A sort of adverbial use of "to" is delightfully easy and expressive; the ship "heaves to," "brings to" or "comes to"; a coast is "steep-to" with no soundings "close-to," or the ship has a "lean-to" to windward. Grammatical "subaudition" is hardly equal to constructions like these.

Upon heaving the lead the sailor reports the result as "and a quarter five," which means five fathoms and a quarter, or, "a quarter less five," which means four fathoms and three-quarters. This reminds us of Latin "sestertius" for "semistertius" or German "halb vier." Another old form is well preserved in the naming of certain points of the compass, usually called the "by" points, "north by east," for example, is the first point east of north; with which compare Anglo-Saxon "be-eastan," to or on the east of, "her-be-eastan," east of here.

These are but suggestions of the relics of the past and the natural vitality still maintained in nautical speech. From generation to generation a comparatively, large proportion of the English people have lived within seafaring influences. The sailor's language may be only a technical nomenclature, but it savors of a healthy dialect.—St. Louis Star.

The Rent Is Due

Q. A certain person rents two rooms for light house-keeping, with the understanding that he is to pay weekly in advance. If, through hardship, he becomes in arrears a week or two, when does the landlord have the right to ask him to vacate?

A. This depends on the agreement between the parties. If the agreement does not cover the case, the statutory notice must be given by the landlord.

Buried, But Not A Pipe Of Peace

Q. Mr. M. L. B. several years ago constructed jointly with two men an irrigation pipe-line leading from the canal to their orchards. Owing to differences, he now wishes to buy, sell or divide the pipe-line. What recourse has he?

A. If he cannot agree with the other two men as to what would constitute a fair and equitable adjustment of the matter, or is unable to reach an agreement with them as to terms or price, his only recourse is to have his lawyer file the proper court proceeding.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Winning Testimony

It is no easy matter for an advocate to get his own evidence properly before a court and jury, and it is therefore important for him to remember that cases are often won or lost by the straightforward statements of the parties themselves, and the natural, homely way they sometimes have of putting things.

The following case will illustrate this point:

A builder was suing for extra work done on a dwelling. The defence was that everything had been paid for as originally contracted. An expert was called as defendant's witness. He testified that the house was six inches lower than called for by the specification; that the windows were on weights instead of opening out on hinges like French windows and that there were other material defects in the workmanship. Item by item had to be carefully scrutinized. There was a chimney too short, a cornice defective, etc. The jurors were much worried and confused. Finally, defendant herself, an illiterate woman, took the witness stand on her own behalf.

She knew nothing of books or architecture or plans, but "she was sure the plaintiff had made the house entirely contrary to her bargain, for he promised that the windows would reach clear to the floor. She remembered telling the plaintiff so, and explained to him that, if they had a death in the family and wanted to take a coffin out on the porch, French windows would open like a door, and let it out without cramping it in a narrow hall, and bruising the edges of the coffin all up."

This graphic description settles the question with the jury, and the woman went away happy.—The Art of Direct-examination.

Current Poetry

Perversity

I told her she had aster eyes,
And lips as crimson as the maple;
She looked at me in grave surprise,
Remarked my similes were staple.
I bade her know her foot was light
As is the fawn's, that woodland roamer;
She stated, though I might be right,
The saying was as old as Homer.

I spoke about her sumach lips,
And of her white throat like a lily,
Then felt a sudden heart eclipse,
For she averred that I was silly.
But when I whispered that her voice
From trouble was a sweet entrance
And made the soul of me rejoice,
She didn't even deign to answer.

I nigh despaired, I will admit;
I was downcast, dejected—very,
For I'd exhausted all my wit,
And almost my vocabulary.
But when I clasped her, scorning fear,
Grown through exasperation bolder,
She murmured, "You are just a dear"
And put her head upon my shoulder.

Pepper Talks

Brick Upon Brick

If you have ever watched the building of a structure you have noticed one simple principle running through the entire job from the first marking out of the ground to the last piece of material added at the top. And it is this—that every single stroke of work is made with the idea in view of that which is to follow.

Remember that the Total Value of the finished job rests with Each Effort in its construction—at the time that it is put forth.

It is the principle of Brick upon Brick. Each Brick merges into every other Brick so that the completed structure does not stand as a structure of single Bricks—but as Brick upon Brick. You don't think of it as a Bricks structure but as a Brick structure.

You do not think of a Character as made up of Virtues and Values, but as a Completed Thing made up of the Best—in One—that the man has been able to create and mould into something permanent.

Every Minute that comes to you to-day begging Service shall have a bearing on the value of every Hour to you, and every Hour shall sound the value of your Completed Day. So that, as you work, let the thought not leave you for a moment that it is this day of all days of your life that is to count for the Most.

Determine that Every Minute shall mark the Brick upon Brick principle of Efficient Service—for you.

Snap Shots

By Jay E. House

The case of the Peoria woman who has sued her husband for maintenance arouses Eph Wiley's indignation. Eph says the women of this country have reached the point where they ask too much.

Another thing that is badly needed is more sawing and less hammering.

It is only after a man has become either rich or famous that you claim to have gone to school with him.

An aged colored woman who did not claim to be more than one hundred years old would attract some attention.

Unless it is something that needs to be done, you can safely trust the people to do it.

It is assumed that the Chicago man who was awarded a Carnegie medal got it for that reason.

After you have read his description of it, the most difficult thing is to understand why the owner of the house wishes to sell it.

A young man wants to know if his laundry has been delivered, but an elderly man merely is curious to learn whether his socks have been darned.

A sick man cares very little for either tobacco or women.

When the leading woman is an indifferent actress, that means the leading woman's husband or lover has money invested in the show.

Household Hints

INEXPENSIVE CARROT HAS POSSIBILITIES

There is probably no vegetable which is so inexpensive and yet so little used as the carrot.

Escalloped Carrots—This makes a substantial supper dish. To do this prepare three cupfuls of dried carrots, butter a baking dish, place a layer of carrots in the bottom, sprinkle thickly with ground wheat bread crumbs which have been mixed with melted sausage fat and then add a layer of canned tomato pulp, which has been seasoned; continue until the dish is filled, finishing with the crumbs; bake for an hour in a slow oven.

Carrot Patties—Put six boiled carrots through the sieve or food chopper, break over them two fresh eggs and mix well, rub six crackers fine and add to the first mixture, season with salt and cayenne pepper, form into cakes and fry a delicate brown, serve very hot on a platter garnished with parsley.

Creamed Carrots—Dice three cupfuls of carrots, boil in salted water until tender; while the carrots are boiling make a sauce of one cupful of cream or thick milk and one tablespoon of butter mixed with flour; boil the sauce until it is smooth and thick when carrots are ready, drain and place in a dish, pour over the sauce and serve.

Carrot Pie—Carrot pie tastes just like pumpkin pie and is fine. Two cups and a half of mashed carrots, one egg, one tablespoon of flour and one-half teaspoon of baking powder, one cup of milk, salt and sugar to taste; bake in a slow oven for one hour. This makes a palatable pie.

Carrots With Bacon—Cut four or five slices of bacon into small pieces and fry; when onions and carrots are brown, not cooked, add water, one tablespoon of extract of beef, salt and pepper; put back the bacon and let the whole simmer for one-half hour; just before serving put in some chopped parsley.

Scrambled Carrots—Cut the carrots into strips, and boil in salted water; when tender strain off the water; put a large lump of butter and two tablespoons of flour; in another stew pan add some chicken broth, or some hot water, making a smooth sauce; add the carrots and the yolks of two or more eggs, with a pinch of sugar.

Carrot Pudding—Cup of grated raw potatoes, one cup of grated raw carrots, one-half cup sugar, one cup of flour, one egg, one cup of raisins, one cup of currants, butter size of an egg, two small teaspoons of baking soda dissolved in a little hot water, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg; steam three hours. Sauce: One cup of milk, one cup of sugar, three-fourths cup of butter, two teaspoons of vanilla, two small teaspoons of cornstarch added in a little water; let boil a few minutes.

CRANBERRY DISHES

When cooking cranberries add to them 1½ to two medium-sized apples. It takes away the bitter taste, also requires less sugar. It certainly is fine.

Cranberry Conserve—One quart cranberries, two-thirds cup cold water, two-thirds cup boiling water, one-fourth pound seeded raisins, one-half pound English walnut meats, one orange, 1½ pounds sugar. Pick over and wash cranberries. Put in saucepan, add cold water, bring to boiling point, let boil until skins break. Force through strainer, add seeded raisins, nut meats, broken in small pieces, orange (washed) thinly sliced then cut in small pieces (removing seeds); add sugar. Again bring to boiling point and let simmer twenty minutes.

Jellied Cranberry Sauce—Four cups cranberries, three cups sugar; add two cups boiling water to berries; cover, boil six or eight minutes, then add sugar and boil five minutes more. Long boiling destroys the flavor. If you dislike the skins, strain berries before adding sugar.

Cranberry Salad—Jellied cranberries, nut meats, olives, celery, head of lettuce, mayonnaise dressing. Prepare cranberries as in jellied cranberries. Pour into individual molds. When cold turn each out on a lettuce leaf. Chop nut meats, olives and celery together and sprinkle cranberry molds with them. Over each mold put a large spoonful of mayonnaise dressing. Serve with crisp salted wafers.

THE BRAVE LITTLE GIRL.
By Tudor Jenks.

A brave little girl (perhaps 't was you)
Once thought she met a bugaboo—
A large as any ever seen,
Quite as cross, and twice as green!
It seemed to be just—standing there,
With something between a grin and a glare

But this little girl said to the bugaboo,
"Oh, pooh! I don't believe in you!
here is no need for you to stay,
So—scat! You 'd better run away!"
And just as sure as sure can be,
That bugaboo changed to the stump of a tree!

Then the brave little girl just nodded her head:
"I see it 's true as mamma said—
That the bugaboo is n't even an elf:
It 's only a 'when-you-scare-yourself.
If you just keep cool and say, "Oh, pooh!"
It puts an end to the bugaboo!"

Overcoming Fear.

In regard to dealing with every kind of fear, the most essential factor is that the mother herself must be fearless. Even if her heart is quaking in sudden terror, she must never manifest it to her child. If she can put up a brave front, she will surround the child with an atmosphere of courage which will by and by keep him immune from every unreasonable fright.

I happened to see a mother deal with the question of danger the other day in a way that interested me. She was visiting a friend, and the two-year-old boy, who was of an investigating turn of mind, strolled out into the back shed and, finding an attractive spigot within reach, he proceeded to fill his tin cup with kerosene, and just as he saw us coming to find him he hastened to drink a good big swig of it. It irritated his throat sufficient to make him cough and cry, and his strange color and the twitching of his body were a little alarming.

A glass of milk and soothing words helped him to composure, and what pleased me was the fashion in which the mother made capital out of the occasion. She was still trembling and colorless when she started into show the child that spigots were various. She made him see, baby that he was, the relation between his action and the smarting throat, and it seemed to me as I listened that she had, through her self-control and her wisdom, taught the child a lesson he would never forget, and at the same time had saved herself from a repetition of the incident, when she might, perhaps, have been excused for going into hysterics or swooning.

Congress of Mothers' Yearbook.

The Yearbook for 1916 is now ready. It has been prepared by Mrs Orville T. Bright, and should be in the hands of every officer of a State or local association.

The national secretary will send it to every State and local president whose name is on the list at the national office. Those who do not receive a copy will please see that the list of officers of their associations are sent to 10 Loan and Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Others who desire a copy (and every member will be interested in it) may receive one by enclosing ten cents to the national office. The Yearbook contains the president's report for 1914-1915, showing the work done during that period.

A Danger Signal.

"In discharging the somewhat arduous duties of a mother of seven, I have been prevented from writing sooner. It was my fortune to teach in the public schools until my marriage. Since then I have had my children to teach, so I have never been out of school work.

"The present trend of affairs is taking the responsibility off the shoulders of the parents and placing it in the hands of a corporation namely, the school. This is all wrong. The school is merely an auxiliary to the home, a sort of first aid to the injured, and as such is a very great blessing, but when the position is reversed it is time to hoist a danger signal. I wish I might be able to persuade parents to realize and assume their own responsibilities."

In children's gardening we may reverse history, so far as we ourselves are concerned at least, and start out with the last ideas in the beginning. For the health and intelligence—wisdom—of children, we must give them gardens. Many, very many teachers have told of the better condition of children when school opens in the fall who have had gardens during the summer. Their definite occupation out of doors, enjoyed, with results to show either in flowers for others, vegetables for mother, or, perhaps, a little money, with souvenirs for remembrance, never fail to make better children of the young workers.

Industry, thrift, knowledge, skill, forethought, patience, judgment—these are some of the qualities developed along with health. And pleasure by the wholesale. If the schoolroom work supplements garden work so much the beiter for the school—and child; but if it does not, then the real life of the child in spring and summer is with his heart in the great outof-doors.

Fancy and all the affections bud and blossom in the garden. Do you remember Robert Louis Stevenson's "Mustard and Cress" I am quite sure there's a "true story" back of it

"Elizabeth, my cousin, is the sweetest little girl,
From her eyes, like dark blue pansies to her tiniest golden curl;
I do not use her great long name, but simply call her 'Bess,'
And yesterday I planted her in Mustard and in Cress.

"My garden is so narrow that there' very little room,
But I'd rather have her name than get a hollyhock to bloom;
And before she comes to visit us with Charlie and with Jess,
She'll pop up green and bonny out of Mustard and of Cress."

—Hoping to find a good job should be based upon persistent advertising for the job.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Vesuvius Blew Off Its Own Head.

Deep Down Inside It Fires Rage.

"I KNOW a good story about a volcano," daddy offered.

Jack and Evelyn clapped their hands, which meant go ahead, so daddy described it. "About ten miles inland from the shore of the most beautiful bay in the world".

"What's its name, daddy?" cried Jack.

"The bay of Naples. Its waters change from sky blue daytimes to red and plum and gold at sunset, and about ten miles away rises Vesuvius, a wonderful mountain that is also a volcano. This means that deep down inside its fires rage still, and when underground moisture meets these fires a great power of steam bursts through the top, hurling everything skyward."

"Just like a wet firecracker!" Jack imagined.

"The top of this treacherous volcano used to be a plain, but so many fires have broken through that Vesuvius looks as if it blew its head off. If we climbed up its ashy slopes and stood on its hot, sulphury, steaming edge we would look right down into a hollow cup of most marvelous colors—bright yellows, ugly reds, bright browns and strange purples. This top is so hot always that nothing can grow on it. A guide will make you keep walking about, so that the soles of your shoes will not burn through. Nothing but loose lava, which is like cooled ashes glued together, and volcanic black sand border the cone. But down near the bay at the bottom of the slope grow beautiful vineyards and olive orchards."

"The olives mamma won't let us eat?" cried Evelyn.

"Yes; their trees," said daddy. "Since men have kept a record of what happens on earth, which is called history, Vesuvius has broken through its earthy crust over this terrible pot of fire as many as thirteen times. Once, about a hundred and fifty years ago, Vesuvius behaved especially ill. Flames three times as high as the volcano, which is about 4,000 feet, streaked up into the beautiful Italian sky, and so powerful was the force raging inside that enormous rocks, red hot stones and tons of dirt were hurled 2,000 feet in the air, which is as far as from here to your school. Tons of hot ashes fell back and flowed down the volcano like a broad river of fire four miles long. Destroying all life that stood in its way, sissing and boiling, it flowed into the bay, which threw back enough steam to wrap the whole lovely city of Naples in a wet hot blanket. Now run to bed like good children, and some night soon I'll tell you what Vesuvius did in the year 79," promised daddy.

"Dear daddy!" cried Jack and Evelyn.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Olive Ellson's Plans for Rearing a Child Scientifically Come to Grief.

"Really it is funny enough to print." Miss Ellson sat down with her plump arms folded over her plump bosom, a broad smile on her cheerful rotund countenance.

"Tell me about it," said Molly as she watched the caller swaying gently back and forth.

"You see Olive has read all the books on child life that she could get hold of, and what she doesn't know is not in print," began the doctor's sister. "She told me before the baby came that there was to be no spoiling and humoring; life was to go on in the home practically unchanged. Of course she was perfectly willing to allow time for bathing, feeding and the care recommended for a perfectly modern baby, but when not receiving these attentions the little miss was scheduled to lie in cool retirement by herself either waking or sleeping. The doctor was to be considered first, she gravely informed me. Women made a mistake when they turned a house upside down for a baby. It was enough to drive a man to drink or his club according to his status in the social scale, to have everything disturbed with a crying baby." Miss Ellson chuckled softly to herself.

"'Isn't your well regulated baby going to cry?' I asked, a wicked twinkle in my eye. I'd brought up four, you know.

"'Oh, certainly,' she replied promptly, 'a baby should cry as much as two hours a day for lung exercise.'

"'And after that?' I asked.

"'Well, if a baby is well and normal, it will not cry,' she answered with conviction. I began to wonder if I had not been a great bungler when I recalled the long gusty nights and wearing days I'd spent soothing mine when they refused to be comforted for hours together." Miss Ellson smiled reminiscently as she swayed back and forth.

"Poor Olive, she was so sick, she had not much strength left to inaugurate reforms in baby management," said Molly.

"That house is like a bee hive," continued Miss Ellson. "Mrs. Dunn goes around there with an expression on her face as if she had just viewed the remains and was all uncorked to cry at the funeral. Cora shut up her cottage and came over to take charge of the housework. You know she kept house for the doctor before he was married and she thought she could help out that way the most. Then they got a little maid, a foreigner, who washed dishes and floors. She was a willing little thing, but if you took your eyes off of her she'd wash dishes with the floor cloth, or some equally outrageous thing, so one had to set apart one eye to watch her with. After the trained nurse went away—before that no one was a free moral agent—I was installed as nurse, but I was under orders. If I put the little mite over my shoulders and rocked her, Olive would say:

"'Please don't rock her, dear; it addles the brain to be swayed and rocked.'

"'I always wondered what I'd done to the doctor to make him so flighty,' I said, grinning up at him. 'Now everything is explained.' He tweaked my ear to reduce me to order.

"As soon as the baby was fed I had to put her in the basket, because holding her would excite her and spoil her, so down she went. I was in a teachable mood and wanted to know what the latest in baby rearing was. When the poor little thing had yelled for ten or fifteen minutes Olive would say:

"'Do you think that is a temper cry? If she is really in pain, of course——' Then I'd pick her up.

"Did that clock strike ten? I must go and bathe the baby. Good-bye. I'll tell you the rest later."

WILL HOLD OPEN DOG SHOW HERE

Plainfield Kennel Club Announced Plans at Annual Meeting.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

A. C. Wilmerding Returned to Presidency and J. J. O'Donohue Again Secretary — Unprecedented Prosperity Awakens Enthusiasm.

An open indoor match show will be held here this winter, it was decided at last night's annual meeting of the Plainfield Kennel Club. A Clinton Wilmerding was re-elected president, S. S. Carvalho being made vice president, John J. O'Donohue secretary, John A. Conway treasurer, and John F. Zerega the fifth member of the board of governors, which is composed of the officers and one other.

The bench show committee is composed of John A. Conway, T. K. Bray, J. J. O'Donohue, J. G. Rossman, Richard J. Harrigan, Charles C. Wheeler, F. N. Anderson, John F. Zerega, Lawrence B. Smith and E. P. Thomas.

The place and date for the show will be decided later. J. G. Rossman, president of the Dog Lovers' Association, gave an interesting talk about that organization.

It was announced that a $25 solid silver cup would be awarded by the club for the best dog, either sex or any breed, benched by a Plainfield Kennel Club member in the big Westminster Kennel Club show in New York next month.

Last night's meeting was the eighth annual, and the fact that the club is enjoying the most encouraging condition in its history has excited almost unbounded enthusiasm among the members. Besides being in a flourishing financial condition, the club is constantly increasing in size, numbering at the present time more than seventy members, which, it is expected, will be increased to 100 this season.

The club's last show, held a year ago, was a success, financially as well as materially, despite the fact that most of the fixtures held elsewhere last year lost money. The local show was restricted to exhibitors living within eight miles of this city, so that with the 1916 show non-restrictive there will be a much larger entry list. While the date is undecided, the show will probably be held about March 1, in one of the larger halls. While the lack of a building in Plainfield suitable and large enough for a big show, benching 600 or 700 dogs, makes it impossible to hold a big A. K. C. fixture here, no trouble is expected in finding a place for the show now being planned. It was for the want of a large hall that last year's fall show was not held.

A smoker will be arranged shortly after the show. Entries will close with the secretary, J. J. O'Donohue.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL MAY HAVE NO TRACK TEAM

After electing a captain and manager several weeks ago, the enthusiasm of the Plainfield High School track team candidates has dwindled, and it is more than probable that the Red and Blue colors will not be sported on the cinder path this year. This supposition is aggravated by the news that Harold Tyree, who was to take hold of the coaching helm this year in place of Jack Fritts, will not return to his position on the school faculty from his home in Ohio, where he was called shortly before Christmas by the illness of a member of his family.

CORNELL, SYRACUSE AND PENN ON YOST SCHEDULE

PLAINFIELD A. A. ON LONG END OF SCORE

Jones Aggregation Runs up 51 Points to 28 for St. Joseph's.

The Plainfield A. A. overwhelmed the St. Joseph's Club on the Saengerbund Hall court last night, 51 to 28. It was the first game of the season for the borough church team.

Benny Rosenson scintillated, dropping in ten baskets from play. Andy McDonough at center was the losers' best point gatherer.

TRIO OF BASKETBALL GAMES HERE TONIGHT

Girls and Boys in Columbus Club Double-header—Dances Follow.

Two basketball-dancing attractions are billed for tonight. In Columbus Hall, the Knights of Columbus boys will play St. Paul's Parish House, of Westfield, and the Plainfield Five girls will play a team of local maidens. In Saengerbund Hall, the Westfield High School boys will oppose North Plainfield High School.

All three games give promise of being well played. The Columbus Club team has not lost a game this year, but will doubtless be given a good argument tonight. The Recreation Five, of this city, earned brackets over the St. Paul's, but had to put up its best game of the season to do it. The almost invincible Plainfield Five was given a good run last Thursday by a team of undergraduates from the local high schools, and the opposing line-up tonight will be composed for the most part of high school graduates. Manager Smith's combination will have to hustle to kepp its record unscathed.

The game in Saengerbund Hall will be Westfield's first appearance here.

N. P. H. S. FAVORED TO DEFEAT P. H. S.

Weight and Experience With Borough Girls in First Championship Tilt.

The first game for the girls' interscholastic basketball championship between the N. P. H. S. and P. H. S. feminine fives will be staged in the Plainfield High School tomorrow afternoon. North Plainfield is favored to win despite the fact that the first game will be played on the opponents' floor. James J. McNamee will referee the game.

Neither team has played in more than a week; but have put their time in at hard practice. N. P. H. S. has the best of it when it comes to veterans and experience. Size is also on the Red and Black side, as Coach Ruth Wean's charges are the lightest that the Red and Blue has had in several years.

The seating capacity in the Plainfield High School gym is limited, and a rush for seats is sure to result from the efforts of the cohorts of the two schools trying to see the initial contest of the annual scrap.

The probable line-up is as follows:

P. H. S.—Irma Good (captain), Elsa Palmer, Dorothy Butler, forwards; Marion Lansdale, side center; Clementine Bremble, center; Jennie Bremble, Natalie Goeter, guards.

N. P. H. S.—Lillian Spencer (captain), Marjorie Burtis, forwards; Theresa McCullough, side center; Adelaide Ricketts, center; Bertha Keller, May Doughty, guards.

In the next game the Rahway team dropped to 747, and the Newarks, with 837, had a lead of ninety pins. The last game was close and interesting, the Newarks, with 837, showing the way by nineteen pins. Smith tallied 212, 211 and 201 for the Newark team, averaging 208. McCartney tallied 231 for Rahway.

EVA FAY PREDICTS N. P. H. S. VICTORY.

Eva Fay, thaumaturgist, showing at Proctor's Theatre, here, last night answered a query, "Will North Plainfield High School win the championship?" She predicted that N. P. H. S. would win the title, but not without a hard struggle. Which championship the question referred to was not announced, but judging from the applause of a bevy of girls in the audience, it was about the girls' interscholastic basketball, the first game of which will be played at Plainfield High School tomorrow afternoon.

TOMMY LEACH HAS WONDERFUL RECORD

Veteran Recently Made Free Agent Has Been Star for Almost Two Decades.

Wee Tommy Leach, last week given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati club, after seventeen years' continuous service as a major league player, is one of the grand old men of baseball. Last season, with the single exception of Honus Wagner, who joined the Louisville Colonels two seasons before Leach broke into the majors in the same club, Tommy was the patriarch of the game.

With the Reds last season Leach appeared in 107 games, and hung up a batting average of .224, his lowest in many years.

Although a native of the Empire State, Tommy spent his youth in Cleveland. Tommy was 18 when he got into the professional game in Hanover, Pa., at a salary of $30 per month. The club soon went on the rocks, but Leach landed with Petersburg in the Virginia League.

In 1897 he was hired by Youngstown, O., but failed to make good in such fast company, and was reduced to a semi-pro club in Geneva. In those days Tommy usually covered the third sack. It was while playing that position with the Auburn New York State League club in 1898 that he made a reputation that got him a chance to shine in fast company. Tommy swatted at a .325 gait with Auburn and in 1899 he was invited to join the Louisville National League club.

Tommy covered third and short for the Colonels, and when the club was transferred to Pittsburgh in 1900, Tommy went along with Fred Clarke, Honus Wagner, Deacon Phillippe, Rube Waddell and other Kentucky stars. He remained with the Pirates until 1912, when he went to the Chicago Cubs. He was a regular with that club last year and batted .263. With the Reds last season he was perceptibly slower and his swatting average fell off considerably. Tommy knows a lot of baseball lore, however, and even if his active playing days are over he is still a valuable man to have around.

Never a Ty Cobb with the bat, Leach in his prime had no equal in fielding his department. He holds the highest percentage as a centre fielder gained by any player since the beginning of professional baseball, hanging up the record while with the Cubs in 1913, when his fielding percentage was .990. No other occupant of the middle garden has ever come within several notches of that mark.

TO USE Y. M. C. A. HALL AS AN AUXILIARY GYM

Plans are under way to use the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium for handball, wrestling, boxing, fencing and other sports. Members who want to indulge in these pastimes are often unable to secure the gymnasium, when there are conflictions with basketball and floor work. It is planned to transform the auditorium into an and floor work. It is planned to transform the auditorium into an auxiliary gym which will be of great benefit time to time in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

JOHNNY ERTLE ASPIRES TO BE REAL BANTAM CHAMP BEFORE YEAR CLOSES

Johnny Ertle.

One of the important fistic events of 1916 is sure to be the promised battle between Kid Williams of Baltimore, bantamweight champ, and Johnny Ertle of St. Paul, challenger. In the recent battle between this pair, Ertle was declared the winner on a foul, but he was not given the title because the bout was fought in Minnesota, a no-decision state.

ELIZABETH TABS PUT UP 1068 MARK HERE

Set Record for Locals' New Alleys, But Lose Two Games.

Plainfield Tabs registered their first triumph over Elizabeth Abstainers in their annual home-and-home bowling series, when the two teams locked in a match of classy pinning on the local society's new alleys. Plainfield averaged 901 and took two games from the Elizabeth boys, who averaged 933, the visitors putting up the towering total of 1,068 in the second game, a record for the new chutes that is likely to stand a long time.

Both sides had plenty of supporters, and there was no small amount of rooting. The two games Plainfield won were interesting struggles, and what the second game lacked in the way of competition was made up by the exceptional work of the Elizabethans.

The Elizabeth Tabs crowded all their double centuries into the last game, when Kernan rolled 243, Dillon hit 217, Connelly posted 215, and Kerns had 212. Kernan averaged 203. Bill Skinner averaged 198 for the homesters, having one 216 game. Jim Scott rolled 202 and 211 for a mark of 196. Rohrs hit 201.

The customary social and dance to the visiting delegation follows the bowling.

High class bowling marked the Elks' League series at Jersey City last night, Hoboken winning two games. The Germans totaled 1040 for a starter, lost the second when the homesters went up to 983, and took the rubber with 968. The winners averaged 974 and the losers 940.

Mahlenbrock averaged 214 for Jersey City, with tallies of 227, 224 and 191. Earle inserted one 246 lick for Hoboken, and averaged 206. Schneider posted 213 and 230, averaging 200.2, while Steinbruck shot 235.

The 1040 made by Hoboken in the first game is the third highest score made in the league this winter. The defeat sent Jersey City to ninth place.

The important Elizabeth-New Brunswick series, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed because of an important meeting of New Brunswick lodge. As these two teams are tied for first place, unusual interest was being centered on the match.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

URGE REVISION OF STATE LAWS

Commission for Survey of Municipal Financing Prepare Extensive Report.

FOR PUBLIC WELFARE

Arthur N. Pierson, as Chairman of Commission, Points Out Defects in Present System, with Needed Changes.

Believing that the laws which govern the financing of public affairs in New Jersey are sorely in need of revision, Arthur N. Pierson, as chairman of the Commission for the Survey of Municipal Financing, will present an extended report of recommendations to the Legislature when it convenes next week. The committee is of the opinion that the recommendations in the report are absolutely necessary for public welfare and to properly safeguard the interests of the taxpayer.

The commission's report shows that a careful study of present conditions has been made.

The aim of the survey is given as follows: To review the operation of the statutes now in force, the practices employed, and the general conditions present in financing municipal and county affairs.

To comprehend the scope of present and future needs, and to present recommendations that shall promote businesslike, efficient and economical financing of municipal and county affairs without disturbing the policy of the present general laws; that public welfare may be advanced and the interest of the taxpayers properly safeguarded. The report states that the present laws are inadequate for an orderly administration of public affairs.

In a letter from the New Jersey Savings Bank Association strong recommendations are made for State audit and supervision of sinking funds, for serial bonds and for a new sinking fund act which shall proper-

UNTIMELY DEATH OF FRANK A. PUTNAM

Well Known Young Man Dies at Parents' Home After Brief Illness.

Frank Arthur Putnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Second street, died at 3:30 o'clock this morning, following a short illness with a complication of troubles predominated by typhoid pneumonia at the finish. His illness first became apparent on Christmas Day and although it was not considered serious at first, took a sudden grave turn and for the past few days he had been in a critical condition. Every effort was made to combat the disease and the young man himself made a desperate fight but all to no purpose.

The death of the young man is especially sad from the fact that he was in the flower of his youth and had glowing prospects for the future. He was born in this city twenty-three years ago and after graduating from the Plainfield High School with the class of 1911 began a business career in New York. At the time his illness began he was employed by the New York Vacuum Oil Company. Mr. Putnam was a talented pianist and took an active part in the entertainments and musicals of the local Recreation Committee. At various times he was a member of Plainfield orchestras. He had been an attendant at Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school from the time when he was a mere child, being active in a number of its departments. In disposition and manner, it is doubtful if there is another young man in the city who was his equal in this respect and the friends that he had can be counted by the hundreds. His father is also one of the best known residents of this city through his long business career as a dry goods merchant in the firm of Putnam & DeGraw and later as an inspector for the Union County Mosquito Commission. To both he and the bereaved relatives the sympathy of the community is extended. Beside his father and mother the young man is survived by one sister, Miss Hazel Putnam.

Mr. Putnam was a member of the Plainfield Musical Union and Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.

The funeral service will be held at the parents' home, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Scotch Plains cemetery, Monday morning.

Local Militia Body is Planning to Make This Year's Event the Best Ever.

Company K members are making extensive preparations for their annual fair which will be held from January 29 to February 4, inclusive, in their quarters on West Front street. The entire armory is to be turned over for dancing during the week, while the second floor over Gavett's store will be kept for various ather attractions that will be a feature of the affair. In order to make this year's event a gala one, the committee has arranged to have professional attractions.

Captain Charles Peterson is general chairman of the entire fair; James B. Conkling is treasurer, and Sergeant Tranchand is in charge of the printing and advertising. The remaining members of the committee in charge of the affair consist of Sergeant George Apgar, dancing; Sergeant De Camp, donations; Sergeant Pearson, hat and cloak check room; Corporal McGoldrick, soda; Sergeant Van Arsdale, ice cream; Lieutenant Phillips, rifle range, and Corporal Stephen Millwater and F. Bedell Wills will have charge of the baby racks.

The rifle range is to be run under the regular system used in scoring by the regular army and will be made up of three classes, military, civilian and all-comers. Substantial prizes will be offered in competition matches of the various classes. This will be an excellent opportunity for the young blood to see what they can do and under what conditions the regulars and National Guard shoot. A feature of the fair will be an enlisting booth, where young men of the city will have the opportunity to join Company K, with no expense. Members of the company will be in charge throughout the week and will be pleased to explain the benefits of membership in the organization to any eligibles. A women's auxiliary has been formed by the wives and friends of the members of the company with Mrs. C. A. Peterson as president.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR WILL VISIT PLAINFIELD SOON

War taxes are payable this month, and the deputy collector for this district, James P. McNamara, has designated the time and places for collection.

Anyone not paying the tax during the month of January is liable to a fine of fifty per cent. of the amount due. On Thursday of next week Mr. McNamara will sit in Plainfield.

APOLLO MALE QUARTET DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE

"Gems from the Opera," a song recital by the Apollo Male Quartet, of Newark, attracted an audience of several hundred music lovers to the Plainfield High School, last night. The recital was one of the series of free entertainments under the auspices of the Board of Education and was fully up to the high standard set by the Board.

The quartet was enthusiastically received by the audience and was obliged to respond to several encores. The singers also gave several numbers not on the program. A pleasing feature was the piano selections and accompaniment by Miss Baldwin, of Newark. One number which elicited much applause was "Lucia" for left hand only.

HEAVY FINES FOR LOCAL GAMBLERS

One of Quartet Indicted in Middlesex County Also Gets a Jail Sentence.

JUDGE DALEY PRESIDES

Makes Lengthy Address When Men Are Arraigned, Telling How Convictions Are Secured—Another Plainfielder Sought.

Judge Peter F. Daley, in the Middlesex county court at New Brunswick this morning imposed heavy fines on the local men arrested about a month ago for conducting crapshooting establishments in this vicinity. Three Plainfielders and one Dunellen man were the defendants, receiving punishment as follows: Patrick Martin, alleged to be the proprietor of the rendezvous on Golf avenue, just over the south end of the city line in Piscataway township, one month in jail and a fine of $200, with costs of court additional; George Margentino, who shared in the profits of the Golf avenue place, $200 fine and costs of court; Thomas McNamara, an assistant at the Golf avenue place, $100 fine and costs of court; Herbert E. Nelson, of Dunellen, who conducted a place in Middlesex borough, just over the west end of the Dunellen line, $200 fine and costs of court. In addition all four are to report to the Middlesex county probation officer for an indefinite period.

When the men were first arrested after indictments had been found against them, Margentino and McNamara pleaded guilty, while Martin and Nelson denied their guilt. Martin was unable to secure bail and was lodged in jail, a fact which was taken into consideration when sentence was passed. Some time ago he entered a plea of non vult and after the others had been sentenced this morning, Nelson asked the privilege of withdrawing his plea of not guilty and substituted one of non vult instead. All four men were committed after the cases were disposed of, pending the arrival of friends with the necessary amount of money to secure their release. It was said about the court room that payment would be made by everyone.

When the men were arraigned in court Judge Daley addressed the de-

20 BOYS FALL IN DEEP PART OF POND

Three Nearly Drown When Rescued From Water by Passersby.

More than a score of boys were thrown into Tiet's pond shortly before dusk last evening, when a large section of the two-inch ice broke. Three boys suffered more than the others, and one, Dudley Richardson the eight-year-old son of John W. Richardson, of 202 Watchung avenue, was almost drowned.

Young Richardson was completely overcome when he was hauled out of the icy waters by Michael Powers, of Hillcrest avenue, and Alfred Smith, of West Front street. Powers, who is a coachman for C. C. Burke, of Belvidere avenue, was passing in a wagon when he saw the lad struggling in the water. He drove the boy to his home, and Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned. The boy is confined to his bed today, and has not yet fully recovered from the large amount of water he swallowed.

The other two boys who suffered from the involuntary plunge were Jack Lyons, of West Third street, and a small colored boy, whose name was not learned. More than a dozen of the youngsters dried their clothes in the boiler room of the Y. M. C. A.

The breaking of the ice was caused by a large crowd of youngsters gathering around two boys who were fighting. The place where the crowd fell in is near the dam, and is one of the deepest parts of the pond. That there was not at least one fatality was due to the quick rescue work of men who were passing.

The next meeting of the committee will be held in the parish house next Thursday morning at 10:30.

TESTIMONIAL TO FIRE OFFICIALS

West Enders Express Appreciation to Chief T. O. Doane and Councilmen.

FIFTY IN GATHERING

Affair Held Under Auspices of Reminiscent Club Conveys Confidence of Citizens in Selection of Motor Apparatus.

Fifty representative citizens of the West End tendered a testimonial dinner and gathering last night to Fire Chief T. O. Doane and the members of the councilmanic fire committee, as an appreciation for the new combination chemical and hose apparatus which has been installed in No. 3 Fire House on West Fourth street. The affair was directly under the auspices of the Reminiscent Club, but was attended by others outside of the organization, and took place in the club's headquarters. There were plenty of speeches, music and cigars topped off with an elaborate supper served at 10 o'clock. It was one of the most successful affairs the club has yet conducted, and was made all the more auspicious from the fact that it conveyed to the fire officials the full confidence of the West End in their ability to select the proper kind of apparatus needed by that section of the city.

Barton K. Davis presided as master of ceremonies, and in the course of the evening introduced the following speechmakers: Chief T. O. Doane, Councilmen John H. Cose and Charles C. Graves, former Councilman Theodore A. Martin, who was one of those selecting the new apparatus; Rev Frederic L. Greene, David L. Coleman, Thomas M. Muir, Charles Johnson, Peter Voorhees, Captain George Mehl, George Houseman, John King Den. J. Galbraith, Mr. Loughlin and a number of others.

The main idea of the citizens was to convey their thanks to Chief Doane and the councilmen, and these officials all expressed appreciation. The speech of Councilman John H. Cose, who is now chairman of the fire board, was of unusual interest. Beside thanking the gathering for their vote of confidence, he explained the relation of a fire official to the citizens and to the men who are sub-

TO PROBE SANITY OF RALPH RUNYAN

Somerset County Court Hears Story of the Assault on Mason.

The case of Ralph Runyan, charged with assault upon Frank Mason, was continued for one week after evidence had been heard by Judge Daniel H. Beekman in the Somerset County Court in Somerville this morning, and when it is called again reports will be made on the sanity of the defendant.

Runyan, who was a boarder at the Mason home, struck the latter over the head with a heavy piece of iron pipe one week before Christmas. He could give no reason for his act, declaring that he did not even remember striking the man with whom he had been friends.

The case was hotly contested in court. Judge William De Meza, of Plainfield, appeared as counsel for Runyan. Both Runyan and Mason took the stand during the morning. Mason was asked directly whether or no the trouble occurred as a result of friendliness of Runyan for Mrs. Mason and denied this, saying that he could think of no motive for the assault.

Runyan told a strange story of the crime. He said that he and Mason were sitting together in the dining room of the Mason home in North Plainfield and that he left his friend to go upstairs for some headache tablets. He took four of them, he says. The bottle bore the fabel "Stephenitate." After that he remembered nothing until he was in a cell in the borough police station on a charge of asasult. He admitted that he could have no reason for striking Mason.

Dr. Buchanan testified that he had known Runyan for years and that the man was evidently telling the truth as there was no evidence of deception in his manner.

It was agreed by both sides that the case should be adjourned for one week while an examination was made into the sanity of Runyan.

It was announced that in two weeks, L. D. Beers, of the Plainfield High School, will give an illustrated lecture on "A Trip Through the Maine Woods," and all boys eligible to membership in the organization will be invited.

GERMANY YIELDS TO U. S. DEMANDS

All Controversy Over Submarine Warfare to Be Settled.

A CONFERENCE TODAY

Will Disavow Sinking of Lusitania and Outline Future Policy—Means End of Diplomatic Troubles of America.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States, will see Secretary Lansing at 3 o'clock this afternoon and at that time settle the Lusitania controversy with the American government. German embassy officials let it become known today they had received despatches from the Berlin foreign office yielding to the American position in its entirety. Germany is willing to disavow the sinking of the Lusitania and to admit that the torpedoing of the vessel an illegal act, but committed under extenuating circumstances. Secretary Lansing at the close of the cabinet meeting had heard nothing of the proposed Lusitania settlement, but stated that he would meet Count Bernstorff this afternoon. The German embassy officials are confident that the solution proposed by the German government will be entirely satisfactory to the United States and that an end to all friction over the submarine warfare is in sight.

No Submarine Was Seen.

The State Department received a cablegram from Consul Garrels at Alexandria today, stating that all the affidavits he had obtained so far show that the Persia was sunk without warning and that none of the passengers saw a submarine. The Consul has obtained the testimony of Charles Grant, an American survivor, and twenty other passengers.

Austria Knows Nothing.

Secretary of State Lansing today stated that Ambassador Penfield sent a despatch to the State Department from Vienna, saying that the Austrian government had received no information regarding the sinking of the Persia, according to a statement made by Count Burian, Austrian minister of foreign affairs.

Ambassador Penfield stated that the Austrian foreign minister did not commit himself to a further statement and did not directly deny that an Austrian submarine may have been involved in the case. A request is made of the State Department by Austria for any information regarding the Persia in its possession.

Cabinet Discusses Persia Case.

Although lacking information on which to base a definite policy, the cabinet today devoted the major portion of its time to a discussion of the sinking of the Persia. Secretary of State Lansing brought all his despatches from Alexandria and Vienna for consideration at the session and the views of individual members were solicited by President Wilson.

No Course Decided On.

'Plains & Fanwood.

At the first meeting of the Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held in the Excelsior Hall lodge rooms last night, there was the installation of the recently elected officers. Reports from the retiring financial and recording secretaries showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition, and the large number of members installed during the past year was also remarked on.

The past year saw the practical settlement of an argument that had been rife between the officials of the borough and township for the past decade, the controversy regarding the maintenance of the roads forming the boundary lines between the two towns. Nothing had been done on Westfield road, King street or Summit avenue since the discussion arose as neither the borough nor township were willing to bear the entire expense. It has been decided that the expense of up-keep will be borne by the two equally and already King street has been repaired under that agreement, while the other two thoroughfares will receive attention as soon as possible.

CHARLES W. MILLIKEN DIES IN 38TH YEAR

Popular Young Man Passes Away Soon After the Death of His Mother.

Charles Wesley Milliken, aged 38, one of the most widely known and popular young men of this vicinity died at his home, 1810 Front street at 6 o'clock last night, after a short illness with pneumonia. His death follows close upon that of his mother Mrs. Sarah A. Milliken, who died on New Year's Day, of the same malady.

Mr. Milliken had been confined to his home since Wednesday of last week, when symptoms of the grip first developed. By New Year's Day it had obtained such a hold on him that he was obliged to take to his bed. The news of his mother's death that day was broken to him as gently as possible. He was greatly shocked, and on the next day, Sunday, pneumonia developed.

Mr. Milliken, who had not been in robust health since he was a child received a great shock a year ago last August, when his daughter, Esther, was drowned in a cistern in the rear of his home, and it is said that he had not known a well hour since.

Mr Milliken was born in the house in which he died on September 23, 1877. He received his edlucation in the local schools, going through the Irving School and then entering Stillman High School. He left the High School in his junior year and entered the shop of the late Theodore Vroom the sign writer, located on the third floor of the building at present owned by Schwed Brothers, at the corner of Somerset and Front streets. This shop is at present occupied by Jerry Van Winkle.

Mr. Milliken was nineteen years old when he entered Mr. Vroom's employ. In three years he had mastered the trade which he was to follow through life, and then he purchased an interest in Mr. Vroom's business. This partnership continued for three years, when Mr. Milliken decided to go in business for himself. He had a shop built in the rear of his present home, and shortly built up a flourishing trade in lettering, house and wagon painting and general decorating. His business grew so rapidly, in fact, that ten years ago he decided to take James Bolmer, of West Third street, into his business. The partnership, which was conducted under the name of Bolmer & Milliken, continued up to the time of Mr. Milliken's death.

Mr. Milliken was a type of man the loss of whom is keenly felt by a community. In his home he was a devoted husband, father and son.

Six years ago he married Miss Madaline Debele, daught of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Debele, of Rock avenue, who survives him, with two children, Dorothy, aged four years, and Eleanor, aged four months. Other survivors are his father, Elias, aged 84 and three brothers, William, of Brooklyn; Thomas, of New York city, and Edgar, of this city.

The funeral will be held at the late home at 1 o'clock, Sunday afternoon The officiating clergyman will be Rev E. R. Brown, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. Mr. Brown will be assisted by the Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church. The deceased was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M.

GALAXY OF FEATURES FOR T. A. B. S. BAZAAR

Last night's crowd at the St. Mary T. A. B. S. fair was another record breaker and indications are that the receipts for the week will exceede by far the expectations of the big committee. The evening was again pleasantly spent with many side attractions beside the principal diversion that of dancing. The many booths were well patronized.

Tomorrow night the fair will wind up and the committee in charge has arranged a galaxy of fine features. A feature of the closing will be a supper served tomorrow from 4 o'clock until 7. The committee in charge of the supper consists of the Misses Mary McDonald, Margaret O'Keeffe, Alice McAfee, Theresa Murray, Jennie Higgins, and the Messrs. Joseph McCue, John Force, Joseph Carroll, Daniel Kreger and William Boyle.

As a special attraction for the closing, the committee has been very fortunate in securing a sextet of entertainers from Newark. Included in the final program will be the distribution of prizes to the various winners of the contests.

This month we clear the slow sellers, and reduce general seasonable stocks to meet this rule. Prices throughout the store are considerably less than normal in order to induce a more usually liberal buying on the part of our customers.

ly describe the classes of investment for sinking fund money, and recommends that a majority of the sinking fund commission shall not be connected with the local government. The letter urges a new form of certified report of the financial condition of municipalities and counties.

The special recommendations are:

1. For a uniform fiscal year for all municipalities and counties, same to be the calendar year.

2. Amendment to the tax law, which will impose a penalty upon the municipality for non-payment of county and State tax to the county collector when same is due.

3. The budget, which shall give a schedule of all sources of receipts on the one side, and all sources of appropriation on the other.

4. It recommends tax anticipation notes to be issued rather than the old form, and after taxes are due and in arrears, to issue tax revenue notes which shall run for three years only.

5. The claim is made that much of the present floating debt is caused by improper financing of the above class, and proposes that all municipalities be allowed to bond the present floating debt by ten year serial bonds, the claim being that the recommendations, if enacted into law, will prevent the creation of a further floating debt.

6. It is proposed to relieve the Legislature of the numerous validating acts which appear each year, by a better and more approved method of validation, the claim being that it is not the function of the Legislature to validate bond issues.

7. The present method of financing improvements is criticized. It is proposed to separate the assessment improvements from general improvements, the claim being that much of the improper financing that is present will be done away with by the recommendations made.

8. An interesting chapter is devoted to the sinking fund problems. Many proofs are offered to show the importance of sinking fund obligations. It is claimed that the sinking funds must continue to increase until they have reached $125,000,000 to furnish a proper fund to pay the present bonded indebtedness of municipalities and counties. This indebtedness is given as $225,000,000.

9. A recommendation is made to rehabilitate all sinking funds that are below their proper requirements.

10. It is proposed to sell bonds at par, and the bid to be made upon interest rate, rather than the present method of receiving bids for a fixed interest rate, and have the bidder offer a premium. It is claimed that this is a more scientific way of selling bonds.

11. The sinking fund is to be given a preferred right in a portion of the bonds sold from time to time up 25 per cent. of the issue.

12. Serial bonds are strongly recommended. The claims made to support this recommendation are that serial bonds are more simple, and yet more positive, in their operation. It is claimed that this is really "The pay as you go" basis for financing public debt, and that it will do away with all the perplexities and risks of collecting investments and safeguarding the sinking fund, and eliminate the long chain of "ifs" that are present in the sinking fund plan.

13. An interesting chapter is devoted to debt limit. It is proposed to make the debt limit for municipalities, 10 per cent.; for counties, 2½ per cent., excepting those which have a park system, which shall have a 3 per cent. limit. The last 2 per cent of the municipal limit, and the last 1½ per cent. of the county limit must be submitted to the people for their approval.

14. A uniform report, or a report of the financial condition of municipalities and counties under properly classified heads, is called for so that the financial condition of the political subdivisions of our State can be properly analyzed and compared. It is claimed that a report of this kind would create a saving of $1,200 over the present reports, which are described as of little value.

15. Most of the recomendations are in line with the recognized principles of orderly government, and it is claimed are indispensible to a proper administration of public affairs and for the welfare of the taxpayer.

In a letter from a prominent New York bond house, the statement is made that only the taxpayers have suffered from our poor system of financing. This is sufficient reason to straighten out our laws, as the taxpayers' burden is heavy enough without adding to it because of bad methods and loose practices.

MRS. CATHERINE HART DIES IN HER 88TH YEAR

Mrs. Catherine Hart, aged 88 widow of John Hart, of Bound Brook, died at the home of her son Richard H. McCullough, 21 Steine place, at 10 o'clock this morning following an illness of two months from the infirmities of age.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Catherine Beddle, was a member of an old Somerset county family. She was married twice, her first husband being the late Richard McCullough. Mr. Hart died about six years ago.

Three years ago Mrs. Hart fell on the ice and broke a leg. Despite the fact that she was 85 years old, the break knitted nicely and up to two months ago she had been enjoying good health.

Her only survival is her son, Richard McCullough, with whom she was in the habit of spending the winter. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

THE FORUM

Editor of the Plainfield Daily Press:

I have read in your paper many interesting letters from time to time and am taking the liberty of addressing you on a new subject, which is of vital interest to nine hundred and ninety-nine of every thousand of our population.

I refer to the Stevens bill, which was introduced to Congress, February 12, 1914.

The object of this measure is to further the interest of honest merchandising, and the beneficiaries will be the honest merchant and the general public.

The measure is aimed to prohibit dishonest advertising and subterfuge in the method of merchandising as practiced by certain mail order houses and chain stores systems which gain prestige by offering cut prices on a few standard advertised articles of known value, and qualify their offer by recommending another similar article of inferior grade and doubtful value.

This is the whole secret of their success, and it plainly depends on the ignorance of the public as to the real quality of the recommended substitute and the gullibility of the people.

The manufacturer who makes a product or an article of high standard and gives it a name or brand by which it is known and identified, has now no protection from the practice of the cut-rate artist, who proceeds to create the impression that the article or product is over-rated, and that his cut-rate price represents the real value.

It is a fallacy to assume that the price cutter pockets the loss. The public makes it up, and more too, on other purchases on which the value is not known and established.

The Stevens bill proposes to protect the consumer and the small merchant alike by creating a square-deal-everybody system, and the bill should receive the support of every fairminded man. Let us get together and impress our Congressmen and Senators that we favor a square deal, and that we want them to support the Stevens bill.

The United States Chamber of Commerce and Boards of Trade throughout the country have endorsed the measure, and the only opposition is from the big interests, monopolies and mail order houses.

Get busy readers, and inform your national representative that he has your support in favoring this measure or he will feel like passing it up if you do not declare yourself, because the classes opposing it have money and influence as well as an inclination to make it hot for him.

Be more than passive and exercise your influence: in this way only can real good be accomplished.

SAMUEL ROTHBERG.

Great Hymn's Pathetic History.

Of all our hymns none has a more pathetic history than "Abide With Me." The Rev. Henry F. Lyte, who wrote it, was practically under sentence of death at the time. For twenty-four years he had been vicar of Brixham, Devon, and it was on the day he preached his final sermon there that Lyte, then about to start for Nice, where he died, composed the hymn. "Intended," it has been said, "as a hymn of comfort for those who were about to depart from life and not primarily as an evening hymn." Of the eight verses only four or five are commonly sung, the general sense of congregations having eliminated about half of the hymn as Lyte penned it.—London Spectator.

Is It the Danube?

It is arguable whether the part of the Danube east of Belgrade should be called the Danube at all, for on the map it certainly looks as if at Belgrade the Danube flows into the Save, not the Save into the Danube. Accordingly we find that the ancient Romans called the river above this point the Danube, but below it the Ister, Istria being the region in which the headwaters of the Save are to be found. The name of the Danube itself has been variously derived from the German "donner" (thunder) and "tanne" (fir tree) and from Celtic sources.—London Chronicle.

Carlyle and His Home.

When the great writer Carlyle was engaged to Miss Welsh the latter induced her mother to consent that Carlyle should live with both of them and share the advantage of an established house and income. But Carlyle answered Miss Welsh's proposal by saying that two households could not live as if they were one and that he would never have any right enjoyment of his wife's company till she was "all his own," adding that the moment he was master of a house the first use he would make of it would be to slam the door against nauseous intruders.

The Devil's Knell.

Among the famous bells of Dewsbury, Yorkshire, England, is one known as "Black Tom of Scothill," which was presented to the church in expiation of a murder. "Black Tom" is always rung on Christmas eve. Its solemn tolling as it strikes the first tap at exactly midnight is known all over Yorkshire as the "devil's knell," it being the notion that when Christ was born the devil died.—London Globe.

When Ignorance Is a Virtue

The late John Hay wrote a poem about "Jim Bludso" in which he says that Jim couldn't tell a lie for he never learned how.

This is one of the few instances in life where ignorance is virtue.

Had Jim been in business, instead of running a Mississippi steamer, he might have become an expert in the "art."

LEGISLATIVE PLANS FOR 1916 SESSION

Both Parties Will Try to Enact Reform Measures— Senator Pierce's Program.

Much of the legislation that will be enacted by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey that meets next week has already been agreed upon by those who will control its deliberations, and is as good as passed. In discussing Republican party pledges witha reporter in Trenton yesterday, Senator Charles A. Rathbun, of Morris county, the Republican leader of the Senate, said all the bills in question are ready for introduction next Tuesday, the opening day of the session, except those providing for a new State road policy. There has been some little delay in the preparation of these, owing to necessary dalay in getting together the data needed, but they will be ready for introduction on Monday night, January 17.

Senator Rathbun stated also that two slight changes will be made in the Senate rules for the new session. One will modify rule 17, providing that committee reports upon measures shall be in writing,signed by a majority of the committee, and shall show whether the same are reported favorably or otherwise, and how each member of the committee voted upon the question of the report. The change will make more explicit the provision about showing how the members voted on the question of the report. The other amendment to the rules will be a minor one.

Senator Pierce, of Union county, who is drafting the Republican measure on grade-crossing removal, will have a measure practically the same as last year, except in one important particular. His bill last year required each railroad company in the State to eliminate one grade crossing annually for each thirty miles of track operated. There was strenuous opposition to this on the part of the railroads, especially the smaller ones, who claimed that such a compulsory law would bankrupt them. Senator Pierce's new bill will provide for the removal of one dangerous grade crossing annually by each railroad company for each forty miles of track operated. It will be recalled that President Wilson, when Governor, vetoed a similar bill by Senator Pierce, with the provision compelling the removal of one crossing annually for each thirty miles of track operated.

Senator Pierce is also preparing the tax reform bills to be introduced and they will be similar to his tax bills of last year. They will provide for a revision and reform in the methods of assessing property; for the equalization of assessments; for the enlarging of taxing districts in the rural sections, and for the selection of better qualified assessors, who will be required to give their entire time to the assessment work.

Senator Edge's budget system bill and his measure for a State central purchasing bureau, bills for the extension of agricultural and vocational education; for the proper care of mental defectives; strengthening the workmen's compensation law and meeting the other campaign pledges will be ready for introduction next Tuesday.

The Democrats will also have the most of their platforms pledge measures ready for introduction next Tuesday.

Monday night—Plainfield at Somerville.

Plainfield dropped two games to Elizabeth in an F. O. E. League engagement on the local Eagles' alleys last night. The homesters lost the first game by nine pins and the second by 45 bottles, but came through with 908 in the final, Elizabeth trailing 53 points to the bad.

There was an unusual number of splits, the No. 7 pin on both alleys acting as if they were nailed. Harry Jim came within an ace of negotiating the 7-9-10 in the last game.

Plainfield lost the opener by a small margin, despite a strong finish. The Elizabethans were 30 pins to the good in the early part of the game, and in the eighth inning were 48 sticks ahead. In the tenth every man on the home side got a strike, Jaeger and Smith doubling. Bowkett and Bock put the game on ice by finishing with strikes. The score was 856 to 847.

The second game was like the first, in that Elizabeth led all the way. The county seaters were 18 pins to the good in the fifth, and 32 out in front in the eighth. Bowkett rolled the highest score of the night in this game, strikes in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings, a spare in the ninth and a double in the tenth, giving him a margin of 226.

The third tilt was an interesting fight, Plainfield was a single pin to the good in the first two frames, and then led by 10 pins up to the seventh, when the teams were tied. The locals did superior work in the last three boxes, Smith and Radin finishing with doubles for tallies of 203. Radin's work in this game was a big help, the anchor finishing with five perfect hits.

Captain Ernie Bleicker had the best average. He rolled 224, 185 and 199 for a mark of 202.2. Bowkett was not far behind, with 200.2. Elizabeth rolled with only four men, practically, Beirne being of little use.

Radin topped Plainfield, with an average of 193.1. Kats Miller was way below his usual standard. Jim Mahoney rolled well in the first two games, but did everything in the last melee, even to rolling one in the gutter. He got his spare, however.

CHANGES IN GOLF RULES MAY BE MADE TOMORROW

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Matters of the highest importance to golfers will come up tomorrow at the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, which will be held here. The executive committee will recommend the substitution of an eligibility list for the unsatisfactory national handicap list, the various State or district associations to furnish their respective lists of eligibles. The rules committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews is being asked to join the American organization in revising some of the rules, one aim of which is to have the same penalty for the lost ball as for the ball out of bounds. It is also desired to have a revised rule in stroke competition whereby, when two balls are in line on the putting green, the ball nearer the hole shall be holed, instead of granting the present option of lifting or holding. It is also said that there is a need of qualifying the severity of the rule about asking advice.

A big change in the standing of the teams in the Columbus Club head-pin house tournament took place as a result of last night's series in which the leading Grays lost all three games to the Reds. The latter are now in first place, the Grays falling to a tie for third.

As a team, the Red combination did as clean work as has been seen here in many a day. The lowest individual score credited to a member of the winning side was 81. No exceptionally high marks were made, the biggest being 103, but every member rolled consistently. The team averaged 423, including the average of one bowler who was not present.

DATES FOR P. H. S. FISH PRACTICE MEET TOMORROW

Plainfield High School's swimming team will get its first work in competition tomorrow afternoon at P. H. S., meeting the Y. M. C. A. in a dual meeting. It will be more of a practice workout for the Red and Blue fish, the regular schedule starting later in the month.

Manager Albert Dealaman has arranged four matches so far, but now expects to arrange for five or six more. All but one of the contests so far have been scheduled to be held in the High School pool, although letters that the manager has sent to several schools that have not yet replied call for games away from home.

East Orange will be the first team to oppose Coach Hansen's charges, when it sends a team here on January 22. The only out of town meet so far scheduled will come on January 29 at Montclair. Barringer follows on February 7 and Boys' High comes next on February 19.

The meet planned for Monday with a New York team is off.

N. P. H. S. BOYS PLAY POOREST OF SEASON

Lead Westfield in Opening Half, But go to Pieces in Second Session.

Another defeat was handed to North Plainfield High School last evening, in Saengerbund Hall by Westfield High School, the score being 34 to 26. After outplaying their rivals in the first period, the playing of the homesters became ragged and loose, and their opponents totaled twenty-five points.

The borough boys exhibited the poorest form they have displayed this season, especially in the last half. A decided brace will have to be taken to be in condition for the first contest of the interscholastic series with P. H. S. one week from tomorrow.

Davies and Stevens were potent factors for the winners, with four and five baskets apiece, besides being of additional strength in the passing.

NOTES AND COMMENTS ON A WIDE RANGE OF SPORTS

Does the Cincinnati agreement settle the outlaw baseball case? Does it give the organized magnates a monopoly of the game? These questions are hard for the moguls to answer, but they will constantly recur so long as the game is played. The greatest club that O. B. holds is money. Anybody can start a league at any time, and find plenty of good material ready to work. In a half dozen years the personnel of the big leagues changes, and a rival organization has the same facilities for signing up bright and capable youngsters. But the big coin is a serious factor in any plans of this sort, and it is on this phase of the "king of sports" that the league owners rest in comparative comfort and luxury.

Organized baseball will lose one of its distinguishing features if its only woman club-owner is eliminated as a result of the peace deal with the Feds. Mrs. Helen Britton is the owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, and is one of the most popular of the magnates. She attends the league meetings, accompanied by her husband, and knows the ins and outs of the game, as well as the handling of baseball players.

Mike Gibbons is entirely recovered and is in lively training for his bout with Young Ahearn, which was postponed last month. The boys will go to it on January 18 for ten rounds at St. Paul. It was thought that Mike was out of the game, for he became discouraged after a long trip in the woods failed to build him up. When the Ahearn battle was postponed, it seemed to be all off with Gibbons, but his rapid recovery has put him into excellent form.

Canada's annual carnival of winter sports includes ice racing by trotters, and some of the fastest horses in the Dominion are entered for the ice circuit race meet at Dufferin Park, Toronto, which opened yesterday. The Montreal ice racing opens a week later, and other meets will continue the sport into February. Over $47,000 in prizes are offered. The public is provided with comfort behind glass windows in a heated grandstand.

Following in the footsteps of his predecessor, Jess Willard has set up his home headquarters in Chicago. He will not journey down the river to New Orleans until next month, and is relaxing before undertaking the long job of getting into training. More circus for next summer is the program mapped out by Jones, the barber-manager of the champion who is some little planner when it comes to copping the cash.

ELKS WILL HAVE MAN AT BOWLING MEETING

Decide to Accept Invitation to Join Movement for City League.

At a meeting of the Elks' Club bowling committee last night, it was decided that the committee chairman, V. W. Nash, Jr., represent the club at the meeting to be held tonight in the interest of forming a City Bowling League. The Elks will decide whether or not they will go in the league after they learn what the entarnce fee will be, how often each team will have to roll, and other details. From present indications, the Watchung avenue club will enter a team, as many of the members are in favor of going out after the city championship.

The Park Club bowling committee will meet early this evening, and if a decision similar to the one arrived at by the Elks last night is reached, will send a delegate to the meeting, which will be held in the news rooms of the Plainfield Daily Press. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS TO CEASE MAKING OFFERS TO ATHLETES

New York, Jan. 7.—New rules and regulations to govern athletics in private sschools will be adopted at a meeting to held here today of the principals of the leading private schools of the East. The committee which has been threshing out the matter will recommend the adoption of a rule which will debar from private school teams all boys who are given any scholarship stipend or who are furnished with remunerative employment. This will wipe out the practice of proselytizing, and no longer will the accusation be made that the private schools are "stealing the athletes" from the public high schools.

STABILE SETS NEW MARK FOR SOMERVILLE CHUTES

Frank Stabile broke all previous bowling records on Roller's alleys last night in a six-man match. Stabile rolled 278. Some weeks ago he established a record of 269, and shortely after several men tied him at the score. W. Schenk has the highest score among the local bowlers. He rolled 299 on the Armory alleys about two months ago.

COLUMBIANS ROUT WESTFIELD TEAM

Knights Play Like Champions in Trouncing St. Paul's Parish House Boys.

GIRL TEAMS PRACTICE

One Member of Plainfield Five, Miss Ida Hummel, Hurts Wrist in Fall—Dancing Enjoyed After the Games.

Forwards, center and guards of the Columbus Club five caged spectacular field goals from difficult angles last night when they defeated the St. Paul's Parish House aggregation from Westfield by the overwhelming score of 70 to 10. Dan McAfee, the pivot man of the west Front street basketeers, did much as he pleased in sending the ball in the direction of his team-mates. Practically every play begun at center resulted in a beautiful goal, preceded by some clever passing and teamwork. Last night's contest makes the fifth consecutive victory for the Knights.

The Columbus quintet tallied up 32 field goals. Linke and Coyle each ringing in eight apiece; McAfee, seven; Carty, six, and Bryniarski, three field goals and six fouls. The last two, besides earning themselves the title of "the shooting guards," held their forwards to one fieldgoal, and played a feature passing game. "Buckie" Allegar rolled up eight of ten points accredited to the visitors, netting a pretty long distance shot and six fouls. Donaldson made the other goal.

In the preliminary the Plainfield Five defeated the "Well Known" team by a score of 18 to 4. The former had little difficulty in forging ahead from the very first.

Miss Ida Hummel, a member of the Plainfield Five, auffered an injury to her wrist that necessitated her removal from the game. While trying to catch a ball she tripped in the netting enclosing the court and fell, wrenching her right hand. There is doubt as to the possibility of her playing with the "Pegs" in Newark tonight, when the Plainfield girls line up against the High street Presbyterian lassies at that place.

The Misses Helen and Ida Hummel tallied ten and eight points, respectively, for the Plainfield Five, while Miss Alice Mehl and Miss Jessie Stewart did the scoring for the visitors.

Dancing followed the two games, Professor Glover's orchestra furnishing the music.

HEAVY FINE FOR GAMBLERS

fendants and their counsels at considerable length, some of his remarks proving quite startling. He declared that the Plainfield and Dunellen gambling places had come to a head through the efforts of the Plainfield police to find out what a local young man had done with $500 which he embezzled from a firm employing him in a trusted position. After an investigation it was found that he had lost most of the money in Martin's place on Golf avenue. The Plainfield authorities then linked with those of New Brunswick and secured the facts which led to the four men being indicted.

"None of the defendants," remarked the Judge, "are entitled to leniency because, as some of them have stated, they made a full confession of facts when arrested. The material gathered by the Plainfield police was so complete that there was nothing else for them to do. It has also been remarked that the Plainfield and Dunellen places were not molested for some time because of political protection from New Brunswick. There was absolutely no truth in this as subsequent facts have proved and these defendants, and others, can now appreciate the fact that there is no authority in Middlesex county higher than the law."

Continuing his remarks, Judge Daley said that there is another principal in the case by the name of John Madden, who has not yet been apprehended. This man, he said, was a resident of Plainfield but had been arrested about two years ago for maintaining a gambling establishment in Roosevelt borough. When arraigned in court friends stated that he was in ill health and submitted a petition signed by hundreds of Plainfielders, asking for clemency. It was granted, but as events have shown he almost immediately went to Plainfield and resumed his illegal conduct. The Judge made it plain that repetition from any one arrested on similar charges would be dealt with in a drastic manner as it was the determination of the Middlesex county officials to uphold the law despite all reports to the contrary. The idea was prevalent in Plainfield for some time that the local police would not interfere because certain politicians in Middlesex had given the word "hands off." Just as the time when criticism was becoming severe and letters were being written to New Brunswick, the material that led to the closing up of the places was being gathered.

GIVEN REPRIMAND.

Arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning on a charge of being drunk, William Daly, of Somerset street, was released under a suspended sentence after receiving a severe reprimand from the court. Daly was arrested by Officer Pope on Somerset street last night.

TESTIMONIAL TO OFFICIALS

ject to his orders. He declared that unanimity between all three resulted in the most efficient fire department. To the members of the fire company, he reminded them that the apparatus entrusted to their care should be handled more carefully even than though it was their own personal property, and although they could go to fires quicker than with the hose-drawn apparatus, they should ever remember the rights of citizens and adopt the slogan of "safety first." Walter Zimmer, the Mack expert, who brought the vehicle to Plainfield and instructed the West End men in its running, made a special trip from Roselle Park to attend the gathering. He is now making the firemen of that place acquainted with a new Mack pumping engine and took occasion to make a few remarks to the gathering on the proper handling of motor-driven fire apparatus that was appreciated by firemen and citizens alike.

An orchestra composed of Harold Storr, piano; Wilbur Moke, cornet, and Fred Zweifel, drums and traps, provided musical selections, and there were also vocal number by a quartet composed of William Jaeger, Jacob Schlick, Jr., T. M. Muir and George Zeisz. Solos were rendered by Barton K. Davis, T. M. Muir, Anthony Martel and Fred Zweifel. An additional feature was an Irish jig by Anthony Martel, and exhibition dancing by Jacob Schlick, Jr., and Albert Jaeger.

The committee which arranged the affair was composed of Barton K. Davis, John King, Howard Huff, David L. Coleman, Den J. Galbraith, Ray Randolph, Frank Ingraham, Anthony Martel, William Jaeger and Edward Vail.

The members of the committee feel especially grateful and extend thanks to the following for assisting them: Theodore A. Martin, carting; Professor Kogan, loan of piano; J. W. Gavett, loan of crockery; Frank Bradt, donation of home-made pies, and Charles A. Higgins, for chairs.

REV. DR. STRONG WILL DELIVER STORY-SERMON

As previously announced, Dr Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who was unable at the time to deliver his annual Christmas story-sermon, will make good that disappointment by giving other story-sermons, delivering one next Sunday morning entitled, "Joseph Barsabbas Justus; or, Choice Though Not Chosen." This story differs from those previously told in that it is founded directly upon Scripture narratives as given in the Gospels and the Acts, interweaving them with such play of the imagination as the sacred annals themselves suggest and warrant.

Dr. Strong, while not claiming for this production the perfection of Henry VanDyke's "The Story of the Other Wise Man," states that it resembles that story as much as any literary counterpart he can recall. The discourse will be fraught with dramatic interest from beginning to conclusion, and will incidentally contain not a little information concernig the early days of the infant church. It will proceed along the lines suggested by the following synopsis: The Betrayal and the Arrest; the End of a Traitor; in the Upper Room with the Apostles; Choosing a Successor to an Apostate; the Two Candidates; the Unwritten Records; a Glimpse Within the Gates; concluding with a recitation of the beautiful poem, "Paradise," by Christina Rossetti.

A little later Dr. Strong will give on a Sunday evening a story-sermon of a very different character entitled, "The Parlors and Piety of Aunt Prue and Aunt Patience."

BURIED AT STANTON.

The funeral of John P. Yorks, whose death occurred at the home of his son, Robert A. Yorks, of West Front street, was held yesterday in the Reformed church at Stanton, Hunterdon county. Many relatives and friends from Plainfield, Hunterdon county, and other places were in attendance. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Goebel, pastor of the church. Burial was made in Valley View cemetery, Stanton.

Plainfield, N. J., January 7, 1916.

A MAN'S JOB AND A MAN.

The Bible admonishes that we are not to envy any man's possessions, but even the ten commandments do not forbid our envying the opportunities of another, and we are free to confess that there is one man in New Jersey whose place we would gladly take—if we felt that we were as capable of fulfilling its possibilities as he.

In the sessions of the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey that opens next Tuesday there will be an individual member upon whose shoulders rests greater responsibility than the speaker, or even than the party that dominates the session. As leader of the independent forces and pledged to no party program he, and he alone, must have the courage to fight for what is right irrespective of party promises or factional prejudices. There will be others under his flag, but they will await the call of their leader, and the leader is William N. Runyon, of Plainfield. By all political precedent Assemblyman Runyon should have been the Republican caucus nominee for speaker of the lower house. He bears no ill will that he was not, but he could not salve his conscience into an agreement on all party planks, and he was considered "dangerous" by the Essex machine that controls things politically for the humble New Jersey citizen who pays the bills. He is still a Republican but he owes the Republican party no false allegiance, and he is far above its boss-dictated program. He will vote for some of the Republican measures, if they appear to him to be good for the people, but will not be fettered by any far-flung ideas of party honor or mercenary hopes of party reward. He will accomplish little in 1916 legislation for he will be a minority leader, but he will leave a record on the pages of legislative history that will still work for good when those who watch his efforts will have ceased to remember.

It is a man's job, this work of representing the people in an assembly of men who too often cannot or will not see the people's side, but we believe that there is a man to fill it and we wish him success, and courage, as does every other honest citizen of the State.

OPPOSED TO ESSEX RULE.

The Trenton State Gazette, most regular of regular Republican newspapers, sees "a disposition, if not a determination, on the part of certain up-State gentlemen to locate the power house of the Republican party in Essex county." Alfred N. Dalrymple, it says, is the active candidate for leader of the organization; former Governor Franklin Murphy is ambitiously looking in the direction of the Senatorship, and Senator Austen Colgate seeks the nomination for Governor.

In the organization of the House and Senate, the Gazette says, "dear old Essex walked away with a basketful of the choicest persimmons," and "we appear to be gradually drifting in the direction of the 'State of Essex.'" In the opinion of the Trenton newspaper the situation demands careful consideration on the part of Republican leaders in other parts of the State. The State Gazette admits that "as a Republican bailiwick the strength of Essex county is not to be under-estimated," but there are others that are entitled to some respect and should not be over-looked. It evidently thinks that Essex Republicans are getting just a little too arrogant and need to be curbed, as may be inferred from the following:

"Prospect of an easy victory next fall has evidently encouraged some of the war horses that were sent to the pasture a few years ago to get back in the race. Unfortunately for them, the people are now in the judges' stand, and the day when political contests can be successfully jockeyed by a half-dozen self-appointed track masters has passed.

"These are important facts that should not be overlooked by the self-absorbed gentlemen of Essex."—Newark Evening News.

Congress is demanding that it be called into consultation before President Wilson and Secretary Lansing send a note to the Central Powers on the sinking of the Persia. Certainly! They are right. And when President Wilson and the Secretary of State have agreed on what must be done, and it has been approved by the cabinet, then by Senate and later by members of the House of Representatives, it should be submitted to each citizen of the United States, for all have an interest in the matter. By the time all this is done all the ships on the seas will have been sunk and war will be over.

Treating A Baby's "Cold"

MY baby, aged three years, writes a professional woman, had another of her frequent attacks of croup a few nights ago, and still is wearing a piece of flannel on her chest. Shall I take it off? What can I do to make her "take cold" less frequently? She is a splendid baby and won a prize in a Better Baby Contest. When a child has croup must she sleep in a warm room? Would she be less liable to "colds" if she wore cotton instead of wool silk lined undershirts? Do you believe in rubbing the chest with any grease for a cough? When a child has croup in the night and is apparently all right next day, should she go outdoors to play?

Answering these queries in order, we depose and testify as follows:

Why put the flannel on in the first place—to shut out the "cold"? Would you close the door after the colt has scampered away? The sooner you take it off the better for the child.

To prevent respiratory infections of all kinds, call them "colds" if you will, the first essential is DON'T CODDLE—don't discriminate in favor of, or against any particular area of the skin of the body. Dress comfortably, neither too much here, nor too little there.

A warm room is necessarily one with inadequate ventilation. No heating contraption yet devised will heat all outdoors. No bedroom not open to the free passage of open air is hygienic. We have never yet met with a case of croup in a child sleeping in a well ventilated bedroom—one in which the air is cool or cold as the outside air, but the child as warm as toast. Cold air is Nature's preventive of croup. Let the child have plenty of it to breathe, and yet keep the child comfortably warm by means of special sleeping garments made for those who have the porch-sleeping habit.

We personally favor wool or silk and wool, knitted underwear, light weight, for everyone—but it must be a complete suit, not the shirt alone, and wool or silk stockings too.

The only "grease" suited for rubbing the chest, we think, is camphorated oil (that is, for children). Dissolve all the powdered camphor very hot olive oil or sweet oil will take up, and keep tightly corked, for camphor is volatile. Rub it all over the chest, front and back, over throat and bridge of nose, once or twice a day. But no flannel "coddling" afterward.

No matter what a child has in the night, outdoors is the place for the child next day. Particularly is this true if the child has any kind of respiratory disease—outdoors is the place to fight the Indoor Plagues.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bright's Disease Without Albumin

Is it possible for one to have chronic Bright's disease without having albumin in the urine? How long can a patient with chronic Bright's disease live if he is careful? Would a cold or warm climate be preferable for such a patient?

Answer — Chronic interstitial Bright's disease is often seen without albumin in the urine. A patient with chronic Bright's disease should live twenty years. A moderately warm climate is preferable as a rule.

What Cyanosis Means

Please explain in the paper what cyanosis means, and what disease it indicates.

Answer—Cyanosis is the medical term given to the bluish tint of the skin when the circulation is greatly embarrassed. It is a symptom of heart disease, advanced lung disease, and of poisoning by any of the heart-weakening coal-tar remedies.

Salt Water For Sore Eyes

How strong salt water would you advise for bathing eyes?

Answer—Never stronger than a level tablespoonful of salt in a pint of boiled water. This is about the saline strength of the tears.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

NEW HAMPSHIRE has never been distinguished for its size. It is 180 miles long, but is so narrow that the name of its leading lake, "Winnepesaukee," has to be placed lengthwise on most maps.

New Hampshire has 450,000 people, several of whom do not take in summer boarders. The state is noted for its cool and bracing summer climate and for its modest, old-fashioned villages, which are so unenterprising that they will entertain a stranger all summer long without compelling him to telegraph home for money. There are New Hampshire villages which haven't changed in 150 years, and whose citizens are still cheering Daniel Webster's last speech.

Most of New Hampshire is badly broken out in hills and mountains, the chief of which is Mount Washington, 5,000 feet high and one of the finest mountains in captivity, it being owned by a private company. All this ruggedness makes New Hampshire very difficult to farm successfully and the result is that the state, which was once cleared by the hardy colonists, is growing up to timber again, and in many spots is all ready for a second crop of pioneers. Nevertheless, New Hampshire produces a great number of highly successful farmers. They farm their land in the summer and in the winter eke out an existence in New York and Boston by running railroads or banks, or by speculating in stocks. New Hampshire has made the fortune of many a farmer's boy by driving him to the city.

New Hampshire deals extensively in lumber, stone, hay and scenery. It is also extensively speckled with factories, spinning cotton and wool. The rivers of New Hampshire are the most industrious in the country.

The Boston and Maine Railroad has often threatened to move the legislatures

A puny, undersized stream which would be drunk up by the cattle in Wyoming in three days if it were there, will run a dozen factories on its way through New Hampshire.

Concord is the capital of New Hampshire, although the Boston and Maine Railroad has often threatened to move the legislatures to its offices in Boston, where the state's business could be transacted more conveniently.

Views Of The Press

Mr. Kipling On Neutrals

"DAMN all neutrals" is the reported toast of Rudyard Kipling, who may be forgiven much because of his personal bereavement. Richard Harding Davis reports a like feeling in France, where he says that: "A year ago we were almost one of the Allies, much more popular than Italians, more sympathetic than the English. To-day we are regarded not with hostility, though after the war it may grow to that, but with contempt." What has brought about the change? Mr. Davis ascribes it to President Wilson's call upon Americans to be neutral: "The French could not understand it. From their point of view it was an 'unnecessary affront.' It was as unexpected as the cut direct from a friend, as unwarranted, as gratuitous, as a slap in the face." But we may hope that when the war is over and normal thought-processes are restored, the French people who hold this point of view will perceive its falsity, and will discover that the call for neutrality was directed impartially to both sides. It is well known that nobody loves a neutral, but that is one of the recognized penalties of neutrality. When peace is restored neutrals share in the general amnesty and return of good will, provided they honestly live up to the obligations of an ungrateful but necessary rôle.—Springfield Republican.

Nancy Hanks

IT IS not often that the death of a horse is recorded in the public press, but this notice appeared in some of our papers:

"Died: In Fayette County, Kentucky, August 15, 1915. Nancy Hanks, aged 29 years."

Only a race horse, but so famous that her demise was a matter of interest to the country at large. Time was when Nancy Hanks was the idol of the turf, the most talked-of and written-up horse in the world. She held the trotting record against all competitors, a satin-coated, slim-ankled creature that caught the spirit of the race as if it were an inspiration. Many a race track habitué remembers her with a feeling that is close to affection. The years of her triumphs are long past, she had spent a green old age on the blue grass pastures of Kentucky, and now she has gone to her death full of honors.

In the old days, when she was young, horse racing was a "gentleman's sport" and Nancy was queen of the track.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

No Alimony Stipulated

Q. If a man is tried and convicted of a crime in this State (Washington) and sentenced to the penitentiary, and his wife gets a divorce while he is doing time and sues for the custody of the children, can she, after he is liberated, make him pay alimony when she did not stipulate it in the divorce proceeding? To make it a little plainer, is he, according to law, compelled to pay her anything either for her support or the minor children. If this man has been helping her and the children since being free, would this make any difference? If he resides in the same house and puts up a reasonable amount for support in case he cannot agree with this woman, would the law protect her in any way in case he should leave?

A. If the decree of divorce did not provide for the payment of alimony, payments by way of support or maintenance to the divorced wife cannot be enforced.

Late Claims

Q. My husband, residing in this State (Washington) died and left land which was appraised at $9,000, but a party held a mortgage on it for $2,500. The mortgage was foreclosed and the land was taken for the mortgage and interest. He got the land for $3,911.20. Now this same person held a note for $250, with my husband's name and my father's name on it. I gave notice to creditors and all persons having claims against the estate to put them in within one year after the date of this notice. What I want to know is, Can this person collect this from my father? This party has never put in any claim against the estate and it has been four years and a half. He is starting suit to collect the amount and interest.

A. The claim against the estate is barred. The claim against the father is not barred if he was a strict surety.

The Color Of A Corporation

In a case decided some time ago in Virginia, the defendant had sold the plaintiff a small building lot, one of a group which he owned. The sale had been made with a stipulation that no land in the division should be sold to a colored person, so the buyer was highly incensed when shortly afterwards the remaining lots were all sold to a corporation made up entirely of negroes.

A suit for breach of condition was brought immediately, but the defendant justified his action on the ground that the land had not been sold to a colored person but to a corporation. His opponent, however, replied with the remarkable assertion that since a corporation is a person, then if its members were all negroes, it could with great propriety be called a colored person.

It looked, for a while, as if this argument might win the day, until the defendant presented the following hypothetical case for consideration of the court: "If the corporation had been composed half of white men and half of negroes, could it then have been considered a mulatto?"

The plaintiff lost his case.—American Home Monthly.

Dignity

There is nothing finer in a man or woman than a fine Dignity—a Dignity that carries with it Respect, Nobleness of Mind and a certain positiveness of Strength without any suggestion of Snobbery.

True Dignity is Belief and not Illusion.

You can put Dignity to work in almost every phase of your personal Character and Life. There is a Dignity in Self-Control that makes it unnecessary to say a word. There is a Dignity that can be put into every word you speak that will make your words demand respect and recognition.

Keep your Dignity and your Head and no man can long hold out against you.

Put Dignity into your personal bearing. It will count for you everywhere you go. Dignity walks hand in hand with Respect, and Respect frees and calms the mind.

For after all Dignity is but the expression of your Mental Attitude toward things.

Incorporate Dignity into your Work and your daily Life. There is nothing more worthy of Dignity than Work. The humblest Job can be made Dignified and the humblest man or woman can Dignify the Job and in turn be Dignified by it. Everything worth while is worthy of Dignity.

The General Staff Meets

Said old General January,
"Our campaign will now begin,
And old Mars we sure will hamper,
And we'll make his ranks grow thin;
We'll advance in every quarter,
We'll attack on every front,
We'll soak all these warring nations,
Every one must bear the brunt."

"Good!" said General February,
"Colonel Boreas will aid,
And we'll send him out quite often
In many a stinging raid;
And in Courland and in Flanders
We'll soon have them on the run.
And, no matter what their banners,
We will soak them, ev'ry one!"

"Yes," said General January,
"It will be a great campaign,
And we'll wind it up in April
With a cold and biting rain;
And we'll call in our old allies,
Grim old Hunger, and Disease,
And we'll hand no side a favor,
Every one must starve and freeze!"

Snap Shots

It is only in novels that men find their way into the conservatory. In real life the place to look for men is the dining-room.

Nearly every man's initials are familiar to his townsmen, but nobody ever knows his middle name until his wife gives a party.

The observation of those who travel about, is that church members return thanks for some mighty poor meals.

Next to saying a clever thing to an ear trumpet, smiling naturally at the camera probably is the most difficult feat.

Too many men are willing to rest their reputations on the number of highballs they can consume without assuming a recumbent position underneath the table.

FUGITIVE SINCE 1909 CAUGHT IN PENNSYLVANIA

Somerville, Jan. 7.—Word was received here a few days ago that Clay Wilson, alias H. G. Mason, was arrested in Altoona, Pa., for the Dayton, Ohio, authorities.

Wilson and Charles B. Duncan are the men who swindler Lewis H. Taylor out of $15,000, selling him what appeared to be a gold mine in Arizona.

Duncan resided and owned the Woodfern farm in this county. Taylor was swindled in the year 1909 and Duncan and Wilson were both indicted in Ohio, Wilson was arrested and secured bail in the sum of $5,000, but skipped out. Duncan has not been captured.

Taylor, who is related to the founder of the Taylor Iron Works at High Bridge, secured an attachment against Duncan's farm and in April, 1915, a trial for the conviction of Duncan was held and a jury rendered a verdict in favor of Taylor for $16,065. The defense in this action was that Taylor is dead and that the property is owned by Mrs. Duncan.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the most unusual acts that has ever come to this city is that of the "old soldier fiddlers" who appeared as the headliners on the Plainfield Theatre's new vaudeville bill yesterday. Not only are the old soldiers real bona fide survivors of the War of the Rebellion, but also expert violinists. The patriotic touch that is lent the performance is accentuated by the beauty of their music and the sight of the three venerable fellows deriving enjoyment themselves in producing it.

Although the names of the men do not appear on the bill in any way, they gave them to a reporter yesterday as follows: George Patterson, seventy years old, and member of the 8th Pennsylvania cavalry; George W. Wolfe, seventy-three years old, and member of the 14th Illinois cavalry, and James P. Roscoe, sixty-seven years old, and member of the 103rd Ohio volunteers. All three saw hard service, although Roscoe was a mere youth when he enlisted, and many years afterward they met while at a national encampment of the G. A. R. Each one discovered that the other two were good "fiddlers" and the trio was formed that has since proven to be one of the season's most sensational vaudeville acts. The grizzled trio has been appearing in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and many other cities, and comes to Plainfield after a succession of triumphs throughout the East.

The setting for the act is a soldier's camp on a battle-field and the vets play the music such as only a vet can understand but is appreciated by everyone. Of course, they can do all kinds of stunts with "Tenting On the Old Camp Ground," "Star Spangled Banner," "Marching Through Georgia," and other patriotic airs, and they never fail to bring their audiences to a high pitch of enthusiasm. After that they give them popular or classical numbers as the case may be, thus showing the patrons that they are finished musicians as well as exponents of patriotism. The trio made a big hit at the performances yesterday afternoon and last night, and will undoubtedly draw capacity houses during the remainder of their stay.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—Adv.

Household Hints..

MINCEMEAT WITHOUT BRANDY.

Mincemeat With Nuts—This recipe makes three quarts; each quart makes two large pies. Two pounds meat, one-half pound suet, two dozen apples, two pounds raisins, two pounds nuts (pecan preferred), three cups sugar, one quart sweet pickle sirup. Grind meat and suet through chopper after meat has been cooked tender. To this add apples well chopped, then raisins, sugar, sirup and water left from boiling beef. Let all boil together ten minutes. Take off fire and add chopped nuts. Seal while hot.

Flavored With Coffee—Amount makes two pies. Half pound roast beef, two ounces suet, one pound seeded raisins, one-half pound currants, one pound tart apples chopped, one teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and allspice, one-fourth teaspoon salt, four tablespoons sugar, dash of white pepper, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-third cup strong black coffee. Mix together chopped meat and suet, add dry ingredients, then the liquid. Coffee gives a fine flavor.

Mincemeat With Grape Juice—Two pounds currants, two pounds brown sugar, three-fourths pound citron, one pound lean beef (boiled and chopped), four pounds apples (pared and chopped), four pounds seeded raisins, two tablespoons each of cinnamon cloves and allspice (ground), one-half tablespoon powdered nutmeg, one-half tablespoon fine salt, one pint grape juice, one orange, juice and rind, juice one-half lemon; add enough cider to fruit juice to make a half pint. Mix thoroughly. Makes eight pies.

Mincemeat With Molasses—Makes ten pies: One pound beef, one-half pound suet, two pounds tart apples, one pound seeded raisins, one pound currants, one-half pound citron peel, one pound brown sugar, one-half pint molasses, one-half pint boiled cider, one tablespoon salt, a little pepper, three-fourths tablespoon mixed spices, one-half grated nutmeg. Chop separately beef, suet, spices and salt, then add apples, fruit juices, sugar, spices and rest of ingredients.

CANDIES.

Maple Bonbons—One pound maple sugar, half cup water, small piece butter; boil without stirring till wax; add one-half teaspoon vanilla, beat to a cream, pour in buttered tins. May add grated cocoanut.

Chocolate-Peanut Novelty—Boil two cups sugar with two tablespoons chocolate and one-fourth cup water until sirup threads. Have two cups peanuts shelled and broken in small pieces; heat them thoroughly and add them piping hot to the candy with a teaspoon of vanilla. Beat rapidly and pour into buttered pan.

Fig and Nut Candy—Chop fine a cupful each of figs and walnut meats. Take one cup milk, four cups brown sugar; boil until a little dropped into cold water will form a soft ball. Now add chopped nuts and figs, a tablespoonful of butter and a good pinch of salt. Remove from fire, beat until candy is creamy, then pour into buttered pan and cut in squares when cool.

THE TABLE.

Mutton a La Venison—Take a leg of mutton and lard it well with strips of salt pork inserted in deep slits in the meat, which has been previously rolled in pepper and cloves; bake two hours, according to the size of the roast, basting frequently while in the oven; about an hour before serving spread over it currant jelly, return to the oven and let it brown.

Wine Jelly Pyramids—Dissolve one box of gelatin in a pint of cold water for one and a half hours; then pour over one quart of boiling water, add the grated rind of one and the juice of three lemons, half a pint of Sherry wine, a pinch of ground cinnamon, sweeten to taste and strain into molds; set in a cool place.

Cranberry Sauce—One quart cranberries, one quart water, two pounds sugar; stew slowly.

Perfection Salad—Half box gelatin, half cup cold water, half cup mild vinegar, one pint boiling water, one teaspoon salt, one cup finely shredded cabbage, juice one lemon, half cup sugar, two cups celery cut in small pieces, one-fourth can sweet red peppers finely cut. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes, add vinegar, lemon juice, boiling water, sugar and salt. Strain and, when beginning to set, add other ingredients. Turn into mold and chill. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing sprinkled with parsley.

Out Rushed the Winds.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— Odysseus Gets a Bag of Winds For a Present.

"YOU will be glad to know," daddy told his children, "that in his ten years of journeyings going home from the Trojan war Odysseus met some people who were kind. He once anchored his ships before a little island. Now, it happened that the ruler of this island, King Aeolus, was a favorite of Father Jupiter, who had given him power over the winds, to let them loose or hold them tight, just as he pleased."

"Could he have a hurricane if he wanted to?" asked Jack.

"Yes, for he was manager of all the winds. But he was too wise to make trouble, you see. When Odysseus stopped at his island Aeolus was very glad to see him and treated him kindly. When the Greeks left he gave their leader a present of a leather bag full of winds all tied up with a silver string, winds both harmful and helpful, with the command to them that they blow the brave Greek ships safely back to Ithaca, where Odysseus' home was.

"So nine days the Greek ships sped before the winds, and all this time Odysseus stood at the helm, ordering them, without any sleep. At last, quite worn out, he lay down to rest, and while he slept the Greeks' curiosity got the better of them. They felt of the bag and punched it and finally decided that it must hold treasures that King Aeolus had given their leader. Greedy to get some of this treasure, they untied the silver string to run their hands in the bag, when out rushed the winds that had been shut in so long, just like wild horses let out of a stable. They seized the Greek ships and drove them back in their course right on to the very island they had just left!"

"Seems to me curiosity always gets you into trouble!" cried Jack. "The other day I wanted to see what mamma keeps in her new glass bowl, and when I lifted it off the shelf to see I dropped the bowl and smashed it."

"Well, the Greeks' curiosity got them into trouble too, for the kind King Aeolus was so angry at their stupidity that he refused to let them even land. He would neither help them again nor give them another bag of winds. So the Greeks, in an unknown sea and hundreds of miles from home, without much food and very homesick after long wars, were obliged to take to their oars again and toilfully row their boats over the same course the helpful winds had once obligingly blown them."

"That's taught me a lesson," said Jack. "After this I am going to keep my hands off other people's things."

"Then I'm glad I told you the story," said daddy. "Now give me a good night kiss."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MES DA LEONARD

Molly Hears the Very Latest Gossip About Olive's Baby.

"I told you I'd come over and tell the rest of our baby experience." Miss Ellson seated herself in a comfortable rocker and fanned her plump face with her apron.

"Does the baby cry as much as ever?" asked Molly Sutner.

"Oh, pretty much. It has a spell of the colic every day. After she is fed I put her in her basket on the porch, and Mrs. Dunn brings the umbrella to keep the wind off of her, and Clara fills the hot water bottle and brings extra blankets. We file out in procession like a line of slaves after an oriental monarch. We no more get inside than a wail arises. The thing is displeasing to the little despot and the slaves file out and bring her in again."

"Any one would think she was a spoiled baby to hear you talk," laughed Molly.

"Oh, she cries about the average amount, no more, no less. These perfection babies live only in books, it's my opinion. Of course with a houseful of attendants to run at her beck and call it is a wonder the little dear is not entirely spoiled. Doctor calls me Sister Hop-and-go-fetch-it. He says I am forever running for hot water bottles, a sterilized wash or warm flannels. Clara is Sister Hop-to-it. She presides over the kitchen what time we can get along with three women to wait on Miss Marjory."

"So they decided on Marjory. I am glad; I like the name," remarked Molly.

"Yes, I voted for Marjory. Mrs. Dunn wanted the baby named Lucy after her, but the fates were against her." She chuckled softly.

"Of course every woman there has a different opinion as to what should be done in every emergency. There are wads of unused advice lying around everywhere. You cannot stir without running into it."

"Doesn't the doctor decide what is to be done with the baby?" asked Molly.

"Yes, that is what is so funny. He was so chock full of wisdom, and being a doctor and not a mere father he demanded consideration. Marjory must be fed regularly or the stomach would get out of order, so when the clock struck I had to pull the wee mite out of a sound sleep and get her awake by easy or violent means. I have even dabbed her pretty face with wet cotton. As soon as she'd eaten the trouble with indigestion began and lasted for two hours sometimes. She would just get to sleep worn to a frazzle when out she must be dragged again to be fed or bathed or something."

"They will get to the place where they'll prize sleep more than that," said Molly.

"They have got there, fortunately. She stopped gaining, so the doctor revised his wisdom and put an ounce of common sense with it, and now she is bathed just as he was, when it is convenient, and instead of keeping Olive awake till ten at night to give her the last feeding they let her sleep till she wakes up. She slept from six till two last night, and then from two till seven in the morning, and both of them got a good night's sleep. Doc is learning that you can't treat all babies alike. A baby in the house is a liberal education. It is better than a whole public library. He will be a much more valuable baby doctor now that he's had experience," laughed the sister, rising to go.

WHY

Is the booth at the Chalmers Exhibit always so crowded with prospective buyers?

BECAUSE

They believe Hugh Chalmers when he says--"Chalmers cars lead in their class."

He makes no extravagant claims for his cars, letting the people judge by their past performance and letting his 1916 Models talk for themselves.

Why don't you listen to one of these talks --seven passenger, $1350; five passenger, $1050. F. O. B. Detroit.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach, much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids, and, instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

WANTS NO NEW BORO SALOONS

Mayor "Bill" Smalley Will Fight Any License Applications.

TAKES A FIRM STAND

Also Declares War on Street Car Service Now Being Given North Plainfield—Says it is Dangerous to Cross Streets.

Mayor "Bill" Smalley, of the borough of North Plainfield, last night began his fight for reforms for his constituency when he declared war on the street car service in the borough and also announced his intention of fighting the issuance of new licenses for saloons or hotels.

Mayor Smalley made a short address to members of the Borough Common Council at the meeting, in which he outlined his position on these two matters, and from the manner in whichhis remarks were received, he will have the support of each member of that body.

"The service we are getting from the trolley people is all wrong," said Mayor Smalley. "Street car schedules are out of order. They run when they please and at the pace they please, and it is worth a man's life to try to cross within 100 feet in front of them They don't pretend to stop between corners, and sometimes are going so fast they cannot stop even on the corners. The service we are getting from the street car company is about the same as that of the gas and water people, who tear up our streets and leave them in bad condition."

Mayor Smalley then told of a workman who dug a ditch in a city street a few days ago and went off, leaving it half filled. He said that property owners complained, and he found it necessary to send the street commissioner out and have the ditch filled at the expense of the borough.

In discussing licenses for hotels and saloons, Mayor Smalley said he had heard there would be one or two applications for new licenses in the borough made to the Somerset County Court.

"I am opposed to any new ones, and I want to go on record now," he said. "An application for a hotel license is nothing more or less than an application for a saloon license. We have some good saloon and hotel proprietors in the borough, but it is a matter of common knowledge that those on the 'black list' in the city of Plainfield can come over here and get what they want. The other night I met a man on Somerset street who has been blacklisted in the city. He was drunk and he had got his liquor in the borough. I never heard such foul language from man as he was using. Recorder Hand gave him a severe sentence the next morning in borough court, and I have heard some criticism of this action, but I want to say that he deserved it all, and ought to be made serve every day of it. I am not only opposed to the granting of any new licenses in the borough but I will go to Somerville and personally fight every application that is made for a new business here."

WILL TRY SUSPECTS IN FELL ROBBERY CASE

Recorder Schmidt, of Watchung, will tonight hear evidence against two men suspected of robbing the home of Richard J. Fell, of that township. Mr. Fell and members of his family left the home for the summer and early fall and when they returned every article of wearing apparel and furniture that was movable had been carried off. Arrests have been made but the evidence is not conclusive and the names of the suspected persons are withheld.

WATCHUNG ASSEMBLY TO GIVE BALL ON WEDNESDAY

The committee in charge of the annual ball of Watchung Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, to be held in Columbus Auditorium next Wednesday evening, held a meeting last night and the secretary reported that many prominent Plainfielders had already accepted invitations and also many out-of-town people, and indications point to a very large attendance. A supper will be served at 12 o'clock by Mrs. Henry Johnson and an augmented orchestra of six pieces has been engaged to furnish music.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Van Deventer announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Ewing, to Robert Morgan Gilson, of Rutland, Vermont. No date has been set for the wedding.

SLAYER OF TWO HID IN THIS CITY

Italian Who Killed Wife and Her Mother Worked at Saurer's.

Elizabeth, Jan. 8.—Raffele de Ginerrara, an Italian who came here recently from Plainfield, was arrested by county detectives last night on a charge of murder. He is wanted in New Haven, Conn., for having killed his wife and mother-in-law two years ago. The man is an electrician and was formerly employed at the Saurer factory in Plainfield. He has been hiding under a number of aliases recently, but was recognized by local officers from descriptions sent out by New Haven authorities. The charge against de Ginnerrara is that he went to see his wife, from whom he was separated and when the mother-in-law refused to admit him, he killed both women. He will be taken back for trial at once.

WAS A FRIEND OF MAN, BUT NO MORE

Good Samaritan of Raritan Has His Restaurant Looted.

Somerville, Jan. 8.—And you may add to the list of Good Smaritans that were, but are not, the name of Frank Sanitoria.

Sanitoria is proprietor of the Raritan lunch room, at Raritan. Out of the goodness of his heart he has been letting Anthony Miele, of Brooklyn, sleep in his lunch room and today he is out material things in the form of $75 in bills, two gold watches, two chains, and a number of punch boards which represent an expenditure of $40.

The lunch room proprietor discovered his loss when he opened his store this morning. At the same time he discovered that Miele was missing. He has no positive proof that the man he befriended took the lost articles, but the fact that they left under similar circumstances and at about the same time leads him to suspect them of illicit association. Miele has been visiting Louis Conti, the ballplayer, here, but had no place to sleep, says Sanitoria, and was permitted to sleep in the warm lunch room. He lives at 240 Union avenue, Brooklyn, and the police have been asked to arrest him when he can be located.

Since returning from their honeymoon the couple have been residing with the groom's mother. The first of February they will commence housekeeping at 109 Elmwood place.

Mrs. Schomp prior to her marriage was Miss Ethel Magdalene Bush, of Readington. Mr. Schomp is engaged in the express business in this city He is a member of the Trinity Reformed church and the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

THE HARTRIDGE SCHOOL WILL RE-OPEN MONDAY

The Hartridge School, which held its closing exercises, Wednesday, December 22, will be reopened Monday morning for class work. The day scholars will report as usual for morning prayers at a quarter before 9. The resident girls, some of whom must lose many hours in travel, have been given a little leeway, and will arrive during the morning and will make up later what they miss. As Christmas fell on Saturday, vacation began two days earlier than usual, and the pupils have all had a long holiday.

MOVE TO WIDEN SOMERSET ST.

Borough Council Receives a Petition From Property Owners.

ASKS PROMPT ACTION

Ordinance Fixing Term of Street Commissioner is Repealed by New Measure—Routine Business Transacted at Last Night's Meeting.

An application for prompt action on the widening of Somerset street between Jackson avenue and Johnston's Drive was presented to members of the Common Council of the borough of North Plainfield at the regular meeting held last night. It was signed by ten or more citizens of the borough and Mayor "Bill" Smalley, who was one of those signing the petition, explained that each signature represented a property owner and a citizen along the street. He signed with power of attorney for a resident, he said. The application was referred to the street committee.

Bills amounting to $5,769.13 were audited and ordered paid by resolution of the Council.

Chairman Stahl reported that an application of the Newark Sign Company for permission to erect a billboard at the corner of Somerset street and Somerset place had been destroyed. He refused to recommend that such permission be granted and the company has later agreed not to erect the sign.

A resolution authorizing the Mayor and clerk to enter into an agreement with the Public Service commission for current to run motors at the new pumping station was passed. A special line for this current will be laid next week, it is explained, and the service tested, but there will be no charge until the motors are in actual use.

An ordinance repealing an ordinance passed and approved in 1886 and amended in 1912 creating and regulating the office of street commissioner was passed on its first and second readings and ordered advertised. This is for the purpose of carrying one of the reforms inaugurated by Mayor Smalley. He contends that it is a waste of public money to employ a street commissioner by the year and will hire a man for this work only when he is needed and when the old ordinance is repealed he will have authority to appoint for

TWELVE BELLS SOCIAL CLUB GIVE A DANCE

The third annual ball of the Twelve Bells Social Club was held in Saengerbund Hall, last evening. The hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The walls were draped with red, white and blue, and green and white bunting, the latter shades being the colors of the club. Additional decorations comprised myriads of short strips of crepe paper of various shades which hung from the ceiling and a huge Japanese umbrella, suspended from the centre and from the points of which streamers of various shades ran to the moulding around the side walls.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Prof. Halbfoerster's orchestra. The prize waltz was won by Mr Cheattis, of Elizabeth, who had Miss Kate Marlow, of Bound Brook, for a partner.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT IS PUT ON PROBATION

Edward Harvey, the colored pupil of the Plainfield High School arrested several days ago for the larceny of a hat, was put on probation for one year by Judge William De Meza in police court. Harvey is also prohibited from attending the school further. He will secure a position on the outside and go to work.

IMPROMPTU DANCE.

A dance was held last evening by the pupils of North Plainfield High School in the Harrison Avenue School A large number of the boroughites were on hand to celebrate the girls' victory over Plainfield High School. Dancing occupied the greater part of the evening's activity, while a farce comedy was arranged by the boys. Refreshments were served by Weiss, the borough druggist.

WILL MEET TO SEW.

The German-American women of the city have arranged to meet every Thursday afternoon and evening in the basement of the German Reformed church, Craig place and Duer street, to sew for the German-American Red Cross. Donations are accepted with thanks.

WILLARD APGAR IS NEW POSTMASTER AT DUNELLEN

President Wilson this morning appointed Willard N. Apgar as postmaster at Dunellen. He succeeds Henry S. Garretson, who has held the position for a number of years. Mr. Apgar has been a member of the Middlesex County Democratic Committee for some time and has long been a worker in all things Democratic in the county. His appointment was recommended by many of the leading residents of Dunellen and is said to meet with popular approval.

WILL ADD TWO MEN TO POLICE FORCE

Board Also Orders Remodeling and Repainting of Station.

Following the recommendations of Chief of Police Kiely for a larger force members of the Police Board last night decided to add two regular men to the local department. They will be employed as soon as applicants can take the regular examinations and qualify for membership in the department, mentally and physically. All applicants must have been residents of Plainfield for at least one year.

The board also ordered police headquarters painted and repaired inside and out and a contract for this work was awarded to C. W. Mundy, whose estimate was the lowest of seven bids received. Work is to be started at once.

The board adopted an order requiring police officers to report in writing at headquarters in all cases of illness or injury. No pay will be granted during absence from duty unless the men file written reports at the time of disability. The city physician will be directed to examine for illness or injury on the day when same happens. Officers will be required to telephone headquarters immediately on leaving posts, for illness or injury, and to follow up the oral report by the written statement.

BENEFIT OF RED CROSS.

Mrs. Schueler, a graduate nurse of the German Hospital of New York city, will speak at the German Reformed church, at Duer street and Craig place, tomorrow, for the benefit of the German-American Red Cross work. Mrs Schueler was a Red Cross nurse in the Spanish-American war. Her address wil be in English.

AMID SHOWER OF BURSTING SHELL

Canadian Officer Describes Thrilling Experiences in the Trenches.

FIGHTING IN THE AIR

Aeroplanes Dart Here and There in Search of Some Target—Rattle of Machine Guns and Musketry Heard Continuously.

An interesting letter from a Canadian officer to a relative in Plainfield gives a little idea of some of the exciting experiences of those living near the scene of action. Throughout the letter there is a vein of pathos which is apparent to the reader. The officer writes as follows:

"At present on this front it is indeed a very dull war, simply two long lines of men in trenches facing each other at distances varying from fifty to several hundred yards—when they are close together the opposing sides can hear each other speak and from time to time insulting remarks pass across the intervening 'No Man's Land.' All along there are expert shots safely concealed waiting patiently for a head to show above the opposing parapet, and woe betide the incautious individual who does let his curiosity overcome him, a bullet will probably go through his head before he is a minute older. During the day the artillery have their innings and except on very misty days there is scarcely a time from dawn to dark that the boom of artillery is not to be heard.

From far back behind the lines the unpleasant shriek of the hurrying shell is heard and some unsuspecting camp or bivouac may suddenly be surprised by the burst of a high explosive. Yet in the midst of all this even in villages, where hardly a house is untouched by shells and where the fall of high explosive projectiles is almost part of the daily routine, one sees peasants, women and children, going about their ordinary tasks. A few hours ago a shell burst near there and killed an old woman in the cottage near. Now life is going on in the cottage as usual although there is no reason why another shell should not follow its predecessor. Such an incident is but typical of many. The artillery of both sides have all points such as farms, villages, cross-roads, woods, in fact every fixture behind the op-

Louis Moore, aged 24 years, a colored chauffeur, was fined $10 in police court this morning on a charge of fast and reckless driving. SIX COWS FOUND TO BE UNHEALTHY

State Board of Health Condemns Part of Terry Herd.

As a result of inspections made by experts of the State six of the most valuable cows in the herd of William H. Terry, on Willow Grove road, near Fanwood, have been taken away to be destroyed. Tubercular baccili were found in the milk from these cows. As Mr. Terry's herd contains but twelve cows, he will go out of business as a result of the action on the part of the State. He is allowed $37.-50 for each cow destroyed by order of the State and will offer the remaining six for sale. Edward Terry, manager of the farm, had been selling the milk on a route through Westfield, but it is said by health officers that there is no danger to those who have used the milk.

LATE IN MAKING GOOD RESOLUTIONS

Two Young Men in Police Court Promise to Be Good, However.

Patrock Honan and Michael Coniskey, two young men arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of being disorderly through fighting, arrived at the customary resolutions a little late and through compulsion, but Judge De Meza believes that they will be better for their promises to be better during the year. Both men had bad records in police court. They were arrested by Patrolmen McIntyre and Muir. Judge De Meza gave them a good lecture and brought home to each of them the price they were paying for the so-called "fun" of reckless living, and when he had finished each man took the pledge and solemnly promised to walk the straight and narrow all of 1916. They were released.

AN END TO ALL U-BOAT TROUBLE

Germany's Latest Move Pleasing to all United States Officials.

EVERY POINT COVERED

Notes Will Be Made Public Tomorrow—Said to Even Include Guarantee of Indemnity to Owners of the William P. Fry.

Washington, Jan. 8.—An end to all diplomatic troubles of the Wilson administration over the activities of submarines is seen by officials in the latest move of Germany, which was made public yesterday afternoon. Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, delivered the contents of two notes which guarantee to the United States indemnity for the loss of American lives not only on the Lusitania but all other liners sunk by German U-boats, including the Persia, if it is found that a German submarine really sank this ship. The notes also contain assurances that the German government agrees with the United States administration regarding the rights of neutrals on the high seas and that it will punish submarine commanders who sink liners or passenger steamers without warning.

The demands of the United States government, even unto the Frye case, are recognized by Germany and are granted in substance in every case at issue. A full text of the German notes will be made public tomorrow.

Kaiser Has Narrow Escape.

London, Jan. 8.—Stories of a narrow escape from death of the German Kaiser have reached London within the past twenty-four hours. It is said that while flying over Warsaw in a Zeppelin recently, the German ruler was suddenly put in danger of death by an accident to the machine. It began falling when one of the screws broke and tore a hole in the aluminum envelope, and it was only by heroic work that the machine was not wrecked in falling. The Kaiser is said to have personally rewarded every member of the Zeppelin crew. Germany officially denies the story.

SOUTH RIVER MAN'S CAR TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

A Saxon runabout belonging to William Peterson, of South River, caught fire in some unknown way while standing in front of the Plainfield Auto Tire Company's place on Watchung avenue at 1:30 this afternoon. Mr. Peterson was standing on the sidewalk nearby when he noticed the blaze, but could do nothing to check its headway. An alarm was turned in from box 21 by Irving Stebbins, of the Auto Tire Company, and although the department was on the scene in very quick time nothing could be done to save the car. The blaze was put out with chemicals, but the motor was practically the only thing left. Mr. Peterson places his loss at $250, which is practically what the car was worth. The firemen advanced the theory that the blaze was caused by a backfire of the motor.

The billiard and pool table that is situated in the balcony overlooking the gymnasium is to be sold to help defray the running expenses of the Parish House.

One appointment made by Borough Mayor William H. Hoar this year will have to be made over again from present indications. Recorder Chas. Sheelen, who is the only one who ever held that position in Fanwood, says he will not qualify this year owing to lack of time. He has said that for the last five years every time he was appointed, giving the plea that someone else should have a chance at the place. That there is no one else in the borough able to hold the office has been the plea that the borough officials have put to him heretofore but it looks this time as if that plea would have no effect on making him change his decision.

Although real work on the construction will not be started until spring, plans are ccompleted for the golf course that William R. Nelson has decided on for his extensive estate in Willow Grove. Requests for membership continue to be sent to Mr. Nelson, and there will be no lack of suupport for such a thing. OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that cung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

AMID FLYING SHOT AND SHELL

posing lines marked down and it is merely the question of the whim of our battery commander or the imagination of our airman whether a salvo of shell fall on some unsuspectingly famished and as likely as not, find that their only prey is some women and children. Overhead, if the day permits, and few do not, are hurrying aeroplanes searching for some target on to which they can direct their artillery.

One hears a succession of sharp explosions and looking up sees an aeroplane surrounded by little fleecy balls like cotton both opening. It is the airplanes natural enemy, the anti-aircraft gun seeking its prey. Or perhaps the sharp rattle of a machine gun far overhead catches the ear and after some difficulty we see a couple of aeroplanes fighting in midair. All night through 'No Man's Land' between the trenches creep patrols seeking to find out what is going on in the enemy's trenches and to murder any hostile patrol they may encounter on like errand. The darkness is suddenly broken by a brilliant flare shot up from one side to the other, the rattle of the machine gun or burst of musketry and all settles down to darkness and quiet again, and one cannot believe that thousands of armed men face each other at a few paces interval. But a moment later something causes alarm and the line for hundreds of yards is lit up by flames and again rifles and machine guns speak, perhaps this time their big brothers, the guns perhaps two miles back, are suddenly called to activity by telephone, add their deep note to the orchestra.

Such is war as we see it here or at least as well as my feeble pen can describe it. A queer setting is it not for a Christmas festival? One really wonders what peace will be like when it eventually comes and feels as if those few months back before this Armageddon started were really another existence ages and ages ago.

"Our present headquarters is very comfortable though rather far back from the line. Our office is in a convent, which is still working, and has a large number of refugee children, while the general, my colleague, and the general, too, aid de camps with, I had almost forgotten him, brigadier-general, who commands our artillery, live in a very nice chateau about ten minutes away. The owner of said chateau being a prisoner in Lille."

MOVE TO WIDEN SOMERSET ST.

as short a time as he deems fit.

A resolution fixing the salaries of special marshals of the borough at twenty-five cents an hour while on duty was passed.

Engineer George W. Fuller reported that he considered it perfectly safe for the Council to release $3,000 of the fund being held back on the sewer contract of Harrison-Burton Company. The borough is holding back fifteen per cent. of the money on work done, and already there is a total of $11,000 in this sum. The $3,000 was ordered paid at once.

The sewer committee reported progress on all contracts and a resolution passing all further matters pertaining to the joint sewer work over to the next meeting was passed.

A communication from the New Jersey State League of Municipalities urging the borough to become a member was received and referred to the committee on public affairs.

The treasurer's report, showing a balance of $2,937 at the end of the old year was read and ordered filed.

The application of Hrs. H. Kellar, of 22 Somerset place, to open an employment agency, was approved and the licence was ordered issued.

Chief George Weiss, of the borough police force, submitted his report for the old year, which showed that 336 arrests had been made by the department. That of Borough Recorder Fred Hand followed, showing that 290 cases had been tried and $811.50 in fines had been turned over to the collector.

The total cost of work done by the Joint Sewer Board of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen during the month of December was $10,872.07, and the borough ordered that its pro rata of $2,715.97 be paid.

The Council adjourned until Friday evening, January 21.

CARNEY-SUTTON.

Mrs. Catherine Sutton and John C Carney, both of the borough, were married at St. Joseph's church, Thursday afternoon, by Father Peter J. Hart, the pastor. Miss Carney and John C. Carney, Jr., daughter and son of the bridegroom, were the attendants. Following the ceremony the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside on Grove street, the borough, after next week. Mr. Carney is employed by the Public Service Corporation.

BOOTH TARKINGTON IN FAVOR OF BILL

Well Known Author Tells Why He Supports Child Labor Measure.

Booth Tarkington, the well-known actor, is strongly in favor of the child labor bill, saying that there cannot be two ways of looking at it.

"It is inconceivable that there should be opposition to the Federal child labor bill," says Booth Tarkington, in a letter to the National Child Labor Committee. "There are some questions upon which there can be two opinions, both honest and intelligent; but this is not such a question. Opposition must be either insane or hypocritical. Two ways of looking at the child labor evil are like two ways of looking at massacre."

Among others who have recently written to the National Child Labor Committee expressing their interest in the bill are Henry Cabot Lodge, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, Stephen S. Wise, Henry Snyder Harrison, James Oppenheim and Harvey W. Wiley. Individual endorsements of the bill are coming to the committee's office every day, and it is evident that interest in the bill is nation-wide. The bill, known as the Keating-Owen child labor bill is similar to the Palmer bill, which passed the House last year, and it is hoped that popular interest in it will be so strong and so many people will write their Congressmen and Senators in its behalf that it will pass both House and Senate at this session. Information in regard to it may be obtained from the National Child Labor Committee, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York city.

ARREST TWO FOR THEFT IN BOROUGH

Daniel Kiely and William Hoy Held for Grand Jury on Charge of Stealing.

August Wolff, a cigar manufacturer at 225 Grove street, reported to the police of the borough last night that during his absence from his home yesterday afternoon, thieves entered his shop and depleted his stock of cigars. Chief Marshal Geo. Weiss got busy on the case and this morning two men, answering the descriptions furnished by Henry Clemens, who conducts a grocery opposite the Wolff home, were arrested on Somerset street. Mr. Clemens said that he saw two strange men leave his neighbor's residence.

The men gave their names as Daniel Kiely, aged 30, of this city, and William Hoy, who claims to have no home, but who has been employed as a moulder at the Pond Machine Tool Works. After being cross-examined Kiely it is said made a confession. They were given a hearing by Justice Snape this afternoon and each held in $100 for the grand jury. As an excuse for the act, Kiely said that he had been drinking. Hoy denied being implicated in the theft.

Four Hundred Feet Below Daylight With the Telephone

IN THE FIRE BOSS'S SHANTY

'rock' pinned the poor fellow's leg to the floor of the chamber, and the laborer, seeing that he couldn't lift the weight, ran to the telephone station in that section, at the same time calling out for help to the men in adjoining chambers.

"The hospital, that's my headquarters, is in the third vein, and in about half a minute I had the message and was shooting down into the 'China' vein in the emergency cage with my 'first-aid' outfit. They had the rock off his leg by that time, and when I cut away his shoe and trouser leg and put a 'brake' on the blood-flow, we got him on a stretcher, and, well—you saw the ambulance on the job when we got him to the surface."

Later, down in the mine, "four hundred feet below daylight," a locomotive came to a stop with a hissing of air brakes almost at our feet and a dozen men jumped to the work of coupling up a long line of "empties."

"More work of the telephone," shouted the foreman above the deafening noise of banging car couplings. "We used to handle traffic on mine railroads by signal alone, but since we've spread out more and have so many places to cover with a limited amount of motor rolling stock, we can handle the motors with less confusion and in less time by using the telephone."

We went on, to the Fire Boss's shanty, a room about twelve feet square, apparently hewn out of solid rock. The one thing about it that attracted and held our eyes was the equipment—telephones, signaling apparatus, blue prints of the mines. Here the "inside" foreman sits during his underground "spell" and with a telephone at his elbow he keeps his finger on the progress of the work in even the deepest recesses of the mystic maze of mining chambers. Here the "doctor" sits with first-aid packet, ready to start for any point in the workings as soon as the telephone brings the word that his help is required in the interests of humanity. Here the "Fire Boss" sits in judgment during the early hours of the day and decides whether or not there's too much "fire damp" in the workings to allow the men to go into the chambers.

The telephone bell, another Moore gong, rang. This time a magnet coil had burned out at a point that we would have called "across the city" if we had not been up above. There was no new coil to be had "inside." That fact was ascertaindd by means of a telephone call to the electrician who was also in an office in some mysterious place out in the darkness, underground.

The foreman's assistant who had answered the call telephoned "outside" and turned to us as he hung up.

"I've been workin' in the mines close on to forty-seven years," he informed us, "an' let me tell you that a mine's a much healthier and pleasanter place to-day than it was then. Then we had no electric lights, no electric drills, no electric hoists, and no telephones. A man had to see by the light of his pit lamp and he had to do all his drillin' by hand. When it come to sendin' a message—say, that was a joke. Do you know what we did? We got an old slate and nailed it to the cub-hoist. When we wanted to send a message up—didn't make no difference whether it was a case of life or death or just a matter of gettin' some new supplies—we just wrote the message out on the slate and trusted to Kingdom Come that someone would see it. Yes, sir, minin's improved a whole lot since the telephone came.

"Back in 1911 in one of the Pennsylvania mines fire broke out in the breaker, that was built just like it is in this mine—up above the main shaft. But where we've got a ventilatin' system here that sucks the used air out of the mines, in those days the fans sucked the fresh air in, by way of the main shaft. There's a mighty strong current from those fans and gradually it began to take hold of the smoke and

Incidents in a telephone man's visit to one of the big coal mines of Pennsylvania are woven with much interesting matter into an account of the telephone as it serves the miners. The article appears in The Telephone Review, N. Y., from which we quote parts of the story which are of particular general interest:

A Moore gong connected with the office telephone set up an insistent clamoring and the mine foreman jumped to answer it.

For just an instant he held the receiver to his ear. Then he rushed to another telephone across the room and turned a generator crank furiously.

"The wagon—quick!"

He slammed the receiver into its place, picked a grimy cap from the desk and was out of the door.

Over at the shaft mouth under the giant breaker a group of silent, sober faced men had gathered about the great hoisting drum, the driver of which was restoring a telephone receiver to its hook as we came up.

"It's one of the new men," he told the foreman. "Rock came down on him—pinned his leg—they're putting him in the cage down below now."

Somewhere close by a gong sounded two long rings and a short one. The engineer reached over and sent an answering signal over a bell wire. Then he threw a lever, the great drum began to revolve and all eyes turned to the great dial located in front of the engineer, on which a white arrow indicator was just leaving the 400-foot mark. The car had started from the depths of the shaft.

The clanging of the mine ambulance gong as the "wagon" came up to the door of the hoisting engine house—then—a roar from the shaft mouth, the grind of the great drums as the brakes shot home, and the cage lifted itself suddenly from the shaft.

The "doctor" from below stepped off the car and addressed the ambulance surgeon. "Right leg crushed—rock-fall."

That was all. They lifted the inert figure and bore it to the ambulance and the "doctor," who was no doctor at all, but captain of the mine's first aid team and winner of many a prize in open first-aid competition, turned to his boss, the foreman.

"The Greek we brought up," the doctor said to us, "was working down in 'China'—that's the fourth and lowest vein. His chamber was 'way over west and about as far from the shaft mouth as—well, about five city blocks. The Greek was a miner, and his laborer, or helper, was entering the chamber just behind him when part of the seam on the side gave way. The

Came tripping from his tongue until his tongue would wag no more;
But when it came to yachting and to rowing and to polo,

POVERTY IN EGYPT.

It Often Drives Parents to Sell Their Children as Slaves.

In the whole land of Egypt there are now only two cities, Alexandria and Cairo. Yet once Egypt was the grandest country of the world, having as many as 200 cities, but these have been all long swept away or covered with the sand of the desert.

In these two cities, Alexandria and Cairo, all the principal people of Egypt reside, while in the country districts up the Nile there are no towns and hardly any villages, but only scattered settlements of peasants, who are called fellahs or fellahin.

These fellahs, though of the same Arab race and religion as the people of Cairo, are very different in most other ways. Instead of the turban, the flowing robe and the gay slippers, which the men of the city wear, we see only a half clad figure with matted hair and skin blackened by the sun; instead of the veiled lady in a robe of silk, here is a poor woman with naked feet in a dress woven of grass. One thing, however, both use in common—a bracelet.

The fellahs of upper Egypt are very numerous, but they are all very poor. Their houses are mud huts, used only to sleep in, as they are in the open air most of the day. Their food consists chiefly of vegetables, which they eat uncooked, such as maize, melons, gourds, beans, lentils and dates; those that have a cow can get milk, and all can get fish. Meat they seldom taste, and their bread is only a half baked paste of bruised maize or millet. Rice is too dear for them. One luxury, however, all the men—and women, too—manage to get whatever else they go without—that is, the ever present long wooden tobacco pipe, smoking.

The poverty of many fellahs is so great that a family of children is often a great burden to the parents. Many cases yearly occur of parents selling their children as slaves to escape from the expense of their support.

A parent will sometimes make a long journey to Cairo to get rid of his young children. Some time ago a woman brought to a rich lady of that city an infant, which she said she found at the door of a mosque. The lady said she would take the child and adopt it and handed the woman a small sum as a reward for her trouble in bringing the child. The woman refused the offer, blushed and withdrew. She was the child's own mother.—Hartford Post.

"You did?" said the mistress. "Pray, tell me, what was it?"

Plainfield Construction-Realty News

Plainfield's Building Operations for 1915 Exceeded Any Twelve Months in History

A perusal of Building Inspector T. O. Doane's figures for the past year shows that Plainfield's building operations for 1915 exceeded that of any previous twelve months in its history, the grand total for both old and new work reaching $591,990. This is a gain of $20,592 over 1914 and is a splendid showing when it is considered that the figures do not include the Federal postoffice building on Watchung avenue, for which no permit was taken out, neither does it include the Evergreen Avenue School, which was not commenced until last spring and is still under-way. The permit for the latter structure was issued in 1913. The postoffice building represents a total building cost of about $85,000, and if added to the construction figures would give a grand total in 1915 of $676,990. The figures are gratifying to officials and citizens alike, confirming the optimistic predictions last January that the city would recover from the 1914 slump and be busy throughout the building months.

The Daily Press has prepared a table of all local building operations which is printed on this page today and affords an easy opportunity of just where and what class of work was done. The Third ward leads in aggregate building figures for the year, a total of $182,961 worth of work having been done in this section of the city in 1915. The lowest was the Fourth ward, which shows only $121,674. The First ward leads off with the largest number of dwellings added to its complement, the number being twenty-three. The Second ward had four, the Third ward, twenty-two, and the Fourth ward, fourteen, a total of sixty-three. Their total cost was $244,371. If these dwellings are added to the accommodations in the big Crescent Court apartment on East Seventh street, recently finished, it means that building operations for the year gave Plainfield accommodations for one hundred families, a fact worth more than passing consideration.

In 1914 the Second ward was at the top of the list in building operations, spending total of $227,625. The Third ward, which is the highest this year, was the lowest last year, spending only $77,022. In 1914 the total amount of money expended in new building was $468,533, while the alterations reached $102,865. A resume of the 1914 total is also shown on this page in order to permit comparisons with 1915.

Among some of the larger buildings which were put up during the past year were the Crescent Court apartment, which cost about $45,000, Netherwood Reformed church in Netherwood at $13,000; the United Cigar Building at Front and Somerset streets, $15,000, and the Plainfield Storage Company's warehouse at about $40,000.

BABSON'S REPORT ON PRICE OF LUMBER

Well Known Statistical Expert Gives His Opinion on Purchase of Supplies.

Those interested in the values of rough lumber may be glad to read the following from Babson's report on "Price Movements of Commodities." Babson's Statistical Organization is considered the most reliable authority in its line in the United States, and Roger W. Babson, the head of the organization, is regarded as the foremost statistician in this country. This is his forecast on the lumber situation.

Lumber Advancing.

"Lumber—Despite the recent great advance in price we urgently advise clients to continue to lay in substantial supplies of lumber. In fact, this is one of the few times when we consider it safe for clients to borrow money with which to purchase large quantities of this commodity. Many grades of lumber have already shown an advance, but in our opinion this is only a forerunner of what is to happen before next summer. Although our export trade with Europe is still seriously curtailed, it is much larger than at any time since the war broke out, with every prospect of expanding further. On the domestic side, the railroads are again in the market for large quantities; a second successive year of bountiful crops will almost unquestionably cause the farmers to make substantial purchases, and the building outlook is in a stronger position today than at any time since 1905. As in the past, there may be a slight seasonal dullness this winter, but we look for no serious setback in prices. Clients whose yards are not stocked up to the limit should feel safe in filling them at once. Delay is dangerous, because before many months prices will probably be a great deal higher.

DECEMBER A SLOW MONTH IN BUILDING

The month of December, 1915, closed in Inspector T. O. Doane's office with a decided falling off in building permits over that of the previous year. In December, 1914, permits for building work aggregated $22,090, while in the month just concluded the total figures were but $2,631. This is one of the slowest months that has been noted in a long time. A resume for the month shows the building work to have been done in the various sections of the city as follows, together with a comparative table for 1914:

BRUNSWICK'S 1915 PERMITS TOTAL NEARLY A MILLION

Closing the year of 1915 with the biggest month in building operations that New Brunswick has had for sometime, the million dollar mark was barely missed in the year's total, as shown by the permits issued by Building Inspector Egan, of that city. The year's total building operations amounted to $984,097. December was the banner month, with a record of $228,037, almost double the total of any other month in 1915.

LOCAL STEEL PLANT GETS FINE CONTRACT

Levgar Construction Co. Will Erect $160,000 Foundry at Elizabeth.

The first of one million dollars worth of contracts which are to be given out as a result of S. L. Moore & Sons' decision to rebuild and reopen the big Crescent Shipyards at Elizabethport was awarded the past week to the Levering & Garigues concercern, of West Dunellen, known officially as the Levgar Structural Iron Company. The contract is for the building of a structural iron foundry in the plant at a cost of $160,000. Work is to be started very shortly, and it will keep the full force of the Dunellen plant busy for many months to come. More than six months ago the Moore Corporation, which is controlled by Charles M. Schwab and the Bethlehem Steel Company interests, petitioned the Elizabeth Board of Works for the vacating of Franklin street, from Front street to First street, Elizabethport, to make room for the new plant, which, it is said, would employ 1,000 men. The opening up of Crescent yards, as planned, will be of direct benefit to Plainfield mechanics, as a large number of them were employed at the old place when it was closed down some years ago. It is probable that a large percentage of these employes will return when operations get under full swing.

PLANNING ADDITION TO HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

The officers of the Church of the Heavenly Rest are at present discussing the advisability of building an addition to the present edifice in order to care for the increased membership and attendance. Nothing definite has been arrived at as yet, but it is practically a possibility in the near future, owing to the installation of a new organ. Money for the latter is now being collected, and an order for the instrument is to be given in a few weeks.

The tentative addition will be twenty feet wide at the rear of the present building, while another ten-foot wide addition is to be placed on one side. This arrangement will not only give additional seating capacity, but will also make possible more room for the choir loft. The Church of the Heavenly Rest is one of the oldest in the city, having been erected about thirty-five years ago, and the seating is frequently taxed to its capacity.

POWERFUL BEAR INFLUENCE NOTED

Strong Efforts Being Made to Keep Material Figures at Present Level.

TENDENCY IS UPWARD

Healthy Fear That Plan to Increase Prices May Deter Construction Work in This Section of the Country.

New York, Jan. 8.—With common brick in New York selling for $10 a thousand, wholesale, crushed stone bringing prices higher than has been recorded in almost a generation, structural steel 100 per cent. higher than it was a year ago, and demand for new buildings showing, through plan filings, a momentum in this city that bodes well for an active season, a powerful bear influence got to work this week to keep, if possible, prices; healthy fear that the upward trend of costs of building materials will deter spring construction. Part of this bear movement found its origin in Newark, where Frank H. Genung, former president of the Building Material Exchange, said:

"It's all right for New York to advance its building material prices. There the operations have to go ahead because of demand. The mere matter of an additional $50,000 in cost is not a deterrent factor because the demand is there. But out here in the suburbs it is a pity that prices for materials have to advance in a time like this, when a good building movement is just starting, because it is developing a type of construction that is reactionary. The high price of common brick is forcing builders to use concrete block, hollow terra cotta tile and even local field stone in some instances, and in cases where high grade operations have been projected they are being held up simply because of this increase in price. If the New York wholesale market could only see the effect these price shifts are having here they would be warned."

The wholsale market is a victim of circumstances, however. The conditions governing the increasing cost of materials are at mill centers where labor is scarce, fuel costs more and shipping conditions are more exacting. There is a very low supply considering the volume of building that is going ahead this winter. The demand is forcing a prominent Staten Island brick yard to operate all winter, and, so far as labor will permit, there is extra time being put in at Raritan river yards, where brick and terra cotta hollow fireproofing tile are made. In the Hudson Valley there is not more than 300,000,000 brick available for use between now and spring. Dealers who have ridden from stack brick that they bought at $5.50 a thousand have been in the market and have unloaded and then stacked again at $7.50 and $.580 in anticipation of prices going still higher. Brick manufacturers are said to be actually making money on their product for the first time, taking the Hudson district as a whole, since the spring of 1913.

The last and only time in the history of Eastern building that Hudson common brick was being sold around $10 was in May, 1906, when for a single week it reached $11.20 a thousand. The $10 price now asked is for covered brick lying on barge in the Hudson river. Special brick under cover is said to be bringing more than that figure. The quotation was made by the Greater New York Brick Company to a Bronx dealer this week. The open market price for Hudsons is $9 bottom a thousand.

Rosendale natural cement at the new $1 level is strong. Portland cement is without change at $1.67 and $1.72, but the upturn in brick prices gave a strengthening tone to the market, especially since high brick prices sometimes stimulate the sale of cement. Structural steel at the new price level of $20.96 is remarkably firm. The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company has officially advanced its price on tin plate from $3.60 to $3.75 a base box. The leading maker has taken some important contracts at the $3.75 level.

Concrete aggregates are in a stiff market. The remarkable adherence of sand, gravel and grit to levels ruling before the impetus in building demand developed is accounted for by the heavy stocks on hand and competition. A long spell of cold weather would be almost sure to cause a sharp upturn. Screened cow bay sand in the wholesale market is still 45 cents.

Molding sand is very hard to get. The supply is low, especially for Lumberton sand in the vicinity of West New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania. The Rockaway dredges have stopped work for the winter. Most of the foundry trade was well supplied. Plants coming into the market, now, however, are finding it hard to get supplies even at advanced prices.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JANUARY 8, 1916.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Alfred B. Wilson, commercial manager of the Plainfield Branch of the New York Telephone Company.

TELEPHONE COURTESY.

Do you remember the old, thumbworn book we used to have back home on the parlor table alongside the family album?—the "Hand-book of Etiquette and Guide to the Social Graces." We used to consult it for everything from the inaugural ball to acknowledging an invitation.

If a new edition of that fine old work is ever brought out, it will contain a chapter on "Telephone Courtesy." The widespread use of the telephone is so comparatively new that it is only now that people are beginning to pay attention to their telephone manners.

For instance, the telephone "Hello" is no longer in use among particular people. It has fallen into disfavor because it is both meaningless and time-wasting. In a modern, up-to-date business establishment the telephone is answered thus: "Jones and Company, Mr. Smith speaking." When his home telephone is answered by a servant, he has instructed her to say: "Mr. Smith's residence."

It is a queer anomaly of modern manners that a person of the most even temper and gracious deportment will sometimes display the most unreasoning impatience at a slight delay in securing a telephone connection. He or she will stand patiently in line at the postoffice, the ticket office or at a store counter, but he will storm and fume if the telephone operator is unable to answer him the moment he lifts the receiver.

It takes three people to make a telephone call—the caller, the operator and the person called. We see to it that the operator does her work as well as is humanly possible. If the public will but realize its own responsibility in determining the quality of telephone service, the few difficulties that now arise will disappear.

There are four cardinal rules for making a telephone call that the public would do well to paste in its hat. You'll be doing your part as well as the operator does hers, if you'll observe these few simple rules: (1). Always consult the telephone directory first; (2), talk directly and distinctly into the transmitter; (3), listen carefully when "Central" repeats your number; (4), acknowledge the correct repetition or correct her at once if she misunderstands.

For the man at the other end of the line, the called party, there are four corresponding rules that make for good telephone service: (1), Always answer the telephone quickly; (2), talk directly and distinctly into the transmitter; (3), don't say "Hello;" (4), answer a call by giving your name or the name of your firm, if it is a business telephone.

If the 30,000 people in Plainfield could be lined up in a long procession and shown through the local telephone exchange, they would appreciate the exacting task of the operator who greets them with such unvarying courtesy, and would better understand the enormous extent of the system and the tremendous task of furnishing telephone service. They would then see how vitally the quality of telephone service depends on the subscriber himself. They would be emphatically impressed with the truth of the telephone axiom, "The Voice With the Smile Wins." It wins not because courtesy is better manners, but because it makes for better understanding and, therefore, greater efficiency.

WESTFIELD PARISH PLANS MANY FINE IMPROVEMENTS

Holy Trinity Roman Catholic church is to erect a handsome new edifice at Westfield avenue and First street, Westfield, to take the place of the present building in New York avenue. The new church is to front Westfield avenue. The plans of the building are not yet prepared, but it has been decided to make the exterior of tapestry brick, with stone trimmings. The church will occupy the siteof the present parsonage, which is to be moved south in Westfield avenue.

The property in First street at New York avenue is to be purchased, which will give the church the entire frontage in First street. There are at present two buildings on this land. One is to be used as a convent. The other will be moved to make room for a parochial school. The school will contain all modern appliances, including a gymnasium and bowling alleys. The improvement will cost $80,000. Work is to be started on April 1, when the rectory will be moved and the foundation for the new church dug.

Rev. Father Watterson, rector of the church, recently gave out a statement, showing the condition of the finances of the parish. The receipts for last year were $10,782.11. Of this amount $6,250 is for the reserve building fund, which, with a balance of $900 from 1914, makes a total reserve building fund of $7,150.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 23 degees; 11 a. m., 30 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 29 degrees.

No Chance

I see, upon a printed slip,
On my hotel room door,
What would betide were I to skip
Nor pay my little score.

But nowhere in that quoted law,
As I can see, b'jing,
I'm told to bust that meinhost's jaw
When he inserts his sting.

It does not say that if the food
Is quite unfit to eat,
I straight may trounce that robber, good,
With willing fists and feet.

It does not promise if the bed
Is harder than the pave,
That I may swat him o'er the head
And fit him for his grave.

It does not say that when the clerk
Deceives me as to trains,
I am to smash him in the smirk
For being shy of brains.

No, all the law is for, is to Protect the hotel man.
The trav'ler's rights are mighty few—

He was probably mighty glad the telegraph wasn't invented late in 1814, for if it had been, he wouldn't have had a chance to fight that battle of New Orleans. No doubt he said, right after he had read the gorometer and seen how much British blood was spilled, and then discovered that peace had been declared in December, "Thank the Eternal, old man Morse and Marconi haven't been successful yet. I would have missed one jodandy scrimmage if they had!" It will be a hundred and one years ago to-morrow since the battle was fought, and we know an old liar who would tell us he was there at the time if he didn't know we had the dots on him.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

As It Seems To Be

A GOOD many letters from readers of this column ask us to base an opinion or advise a suitable diet or tell what should be done for some such trouble as this:

I am a young girl of twenty-two, and for a long time I have been feeling run down and poorly. I work in an office where the ventilation is not just what it should be. I was told my trouble is nervousness, and advised to take various medicines. But after several experiments I still feel as badly as ever. I have a little catarrhal trouble in the throat, and sometimes a slight cough, but my lungs seem to be all right; there is no pain anywhere. I have lost fourteen pounds in weight. My backaches some, but my kidneys seem to be normal. Won't you please suggest something to help me?

The young lady—like all others who write in that vein—labors under a misapprehension. Her letter details some vague symptoms which might mean any of a dozen or more things. It tells absolutely nothing upon which an opinion or any advice worth writing could be based.

Note that her lungs seem to be normal, and her kidneys seem normal too. Why do they seem so? Perhaps because there is no pain in the chest, and because the kidney functions do not disturb the patient. Well, tuberculosis is painless in its early stages; kidney disease causes no disturbances which the victim would attribute to the kidneys—it causes general ill health or digestive disturbances, or headaches or anemia or loss of weight—Bright's disease, we mean.

Yet because these organs "seem" normal the young lady eliminates them from the case and expects us to do so too. Imagine how much good—or rather harm—a doctor would do by undertaking to advise anyone on such insufficient knowledge of the condition present!

We are aware that we have been able to render some little help to readers through correspondence with them and with their physicians and dentists. We are glad that this is so. We eagerly welcome the opportunity to do good where we feel that it is good.

But we wish to protest once more against such letters as that quoted. It is a dangerous thing to trust to a diagnosis made by long-distance communication, and still more risky to follow treatment based upon such a diagnosis. If you have any questions upon which you desire information that we can give, put them to us. But do not ask us to tell you what is the matter with you. Do not expect us to do by mail what no doctor can do—even in his private office—diagnose the trouble without examining the patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Kidney Trouble Never Causes Backache

Is backache, dull, deep-seated, always present, a symptom of kidney trouble?

Answer—In all our hospital and private practice we cannot recall ever having met with backache due to kidney trouble.

Her Joints Grate

Can you explain what causes my knee to grate when I go up and down stairs or turn in bed? My hand feels the grating too.

Answer—Either loose body in the knee, or overgrowth of the synovial membrane, lining the joint. If it doesn't cause pain or disability, ignore it.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

PLUMBING

PLUMBING is a modern affliction which makes our houses fit to live in and almost impossible to pay for. Plumbing consists mostly of pipes and pipe dreams. The pipes are used in the house and the pipe dreams are used in the bill. With the aid of the pipe and the pipe dream together, the plumber is able to convey water to a bathtub in nineteen hours at 80 cents an hour, by means of a wrench which has been left in his shop four miles away.

Another ingredient in plumbing is the faucet. Faucets are pieces of jewelry, which are sold by karat weight, and which are very ornamental indeed when mounted in solid marble settings.

Plumbing is used to carry water into a house and sewage out of it, but most plumbing will willingly reverse the operation on the slightest pretext. When a house has been properly plumbed, it is congested with pipes which are cleverly concealed between the walls in such a manner that any little leak can be readily repaired by taking up the floors and removing the partitions. Plumbing is made of lead, brass, and iron, but it is as fragile as a baby's ear and must be protected from cold with the utmost caution. If a collection of high-strung and nervous plumbing is left alone in a house on a dark winter night, it will promptly freeze and burst. This allows the faithful and energetic water company to pump the house completely full of excellent drinking water, for which the owner of the house hasn't the slightest use.

Sometimes a pipe freezes, but does not burst. It is then possible for the owner to thaw it out, by crawling through a rat hole and pouring hot water on it and his thumb in equal doses. Sometimes the plumbing seems to be in great pain and thumps and groans in an uncanny manner. This can be remedied most inexpensively by shutting off the water and moving into another house fitted with non-hysterical pipes.

The pipe dreams are used in the bill

Plumbing has made marvelous progress in the past few years, and is a great blessing to humanity, though not a high moral influence at all times. The Greeks wasted their marble on temples and statues, but we put ours into bathrooms and lavatories. Architects often draw beautiful house designs, and sell them to investors by figuring the cost, exclusive of plumbing, just as automobile makers sell a car for $1,000 exclusive of lamps, magneto, horn, top, engine, windshield and tires. Cautious house builders, however, install and pay for their plumbing first and then build their houses with what is left of their bank accounts.

Views Of The Press

Norman Angell Vindicated

NORMAN Angell, the author of "The Great Illusion," has been the butt of much ridicule lately because of some of his original and pronounced opinions on war and peace. He took it for granted that the powers of Europe would have too much sense to engage in an internecine conflict, but he gave them credit for something they did not possess, and now people are laughing at him. Yet the war has only proved up to the hilt Mr. Angell's fundamental proposition, that as the nations are organized to-day, even the victor in war is in reality a loser.

Curiously enough, confirmation of Mr. Angell's views comes now straight out of Berlin. Vorwaerts, the exceedingly able socialist journal there, has devoted several columns of its space to a discussion of the economic effects of the great conflict, and its conclusion is that, no matter whether Germany or Great Britain wins, neither will have gained anything at all comparable to its losses. Only the United States, which has remained out of the conflict, will reap any commercial and financial benefits. While Germans and Britishers have been busy killing each other off, Americans have quietly usurped their leadership in international trade and finance.

Thus, a nation which has held aloof from the war is the real winner in the war. That truth, which now is becoming more apparent every day to the belligerents in Europe, should teach them a very wholesome lesson. It will be one of the deciding factors, doubtless, in putting an end to the war and making it impossible in the future. Far stranger things have happened in this world than that the combatants should compose their differences in order to prevent America, of whom they are only too jealous, from striding still farther ahead of them in the race for international leadership.—St. Paul Dispatch.

The Succession Of Estate

Q. (1) Parents residing in Indiana die, leaving an estate to two adult children. Should the children remain unmarried and die without making a will, would the entire estate go to the father's brothers and sisters or would the mother's brothers and sisters share equally with the father's in the estate? (2) If I give my note to a party, paying interest on the same at regular intervals, and the party fails to indorse this interest on the back of the note, what recourse have I? Have I a right to demand the privilege of seeing the note in order to ascertain if the interest payments have been indorsed?

A. (1) The Indiana statutes pertaining to descent and distribution provide: "If any intestate shall die without lawful issue or their descendants alive, one-half of the estate shall go to the father and mother of such intestate, as joint tenants, or, if either be dead, to the survivor, and the other one-half to the brothers and sisters and to the descendants of such as are dead, as tenants in common. . . . If there be neither father nor mother, the brothers and sisters of the intestate living, and the descendants of such as are dead, shall take the inheritance as tenants in common. If there be no brothers or sisters of the intestate or their descendants, the father and mother shall take the inheritance as joint tenants; and if either be dead, the other shall take the estate." (2) If you can make proof, in any other way, that you have paid your interest, you will be protected. It is merely a question of proof.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Fish, Flesh Or Fowl

Animals of various kinds have been having their day in court.

That no fish were on the ark with "Father Noah," and that therefore the creature is not an animal, was the position taken by a St. Louis city attorney a short while ago, in defending the case against a peddler accused of cruelty to animals.

The case was dismissed over the emphatic protest of the presiding judge, who argued that the dictionary defined a fish as an animal. The peddler was charged with advertising his fish by displaying a live animal from a string on his cart, that its flopping might attract the eyes of prospective purchasers.

In a certain barnyard an agent of the S. P. C. A. discovered a goose whose webbed feet were nailed to a board, as one stage in the process to make its liver become pate de foie gras.

A meeting of the society was held to consider the case, and the president who had been in conference with physicians, encyclopedias, lawyers, humanitarians, and others, insisted that in addition to the bodily injury, there was also the question of mental anguish to be considered. Accordingly, the society voted to hale the goose's owner to court to decide a goose's rights—Cleveland Dealer.

Pepper Talks

"I Am I"

The whole World revolves about the Performances of each man. Of all the numberless creations daily added to the History of Life, the creation of each man alone forms the only absolutely NEW note to Progress. So that out of the Mind and Consciousness of each man alone must burst the Thoughts, Ideas and Wonderments from which the World may pride its onward stride. In fact—.

You, alone, may say—"I Am I."

Your Individuality or Personality, Separately is able to add to the total sum of Grandeur on this Earth. For it is NEW! You are cast from an Original Mould. None other will ever be cast from it again. What you are is above Price. You are able to be your own great Inspiration. Your solitary Figure, grandly alone, is able in silent Conference and Consideration, to rise nobly, mustering meanwhile the strength-hidden Forces that await to call you Master. For—

You, alone, may say—"I Am I."

Work is not a Transitory affair. Ambition, Effort, Enthusiasm, Suffering, Disappointment, Happiness—these are not Fleeting, but specimens of the Fulfillment. You are these. Just as the Ink gives realization of the Thought behind the Pen, so out of Yourself comes Yourself—the expression of what is deep WITHIN You. Whereas the daily accumulation of what you Think, Feel, Act, become the Ideal of what you are. Let this simple thought close in upon you and make you a Worker to-day of which the oncoming Race may well be proud, remembering the while, that—

You, alone, may say—"I Am I."

Current Poetry

The Big Brother

I remember, I remember
My little trundle bed,
From which Jim used to dump me out
Upon my childish head.
He never seemed to think that I
Might crack my foolish spine—
And I, I looked on Jim as if
He had been half divine.

I remember, I remember
The stream behind the school
Where Jim would duck me till it seemed
I'd swallowed half the pool.
But, oh! I never told on him!
I felt too honored then,
For I was only six years old,
While Jim was nearly ten.

I remember, I remember
A lot of foolish things
Jim did to me while still he seemed
An angel without wings.
But let me tell you this, good sir;
He does such things no more,
For I am six feet, two, to-day,
While Jim is five feet, four.

A woman indulges in some desultory conversation during the day, but doesn't really begin to talk until after she takes her hair down at night.

Nearly every man appears to proceed upon the theory that he is a comedian.

A desire to avoid work is often manifested in a determined search for a government job.

A perfunctory performance may also be described as one woman in the act of kissing another.

The man who can shave himself "quicker than a barber could do it" nearly always looks it.

A man may be deaf to ordinary conversation, but he can always hear the rustle of a petticoat.

The reasonable assumption is that the recording angel is an expert stenographer.

A woman often thinks she is old enough to do as she chooses, but she never tries the experiment.

The easiest way to fall in love with a woman is to take the position that there is no chance to get her.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Bibbley Wah Went Fishing Through the Ice.

She Had Only to Keep Her Knees Stiff.

"ONE beautiful sunny day while the three children were having their winter vacation," daddy began, "Uncle Ben planned a party on Whist pond, for it was all frozen over in a blue glare of solid ice, and the boys could skate across it easy as walking down the street. It took a whole day to plan this party, for Hank Fritz had to net a pailful of minnows in the brook for bait. Anne had to bake beans and plan sandwiches, and Uncle Ben and the boys had to tie dozens of little red flags on wires hitched to fishlines. So finally off they all started in a nice old fast sleigh, with old Ned all twinkling with merry sleigh bells, while Anne stood in the door and begged them to come home early and not freeze their ears off.

"The first thing Uncle Ben did when they reached the pond was to tie Old Ned in a sheltered grove, feed him and blanket him. Then he built a bonfire of crackling chestnut logs for Bibbley Wah, who couldn't skate very fast and keep as warm as the boys could. Then he and Hank chopped holes through the thick ice while the boys put minnows on the hooks, sunk the lines in the icy water and fixed the little red flags so that when Mr. Pickerel gobbled the minnow the red flag would bob up on top of the ice and the boys would race to see who got the fish first."

"How many holes in the ice were there, daddy?" asked Jack.

"About eighteen. This was all they could take care of, for when the ice is so thick Mr. Pickerel can't jump for flies he grabs at a nice, plump minnow quick as a flash. Sometimes the fish flopped off the hook before Uncle Ben could skate up in time to land him. Sometimes the boys and Hank would grab Bibbley Wah's hands and pull her a mile across the glistening ice—all she had to do was to keep her little knees stiff. Then sometimes Uncle Ben would see a red flag way down the pond and, catching Bibbley Wah up in his strong arms, would carry her whizzing off ahead of the boys who tried to catch them. Then when the clean wind and crisp cold made her sleepy Uncle Ben wrapped her up in his fur coat and laid her on the ice beside the bonfire, where she slept as sound as a seed baby till luncheon time.

"Then Hank hung Anne's cocoa over the bonfire, warmed the beans for sandwiches, boiled some eggs in the bait pail and baked three potatoes apiece in the live coals, and they all ate till they nearly burst, while the red flags flapped in the north wind with nobody to come for the pickerel. But just before the sun went to bed in a cloud bank they hitched up Old Ned and took back to Anne a big basketful of graceful, long, silvery green pickerel, enough to last the rest of the children's vacation," daddy finished.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

John Sutner Shows to Julia Osgood Her Folly.

"Now that we are alone a few minutes I want to tell you enough about my affairs to ask your advice," said Julia Osgood, coming over to John Sutner's desk. John drew up a chair for her and she sat down.

"Mr. Cane and I were engaged when I left the hospital, as you know. I knew that his mother did not like me."

"Did he tell you that?" interrupted John.

"You do not have to be told some things. He did not say anything about it and did not suppose that I knew it. After a few weeks I got a letter saying that he had something disagreeable to tell me and that he would come up Saturday evening. I knew what was coming. When he came he was nervous and unlike himself. I might have made it easier for him, but I felt that the easiest thing would be for me to wait and see how he approached the subject. Relations were tense. He began by saying that it looked as if we could not be married right away, for he was going to be tied up financially. As if that made a bit of difference. I did not help him out, but sat silently waiting for him to come to the point and thinking fiercely that perhaps he was trying to get me to break the engagement."

"That was silly; not a bit like you," broke in John.

"Do you think so?" replied Julia as joyously as if he had paid her a compliment.

"Certainly; no man asks a girl to marry him unless he wants to marry her."

"But no man likes to have his mother so opposed to his marriage that she will disinherit him if he persists in marrying the girl of his choice. That puts a different aspect on the case. If he had known how much trouble he was going to have perhaps——"

"Bosh!" interrupted John. "If a fellow has a mother like that, he needs a sensible wife more than ever."

"You mean——" began Julia.

"I mean that no man worthy of the name would let such a thing stand in his way, if he was able to support a wife."

Julia sat looking at her finger where the ring had been, and John went on.

"Pardon me, but you don't mean that you flew the track and broke the engagement because he tried to tell you that he was disinherited and in disfavor with his mother on your account?"

"I surely did not want to feel that he had given up everything he held dear in life for me. I am sure a man would regret a marriage that cost him so much, and I told him so."

"What did he say?" asked John.

"'Is marriage a thing to be put aside if it is inconvenient? Perhaps you mean that you would not like to encounter the open hostility of your husband's mother.'" The girl repeated the words as if the scene was very fresh in her memory.

"See what you made him think? That it was not a very vital thing with you anyway."

"How could he think that?" burst out Julia. "I told him——"

"It was very easy for you to think that he wanted to break the engagement. I tell you there has got to be confidence between people. We must believe other people are at least as decent as we are." John looked in deep concern at the girl at his side. "You have done so much for me I wish I could do something to undo the tangle you have got yourself into."

"No, no, you cannot; you must not. It is too late to do anything now. Thank you for your interest." She turned and walked away.

Twenty Uses for the Lemon

Few people realize the value of lemons, which cannot be overestimated. In the warm weather their tonic effect is excellent and in cases of fever, sore throat or torpid liver the medicinal qualities are splendid.

Two or three slices of lemon in a cup of hot, strong tea will cure a nervous headache.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cup of black coffee will relieve a bilious headache.

The juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water on awakening in the morning is an excellent liver corrective and substitute for calomel and other alterative drugs.

A dash of lemon juice in plain water makes a cleansing tooth wash, not only removing the tartar, but sweetening the breath.

A lotion of lemon juice and rose water will remove tan and whiten the skin.

Lemon juice with olive oil is considered by many as far superior to vinegar for salad dressing.

Lemon juice and loaf sugar are good for hoarseness.

Outward application of the juice allays irritation caused by insect bites.

A refreshing drink is made by adding a freshly beaten egg to lemonade, and the same mixture when frozen makes a delicious ice.

If when boiling sago or rice a teaspoonful of lemon juice is added the kernels will be whiter and a delicate flavor is added.

An old-fashioned remedy for croup is lemon juice, honey and alum.

We all know the value of lemon juice and salt for removing rust stains from white goods.

After the juice is extracted the rind dipped in salt cleanses brass beautifully and conveniently.

It is also removes unsightly stains from the hands.

For flavoring cookery lemon juice is unexcelled.

After the pulp is removed the skins make dainty receptacles for serving salads, ices, etc.

Tough meat may be made tender by adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the water in which is it boiled.

Slices of lemon garnish fish of all descriptions.

Tea is greatly improved by the addition of a slice of lemon, either iced for summer's use or as Russian tea on a winter's day. In buying lemons select those having a thin dry rind. They are cheaper and much juicier than the fresh, plump ones.

A Clear Complexion

Cosmetic fairness is a poor substitute for the peaches and cream complexion which Nature bestows. Back from the country, radiant with health and good looks, came maid and matron, too, a few months ago; and already steam heat, lack of fresh air and exercise, late hours and over-indulgence in rich viands begin to tell their tale in lack-luster eyes, bleached skins and sallowness.

Plenty of Outdoor Exercise.

Only the debutantes, with their unspoiled freshness, can stand the pace, and even the girl in her second season begins to look fagged and faded by mid-season. Winter is the time to go in for exercise, bathing and diet fads—to offset the injury being insidiously done to one's good looks by luxurious indoor living.

Through the summer one is out of doors so much, and exercising so regularly, that over-eating is not as dangerous. In summer, also, the pores are kept open by natural perspiration; all the air possible is allowed in the sleeping room at night, and the complexion has the benefit by day of sunshine and fresh breezes.

Regular exercise should be taken every day, whether in the form of a three-mile tramp, a canter on horseback, an hour at the skating rink, or in going through systematic exercises in one's room. The warm bath on arising should be followed by a cool shower and brisk rub—if a cold plunge is not enjoyed. At least two hours of every day should be spent out of doors, and at night windows should be thrown wide open, even if this necessitates a flannel nightgown and sleeping cap.

Foods To Aid the Complexion.

Hot breads, pastry and sweet, rich cakes should be avoided; crisp rolls or toast moderately buttered may be taken at breakfast with coffee and soft boiled egg. Tea and toast, after the English fashion, at the 4 o'clock "hungry hour," are much better than the American ice cream soda—or the cocktail and caviar sandwich which sophisticated feminine taste indulges in at "afternoon tea" in a fashionable restaurant.

Quantities of celery should be eaten; lettuce is valuable as a complexion clearer, and so is endive, which helps rid the system of bile. Onions are an invaluable aid to beauty, and an onion eaten two or three times a week at night will do wonders for the skin.

ABOUT BLACK GLOVES.

Black kid or suede gloves that wear white at the ends, treated in the following manner, can be made to look like new: Mix a little good black ink with half a teaspoonful of olive oil and apply to the faded parts with a feather. Let the gloves dry thoroughly before wearing them.

DEVICE FOR DARK CLOSETS.

Fasten discs of white cardboard back of hooks and nails in ill-lighted closets and you will be able to see where to hang garments without having to grope.

Foreign Matter in The Eye Easily Removed

If a smut has only gone on to the edge of your eye, it is quite easy to take off, but if it has got right in, it may be difficult to move. These hints will probably be useful to you, as they may enable you to save yourself or someone else hours of unnecessary suffering.

Simple Methods.

The first is an excellent method of removing a smut if you are out of doors, and have no implements at hand. Shut the good eye, hold down the lid with your finger and in the meanwhile roll the bad eye as much as you possibly can. Try to look with it right round to one side and then round to the other side. After you have done this for a minute or so, wipe the eye carefully with a soft handkerchief. You will probably find that the smut comes off on the handkerchief, as the rolling has shifted it to the front and made it easy to reach.

Another way is to close the bad eye with your finger, leaving the good eye open. Then blow your nose violently two or three times. When you open the bad eye again you will probably find that it is quite comfortable, and that the smut has vanished.

Castor Oil.

If the accident occurs indoors, where there is someone to help you, the best way of putting the matter right is to get some one to dip a small brush in castor oil and take the smut away with that. You must use castor oil—not olive oil, which might possibly injure the eye; and you must have a very soft, clean brush. The patient should look up to the ceiling if the smut is at the bottom of the eye, and sideways and downwards if it is at the top.

EGG STAINS REMOVED.

Egg stains on linen or on any other cloth should be soaked in cold water, for hot water would set the stains and make them most difficult to remove.

The same rule applies to egg stains on dishes, etc. If the dishes were placed at once in hot water, the egg stains would be found to harden, while the readily come off in cold water.

SOFT FLANNELS.

When flannels have become hard and shrunken they may be restored to their former softness by soaking them in gasoline.

MILK FOR CHOICE LACE.

It is well, when washing a piece of choice yellow lace, to dip it in milk before ironing. Always place a piece of tissue paper directly over the lace, so the warm iron will not touch the fabric.

NATURAL COLOR OF THE EARS.

The ears should be a pale pink, and if you tint the lips it will make pale ears look all the paler. The entire ear should be slightly tinted to look natural. This is best accomplished with liquid rouge, as it does not rub off easily.

Make the New Year A Year of MUSIC

Were the Days of the Last Year Lost?

TWO friends drifted apart in an hour. They disagreed on a subject which concerned them both. Disagreement bred dislike. They separated in anger. One went into the reading room (they were in a club); the other threw himself into a deep chair in the lounging room. The eyes of the latter man saw nothing clearly for a while. Then they rested upon the piano. After a few moments he arose and went to the piano.

The man in the reading room picked up a paper. His interest in the pages was only sub-conscious. He nursed his resentment. Then, into the midst of his thinking, there broke the softly-played melody of Liszt's Liebestraum. His mind took it up. It was as Wallace Stevens has put it—

"Just as my fingers on these keys
Make music, so the self-same sounds
On my spirit make a music, too."

He recognized it as his friend's playing. The music merged with the individual. The individual stood out greater than the thing which had hidden him from the other, who now saw the well-known qualities, the tested sincerity, the kindly attitude; saw things in their proper proportions. He laid the paper down and walked toward the lounging room.

* * *

"Music is feeling then,
Not merely sound"

—quoting Stevens again.

It is gladness, when you wish it; a soothing, an outlet for tears, a cry of triumph, a rollicking round of melodious sound — whatever your mood or the moment may require.

* * *

Have no more imperfect days. Have MUSIC.

Do not keep the children longer from the great uplifting force of life.

Give them MUSIC.

The player-piano (Angelus) and the Wanamaker Educational Plan (providing long time convenient payments) bring music within the reach of all; music of —the sweet-toned Emerson,

—the Lincoln-loved Schomacker,
—the 79-year-old Lindeman,
—the mellow Kurtzmann,
—the celebrated, vibrant Knabe,
—Music, music, MUSIC.

FIVE TEAMS IN BOWLING LEAGUE

Circuit of Alleys in This City Formed—To Start in About Ten Days.

MAY GET SIXTH TEAM

Park Club Cannot Enter, but Invitation Will be Extended to Saengerbund Hall—Much Accomplished at Initial Meeting.

A City Bowling League was organized here last night, at a meeting held in the Vanderbeek building. The alleys entering teams are the B. P. O Elks, F. O. Eagles, Knights of Columbus, T. A. B. Society, and the Imperials.

Much was accomplished at the first meeting. The Park Club sent word that it regreted that it could not enter its representative team, owing to the large number of bowling engagements which already claim much of the time of the members. Besides house tournaments every Thursday and Friday nights, the Parks frequently have competitive bowling other nights, and also have match games with a number of out-of-town teams on their calendar. They expressed the hope that they would be able to join early next season.

An invitation will be exterded to Saengerbund Hall pinners to enter a team. The Saengerbund alleys are the only other local chutes in first-class condition, and if the Somerset street organization joins the league, there will be a well rounded circuit of six clubs. Even if no more teams are taken in, the league as it is now composed will play through a schedule. It is planned to open the week of January 17.

It was voted to take in only local teams having home alleys, and to bowl not oftener than once a week. Each team will meet each opponent twice, in a home-and-home series. The four lodge teams entered will be limited to their membership for bowlers, while the Imperials, who are picked from the patrons of Gates' Somerset street lanes, will select their men from a list of 15 residents of this city and Dunellen, the list to be passed by the league before the season opens.

Each team will post a forfeit of $5. The home team will furnish alleys and pins without charge in all league matches. A committee composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., James Mahoney and George Taylor was appointed to draw up by-laws and a schedule. The prize list will be made out later.

Other details concerning the conduct of the league were discussed. The second meeting will be held in the Vanderbeek building tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Those at last night's meeting were V. W. Nash, Jr., of the Elks; George Taylor, of the Knights of Columbus; James Mahoney and William Smith, of the Eagles; John Connolly, of the Imperials, and James Scott, of the Tabs.

SPORT NOTES

Hughie Jennings has secured as coach for his pitchers that wise old backstop, Billy Sullivan. The Detroit batteries, heretofore the weakest cog in Jennings' wheel, are expected to show something under this tutorship.

Ted Meredith will meet Joe Higgins in the 600-yard special race at the Melrose games on January 26, and he will be put to one of his hardest tests.

George T. Adee, who was prominent in Yale athletics, and is president of the Country Club of Westchester, is slated to head the United States National Lawn Tennis Association.

Jesse Burkett, one of the veterans of baseball, has quit the game. He recently sold his interest in the Worcester, Mass., club, of the New England League. Jesse was a clouter in the majors for some years, and has won several pennants with his team in the minors.

The World's Champion Red Sox are jubilant over the acquisition of Sam Agnew, of the St. Louis Browns. Sam is a big back-stop, has a speedy wing and is a horse for work. The Boston management has been angling for him for a whole year.

The heavyweight glove title of the world has developed into a financial institution that rivals Wall Street. A former barber is the Morgan in the new finance, but he lacks the Morgan element of hiding his operations.

ELKS' LEAGUE MATCH OFF.

The Elks' Senior League bowling match, scheduled to be rolled last night between the Newark and Paterson Elks, on the latter's alleys, has been indefinitely postponed.

P. H. S. NOSED OUT AT MONTCLAIR HIGH

Play Creditably, and Lead Until Last Minute—Score 14-13.

Hard luck was on the trail of the Plainfield High School basketeers yesterday, and after putting up their best game of the year at Montclair, the home team came from behind in the last few minutes of play and scored a 14 to 13 victory.

Early in the first half, P. H. S. got a lead on a field goal by Dunham that was followed by those of Wheelan and Linke. Montclair managed to coral four baskets during the rest of the period, but the Red and Blue cohorts had a two-point lead by virtue of several field goals by Coudray.

Dunham's shooting of the only foul of the game and another basket by Coudray made it look like a sure victory, but after being held scoreless during most of the half, the Mountainside boys started a rally and caged three goals in quick succession. Otto Kretchmer, the star center of the home five, did the damage by making a neat shot from the middle of the court.

Berlow tied with Coudray for shooting honors at three baskets apiece. "Bill" Wheelan, the Red and Blue captain, got back in his old form for the first time this season and played a great game.

PEGS WIN ON A PECULIAR COURT

Floor at Newark Divided Into Triangles With Baskets in Corners.

FINAL SCORE 18 TO 17

Locals Behind Until Last Minute of Play—Miss Smith Repeats Remarkable Achievement of Two Years Ago on Same Court.

Playing under handicaps, the P. E. G. S. handed the Newark High Street Presbyterian church lassies their first defeat of the season last night, in a fast and closely-contested game on the Newark court. The final decision was 18 to 17 in favor of the Plainfielders. The local girls were confused somewhat in that the Newark court had the baskets situated in two corners of the gym instead of at the middle of each end, and a line drawn from two opposite corners divided the floor into triangles, in which the forwards and guards played, while the centers were privileged to run all over the floor.

A feature of the game in the second period was a spectacular long distance shot thrown by Miss Clara Barton Smith from the position of guard, the ball going through the net without even so much as touching the rim. Two years ago Miss Smith accomplished this feat on the same court when she played the Hight street girls as a member of the well-known Nonpareil team.

At the conclusion of the first session the Newarkers held a 11 to 8 lead over the Pegs. During the last fifteen minutes of play, however, the locals crept point by point up to the home team, and with a final spurt in the last minute, Miss Helen Hummel caged the goal that won the game.

Miss Mildred McAuliffe, occupying the pivot position for the Pegs, played an excellent game, and revealed her adeptness in the position. Although accustomed to playing with lines, her work last night showed that she was ready for any emergency that might arise, and could play as good a game all over the floor as when limited to lines. She was also credited with a pretty field goal, thrown from a difficult angle. Miss Ellen Doughty and Miss Johnson played fine defensive games.

Miss I. Fernie was the star performer for the Newark team, caging five goals and five fouls.

P. H. S. INTERCLASS LEAGUE STARTS MONDAY AFTERNOON

Plainfield High School's interclass basketball race will start Monday afternoon, when the Juniors and Seniors get together. The game between the two teams at the annual "roughhouse" of the two classes several weeks ago resulted in a 8 to 7 victory for the class of '16, and as there is a little war between the third and fourth-year men, the league should get a good send-off. From now on there will be at least one game a week.

NEWARK RAMBLERS APPEAR AT HOPE CHAPEL TONIGHT

Hope Chapel will have for its basketball attraction tonight the Rambler Athletic Club, of Newark. The Rambler club is a well known athletic organization which has been in existence since 1910. The basketball team has played six games so far this season, losing all but one of them. All the games have been close, however, and have been with senior quintets of Newark and vicinity.

The teams will line up as follows:

Rambler A. C.—Mayer and Camp, forwards; Lawlor, center; Parkinson, Ford and McCarthy, guards.

Hope Chapel—Porter and Marsh, forwards; Overland, center; Anderson and Leighs, guards.

MAN WANTED FOR BIG GAMES WILL REFEREE HERE MONDAY

North Plainfield High School's last game before the first championship contest with P. H. S. will be against the Kearny team, Monday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall. The borough team was forced to suffer a 34-28 defeat at Kearny in the early part of the season.

The local team will encounter stiff opposition, and is practicing hard to turn the contest into a victory. The rest of the week will be spent in putting on the finishing touches for the big game with Plainfield High School next Saturday.

Joe Byrns, of West Orange, who has been recommended by N. P H. S to referee the local Interscholastic League championship matches, has been engaged to work in Saengerbund Hall for the Kearny-N. P. H. S. game, so that the Plainfield High School officials, who have never seen him officiate, will have an opportunity to watch him before they decide definitely who they want to be the eleventh man on the court next Saturday.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS HAVE SLIGHT LEAD IN FIRST GAME FOR COURT LAURELS

P. H. S. Makes Better Showing Than Expected, and Scores More Baskets Than Winners, but Splendid Foul Shooting of Miss Marjorie Burtis Decides Game—Contest Hard Fought and Well Played.

North Plainfield High School girls gained the first leg on the interscholastic basketball championship of the city yesterday afternoon by defeating the Plainfield High School five on the P. H. S. court, 22 to 19. Marjorie Burtis proved to be the same jinx to the Red and Blue maidens as in former years, and was responsible for all of her team's points. The game was well played throughout, spectacular shots being frequent. The Misses Burtis, Good and Palmer all did well in shooting fouls.

As soon as the whistle blew to start the game it could be seen that it was a question as to how many points Miss Burtis would make. Close guarding prevented a score during the first few minutes, but the borough star got free for a second and dropped the ball in for the first two points on a pretty shot. Irma Good tied the score following several minutes of fast play, but the school from over the brook was out in front again after Miss Burtis had dropped in several free shots and a field goal. Two field goals made by Elsa Palmer evened matters for the second time, but with ten free shots to her credit at the end of the first half, Miss Burtis had a slight lead over the Red and Blue team.

Starting off the last period with several free throws, Elsa Palmer caused the Plainfield cohorts to yell for the lead. Close guarding kept off the North Plainfield forwards from getting loose often, but although she made but one basket in the entire period, Miss Burtis held the lead with free shots. In the whole game she missed only two out of sixteen attempts, and it was on account of the desperate efforts of the Plainfield guards that she got the chance to shoot them.

Both teams put up the best game they have played this year. The guarding was excellent when the performances in former games this year are considered, while the work of both Clementine Bremble and Rose Cooper at center was also good.

Theresa McCullough, the regular N. P. H. S. pivot was out of the line-up. Elsa Palmer played the best game she has shown yet, and chalked up more than half of Plainfield's points.

North Plainfielders made the best showing on the side lines as well as on the court. The Maroon and Black supporters were there in greater numbers thna the students in whose building the game was played. Both sides kept up a continuous performance of cheers and songs, N. P. H. S. having some special songs for the occasion, composed by Vincent La Porte. The words of two of the songs follow:

(Tune: "My Little Dream Girl.")
North Plainfield High School, it is the best school,
Excels in studies, athletics, too;
Our hearts are with you, our victories for you,
We'll beat them, we'll beat them, Plainfield High School.
For we have waken, now watch us shake 'em,
We've got them on the floor;
We sigh for, we cry for, we know we'll get it,
THE CITY CHAMPIONSHIP.

(Tune: "Maggie, Dear, It's You I'm Wantin.'")
The championship, it's you we're wantin';
The championship, we'll win today
For when our crowd starts cheering,
You will know that we hold sway.
The team, we have it sure has "got 'em,"
As they'll show you when upon the floor;
Rip 'em up and ring them in,
And then they'll know we want
THE CITY CHAMPIONSHIP.

CONTRACTOR FILES PLANS FOR NEW HOLT RESIDENCE

Contractor Alexander Milne has filed with Building Inspector Doane the plans for the new dwelling which former Councilman Frank L. Holt is to erect on Kensington avenue, as quoted in the Daily Press several weeks ago. This is the only set of plans that has reached the inspector's office this week and for the first time in many months the week closes without any permits being granted.

The new Holt residence is to be of colonial architecture, three stories in heighth. The first floor is to have four rooms, kitchen, living room, reception hall and numerous closet rooms and will be set off with a large piazza. The second floor will contain four rooms, while the third story is to have two bedrooms in addition to the large storage rooms. Marsh & Gette are the architects.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mary Pickford, the supreme photoplay star, was seen last night at the U. S. Astor Theatre in one of her delightful characterizations, that of the heroine in a splendid Paramount production of "Esmeralda," in which little Mary is given opportunity to be all the various kinds of Mary Pickford "Esmeralda" is done with all the artistry for which the Famous Players, who produced it, are noted. Scenically it far surpasses any of the usual photoplays, and Miss Pickford, of course, lifts it out of the ruck of the ordinary. Splendid photoplays are scheduled for presentation at the Astor Monday and Tuesday next week. The utmost care has been exercised in the arrangement of the program and picture devotees may be sure they will not be disappointed. The principal attraction Monday will be "The Raven," starring Henry Walthall, who portrayed the leading role in "The Birth of a Nation." The play is based on the epic poem of the same name by Edgar Allen Poe, and it is produced in splendid fashion by the Essanay Company. Lovers of Poe's works will find all the engrossing features of the poem in the film play. Other productions booked for early showing at the Astor are "Camille" and "The Foundling," with Mary Pickford.

Hudson Super-Six

76 Horsepower—an Added 80% Without Any Added Size

The World's Record-Breaker
(All records made by a 7-passenger touring car)

Officially Breaking All Records on Stock Cars up to 100 Miles. Also All Stock Car Records for Quick Acceleration—Under A. A. A. Supervision 100 miles in 80 minutes, 21.4 seconds, averaging 74.67 miles per hour, with driver and passenger.

The previous best stock car record of 72.49 was made by a car with more cylinders, more cylinder capacity and driver only.

75.69 miles in one hour with driver and passenger.
During this trial speed laps were made at 76.75 miles per hour.

70.74 miles in one hour, carrying 5 passengers, with top and windshield up.
The previous best record for stock car similarly equipped was made by a car with more cylinders, more cylinder capacity, and with only two passengers.

From standing start to 50 miles an hour in 16.2 seconds. This record-making stock car was driven 1350 miles at speed exceeding 70 miles per hour without discoverable wear on any part.
All these Hudson records were made with the same stock car, using the same motor, at Sheepshead Bay Speedway in November, under supervision of American Automobile Association.

The most powerful motor per cubic inch displacement that the world has ever known.

Mark what those records mean.

No other stock car in history has equalled that performance. No other like-size motor has ever developed such power.

The Super-Six has proved itself the greatest engine ever built. It has almost doubled the efficiency of Sixes. It has outrivaled Eights and Twelves, and ended every reason for those extra cylinders.

It has brought to the Hudson unquestioned supremacy. All must now concede it the sovereign car. For this marvel motor is a Hudson patent, found in Hudson cars alone.

80 PER CENT MORE POWER

The Super-Six is not a mere refinement. It embodies a basic invention. And it so excels all previous creations that it makes of this an epoch-making car.

The best former Sixes in this size developed at maximum 42 horsepower. The Super-Six develops 76 horsepower. That means an increase of 80 per cent.

In high motor speed capacity, the Super-Six excels the best former Sixes by 50 per cent.

Note those immense advances in the features most desired. Then note we attain them without adding size. The Super-Six, in cylinder size, is identical with the Hudson Six-40. We do not forfeit lightness or economy. And we do not add more cylinders, with their extra complications.

ABSOLUTE SMOOTHNESS

All this is accomplished through ending vibration, a motor's major foe. We have built a motor so quiet, so free from vibration, that it can revolve at marvelous speed. And at highest speed a pencil stood on end on the engine doesn't topple over.

Thus we attain with a small motor 76 horsepower—a power that was never reached before, save with motors big and heavy.

We have attained the pinnacle at which engineers have aimed. It was to save vibration that they built the Six. Then, to save more, they built the Light Six with small bore. The next step was V-type Eights and Twelves—designed to still further reduce the vibration.

Now all those types, in this chief respect, have been far outrivaled by the Super-Six.

All that was sought for in Eights and Twelves—lack of vibration, smoothly-flowing power—is far better attained in the Super-Six. The result is vast saving in tires, in engine wear and fuel.

HOW 76 HORSEPOWER

"But how," you ask, "do you get this 76 horsepower, and what does it mean?"

It means vast reserve power for hard roads and for hills. It means ability to creep on high gear, to pick up with record quickness, to avoid changing gears.

That extra power comes through lack of vibration. That means a long-lived motor. It means bird-like motion at any speed. The Super-Six is so quiet that the car seems to move by magic. It means economy of fuel.

And that extra power—that added 80 per cent—comes without adding cylinders or size. You don't want a motor about half as efficient when a same size motor performs like the Super-Six.

Vibration is lost effort, which means inefficiency. By wiping it out we have gained super-efficiency.

HUDSON NOW SUPREME

This patented motor gives to Hudson the top in Motordom. No man who knows can dispute it. With so great a difference, it is bound to supersede the best other types in existence.

That is why we stopped production on the former Hudson at the zenith of our success. That car—the Six-40—had won a new empire for us. It had quadrupled our sales in two years.

But we quit it when the Super-Six proved nearly twice better. And we lost about 5000 sales as a consequence.

Then we doubled our factory at a cost of $1,500,000. Then we bought materials for $42,000,000 worth of these new cars this season. For all the demand for the Super-Six must be supplied by Hudson.

Any fine car buyer who knows the facts is bound to choose the Super-Six. No other car at any price can match it in performance. And the best Six built in former types is hardly one-half so efficient.

The facts will also win thousands from lower-priced cars to the Hudson. The difference in value so far exceeds the difference in price that any man can see it. And the saving in fuel, in tires and in wear on the motor, will wipe out the extra cost.

Consider the excessive strains of that Speedway test. A motor which stood them is impervious to ordinary service strains, and capable of any requirement.

MOST LUXURIOUS CARS

With the new Hudson bodies, this car looks its supremacy. In every detail, regardless of the cost, we've attained luxury's limit.

All that we save by a doubled production has gone into these new bodies. Entirely new lines are adopted. The room is increased. A rare grade of grain leather is used in the upholstery. The finish is superb.

An extra cowl, rounded and finished, is built in front of the tonneau. The windshield is slanted.

You will find in these cars all the beauty and luxury that extravagance could buy. Down to the smallest details there is no way to excel them! Our price for such luxury is due to the fact that we have the largest fine car output in the world.

Thus we announce to you the premier achievement in all the history of motor car building. And the most interesting car of the year. Come and see it.

APGAR WILL TAKE OFFICE NEXT WEEK

Expects His Commission as Dunellen Postmaster at Once.

Willard N. Apgar, who has been appointed postmaster of the borough of Dunellen, expects to receive his commission from President Woodrow Wilson tomorrow, following the probable confirmation of his appointment by Congress today.

Providing that Congress confirms his appointment, and there is little doubt of that, as it is merely a formality, Mr. Apgar will succeed Henry S. Garretson as postmaster the first of next week.

Mr. Apgar's appointment has met with popular approval. Although his opponents were all popular and respected men, the majority of the boroughites have felt that Mr. Apgar should receive the plum because of the manner in which he has labored for his party in the borough during the years that he has been one of the two Democratic committeemen. Among his opponents were such men as Former Mayor William Wyckoff, Assessor J. H. L. Peters and G. Sumner Smith.

Mr. Apgar is forty-one years old. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Apgar, and was born in Plainfield. He has been a resident of the borough for the past 38 years. He is the president of the Apgar Construction Company and a member of the following orders: The Foresters, Juniors and the P. O. S. of A. He is also an exempt fireman. He was elected committeeman when Woodrow Wilson was elected Governor of this State, succeeding H. B. Wyckoff.

Mr. Apgar will be the borough's ninth postmaster. The following are the names of the postmasters in the order in which they have served: Charles Pope, Charles Boice, James Harold, Peter Statts, Charles Coriell, Adam Dealaman, Peter W. Brakley and Henry S. Garretson.

SOUGHT TROUBLE IN POSTOFFICE; GOT IT

"Bad Negro" is Arrested for Threatening Postmaster With Gun.

Somerville, Jan. 10.—Charles Sortor, a negro, about forty-two years old, was arrested Saturday afternoon, at Kingston, by County Detective George D. Totten, charged with committing an assault on Postmaster George A. Woolf, of Kingston.

Sortor has been known around that place as a "bad man," and he is said to have gone in the postoffice and endeavored to stir up trouble, and later placed his hand to his hip pocket with a threat that he would shoot Mr. Woolf.

In the first part of 1915 Sortor was boarding with a negress by the name of Susan Jenkins, at Fallsington, Bucks county, Pa., and was arrested by the authorities there, charged with the murder of the Jenkins woman, she having been killed while he lived with her. He was held for some time, but was released.

Some time ago he was sent to the New Jersey State prison for three years, having been convicted of criminal assault upon his niece.

The hotel-keepers and merchants have not permitted Sortor to come in their places of business owing to his desire to fight.

Justice of the Peace Joseph Navat gave Sortor a hearing and committed him to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

An all-day meeting of the women's societies, of the First M. E. church, will be held tomorrow. The Foreign Mission Society will meet at 11:30 o'clock, when the members are expected to answer roll-call. At 12:30 luncheon will be served. The Home Mission Society will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Helen Carlton, of Elizabeth, will make the address and tell of her recent trip through the southern and western States.

PLANNING ANNUAL FAIR.

The members of Co. K will meet tonight for their regular drill, after which there will be a meeting to further complete plans for the annual fair to be held soon. The program for this year's event is an elaborate one, comprising among other attractions rifle matches among the soldiers as well as civilians.

FORMER LOCAL MAN IN NEW BIG CONCERN

Charles P. Gamo One of the Incorporators of a $50,000 Company.

Charles P. Gamo, a former well-known resident of this city, is named as one of the incorporators of a $50,000 concern which has just filed articles with the Secretary of State at Trenton. Mr. Gamo is also named as first vice president and general manager of the organization, which is to be known as the Acme Land and Chemical Company, with offices in Newark, Keyport and Phillipsburg, and a factory at Califon. The concern will manufacture chemicals and cleaning compounds and also deal in real estate.

The full list of officers given in the incorporation papers is as follows: President, Edward B. Emery of Califon; first vice president and general manager, Charles P. Gamo, of Phillipsburg; second vice president, Thomas L. Smith, of Keyport, secretary, Morris Cohen, and treasurer, Thomas McRann, of Keyport. These officers are the incorporators, each one holding 1,000 shares of stock at a par value of $5.00 each. A factory has been purchased at Califon and this is now being fitted up for the work of manufacturing, possibly commencing about April first. Mr. Gamo, who has made a study of chemicals for the past ten years, is one of the leading spirits in the concern and since the European war commenced he realized more than ever before what a field there is in this country for cleaning chemicals and bi-products, with the result that the Acme company was incorporated. Although the articles were filed only during the past week, the concern has already attracted widespread attention and has every assurance of complete success. Mr. Gamo was in Plainfield today renewing old acquaintances, but left this afternoon for Phillipsburg, where he has been making his home for some time.

DENIES MOTION TO SET ASIDE COMPLAINT

Justice Bergen Allows G. W. Sarson's Action Against Local Concern to Stand.

Trenton, Jan. 10.—The Supreme Court today, in an opinion by Justice Bergen, denied a motion to strike out the complaint in the suit for $30,000 damages brought by George W. Sarson, of Washington, N. J., against the E. & E. Realty Corporation and K. A. & G., Inc., both of Plainfield. The defendants asked that the complaint be stricken out upon the grounds that it does not allege sufficient facts to constitute an action.

The complaint avers that the defendants entered into an agreement with the plaintiff to sell him a mortgage for $30,000 on lands in Plainfield, alleging that the mortgage was a lien on land that cost $50,000, and was good for full amount of lien. It is charged in the complaint that the mortgage is worthless, and the representations were made by the defendants to defraud the plaintiff.

In denying the motion to strike out, Justice Bergen says the call for damages may be excessive, but if the plaintiff has suffered even nominal damages, he is entitled to have his complaint stand.

PARCEL POST WAGON GETS LOST FROM ITS DRIVER

A parcel post wagon being used by the local postoffice department mysteriously disappeared from a spot on Park avenue this morning, but was found an hour later at Watchung avenue and Second street. The horse had merely took a walk in the rain. The incident was reported to the police by the driver, who was inside a store making a delivery when the horse walked off, but the assistance of the department was not needed.

CITY DISMISSES FERNGROWN CASE

Admits it Has no Authority to Regulate Federal Work.

INCIDENT NOW CLOSED

Contractor on New Postoffice Building Can Work Without Regard for Municipal Ordinances — Attorney Hetfield Cites 1907 Law.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., assistant corporation counsel of the city of Plainfield, this morning moved that the case against Fred Ferngrown be dismissed when the plumbing contractor on the new postoffice building was arraigned in police court, thereby ending an attempt upon the part of the police department to force the Federal Government to comply with municipal ordinances in its work here.

Ferngrown was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Health Inspector William Addis, of the Plainfield Board of Health, which charged that he was doing plumbing work in the city without having filed a personal bond and plans of his work with municipal authorities, as required by city ordinance. His arrest was contested, first forcibly by Superintendent Neily, in charge of the building, and then legally by the District Attorney at Trenton, and before the case could be called in police court an injunction was secured from the United States District Court restraining the city from interfering with the construction of the building. This was dissolved upon a hearing, the court holding that Federal authorities had no grounds upon which to base their belief that they would not be fairly treated in Plainfield.

The case against Ferngrown came up for a hearing this morning, and was dismissed by the Judge, thereby leaving the contractor in charge of the postoffice building free to construct without regard for the laws of the city.

Attorney Hetfield again represented the city in the Ferngrown case.

There was no trial. Mr. Hetfield simply moved that it be dismissed stating that a law passed in 1907 surrendered all rights of the State or any of its municipalities to regulate property of the company within the State. Judge DeMeza promptly dismissed the case against Ferngrown and the incident is closed.

HIS CASE CONTINUED UNTIL WOMAN CAN BE IN COURT

Farrteniota Ventriglia, who shot and dangerously wounded Maria Proccino while celebrating the coming of the New Year, was arraigned in police court this morning, but his case was continued for another week in order to allow the woman to recover sufficiently to appear against him in court. The Italian lived at 801 George street, and promptly on the stroke of 12 New Year's Eve he began shooting out the window to welcome the new year. The woman put her head out of the window several hundred feet away to see what caused the shooting, and was struck in the side. She left the hospital last Saturday night and is at her home.

SERVICES TO BE CONTINUED AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

"The Secret of Victory" was the text of the sermon preached by Rev. Charles S. Gillespie at the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, last night. Yesterday began the second week of special effort at the church and the enthusiasm of the people was evident throughout the day. All seem united to push the revival to big results. The evening service was especially well attended. Robert Boyd led the song service, coupled with the chorus and spirit of the "Billy" Sunday songs, which made this feature of the service very inspiring.

Services will be held every night this week with the exception of Saturday, and Rev. Mr. Gillespie will preach each night. Arrangements have been made for a large number of the members of the congregation to go to Trenton next Saturday to hear "Billy" Sunday.

TO HEAR "BILLY" SUNDAY.

Rev. C. S. Gillespie, of Grace M. E. church, is arranging for a party of Plainfielders to go to Trenton Saturday night to hear "Billy" Sunday. A special train will leave here at 5 o'clock, going through without change, and leaving soon after the service. Those wishing to make the trip should communicate with Mr. Gilespie.

MRS. SARAH L. DENTON DIES IN 91ST YEAR

Aged Resident Succumbs to Pneumonia—Her Daughter Also Critically Ill.

Mrs. Sarah Lovell Denton, 91 years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lida E. Parker, of 336 Second street, Dunellen, at midnight Saturday, after an illness of only twenty-four hours with pneumonia, which developed from the grip with which she was taken ill last Thursday. Mrs. Parker, who is very ill with the grip, has not been informed of the death of her mother.

Mrs. Denton was born in Thomastown, Me., but lived the greater part of her life in and about Boston. Her father, the Rev. Stephen Lovell, was the editor of the Olive Branch, and a prominent clergyman of his time. At the time of his death he was grand master of the Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts.

The Lovell family is among the oldest of colonial ancestry, a certain Robert Lovell having come to the colonies in 1636 from Weymouth, England and settled in Weymouth, Mass.

Mrs. Denton was married in 1848 to J. Warren Denton, of Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Denton was an iron master and was associated during the civil war with Major Rodman at the Watertown, Mass., arsenal in the manufacture of the then famous Rodman gun. In the later years of his life he taught this branch of technical knowledge at Steven's Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton celebrated their golden wedding in 1898. A year later Mr. Denton died. Since then Mrs. Denton had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Parker. Besides Mrs. Parker the deceased is survived by a son, Dr. James E. Denton, of Maplewood, who is professor emeritus of Steven's Institute, and six grandchildren and one greatgrandchild.

Mrs. Denton was a remarkable woman for one of her years being active and possessing a mind which was keen and alert. She was beloved by all who knew her for her lovable disposition. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

L. V. F. RANDOLPH WILL LEAVE BOARD

Presents His Resignation to the Directors of the Plainfield Public Library.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, who has served as a member of the board of directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room for several years, has sent his resignation to the board, the same to take effect upon the expiration of his term in June. Mr. Randolph's action comes in the nature of a surprise, for it has not even been hinted that he had any intention of severing his relation with the board, of which he has been a member so long. It is expected that action will be taken on the resignation at the next meeting of the board.

Throughout his long service, Mr Randolph has always been deeply interested in the welfare of the Public Library and Reading Room, devoting a great deal of time to advancing its interests.

The appointment of a successor to Mr. Randolph rests with Mayor Leighton Calkins, and who he is likely to name is not known at present. This is due to the fact that as Mr. Randolph's term does not expire ununtil June, he has not given much thought to the matter. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring was the last appointee of Mayor Calkins, it being the first time in its history that a minister has served in this capacity.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS ALICE BELL

News of the engagement of James D. Robson, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Port Jefferson, L. I., to Miss Alice L. Bell, of Trenton, has reached friends in this city. Mr. Robson was for several years employed at Pond Tool Works. He was an Elk, and a member of the Runyon and McWilliam Bible classes at Hope chapel. Miss Bell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bell, of Trenton, and is a talented soprano. Mr. Robson is now employed by the Finley-Robertson-Porter Auto Co.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO MEET.

The Brightside Circle of the King's Daughter will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of the Misses Claypoole, 48 Mountain avenue, the borough, from 3 to 5 o'clock. The members are requested to bring their thimbles and stars for the Day Nursery.

Their efforts were much appreciated.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN CHAMPAGNE

Germans Begin New Offensive Against Entire French Front.

DEADLY GASES USED

Turks Cut Off British Forces in Africa—Lansing and Bernstorff Settle Lusitania Trouble—Note to England is Mild.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The following official communique was issued by the French War Office today:

"In Champagne the enemy has developed the attack made by him yesterday with the help of a violent bombardment in which he used principally shells containing an asphyxiating gas.

"During the entire course of the day up to nightfall he attempted no less than four assaults concentrated on a front of eight kilometers, five miles east of the Butte of Mesnil.

"At every point our fires decimated the enemy flanks and sharply arrested his attacks. He succeeded in gaining a foothold only temporarily at two points on our first line, namely, to the northeast of the Butte of Mesnil and to the west of Mont Tetu. A vigorous counter attack immediately drove the enemy. He did not occupy the two elements of advanced trenches for more than an hour in actual time."

Germans Claim Advances.

Berlin, Jan. 10 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Western theatre—The Germans northwest of Massiges conquered several hundred yards of French trenches near the farm of Maisnode, Champagne, and enemy positions were also taken. We took 423 prisoners, including seven officers. A French counter attack eastward of the farm was repulsed.

"Eastern theatre—The general situation is unchanged."

Turks Cut Off British.

Advices from Constantinople received here state that the Turkish army has cut off the rear guard of the British army under General Townshend retreating from Kut El Amar in Mesopotamia. The detachment is said to number ten thousand men left there to cover the retirement of the main body. The advanced guard of the Turkish army, is it stated, is in contact with the Brtish detachment.

Agree On Lusitania Case.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The final stage in the settlement of the Lusitania controversy was reached today at a conference between Secretary of State Lansing and the German ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff. All that now remains is to gain the consent of the Berlin foreign office to the solution which the two men in question have determined upon. It is understood that Secretary Lansing took the initiative at today's conference and proposed a form of disavowal of the Lusitania tragedy, which he believed will be acceptable to the German people. Count Von Bernstorff was greatly impressed with the Secretary's plan and promised to take it up with his home government immediately. He expects to have a final conference with Secretary Lansing in about five or six days.

No Strong Note to England.

Secretary of State Lansing denied today published reports that the U. S. will send a note to Great Britain on the general subject of its blockade of Germany and the detention of American shipping to neutral ports in countries adjacent to Germany. No such note was in preparation, he stated. A note to Great Britain on the subject of the extension of the contraband list will go to London in the near future, however. It will go as soon as the pending controversy with Germany on submarine activities is cleared up and finally settled.

POOLROOM MAN HELD FOR RUNNING GAMBLING HOUSE

Somerville, Jan. 10.—John Vandervoort and Ray Nevius, the negroes arrested for having stolen $37 from Hiram Bray's grocery store, on Davenport street, have stated that they went to Peter Dursa's poolroom on West Main street, where they gambled. Sutphen, to answer to the action of the grand jury. Marshal Hanlon, who is opposed to gambling, is conducting a campaign against all such places. Dursa is charged with keeping a gambling joint.

$25,000,000 IN JEWELS IMPORTED DURING 1915.

New Year Finds United States Only Market For Gems In the World.

William B. Treadwell, the government's diamond expert at the appraiser's stores, estimates that imports of precious stones during the year will reach $25,000,000. Owing to the great falling off in the importations of precious stones immediately following the war the figures for 1915 are regarded as remarkable, and customs officials are of the opinion that 1916 finds the United States the only market for the sale of precious stones.

Since under the practice of the treasury department practically all precious stone imports are entered at the New York appraiser's stores, where they are appraised by recognized experts, the port figures are substantially the entries of gems for the entire country. The figures for the year show a gain over the total for 1914 of $6,000,000. While pearls were brought in in greater numbers than a year ago, particularly medium grade gems, diamonds, as usual, predominated in the year's imports. Sapphires continued in 1915, according to Examiner Treadwell, to run strong and remain favorites, as they have been for the last two years.

"With the general demoralization that has come to Europe as a result of the war and the general economies being practiced in the belligerent countries it may be predicted," said Mr. Treadwell, "that the United States will easily be the leading purchaser of gems in 1916. Emeralds always have friends but good stones of this class are hard to get. Still the demand has to be met, and importers have literally scoured the earth to supply their customers with the prized stones. Rubies show a falling off this year. This decline has been in evidence for some years, owing to the large production of synthetic gems of this kind."

AIR MEN TAKE WRONG HANGAR

English Aviators Surprised When German Warplane Drives In.

Many aeroplanes are captured during a month's fighting in Europe, but seldom does an aeroplane land on an enemy's aviation field without a fight.

In the December Popular Science Monthly appears an article telling of an amusing incident which recently occurred "somewhere in France." At an important British aviation station in northern France a great German biplane was seen recently to emerge from the fog. As the anti-air craft guns were about to fire upon it the machine circled several times around the field and finally alighted.

Surprise changed to amazement when the English aviators, mechanics and officers saw the German warplane drive quietly across the field and enter an empty hangar. When the English reached the hangar they found the two German aviators, who calmly told them that they had lost their way in the fog and that on becoming short of fuel they had decided to alight. Jokingly one of the Germans remarked, "If you will kindly give us a little petrol we should be able to return home." The Germans were taken to headquarters and placed under arrest. The captured machine was a new aviatik and was fitted with two machine guns.

INVENTS RUBBERLESS TIRE.

Wood Fiber Shows Wonderful Wear ...otorcars.

The announcement that a German professor has succeeded in making synthetic rubber from chemicals has brought to light the fact that an Austrian engineer named Von Duhikowsky two months ago applied for a patent on a tire consisting of wood fiber and coaster binders.

The specifications show that the tire follows the old pneumatic principle in every detail, there being an inner tube and an outer tire. The main material used is willow and birch fiber. What the binder consists of has not been revealed, but it is known that no rubber whatever is used.

It was announced that a motor car fitted with the new tires ran 437 miles under adverse conditions and the tires showed no signs of undue wear. It is said that the invention is such a success that a large Vienna bank is financing it.

VICTORY IN GRASP, ERRORS LOST ALL

Hamilton Admits That Mistakes Caused Dardanelles Failure.

BLAMES BRITISH OFFICERS

Kitchener Failed to Send Re-enforcements at Critical Time—Without Water, Unbacked by Artillery, Men Were Disorganized—Generals Fell Fighting in the Ranks.

General Ian Hamilton's report on the British operations on the Gallipoli peninsula tells the story of the fighting from the beginning of May to the middle of October.

Probably no more important contribution to the history of the present war has yet been made. The report throws light upon the great landing at Anzac cove and Suvla bay, Aug. 7, which has been the subject of strong attacks upon the military administration of the government, the operations requiring the combined action of the army and the navy.

The Suvla bay landing failed to accomplish its object, the report shows, largely because the forces consisted of untried troops under generals inexperienced in the new warfare and partly through the failure of the water supply. The sufferings of the troops for lack of water make painful reading.

"On Oct. 11 your lordship (Earl Kitchener) cabled asking me for an estimate of the losses which would be involved in the evacuation of the peninsula," says General Hamilton. "I replied in terms showing that such a step was to me unthinkable. On Oct. 16 I received a cable recalling me to London for the reason that his majesty's government desired fresh, unbiased opinion from a responsible commander upon the question of early evacuation."

Turks Make Grand Assault.

The most stirring passages of the document describe the ill fated landing at Suvla bay and Anzac to secure command of the heights on the middle of the peninsula and cut off the Turkish forces at the lower extremity, where the allied armies made their first landing.

"The North Lancashire men were simply overwhelmed in their shallow lines by sheer weight of numbers, while the Wiltshires, who were caught out in the open, were literally almost annihilated," declares the report.

"Still the Turks poured down the western slopes of Chanak Bair as if determined to gain everything they had lost. But once they were over the crest they became exposed not only to the full blast of the guns, naval and military, but a battery of ten New Zealand machine guns, which played upon their serried ranks at close range until their barrels were red hot.

Generals Fight In Ranks.

"Unhesitatingly our men plunged again into the struggles, in which generals fought in the ranks and men dropped their scientific weapons and caught one another by the throat.

"Toward this supreme struggle the absolute last two battalions from the general reserve were now hurried, but by 10 o'clock in the morning the effort of the enemy was spent. Soon their shattered remnants began to trickle back, leaving a track of corpses behind them. By night, except for prisoners or wounded, no live Turk was left upon our side of the slope.

"By evening the total casualties of General Birdwood's force had reached 12,000 and included a very large proportion of officers.

"The Warwicks and Worcesters had lost literally every single officer.

"The old German notion that no unit could stand the loss of more than 25 per cent has been completely falsified. The Thirty-fourth division and the Twenty-ninth brigade of the Tenth Irish division had lost more than twice that and in grim were game for as much more fighting as might be required.

"A second coup had not come off. The Turks were out of sight and beyond the gun range, but this was not the fault of General Birdwood or any of the officers or men under his command."

The Suvla bay expedition, which has been the subject of the greatest criticism, suffered various misfortunes, although elaborate plans were worked out by the army staff with Vice Admiral de Robeck.

But the navy was unwilling to land six battalions where the corps commander considered they could act most effectively. The cause of the navy's action, General Hamilton says, was for some reason not specified, but it resulted in delay.

In the middle of August General Hamilton estimates the Turks had 110,000 rifles to the British 95,000. The Turks had plenty of ammunition and reserves, while the British divisions were 45,000 below their nominal strength.

General Hamilton asked for 50,000 fresh rifles, believing that with them furnished at once—he underlines "at once"—the troops could clear a passage for the fleet to Constantinople.

"It may be judged how deep was my disappointment," he says, "when I learned the essential drafts of reenforcements and munitions could not be sent, the reason given being one which prevented me from further insistence."

TIMELY DISCOVERY SAVES BORO FAMILY

Stranger Detects Blaze at the Home of W. F. Williams While Family Slept.

But for the chance passing of a stranger about midnight Saturday the home of William F. Williams at 136 Somerset street might now be in ashes. A fire, originating from the dislodgement of a brick in an old fashioned fireplace, had broken through the north side of the house and was spreading rapidly when discovered. This stranger awoke Mr Williams and his family and then hastened to the borough fire headquarters and gave the alarm.

Foreman Fritz responded with two small chemicals. When he got there Mr. Williams was fighting the fire with buckets of water. The fire was easily extinguished with the chemicals. The flames, which had followed the joist, had charred a strip about three feet long and six inches wide. The identity of the person who gave the alarm is not known. He was proceeding towards Front street when he discovered the fire.

MRS. LOUISA KUHN A VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

One of St. Joseph's Oldest Parishoners Passes Away at Home in the Borough.

Mrs. Louisa Kuhn, widow of Matthias Kuhn, died at her home on Race street, Saturday afternoon following a brief illness with pneumonia, contracted Christmas Eve. She was seventy-five years old and although born in Germany had been a resident nearly all her life. Her husband, who died about seventeen years ago was widely known at the time of his death. Mrs. Kuhn was made the official care taker of St. Joseph's church in its early days and faithfully held that position up to the time of her death. She was a most painstaking individual and when the new St. Joseph's edifice was built was as proud of it and cared for it as though it were her own property. It is believed that her fatal illness began while she was on the way to the Christmas Eve midnight mass, a service which she never missed.

Mrs. Kuhn is survived by two sons, George Kuhn and John Kuhn. The latter, who has always been known to his friends as "Jack Cooney," will be remembered as a prominent baseball player during the city league series in 1902. He is at present employed as motorman on the local street railway system. Mrs. Kuhn was a member of the Order of St. Francis and other organizations affiliated with St. Joseph's church. The funeral will be held in St. Joseph's church tomorrow morning at nine o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

RELATES THRILLING STORY OF THE WAR

Mme. de Rancongue Tells Belgium Relief Committee of Experiences.

Much interest was manifested in the address of Mme. de Rancongne of France, a recent arrival in this country, who addressed the members of the Plainfield Branch of the Belgian Relief Committee this morning at the home of Mrs. Frederick W Wallace, on Hillside avenue. Mme de Rancongne, who is a charming speaker, came to this country direct from the firing line, where she has been operating an auto ambulance, and is here to interest the people of America in the plight of Belgium, and will return to her native land next month. Her talk this morning dwelt primarily of the conditions in Northern France and Belgium and the method in which the nurses carry articles to individual soldiers on the firing line at the front.

Following her address, a short business session was held, during which the treasurer announced that the committee had a balance of $2,844.32. It was also made known that the portable house will be shipped from Boston on January 17, and that the beds and blankets will be purchased in New York and shipped direct from that city. Every thing will be insured.

Among the recent contributors to the fund are Mrs. Clarence Trowbridge, Mrs. J. A. Lane, Mrs. George A Bomann, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, Mrs. Arthur M. Harris Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, P. V. R. Van Wyck, formerly of Plainfield, and George Motman, the letter of New York city.

SHIPYARDS BUSY WITH NEW ORDERS

America Sees Tenfold Increase In Eighteen Months.

OLD PLANTS ARE REOPENED

Tonnage of 761,511, Now Being Constructed, Greater Than That of Any Previous Year—All of the Factories Have Work Ahead That Will Keep Them Busy For Months.

Shipbuilding plants in the United States are working to their full capacity, but can increase their output from 15 to 60 per cent within a year, according to replies received by the New York chamber of commerce from thirty or more yards.

Already the tonnage under order or construction is double the aggregate tonnage for any year within the last ten.

The inquiry was made of the shipbuilding companies in view of the efforts now being made to enlarge the mercantile marine under American registry. According to one of the most prominent shipbuilders, the amount of ocean going merchant tonnage now building in the United States for American registry has increased tenfold since July 1, 1914.

Increase Since July.

"Since July 1 of the past year there has been a marked increase in the construction activities in most of the large plants in all the leading shipbuilding districts of the United States," says the statement issued by the chamber of commerce. "At one of the leading New England plants they have a construction capacity of the value of $10,000,000 a year and work on hand for fifteen months from Dec. 1.

"Of this amount 50 per cent is government work, the other 50 per cent being merchant tonnage. This firm could make a very considerable expansion if demands justified it. Another typical New England plant with a capacity of $1,500,000 of output a year has twelve months' work on its books. Another New England industry is engaged wholly in engine building for submarines.

"In the Delaware and Chesapeake sections orders are large. Fully a hundred craft of various kinds, including a larger proportion of ocean going vessels than usual, are being constructed in this group of yards. On the Delaware eighty-two vessels were being built with an aggregate of 383,000 tons, valued at $58,000,000 and employing not less than 20,000 men.

"A single plant there, whose merchant shipping capacity in recent years ranged from 40,000 to 50,000 tons, reports its capacity now as 112,000 dead weight tons per year.

"This plant is capable of turning out sixteen vessels of 7,000 tons each per year and on Nov. 24 had orders on hand for two years.

"Another company, with a capacity of 45,000 tons, is booked up for eighteen months, working entirely on merchant ships. A company in this district which on July 1 had but one ship on its ways now has sixteen under construction or ordered.

"The capacity of the country to produce merchant shipping has been increased by the reopening of some of the older plants.

"According to information supplied by the secretary of commerce, the tonnage contracted for up to Dec. 1 aggregates 761,511 gross tons. Of this tonnage thirteen ships are of 10,000 tons or more, twenty are from 7,000 to 10,000 tons, thirty-six from 5,000 to 7,000 tons, ten from 4,000 to 5,000 tons and nineteen from 3,000 to 4,000. Of the ninety-eight vessels fifty-two were contracted for since July 1. The total tonnage, 761,511, is greater than was ever built in the shipyards of the United States in any single calendar year."

69 LYNCHINGS LAST YEAR.

Record of Deaths at Hands of Mobs Exceeds That of 1914 by Seventeen.

Monroe N. Work, head of the department of records and research of Tuskegee institute, in his annual report shows that during the year 1915 there have occurred sixty-nine lynchings.

Of those lynched fifty-five were negroes and fourteen whites. This is six more negroes and eleven more whites than were put to death by mobs in 1914, when the record was forty-nine negroes and three whites. Included in the record are three women. In at least four instances it later developed that the persons put to death were innocent of the offenses charged.

Eighteen, or more than one-fourth of the total lynchings, occurred in the state of Georgia.

Only eleven—ten negroes and one white—or 15 per cent of the total, were charged with rape.

Lynchings occurred in the following states: Alabama, 9; Arkansas, 5; Florida, 5; Georgia, 18; Illinois, 1; Kentucky, 5; Louisiana, 2; Mississippi, 9; Missouri, 2; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 5; South Carolina, 1; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 5; Virginia, 1.

Fire Losses In 1915.

Fire losses of 1915 in the United States and Canada, according to figures compiled by the New York Journal of Commerce, aggregated $182,836,200, compared with $235,591,300 in 1914, a decrease of $52,755,100. The total loss in 1915 was the smallest since 1905, when the figures were $175,193,800.

MAGIC OF IRRIGATION.

Story of the Rice Fields of Southern Louisiana.

In 1883 lowlands in southern Louisiana near the bayous suitable for growing sugar cane, corn and cotton could be purchased for $3.50 an acre, and the prairie lands back from the bayous could be bought for $1 an acre. With almost the first crop under irrigation, however, the values showed a marked rise and have continued to increase. In the first five years the value of the best rice lands rose to $10 an acre, and soon after that it rose to $30 and even $50 an acre.

The first people to plant rice in southern Louisiana, according to the United States geological survey, were the Acadians, who, after their expulsion from Nova Scotia by the English in 1755, settled in considerable numbers in Louisiana. Their cultivation of rice, almost primitive in its methods, was confined to the lowlands along the bayous, the prairies affording pasturage for the Acadians' herds of cattle. Few of the lowland areas admitted of satisfactory drainage, and they were too small for profitable cultivation. The crops frequently failed in years of deficient rainfall. Attempts were made to create additional water supplies by building levees across low sags or coulees at points higher than the cultivated areas, but generally either the rainfall proved deficient or the reservoirs were too small.

Little advance was made over the Acadian methods until recent years. Experiments in unusually wet years had shown that the soils of the prairies were adapted to the growth of rice if sufficient water was at hand. This led to the trial of pumps as a means of raising water from the bayous to the rice fields. So successful was the test that pumps were at once installed at many points, and in a few years tens of thousands of acres of previously almost useless land, lying ten to seventy feet above the bayous, were put under cultivation. The first large pump was installed in 1894 on the Bayou Plaque mine, in Acadia parish, near Crowley.

OUR UNRULY SUN.

It Seems to Be Trying to Dilate to the Bursting Point.

The French astronomer Puiseux has been busying himself with the constitution of the sun. He finds that, instead of condensing and shrinking little by little, as was formerly supposed, the sun is constantly dilating more and more and reaching the point of bursting. And if the sun blew up there would be no more need for us poor mortals to worry about worldly affairs.

Big suns every whit as important in their own constellations as ours are frequently victims of an explosion. There was one in the constellation of Perseus early in 1901, and since then two at least have occurred in other celestial groups.

Observation has shown long since that the great orb which is our all in all is a most uncertain character. Sun spots, fire blasts and such like phenomena are by no means the most of which he is capable. The manner in which the sun throws off atomic energy and transforms the heavy into light elements, hydrogen, helium, nebulium, archonium and what not spells nothing good for this world, and a mere nothing might lead to a disaster any day.

In short, it is bound to come at some time or other. Unfortunately science can give us no idea as to when. Centuries and even hundreds of centuries are as but a moment in the history of the universe, says Professor Flammarion, and for all we know the sun may have millions of years more life before it. No man can tell, though, and, just as the strongest of us are struck down in a moment, so the all powerful planet may give out at any time, and when it does it will make but short work of all of us here below.—Boston Transcript.

Argentina's Natural Bridge.

In Argentina there is a natural bridge that is one of the most wonderful in the world. It spans the Rio Mendoza and is known as the Inca bridge. But it is the work of nature, says the Scientific American, and not, as was popularly supposed, of the Incas. The road on which it occurs was probably a colonial highway made by the Peruvian Incas, who took advantage of the phenomenon by leading their road over this natural viaduct.

Origin of Spoons.

Two natural objects seem to have furnished the model for the spoon to primitive man—the river or sea shell and the leaf of plants. In southern China shell spoons are still used that are closely reproduced in the familiar porcelain spoon of that country, while metal spoons are found in India on which are reproduced even the veins of the leaves from which they were copied.

Faint Hope.

Doctor (cuttingly)—Are you to be allowed to drink beer, eh? Didn't I tell you just a week ago to let the stuff alone? Patient—I know, doctor; but, you see, I thought there might have been some progress in medical science since.—New York Post.

Mean Fellow.

"Your wife has a muscular affection which renders her speechless. I can cure her, but it will take time."

"Take all the time you want, doc," responded the mean man.—Kansas City Journal.

FOODS THE TURKS EAT.

Pilaff Is the National Dish, and but Little Meat Is Used.

Vegetables, fruits and grains are the staples of the Turkish kitchen. Breakfast on the Bosporus consists of a small cup of Turkish coffee and a roll. At noon there is a bowl of sour milk (yaourt) and bread. Thick Turkish coffee is taken again in the afternoon to key up appetites for the principal meal, which comes at night. This meal includes, probably, pilaff (meat and rice), several kinds of vegetables, pastry and thick coffee. The workman's meal is still more simple—a chunk of bread and an onion or a bunch of grapes.

There are, however, some dishes upon the Turkish bill of fare which the returned westerner never ceases to regret. Pilaff is one. It is a food as national with the Turk as the potato with the Irish, as the cabbage with the German. It takes a multitude of forms, but its basic quality, its quality of being pilaff, is derived from rice being cooked in such a way as to preserve each grain firm and distinct. The rice is unpolished and in cooking takes on a gelatinous coat. Sometimes it is boiled in mutton fat, a rich, smooth, inviting dish. Sometimes bits of roast mutton are mingled with it, when it becomes a meat pudding of delicious flavor. It is cooked with small currants and pine nuts, fragrant and spicy. It is stuffed with dates and flavored with orange peel; but, whatever its form, it is one of the treasured memories of a visit to the near east.

Eggplant is the foundation of another favored Turkish dish. It is stuffed with chopped onions and rice and cooked in oil. It is also stuffed with meat marrows and rice and steamed until it becomes a culinary inspiration. The westerner, furthermore, learns to enjoy many of the milk foods prepared by the Turks. Yaourt, cultured milk as thick as sour cream, prepared from the rich milk of the buffalo cow, is a satisfaction to the most pampered diner. Chicken breast milk, made from grated chicken breasts; jelly-like rice milk, starchy pudding, eaten with sugar and rosewater, and yaourt, with chopped nutmeats, are other dishes.

The Turks are fond of sweets. They prepare a kind of bread which they soak in honey and eat with rich cream. They also prepare pastry in strings soaked in honey. Meats, with the exception of mutton, are poor in Turkey, but then the Turk is a good deal of a vegetarian.

The Turkish porter, or hamal, dines on a chunk of bread costing a cent, together with a melon or a bunch of grapes or an onion or a piece of cheese, to the cost of another cent, and considers his meal complete. Yet his daily toil consists in carrying packing cases, pianos and other knickknacks around on his back to the astonishment of every visitor acquainted only with the prowess of porters in the west. This rugged Turkish burden bearer eats a dinner at night which costs about 4 cents—a bowl of pilaff with bits of meat in it.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

In an Australian Sleeping Car.

The sleeping cars of Australia are in many ways better than those of the United States. Instead of being of continuous length they are broken up into compartments, each one of which contains two berths running crosswise the track, a separate lavatory and divers shelves, racks, hooks and cubby holes for disposing of a traveler's belongings. The privacy of the arrangement is much to my mind. The porter, who is also the conductor, takes charge of all heavy bags, satchels and packages and puts them in an apartment specially reserved for that purpose.—Bishop E. E. Hoss in Dallas News.

A Varnishing Tip.

When varnishing wood the work must be done in a warm room at a temperature of at least 75 degrees F. At a lower temperature the moisture in the air will give a milky and cloudy appearance to the varnish. On the other hand, at the higher temperature the moisture is not precipitated until the alcohol of the varnish has sufficiently evaporated to leave a thin smooth film of shellac. The durability and gloss are dependent on this.

Tall English Authors.

Inches would seem not to lack significance in literature. Of the great English writers of the Victorian era almost all were tall. Tennyson, Carlyle, Edward Fitzgerald and Matthew Arnold all reached six feet, Ruskin touched five feet ten, Froude five feet eleven, Dickens and Browning fell short of the six foot level by only a narrow space, and Thackeray turned six feet three.—London Chronicle.

An Anachronism.

When some celebrated pictures of Adam and Eve were seen on exhibition Mr McNab was taken to see them. "I think no great things of the painter," said the gardener. "Why, man, tempting Adam wi' a pippin of a variety that wasna known until about twenty years ago!"

Squared.

"By George, Tom, you have been in a fight!"

"No. I just met an old school chum of mine I used to lick when we were kids, and he paid me a debt he's been owing me a long time."—Pittsburgh Press.

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

Before you have followed the plan of reading the ads for very long you become an EDUCATED judge of values. This education must be kept up to the hour.

It is proper that the housewife should know as much about the business of buying for the home as her husband knows about the business in which he earns his income.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

While The Passenger Was Arguing With The Ticket Agent About The Time of Leaving, The Train Left.

Fortunes have been lost by delaying the moment of action. Procrastination has robbed all of us of many things we might have had and enjoyed if we had but acted.

There are a lot of folks in this town who have heard of our remarkable ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA and expect to own a copy. But they think that any time will do — that we will always have a copy for them.

But will we? Already the pile is getting low. We have telegraphed to the publishers for an additional supply only to be advised that the number printed for 1916 have all been disposed of.

Another case of "standing room only", as the theatres put it. SOMEONE IS GOING TO BE DISHED OUT OF THE COPY THEY EXPECTED TO GET. And that someone is going to be he who waits just a little too long.

On the same principle of a starting train or boat, the one who delays until the bell strikes generally get left.

"Early Bird" is always getting the juicy things because he is ahead of the other fellow.

—And, this is but another instance where Early Bird wins out by getting the most accurate—most authentic—ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA of the year.

For scope of subjects — for reliable information upon every topic, subject or matters of information there has never before been offered a book the equal of this one.

Every one who has a copy is amazed at the wide range it covers. They marvel that such a wealth of knowledge could ever be gathered together and yet so condensed as to contain the full gist of the subject — not the slightest sacrifice made nor words used that would in any way cloud the information.

Already is the ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA settling arguments. Already is it imparting information to its owners upon questions—features—places—cities—events—historical spots they have heard of but never known the real "inside facts" about before.

You, too, have still time to obtain this wonderful

AMERICAN WHITAKER ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA

His Friend—Didn't er fust cigar make yer sick?

He—I dunno. I was too young to remember.

TIRED OF IT.

After some ages had elapsed, developing all sorts of problems, womenkind approached the Gods with a large package of something or other.

"What have you there?" demanded the Gods sharply, for they suspected a trick.

"It is the sum of genius which our emancipation has enabled us to develop!" replied womenkind.

"And what, pray, do you wish to do with it?"

"We wish to trade it off for real charm!"

"Hum! Of course you can't expect to get much real charm in exchange for even so large a quantity of genius."

"Oh, no! We shall be satisfied with a very little real charm. In fact, we are so disgusted with genius and its wretched fruits that we shall probably have no more of it in the future, anyway!"

Here womenkind gave their package a vicious little kick to indicate their disappointment and chagrin.

THE NEW ALADDINISM.

"New lamps for old!" the Wizard cried;
And who should hear but Aladdin's bride.

"How nice," she thought, so the story goes,
"We have one old enough, goodness knows!

That lamp of Aladdin's is bent and mean,
Rusty and dirty, unfit to be seen.

"I'll swop it," she cried, "while hubby's not here,
I'll ne'er have another such chance, that's clear!"

So she traded the old lamp for a lamp brand-new—
And sad is the sequel—sad but true.

The lamp she got, though showy and bright,
Wasn't worth two shucks as a magic light.

The lamp she traded, so mean and old,
Was worth, as you know, its weight in gold.

And Aladdin, poor cuss, had an awful search
Before he landed it back on its perch.

"New isms for old!" is the cry today;
But before they carry your old away
Remember the lamps—that's all I say!

THAT MADE A DIFFERENCE.

Dick—He married, did he? Well some fellows don't know when they're well off.

Jack—Well, in this case he knew the girl was well off.

Household Hints

TO FRESHEN RIBBONS

For pink, get a small glass jar of color paste (red) for coloring frostings on cake.

When pink hair ribbons become faded, wash with white soap. Dissolve a very small amount of the paste in enough water to cover ribbons, let stand half an hour or longer. Squeeze out and iron between cloths.

For blue, after washing the faded ribbons, let stand a while in strong bluing water. Squeeze and iron.

Yellow ribbons may be treated in the same way, using saffron to freshen them. Steep a tablespoon of saffron in a cup of water. Strain and put in the ribbon.

KEEP ROOMS VENTILATED

From the fall closing to the spring opening of windows and doors the chances of health are 60 per cent lower than during the free-and-easy life of summer.

It is of vital importance that an upper opening be kept in every living room, kitchen and sleeping apartment for the escape of the foul air emanating from life, labor and decay.

Rooms that are not provided with an upper register or window ventilator can be perfectly ventilated by lowering the window a fraction of an inch. This imperceptible opening is a regular life insurance.

If this precaution is heeded all winter long, day and night, there will be a reduction in lung and throat diseases. In consumptive cases this law should be rigidly enforced.

THE TABLE

Liver Dumpling Soup—Take a soup bone or a nice piece of boiling meat; add stock, onions, celery, bay leaves, carrots, just as you would for any soup. When well seasoned chop or put through a food chopper a pound of beef or calf liver, add one-half pound cracker crumbs, one onion, salt and pepper; work this together and make dumplings. After straining soup add dumplings and boil one more hour. This will serve four people.

Pressed Meat—One pound fresh lean pork, two pounds round steak; add three pints hot water and one teaspoonful salt. Cook four hours. Chop meat fine, add some of the stock, season to taste and press in a deep dish.

Baked Sliced Ham—Get a center cut of ham about an inch thick. Cover it with brown sugar, sprinkle with paprika, place in pan of water (do not cover) and bake slowly one hour. This gives a baked ham dinner for a small family.

Escaloped Corn—Butter a baking dish and in bottom of dish put a layer of cracker crumbs, a little salt, pepper and butter; then a layer of corn, salt, pepper and butter; then another layer of cracker crumbs, and so on until dish is nearly full, having the crumbs, with pepper, butter and salt for top layer. Over all pour plenty of milk. Bake three-fourths hour in moderate oven until a light brown.

Banana Salad—Pare ripe bananas, cut crosswise, roll in peanut crumbs and cover with mayonnaise dressing.

Mayonnaise Dressing—Put three eggs in a sauce pan, beat well. Add scant pint vinegar, saltspoon salt, two cups sugar. Mix one teaspoon dry mustard with two teaspoons flour in a little water, then add to the rest. Put on slow fire and let come to a boil, stirring all the while.

Crumb Fruit Cake—One egg, one cup sugar, two-thirds cup baking molasses, half cup butter, half cup lard, one teaspoon (scant) of each nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger, two teaspoons (little bit rounded) soda, four cups flour, one pound seeded raisins, one poung figs, one pound dates, ten cents' worth citron, one cup nut nut meats, half pound currants. Mix flour, sugar, butter and lard like pie dough, then take out one cup for out top of cake. Beat egg, add molasses and spices. Put soda in measuring cup, slowly pour boiling water on till cup is full and no foam on top. Put all together, then mix in fruit and nut meats (all but citron). The fruit to be chopped fine, dates seeded first; currants should be looked over, washed and dried before using. Can use pint cup for measuring and can use two eggs if you wish. Grease pan, line with white paper and grease paper. Put cake in. When pan is half full sprinkle the citron over, then add balance. Sprinkle on top with cup of crumbs saved out. Bake in slow oven [illegible]. Will make two good-size cakes.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad reader" for the home.

Don't you think, judging by the interesting store advertisements printed today, that a visit to some of the stores just now might be interesting as well as profitable to you?

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

THE LABOR DEPARTMENT AND THE UNEMPLOYED.

The annual report to Congress of Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, presents suggestions of extreme importance. Secretary Wilson and his aids seem to have worked out a practical solution of the unemployment problem, which Congress can put into effect and will—provided there is a majority earnestly interested in that subject.

The Department has established a system of labor exchanges, by means of which it has found men for all vacant positions of which it was notified. The trouble was that for every job to be filled there were about three applicants. So the Secretary wisely concludes that "it will not be enough to hunt manless jobs for jobless men. Any efficient public employment service of an national character must go beyond that." So he draws the attention of Congress to the possibilities of opening jobs to the unemployed on the unused lands. He suggests that the Government retain title for this purpose to the public lands it still holds. He further suggests that the Government gradually acquire the extensive areas of unused, privately owned farming lands in most or all of the States. He would allow use of these lands on terms to assure to the worker all that his labor produces, and adjust his tenure so "as to prevent inflation of land values." The Secretary shows the necessity of this precaution. He says:

"Wherever inflation of land values might enter in the proposed method of promoting labor distribution would be obstructed."

Secretary Wilson would not simply rest with placing laborers on the land. He would have the Departments of Agriculture and of the Interior co-operate with the Department of Labor to instruct settlers in farming and marketing and to make possible establishment of a "rotary fund" from which loans could be made.

This plan the Secretary holds "would develop in country and city an economically independent and socially progressive population." His conclusion seems reasonable. The plan should moreover be seconded by action of the States to prevent land speculation and to force unusued lands into use.

A VICTORY FOR DIPLOMACY.

All America is pleased just now with the recent diplomatic victory over Germany, Austria and other central powers in the submarine controversy. While a full text of the German note has not been made public it is said that every material contention of the United States for the rights of neutral citizens has been agreed to by the Kaiser and his staff and there is every reason to believe that both Austria-Hungary and Turkey were parties to the note long before it was sent. This puts an end to all trouble over the activity of submarine boats and is the greatest single victory of the Wilson administration because it is a victory won in the cause of humanity and justice. Through it the barbaric and cruel acts of Teutonic manned or directed submersibles against innocents are needed. It is a victory of diplomacy and is therefore a victory for diplomacy. While President Wilson and Secretary Lansing patiently sought to establish international laws of humane conduct by exchange of views always reserving the final course of war, others would have plunged this country into battle. Too much credit for the new German policy must not be given to an inclination upon the part of the Germans to play fair. It should be remembered that always there was a fear of conflict with this country, and in all probability moves toward preparedness here were a potent factor in making up the German mind, but the fact remains that there was no, war, not even a declaration of war, and the United States has won. Let the present preparedness plans be carried out so that this country will be in a position to enforce its demands and it will never be necessary to resort to more violent methods than diplomatic correspondence to win victories.

In giving a $5,000 hydro-aeroplane to the aerial squad of the New Jersey Naval Reserves a Newark manufacturer has set a good example for other citizens and has outlined a duty for the State Assembly which cannot be dodged. Aeroplanes for land and water are necessary to the protection of coast lines and should be a part of the equipment of every coast state in the Union. The government is sadly lacking in this form of equipment and New Jersey can take the lead in providing aeroplanes as a part of State equipment to be turned over to the government in case of war. One hydro-aeroplane is not enough, but the Assembly that meets this week will be called upon to consider a small appropriation for the equipping of a militia aeroplane squadron and we believe it will act for the good of the State.

Mayor "Bill" Smalley, of the Borough of North Plainfield, has opened an aggressive fight for reforms there, and he cannot be accused of picking "soft things" to begin on. He announces that he will demand a more satisfactory street car service and will oppose the granting of any new saloon or hotel licenses. In both undertakings he will have the approval and support of a majority of borough residents. Although he has been in office but one week, Mayor "Bill" is beginning to show great promise of justifying his election and the borough may prepare for a period of clean, economical government.

Sanitation Of The Swimming Pool

THE only brand of underwear we can truly term hygienic is a clean, healthy skin. The public swimming pool, the swimming school, the public bath and the old swimming hole in swimming season are all hygienic factors. Yet, like the common drinking cup, the common bath is open to disease germs every day in the year, and hence a possible source of infection.

Typhoid fever has certainly been transmitted from carrier to victim in the swimming pool, no matter whether the pool be owned by club, school, city, private individual, steamship or religious organization. The water of the pool should be examined at definite intervals for colon bacilli just as in the control of a source of drinking water.

Bathers should be required to furnish a certificate from their physician, stating that they are free from contagious disease. Furthermore, although it seems a paradox, bathers should be compelled to bathe before entering the pool, for the same reason that a cook should wash her hands before she hulls the strawberries.

Frequent refilling and dilution of the water in the tank will tend to keep it pure. Refiltration of the water is economical and efficient when combined with chemical disinfection of the water.

Venereal disease may be transmitted through the swimming pool. Conjunctivitis and ear inflammation may likewise be acquired from the infected water.

The larger the pool the more sanitary it will be. The smaller the number of persons using it the more sanitary the pool.

The most efficacious chemical disinfectant for the water of the swimming pool is calcium hypochloride added in sufficient quantity to make a proportion of one part of chloride to one million of water—and added to the water often enough to keep the proportion at that ratio.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Common Cigar Cutter

What complaints have been made against the common cigar cutter as a transmitter of disease?

Answer—The same complaint as has been made against the common drinking cup and the still more common towel. A good many men moisten a cigar first, and cut it afterward. That contaminates the cutter with saliva, and common saliva is a pretty dangerous medium of exchange.

Baby Holding His Breath

How long is it possible for a baby to hold his breath? a worried mother inquires. Our little boy, five months old, sometimes alarms us when he shows his temper that way.

Answer—A minute easily, perhaps two minutes without much effort. You need have no fear—he'll begin breathing again when he gets ready. If you wish to do something, just sprinkle some very cold water upon his face.

Olive Oil

Please advise if olive oil will clear a complexion.

Answer—Yes, sometimes, if taken, say, in tablespoonful doses an hour after meals.

Second Attack Of Whooping Cough

Can a child catch whooping cough the second time?

Answer—Possibly, but it would be doubtful. Better have the child thoroughly examined at once.

WHISKERS

WHISKERS are or is a question or questions which can never be entirely settled, owing to the vast gulf between the opinions of men who can't raise them and men who are so homely that they are afraid to shave them off.

Whiskers have existed in the world as long as man has. Prehistoric householders often mislaid useful utensils, such as stone hatchets and fox skins in their wildernesses of beards and had to rake diligently for them. Later on, in biblical times, a man's age could be told quite accurately by the length and whiteness of his beard and patriarchs who had practised for 700 to 900 years produced some beautiful effects in whiskers. When razors were invented, however, men began gradually to emancipate their chins, until to-day whiskers are only used by men who wish to do landscape gardening on their faces instead of in their back yards.

There are many varieties of whiskers, including the full beard, the chinchilla upholstery, the stun's'l side whiskers, the scrubbing-brush, the broomstraw or straight line effect, the formal garden design, the Herr Most explosive type, the deep tangled wildwood effect, the chin beard with the upper lip left in the altogether, the svelte and slender goatee, the hen's nest style, the throat warmer, and the intellectual hoe point.

Whiskers are more common in Europe than in America, owing to the primitive methods used by European barbers. Forty years ago, most Americans wore beards and the laundry men had a hard time to keep soul and body together, while the necktie business was entirely dead. In Russia, whiskers are used as a substitute for mufflers, while in America many young doctors use them as a substitute for experience. Otherwise, they are practically without value. The finest whiskers are grown in France, but the sturdiest and most deeply rooted variety sprang up in Kansas in the early nineties and spread over the state like the Canada thistle being uprooted only after a terrific struggle in the campaign of 1896.

Men who wish to do landscape gardening on their faces

Of all the presidents of the United States only six have worn beards, including Lincoln, who wore his by request. This would indicate that it is a great feat to raise both a beard and a presidential boom at the same time, and that the wise man will confine himself to one or the other.

Padding A Note

Q. If one party gives another a note for a mule and after the note is delivered the party to whom the note is given adds to the note these words: "I hold the title to this mule," such words being added without the consent or knowledge of the maker, could the party collect if the maker refused to pay it, or would the title hold good? Does any change in a note after delivery without the consent of the maker invalidate the note?

A. The holder can collect the note, just as he could any ordinary note. The title, however, passed to the man who purchased the animal—the maker of the note—and he will be protected in such title unless there was a chattel mortgage. The note is not invalidated.

An Agreement Understood

Q. I rented a furnished house and paid my rent two months in advance. After two weeks' possession, the agent informed me he would sell the piano that was in the house when I took possession. Can he remove it when I paid rent on it the same as any other piece of furniture?

A. If there was no agreement or stipulation, at the time of renting the house, with reference to the piano, you had the right to assume that the piano was a part of the furniture to the use of which you were entitled. Under such circumstances, the landlord or his agent has no right to remove it.

The Silence Cure

Two Minneapolis boys were recently ordered by a prominent judge in municipal court not to speak to each other for a year. In this instance the court probably had in mind the admonition that "evil communications corrupt good manners."

The boys were under arrest, charged with disorderly conduct. The probation officer told the judge that he had received complaints about their conduct. After listening to the officer's story, the judge sentenced the boys to sixty days in the workhouse. He suspended sentence, and put them on the most rigid term of probation ever laid down in that county.

The judge told the boys that they must not speak to each other during the period of probation; that they must stay home nights, keep away from pool rooms and saloons, and attend night school.

The New York Supreme Court justice who issued an injunction restraining a farmer from speaking to his wife for thirty days, pending a hearing on the wife's application for alimony and counsel fees in her suit for separation, doubtless proceeded on a different theory. He may have had in mind the lover's philosophy, that absence makes the heart grow fonder.

The defendant, accompanied by his counsel, visited the domicile of his wife and daughter several times while the injunction order was in force, and ate meals with them, but the rule of "silence" was rigidly obeyed.—Birmingham News, Eng.

The Right Thing

The way to do The Right Thing is to ignore The Wrong Thing. The Right and Wrong in People and Things is there because we see them. Right and Wrong have to have a Viewpoint at the other end. You can't do The Right Thing and The Wrong Thing at the same time. So—

Do The Right Thing—First.

For just as soon as you Begin to do The Right Thing, The Wrong Thing walks off. It is inspiring to note the way a big, successful man's Brain works. An important Problem is placed before him. Immediately, without parley, his keen, trained Mind goes to the Heart of the thing. He decides to do what The Right Thing to do is—he doesn't even consider The Wrong Thing.

Do The Right Thing—First.

For if you do The Right Thing first, there will be no need to do the thing any other way. One of the truest reasons why we do not always do our best is that we are afraid we will do our worst, whereas the moment we decide that there shall be no worst, we do our best. Put it down in your Book of Action, to—

Do The Right Thing—First.

Current Poetry

My Wish

I have lived hoping
As year followed year
To see at the dawn
My last argoes appear;
And sighed, as the sunset
Paled out in the west
To see not a sail
On the water's blue breast!

I have lived hoping
As hour followed hour
To see the gay tulips
And daffodils flower;
But the winter's rude hand
Clutches meadow and stream
And the summer is only
A far-away dream!

I have lived hoping
That many or few—
That sometime—that somewhere—
My dreams would come true;
And the songs I have sung
And the truths I have told
Would be lettered by fame
On the tablets of gold!

Let me die hoping
That somewhere again
The joy of the sunshine—
The music of rain—
Will gladden my soul,
When it wakes and the past
And the pain will be dreams
That have faded at last!

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Greek Leader Reached the Island of Gorfu.

Begged Him to Stay as King of the Island.

"IS it the night for a Greek story, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"I can tell you and Jack what happened to the Greeks after they left the island of the sun," said daddy. "Soon as the wind let them they sailed away into a terrible thunder and lightning storm. Great waves as big as a house struck their ship, flashes of chain lightning seemed to tear the sky in two and thunder boomed till their ears ached. Then lightning struck their mast, shattered it to kindling wood and killed their pilot. At last the ship itself went to pieces. But a very fortunate thing now happened to Odysseus. The keel and mast of his ship fell so close together that he was able to lash them side to side and make himself a raft. So tired he could not stand, Odysseus flung himself on this raft. The winds changed, the storm stopped and the waves carried him to Calypso's island. I am sorry to tell you that all the other brave Greeks went down in the storm."

"Oh, tell us about Calypso's land, daddy!" cried the children.

"Calypso herself was a sea nymph and fairly kind. She bade Odysseus welcome and gave him good food after his long struggle. But he was so attractive that she also fell in love with him. She begged him to stay on her island as its king and offered to make him immortal, which means that he need never die. But Odysseus was much in love still with his wife, Penelope, and wished, above all things, to get back to his own beautiful Greece and his little boy Telemachus. So Father Jove ordered Calypso to let Odysseus go. He sent Mercury, all rigged up in his little two winged helmet and his pretty wand, with the message. Mercury found Calypso in her grotto playing in its bright waters and picking violets. She naturally made a big fuss about giving up Odysseus—she wept and begged Mercury to let him stay, but Father Jove is very stern when he gives orders, and poor Calypso had to obey. So she gave the man she loved all he needed to make a new strong raft; she strapped lots of good food on it so he would not be hungry; she prayed the winds to give him kind gales, and then she bade him goodby forever."

"Poor Calypso!" sighed Evelyn. "What became of Odysseus?"

"Oh, he floated and floated safely many days, living on the food Calypso gave him. Then when he was within sight of land another thunderstorm came up and almost broke his raft right in two. But an interesting thing then happened," daddy told the children, giving them each a big hug.

And the children hop-skipped off to bed.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. DAN LEONARD

Molly Sutner Won't Sit Idly By and See Julia Osgood Lose Out.

"Julia told me about her broken engagement today," said John Sutner, as they sat by the baseburner after Jack and the boarder were in bed.

"Molly dropped her work in her lap in the intentness of her interest.

"It's all a horrible misunderstanding, as those things generally are," continued John. "Cane's mother is an aristocrat. She thinks her son is ruining himself for life if he marries a common stenographer."

"But she went to see her at the hospital," interrupted Molly.

"She had to to combat his plan effectively. You see Cane insisted that if she saw her she would get over her prejudices. Of course, as she went there to find fault, she succeeded."

"I do not see what she could find fault with," said Molly loyally.

"'Blame timber' is easy to find. Julia is no beauty, and she has had only an ordinary business education. Her son is a college man, and they are rich. She had set her mark high in a matrimonial line."

"She might get beauty and a college education and miss all the fine qualities Julia possesses. Character counts for more than anything else in choosing a wife, and she is old enough to know it." Molly's tone was belligerent.

"Unfortunately age does not necessarily mean wisdom. At any rate she determined to break up the match. She went to see Julia, told her son that she was no lady——"

"Did he tell her that?" broke in Molly.

"No, she says there are some things one does not have to be told." John shrugged his shoulders.

"Do you mean she guesses at what was said and acts accordingly?" asked Molly in amazement.

"That's about it, as far as I can see," replied John.

"That's not sensible; that's not like Julia."

"People are never sensible when it comes to a love affair, I guess. Anyhow, she told the young man she would disinherit him if he persisted in marrying the girl. She did not imagine that." John frowned fiercely.

"Do you mean he was the kind of a man to give up the girl he loved because his mother objected?" asked Molly incredulously.

"No. As I said, it is all a misunderstanding. Julia is very proud and she did not want to 'cripple his life.' She thought if he had to sacrifice so much for a girl he would regret marrying her."

"Not if he really cared for her," exclaimed Molly.

"Not a girl like Julia who has real character," echoed John. "The young fellow came up here to explain matters to her and she made things hard instead of easy. She started with the assumption that he perhaps wanted to break the engagement, and beat him to it."

"Poor, dear girl," sighed Molly.

"I suppose he thought that the loss of the money made some difference. People in love always persist in thinking the wrong thing if they have half a chance," said John gloomily.

"Now we cannot see a girl who has done what Julia has for us spoil her life while we sit by with folded hands," burst forth Molly, after a silence.

"I can't see what we can do. I told Julia I was sure she was dead wrong, but told me it was too late to do anything about it and forbade me to try."

"Too late, indeed! Well, I am under no orders and I shall put on my thinking cap and try and find a way out of this," announced Molly.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

A store prospers in "well doing"—through the service that it renders to YOU. There is no other rule that governs.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

New York—Preparations are well under way for the biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held here from May 24 to June 3. Mrs. John Hays Hammond is chairman of the committee of arrangements, and serving with her are representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution and other societies, as well as Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of the Governor; Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, wife of the Mayor, and Mrs. William Prendergast, wife of the city comptroller. Fully 30,000 prominent women from all sections of the country are certain to attend. The convention hall will be in the Seventh Regiment Armory, which will seat 10,000 guests.

Topeka, Kan.—Kansas still holds the lead of all States in giving women public office. There are 159 women holding public offices in the State. Over half the counties have elected women superintendents of public instruction, there are twenty-one clerks of district courts that are women, thirty-three registers of deeds, nineteen justices of the peace, four county clerks, four probate judges, eleven county treasurers. The four probate judges are: Anna S. Garten, of Gray county; Mary d. Cooper, of Mitchell county; Maggie Gillmore, of Wichita county, and Mary Hale, of Ford county.

Denver, Colo.—The most independent woman in Colorado is Esther Donovan, a wood-chopper. She was formerly a school teacher, and she married James Donovan, also a school teacher. When he developed tuberculosis she brought him from Boston to Anaconda, Colo., with their three children. They settled in a mountain cabin, and Mrs. Donovan kept the wolf from the door by hiring out as a wood-chopper. She hewed the forest with her axe valiantly, and is still swinging her axe with the strongest lumbermen. And she says she is going to stick to it until her children are educated. Societies, clubs and individuals have offered to aid her, but she is happy in her independence, and loves her work. She accepts no gifts or bonuses and refuses to work at any wages higher than other woodsmen secure.

Los Angeles—Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Theosophy settlement at Point Loma, is expected to be the central figure in the attempt of the sons of the late Albert G. Spalding, the sporting goods manufacturer, to break the will of their father. According to the will of Mr. Spalding, which was filed at San Diego, the $600,000 estate is divided between the sons and the widow, the latter receiving the bulk of the fortune. The sons make as the basis of their suit the claim that the greater part of the property will go to the Theosophic colony at Point Loma, of which Mrs. Tingley, known as the "Purple Mother," is the head. The sons claim that Mrs. Tingley and Mrs. Spalding exerted undue influence over the late Mr. Spalding. However, it is known that Mrs. Tingley and her cult were always admired by the sporting goods maker, and she was defended by him in the "Lotus Buds" litigation in 1893.

Point Pleasant—Mrs. Luella Arnold, widow of the founder of this city, is the newly appointed assistant superintendent of streets, and will receive thirty dollars a year to look after the condition of about fifteen miles of highways. Mrs. Arnold declares she will be a vigorous official and will see that the roadways are kept in order.

Washington—As soon as Congress has voted a site in Arlington cemetery a $50,000 memorial to the nurses who served as nurses on the battle fields of the War for the Union will be erected. Mrs. Ellen Ryan Jolly, president of the women's auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, is in charge of the fund. Congressman Ambrose Kennedy is introducing a bill for the setting aside of a site in the national cemetery, and it is expected to be passed.

Chicago—Women have won their way into another sport, that of trapshooting. The "Dianas of the Traps" will shoot in the Grand Handicap, the gun classic, this year. There were fifty women shooters in the last big meet here, and they threatened to run a blue-ribbon event of their own if they were not allowed to enter the Grand Handicap. When the trapshooters gather this year in St. Louis, at least a hundred women shooters will be in evidence. It is only a matter of time when they will have a gun championship of their own.

RECREATION NOTES

The public speaking class will hold a special meeting tomorrow night in the Washington School to discuss plans for a mock trial to be held in the near future. The advisability of changing the meeting night of the club will also be discussed.

The Athenians will hold a basketball practice at the High School tonight.

The Recreation Boys' Club will hold basketball practice in the High School gym at 7:30.

The Washington Dramatic Club will meet tonight for the purpose of a special rehearsal on their vaudeville acts.

Tomorrow night the Zephyrs will hold a business meeting and basketball practice in the High School gym.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Manager Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, takes pleasure in announcing today that the new bill for the first half of this week, commencing this afternoon, will contain the following high-class numbers: Ben and Etta Hastings, singers and dancers; Babette, comedienne; Frank Raymond and Company, in the exciting playlet, "The Thoroughbred;" and Willy Smith, comedian.

Beside this big feature the bill will contain the following high-class numbers: Ben and Etta Hastings, singers and dancers; Babette, comedienne; Frank Raymond and Company, in the exciting playlet, "The Thoroughbred;" and Billy Smith, comedian.

In addition to the vaudeville numbers another of those popular Wil Fox feature photo-plays will be shown for the succeeding three days. The title is "Destruction," with Theda Bara, a Plainfield favorite, playing the leading role. The wonderful story affords Miss Bara an unusual opportunity to display her remarkable talent and with the specially selected company supporting her the picture is sure to create a sensation.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Starting today Proctor's Theatre again present an excellent bill of vaudeville and photoplays. The main Triangle feature introduces Willard Mack, who is well and favorably known for his acting and authorship of "Kick In" and "So Much for So Much," as a screen artist, this being his first appearance in a photoplay production. He is co-starred with winsome Enid Markey in a stirring drama of the South Sea Islands, entitled "Aloha Oe." The Triangle Keystone offering for the first part of the week is "The Village Scandal," in which those two famous funmakers, Raymond Hitchcock and Roscoe Arbuckle, are featured. This comedy offering contains good old rollicking humor. Roscoe Arbuckle takes the part of the village fat boy, and Hitchcock assumes the role of a traveling trickster, who causes all the commotion. A number of high-class vaudeville acts will also be offered, and will include talented artists. A big sensation is promised for the Wednesday night bazaar, and all those who possibly can do so should attend and see the fun. Don't forget the "Red Circle" every Friday.

The list of vaudeville talent that help entertain the first part of the week includes Ada Mead, late of the New York Winter Garden, who offers several delightful song numbers; Hunter & Chappele, colored entertainers; Terence O'Dare, billed as the "Chauncey Olcott" of vaudeville, will surely live up to that reputation, and the Four Comedy Harmonists, a sensational musical and singing novelty, will complete this excellent program.

Half-Yearly Silk Packet Sale Extraordinary--Opens Tuesday

BRIGHT and early Tuesday morning there will be ready $107,561 worth of standard grades of silks to be offered for $56,390. Almost half.

38c for 85c to $2 silks $1.25 for $2.50 silks
95c for $1.85 silks $1.50 for $2.50 silks
$2.85 for $7.50 to $12 silks

13,500 packets—each containing a dress pattern, blouse length, or piece of silk long enough for trimming. Every packet open so examination is easy.

These are mainly the accumulation of remnants and other lengths left from our own Autumn business. In addition some Spring-like silks come from reliable manufacturers who, in turning 'round to meet the alarming new conditions entailed by lack of proper dyes, have turned over to us at discounts, this, that and the other silk, impossible to make again at the old prices.

All these silks are dyed with the old safe dyes. They are guaranteed colors. Rare, beautiful shades. Plenty of black and navy blue.

Satin-finished silks are to be found in quantity. Many brocades, the exquisite sorts. Many velvets, plain and novelty weaves. Numbers of fancy silks for dresses, shirtwaists, petticoats and negligees.

It is only fair for the customers of the Silk Rotunda to know that the rise in cost of raw silk, of dyeing, of every process of silk making, has made good silk more desirable than ever before. Manufacturers have no excess lots. Our own stocks outside of these remnants are clean. It looks, therefore, as though silks were going to be much higher and special prices a very rare thing. Therefore this is a Packet Sale Extraordinary. Some of the packets—

HOPES LOSE CLOSE ROUGH GAME 21-19

Wretched Foul Shooting in Fray Won by Rambler A. C. of Newark.

Hope Chapel's basketball representatives encountered their first defeat since the Tabs licked them early in the season, when the Rambler Athletic Club, of Newark, gained a 21-19 win on the West Fourth street court, Saturday night.

The game was close throughout, generally only two or three points separating the teams. The only time Hope Chapel led was in the first few minutes, when the score was 4 to 2. Only once were the visitors more than two baskets to the good, that time being about the middle of the last half, when the score read 19 to 14. The home boys spurted, and scored 5 points to their opponents' 2 during the remainder of the game, but the half ended before they could tie the score.

The game was very rough, a couple of bloody noses and black eyes being among the casualties. Both sides were way off in foul shooting, the Hopes missing 18 out of 23 free throws, and the Ramblers 12 out of 17.

The visiting forwards, Mayer and Parkinson, were about as fast as any pair the Hopes have tried to guard this winter. They bagged four baskets apiece.

S. P. P. H. GAINS DECISION ON WESTFIELD METS' COURT

Playing on the Westfield Parish House court, the Scotch Plains Parish House basketball team handed the Methodist boys' five a handy trimming Saturday night by a 36 to 24 score. Hatfield was as usual the mainstay of the winners, with seven baskets and one foul, while Vandoren played well for the church boys. In the second half Hatfield ran wild and corralled five baskets on pretty shots, besides dropping in the free shot.

Day Plays Star Game, But Ben Rosenson Does Not Make a Basket.

LAST GAME FOR GLOVER

Veteran Guard of Association Five Retires After Many Seasons' Service—Absence of Regulars Handicap to Y. M. C. A. Quintet.

It was a case of the wiles of "Dipper" Jones versus the wits of "Benny" Berse when the former's Plainfield A. A. handed the Y. M. C. A. basketeers a 19 to 13 trimming on the losers' court, Saturday night.

Day, with 6 goals dangling from his scalp, really was responsible for the overthrow of the homesters. Al Manley did well for the victims. The Jones victory was gained in the second half by a comfortable margin. Art Kyle, the P. H. S. courtman, played well for the A. A. team, as did in fact every individual on the floor.

The Y. M. C. A. line-up had never played together before, and lacked both star forwards. The association men led at the end of the first half by 2 points, and kept ahead of the visitors until the last five minutes of play, when four successive baskets were caged.

The guarding was very close, Benny Rosenson, the star forward of the Plainfield A. A., being held scoreless.

"Cutey" Glover, who has been seen on the association court for six years, played his last game of basketball for this season Saturday. Starting in the College League, and then playing with the famous Ajax team, Glover was graduated to the Y. M. C. A. first team, with which aggregation he has played guard for several winters.

INNER-TRIANGLE A. C. TO START THURSDAY EVENING

The Inner-Triangle Athletic Club will open its basketball schedule with the Plainfield Juniors, Thursday night, in the T. A. B. S. Hall.

Although they have never played together before, every man has played on some other prominent team. The members are enthusiastic over the prospects of having a basketball team, and as there is some good material in the club, there is no reason why a first class team cannot be organized. The leading candidates out for the forward positions are H. Patterson, star of Grace Church choir team for three years, and one of the best juvenile players in the city, and Ray Hansen, a former P. H. S. interclass leaguer. Both of these lads are fast and are accurate shots.

The center position will be taken care of by H. Svruton, one of the best players on the P. H. S. 1916 class team for two years. The Cartwright brothers, Bob and John, will fill the guard positions. Both are very capable guards, fast and of the rugged type. The subs are "Nick" Collora, Jim Carson and "Toot" Morris.

Teams averaging from 105 to 115 pounds, wishing to arrange one or more games, should address, John Cartwright, 211 Jackson avenue, Plainfield.

NIBS HAND SOLD TO CONNIE MACK

Athletics Purchase Local Catcher From Worcester Ball Club.

HIT .311 LAST YEAR

With Jack Lapp, Catcher Whom the Athletics Sold to White Sox on Saturday, Out of Way, Hand Will Have Good Chance to Stick.

After serving three years of minor league apprenticeship, and many more of semi-pro training, Frank ("Nibs") Hand is to get a show in the big leagues under the tutelage of Connie Mack. Such was the information contained in a letter Hand has received from the management of the Worcester, Mass., team, with which he played last year. Although the price has not been given out, it is known that it was a clear sale, and for no small amount.

The idol of local baseball fans has received some tempting offers before this from teams in the big show but preferred, as he expressed it, to work his way up and stay when he got there. He knew nothing of any deal that was on until he received the letter, and was considerably surprised.

After playing on semi-pro teams in this vicinity for several years, Hand joined the Brooklyn Club, of the old outlaw United States League. He was with the Perth Amboy Pacers, of the Atlantic League, two years ago, as battery mate for Cliff Randolph, another local boy. Upon the breaking up of the league he was free, as he had signed for only a year, and got a chance with the Worcester team, of the New England League, where, after warming the bench for the first few weeks, supplanted a veteran backstop and finished the season with a batting average of .311 and was third in the league. He was the cleanup man, and his arm was a terror to base stealers.

Hand is to report in time to go South with the Athletics, and with Lapp gone to the White Sox, the local youngster will have a great chance to make good.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD MECCA FOR HUNDREDS OF SKATERS

More than a thousand skaters were on the ice at South Plainfield pond, yesterday. There were also many skating by electric light Saturday and Sunday evenings. Manager Phil Smith has purchased an ice planer, and he had the pond shaved as smooth as plate glass. Many automobile parties flocked to the big lake, there being so many cars lined up both sides of the bridge, the auto bus could not pass. Several of the fancy skaters of this vicinity were among those enjoying the sport. The crowds were so large it was impossible to handle all the requests for checking coats and furnishing refreshments. A number of lockers will be installed this week to check valuables.

MATHEY HOCKEY STAR.

Dean Mathey, captain of the Cranford Field Club hockey team, made two of his side's goals at South Orange, Saturday, when the S. O. F. C. seven won by a 10-3 score.

HIGGINS AND HIS HORSE.

Lieut. Maurice Higgins, of the local police department, has purchased a new bay mare which has a track record of 2:03. Higgins gave the animal a tryout Saturday afternoon on local thoroughfares and it hit up a clip that attracted considerable attention from equine owners. Although Higgins doesn't happen to be in the jockey class when weight qualifications are taken into consideration he guided the steed Saturday afternoon and the owner's 200 pounds proved no drawback to the animal.

MAYORS TOLD OF HEARINGS ON ELECTRIC CO. VALUATIONS

Trenton, Jan. 10.—Seeking the co-operation of the municipalities throughout the State which are served by the Public Service Electric Company, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners has sent out notice to the Mayors advising them of hearings which begin January 27, for the purpose of taking testimony as to the value of the company's property. Request is made that the municipalities should be represented at these hearings, and any assistance they can give will be appreciated by the Board.

For eighteen months engineers in the employ of the Board and local real estate experts have been making an inventory of the company's power houses, machinery, wires, cables and other property used in the generation and distribution of electricity, and the value of the company's land. This work is almost complete, with the exception of a comparatively small part, but before a ruling can be made as to the reasonableness of the company's rates it is necessary to determine the value of the company's property. This hearing is incidental to the investigation being conducted by the Board of the company's rates for light, heat and power. While the investigation is being conducted on the Board's own initiative, the problem was expressed to the municipalities that the investigation was of the utmost importance to the people served by the company.

The engineering firm of D. C. & William B. Jackson has been conducting the work of appraising the value of the company's property.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

It is reported that Cardinal Gibbons has given sanction to the Billy Sunday movement in Baltimore. He assured a committee that he had no objection, whatever, to the Catholic clergy being asked to co-operate with their prayers in the campaign. The little great evangelist benefits the Catholic as well as the Protestant churches in his work is shown by the results in Syracuse. Among trail hitters there, 1,050 expressed a preference for the Catholic church. It may be supposed that many of these have wandered away from their church and were brought back to it by Sunday's efforts. Some may have been converted and sought the shelter of the Catholic church. Whatever the results, or the reasons for them, the evangelist does not antagonize the Catholic church and his work is bringing about a better understanding between Protestants and Catholics.—Elizabeth Journal.

SAYS WE BECOME CRANKS ON HOT WATER DRINKING

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice the drinking of phosphated hot water before breakfast, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons in the bowels which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clear the ashes from the furnace each day before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store but it is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.—Adv.

Congressman Fess Says Her Guilt is Greater Than Germany's.

HE COMMENDS WILSON

Embargo on Munitions as Last Resort to Secure Recognition of U. S. Rights—British Force Doomed, Says Turkey.

Washington, Jan. 11.—In a vigorous speech in the House today Representative Fess, of Ohio, upheld the Wilson Administration in its policy of obtaining recognition for the rights of neutral commerce on the high seas. He also condemned the submarine policy of Germany and Austria as violative of the fundamental principles of international law. Great Britain, he declared, is more guilty than the Central Powers in violating American rights. He strenuously opposed the proposal for an embargo on munitions of war, except as a last resort to compel the Allied Powers to recognize American rights upon the high seas.

Lusitania Case Is Settled.

The dominant feature of discussion at today's cabinet meeting was the tentative settlement of the Lusitania case and Secretary of State Lansing informed the President and his colleagues that he believed that the entire case would be a closed incident within a week.

British Force Is Doomed.

Constantinople, Jan. 11.—The British army under General Townshend, cooped up in Kut El Amara, Mesopotamia, is doomed, is the belief of army leaders now in the Turkish capital. Advices from the eastern front to the War Office report the relief column of 50,000 men, which set out for Kut El Amara from iman Ali Gherbi has been checked after a furious battle in which the English lost heavily. The Turks took many prisoners.

Germans Hold New Trenches.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—German war statement:

"Western theatre—Enemy advances against the trenches northwest of Massiges, which were captured by the Germans, were repulsed. A battle aeroplane, fitted with 3.8 centimetre guns, was forced by the German fire, to land near Jumen, south of Dixmude. The aircraft, undamaged, is in our hands."

German Cruiser Bremen Lost.

Destruction of the German protected cruiser Bremen in the Baltic Sea was admitted today in an item issued by the Overseas News Agency, which said: "Copenhagen newspapers report that life belts from a German man of war have been found on the Swedish coast. We hear from competent authorities that the belts must be from the sunken Bremen since an accident to any other ship belonging to the German navy is out of the question."

Italians Use Heavy Guns.

Rome, Jan. 11.—Great artillery duels are in progress all along the front in the Austro-Italian theatre of war. The Italian War Office reports that guns of heavy calibre are being used everywhere.

Italians and Bulgars Clash.

Fighting is reported between the Italian troops and the Bulgarians for the first time. The conflict took place at Alessio, 5 miles from the port of San Giovnni Di Modua and on the banks of the Drin River, held by the Italian forces. The Bulgars, it is stated, were repulsed.

British Steamer Sunk.

The British steamer Clan MacFarlane, 4,823 tons, has been sunk by a submarine.

MRS. AUGUST OBERG DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Matilda Oberg, wife of August Oberg, died yesterday afternoon at her home at 310 Manson place. She had been ill nearly a year. Mrs. Oberg was forty-three years old and was a member of Hope chapel. She enjoyed a wide acquaintance in the West End of the city, where she had resided for a long time. She leaves two children, a son and a daughter.

The funeral will be held at the late home Thursday afternoon at 2.30 and will be in charge of Rev. Frederic L. Greene. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

SCHMIDT APPEAL DENIED.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Justices Charles E. Hughes, of the Supreme Court, today denied a writ of error to Hans Schmidt, convicted of the murder of Anna Aumueller in New York city. Schmidt is under sentence of death by electrocution.

14 YEAR OLD BOYS HOLD UP PLAYMATES

Gave One of the Victims Fifteen Cents Back When He Cried.

Joseph Manhattan, white, and Benjamin Starr, colored, each at the daring and imaginative age of fourteen, yesterday afternoon held up and robbed Clifford Zimmer and William Zellerman, aged twelve and thirteen respectively. The loot of the bold highwaymen was forty cents, of which they gave back fifteen cents as an offering to conscience, when young Zimmer began to cry. This amount of "hush money" was necessary to keep him quiet. The victims of the youthful Jesse Jimmies reported their loss to the police, and both Manhattan and Starr were arrested. They were not tried in police court this morning because of their tender age, but will probably be sent to a boy's home of reformation by Judge De Meza. Both admitted their guilt

FOURTH DEGREE BALL IN COLUMBUS HALL

Formal Reception Tomorrow Night Will Be One of Events of Season.

Watchung Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual ball and reception in Columbus Auditorium tomorrow night, and the affair will probably prove to be one of the best social events of the season. A number have already accepted invitations, and provision is being made to take care of many who have not notified the committee of their intention to be present, so that those who have neglected to send their acceptances in need not fear that provision has not been made for all.

Mrs. Henry Johnson will serve a collation at 12 o'clock, and an augmented orchestra will furnish the music. John M. Doyle is chairman of the general reception committee and T. J. Meaney is secretary and treasurer, C. F. Regan is chairman of the invitation committee, and J. J. Carty is chairman of the supper committee. The affair is formal, and members of Watchung Assembly will wear full regalia.

Paul Overbaugh and Antone Ammon have been ordered to appear before the grand jury at the April term of court in Somerset county on charges of burglary, and are now under bond to the township of Watchung for their appearance there. The men are charged with having robbed the homes of Richard T. Fell at Fountain Green during the Christmas holidays. They entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge F. Hughes and Recorder George A. Schmidt. The men entered the home while members of the family were away and carried off articles of clothing and furniture.

THE NATION-WIDE MEMBERS JUBILEE

Y. W. C. A. Will Devote a Month to Observance of Fiftieth Anniversary.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Local Association Will Inaugurate Event With a Banquet on February 1—Other Features Planned by Committee in Charge.

Student, city, town and country Young Women's Christian Associations throughout America will unite during the month of February 1 to March 3, inclusive, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the world-wide organization in America. "The Nation-Wide Members' Jubilee," as the observance will be called, will have as its main goal the undertaking to give to the public an idea of the scope of the work conducted by the various branches the country over. Thoughts of present and former members will be directed to the early history of the association, the present work and the future hopes of the association.

The Plainfield association will open the jubilee here with a large banquet, which will be held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday night, February 1, to which former and present members are invited. The supper, which will be served at a nominal fee, is in charge of Mrs. W. D. Murray. She is assisted by the membership committee, which comprises Mrs. William C. O'Donnell, Mrs. C. P. Titsworth and Miss Ethel Titsworth. During the evening a number of former secretaries of the Plainfield branch will deliver addresses and Mrs. M. R. Lowry will read a history of the association from its infancy. The president of the association will be the toastmaster. Members will be seated at tables which will designate the year they belonged to the association. Each girl will be identified with a badge and the table decorations will be candles of the color of the year.

On February 22 a pageant will be held in the High School Auditorium. "Girls of Yesterday and To-day" is the title of the production and Miss Helen Joy is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. The celebration will be brought to a close on March 3 with a religious meeting, which will be held in the First Baptist church. At that time Miss Harriet Taylor, a member of the executive committee of the National Jubilee from New York city, will address the gathering. Miss Leontine de Ahna will be the soloist.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Leslie R. Fort, who is chairman of the publicity part of the celebration, and Mrs. Orton Dale, who is chairman of the entire jubilee committee.

The entire committee plans to so follow certain guiding principles during the jubilee which will emphasize the relationship of every member to the whole association, and to bring every member into the all round association life; to plan and carry out activities of the association so that every member shall have brought to her the complete purpose of the association and the resources and power that lie in the membership; to carry out that purpose in as many ways as possible; to demonstrate how the association activities can help girls in spiritual growth and can energize their wills to service, and to add to the membership by putting the appeal of the purpose before every person approached so that larger membership shall mean a bigger force at work.

REHEARSALS BEING HELD.

Rehearsals for the two act comedy, "The Rainbow Kimona," which will be given by the young women of St. Joseph's church in the new hall next Monday night, have been held for several weeks under the able direction of Lawrence Barrett, and the indications promise it to be a decided hit with the audience. Tickets are now on sale for the production and can be secured from any member of the cast, or from Miss Anna Daley, the chairman.

PREPARATORY SERVICE.

A service of prayer in preparation for the approaching mission will be held in the Church of the Holy Cross tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Rev. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, will conduct the service.

EXPLAINS WORKINGS OF LEGISLATURE

Mrs. E. F. Feickert and Wm. M. Wherry, Jr., Address Monday Afternoon Club.

Members of the miscellaneous topics department of the Monday Afternoon Club heard two interesting addresses in the Parish House of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey League for Equal Suffrage, gave an instructive talk on pending laws in the New Jersey Legislature, and William M. Wherry, Jr., spoke on "Advantages and Disadvantages of Making a Will." Mrs. Feickert, who is thoroughly conversant with the subject, told of how the Assembly and Senate were made up in Trenton, and dwelt on the aspirants for the Governorship of the State.

Speaking of the manner in which bills pass through the Legislature the speaker told of the influence certain corporative interests have in swaying a bill before it goes to the Legislature. She also told of the child labor bill which is before the National Legislature at Washington and in which every woman in the country should be especially interested.

Next Monday the literature department of the Club will hear two interesting papers on Russia. Mrs. Julius E. Erickson at that time will read an article on "Gogol Turgeniev," while Mrs. Henry C. White will present a paper on "The Preachers: Dostoievski, Tolstoi."

MRS. ALDRICH SUCCUMBS TO INFIRMITIES OF AGE

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Aldrich, widow of Thomas C. Aldrich, died this morning at the home of former Mayor Charles Place, of Grove street, the borough, in her eight-first year. Death was due to the infirmities of age, from which she had been a sufferer for a long time. Mrs. Aldrich came to this city about fifty years ago from Amesbury, Mass., and enjoyed a wide acquaintance. She was a member of the First Baptist church, but had been unable to attend for a number of years owing to ill health. She leaves one son, Thomas Aldrich, who resides in New York State.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Place home, and burial will be in Manchester, N. H. Rev. Frank Fliecher will have charge of the service.

CO-OPERATION IS LIFE OF BUSINESS

So Declares Mayor "Bill" Smalley in Talk to Watchung Imp. Society.

WILL AID TOWNSHIP

Advocates Better Transportation Facilities and Road Improvements —Steps Taken to Extend Watchung Ave. Over the Mountain.

Discussion of the possibility of extending Watchung avenue from its present terminus over the mountains and an interesting address by Mayor "Bill" Smalley, of North Plainfield were the features of the meeting of the North Plainfield Improvement Society, held at Watchung last night. Francis E. Bodin, president of the society, read a letter from Colonel E. S. Stevens, State Road Commissioner relative to the extension of Watchung avenue. He stated that the township must act quickly and get the right of way, and after opening the road the township can apply for State aid, which Colonel Stevens assured.

A resolution was then passed by the society authorizing the circulation of a petition for the purpose of getting an expression of opinion from the taxpayers in regard to the improvement. Several residents of Watchung have offered personal aid to the township in its share of expense.

President Bodin then introduced Mayor Smalley as the speaker of the evening.

"I am undecided whether to talk on politics or religion," said Mr. Smalley. "I remember the good times I used to have in the valley as a boy, and I have always had a warm spot in my heart for the folks of the township. I will always be willing to offer my services and attention as Mayor of the borough whenever the township desires them."

Mr. Smalley said that transportation is the essential thing between the borough and the mountains, and he promised that Somerset street would be widened this spring and be kept in good order. Concerning the extension of Watchung avenue, Mr. Smalley said that as the people of the township benefit by good roads, so do the people of the borough and the city benefit by business which the former people bring, and therefore both should co-operate, since co-operation and not competition is the life of trade between the city and the country. Mr. Smalley spoke of the proposed road to Washington Rock, and he reviewed the history of that patriotic landmark when with his staff of officers along what is now Greenbrook road, met a boy named Edward FitzRandolph, who directed the general to Washington Rock, which was used as a lookout station.

Mr. Smalley concluded his remarks by saying that the sooner the people of the valley and the borough get together on the improvement and the extension of Watchun avenue, Somerset street and Washington Rock road the sooner the State will realize that North Plainfield is one of the garden spots of New Jersey.

Following the meeting refreshments were served under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the township society.

ASSEMBLY MEETS FOR 1916 SESSION OF LAWMAKING FOR NEW JERSEY

REPUBLICANS IN CONTROL OF BOTH BRANCHES AND THEIR SLATES OF OFFICERS GO THROUGH WITH DECIDED MAJORITIES.

REED AND PILGRIM ARE ELECTED SPEAKERS

Governor's Message Read as Soon as Both Branches Are Organized—Early Introduction of Bills is Urged so That Final Adjournment May Be Taken After Ten Weeks—Trenton is Crowded With Visitors.

Trenton, Jan. 11.—With the Republicans directing everything by an increased majority in both branches of eight, the New Jersey Legislature organized at the State House soon after noon today for its 140th session. The opening was a picturesque ceremony and was witnessed by hundreds of citizens and politicians from all sections of the State. The Senate, with its membership of thirteen Republicans to eight Democrats, elected Senator William T. Read, of Camden county, president, and re-elected Francis B. Davis, of Gloucester county, secretary. This is an increase of four in the Republican majority in this branch over last year. Senator Read was the majority leader in the Senate last year.

He is slated to be chosen State treasurer in February at a joint meeting of the Legislature to succeed Edward E. Grosscup, Democrat. His election today as Senate president carries with it the honor of being acting governor when Governor Fielder is out of the State. As Governor and Mrs. Fielder left for Washington today to be the guests of President and Mrs. Wilson tonight, Senator Read will be Senate president, acting governor and State treasurer all within the short space of less than two months.

In the House of Assembly, where the Republicans have a majority of 20, as against 16 last year, Assemblyman Charles C. Pilgrim, of Essex, was made speaker, after having been selected some weeks ago by the Essex-Camden alliance over Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of Union, who was leader last session. Upton S. Jefferys, of Camden, was re-elected clerk.

Senator Read, in assuming the presidency, made the usual plea for a short session, but added that a short session lies as much in the hands of the public as in those of the legislators, meaning that if the people would have all their bills introduced early the session need not be prolonged. President Read pointed out that the Republican and Democratic platform pledges do not differ materially and stated that, therefore, there should be a common zeal in seeking legislation for the best interests of the State.

CHARGES LOOTING OF PERTH AMBOY BANK

Conner Will Case Results in Injunction in Trenton Court.

Trenton, Jan. 11.—Charging De Witt Van Buskirk, vice president of the Perth Amboy Trust Company and president of the Mechanics Trust Company, of Bayonne, James C. McCoy, Chauncey C. Baldwin, Sidney Riddlestorffer and other directors of the Perth Amboy Trust Company with conspiring to deplete the assets of the Perth Amboy bank and divert them to the Bayonne bank, Isaac Alpern, of Perth Amboy, a stockholder of the Perth Amboy Trust Company, has brought a suit in the Court of Chancery for an injunction to restrain an action that will injure the Perth Amboy bank. He alleges that the proceedings taken by the defendant are a fraud upon the rights of himself and other stockholders.

Alpern in his bill of complaint charges that as a part of the scheme of the defendants to advance the interests of the Bayonne bank at the expense of the Perth Amboy Trust Company, they have proceeded in the Orphans' Court of Union county to have the Perth Amboy Trust Company resign as executor and trustee of the estate of W. A. Conner, of Plainfield, who died last December. Conner was one of the vice presidents of the Perth Amboy Trust Company and left an estate worth a half million dollars. It is averred that the plan of the defendants was to turn this executorship over to the Mechanics Trust Company.

Chancellor Walker has made an order requiring the defendants to show cause at the State House next Tuesday why a temporary injunction should not issue restraining them from continuing the proceedings in the Union County Orphans' Court, or from substituting any other administrator for the estate than the Perth Amboy Trust Company.

It is alleged in the bill of complaint that former Mayor George A. Viehmann, of New Brunswick, has purchased the controlling interest in the stock of the Perth Amboy Trust Company, including 191 shares of this stock owner by the Mechanics Trust Company. This agreement of sale was duly executed on January 4, 1916. Another charge is that the directors of the Perth Amboy Trust Company, without right or justification, voted a gift of $12,500 to Sidney Riddlestorffer, thus perpetrating a fraud upon the stockholders. The plan to divert the assets of the Perth Amboy bank to the Bayonne institution, including the administration of the estate of Mr. Conner, was launched after the defendants had sold their stock to ex-Mayor Viehmann, it is claimed.

'PEEPING TOM' ANNOYS BOROUGH RESIDENTS

Mrs. Claude Jeffries, of Chatham Street, Reports Seeing Stranger About Home.

The mysterious stranger who has been alarming residents of the borough for the past week by peeking in their windows at night is still at large.

Mrs. Claude Jeffries, of 58 Chatham street, saw a smooth-shaven young man of about twenty-five years, who answered to the description of the stranger, pacing up and down in front of her home shortly before noon yesterday. He was about five eight inches in height, of slight build, wore a cap pulled well down over his ears, and carried a heavy cane.

In the afternoon Mr. Jeffries saw this same person proceeding down Somerset street towards the mountains. When Mr. Jeffries noticed the stranger he was crossing Race street. Among those who have been annoyed by the antics of this man is H. C. Reynolds, of 235 Somerset street. On Wednesday night, while he and his family were reading in the living room of their home, Mr. Reynolds saw a man looking in the window. He hurried out, but the stranger made good his escape. On Thursday night Mr. Reynolds' son, Frank, who had been to town, hurriedly came into the house and told his father that a man was standing under a tree in their backyard. Mr. Reynolds hurried out of his home, with his son, but the stranger had again disappeared. From the actions and general appearance of the stranger the boroughites fear that he may be an escaped inmate of some asylum.

ST. JOHN'S NEW CHURCH IS NEARING COMPLETION

The outside work of the new church of St. John's parish is rapidly nearing completion. About all that remains to be done is the completion of the large tower, the slating of the roof and some painting. The inside work will be started shortly and it is expected that the church will be completed and ready for dedication by May 1.

The church is one of the most imposing structures in the borough. Its size, when compared with the edifice which it is built to replace, attests to the rapid growth of the parish along with the borough. When the old church was built in the early eighties there were only a handful of communicants, but now including women and children, there are over a thousand.

Upon the dedication of the new church the old church will be used for a place for the Sunday-school to meet. Later it may be turned into a hall.

PLAINFIELD —NEW JERSEY—

January Clearance Sale

The following officers have been elected by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Third Reformed church: President, Miss Ella Fenner; vice-president, Mrs. J. Harvey Wyckoff; secretary, Miss Ella West; corresponding secretary, J. Harvey Wyckoff; treasurer, Miss Ruth Becker; pianist, Miss Minnie Haggerty.

Mrs. Frank W. Brightbill and daughter, Ruth, returned Thursday to their home in East Orange after spending the holiday with Mrs. Brightbill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew N. Zimerman.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Those upon whom the goddess of dance smiles tomorrow night at the Plainfield Theatre will have much cause for giving thanks, for Manager Shannon has arranged the best lot of prizes yet offered for this week, both for Oriental night Wednesday and the usual "country store" show on Friday evening. Tomorrow night there will be a number of Japanese articles of value to be distributed to patrons of the theatre that hold seats destined to be called from the theatre stage. In addition to the value of the awards there will be the usual enjoyment for all who fail to get a present.

Despite the failure of the animal act to make connections so as to enable it to appear here this week the Plainfield bill is pleasing. The big act of the first three days is the "Surprise Girls," with seven girls, clever comedy lines and catchy songs. Then there is William Reed and Company, in some of the old songs that have lived for ages; The Rand Arlo, "The Thoroughbred," a hilariously funny farce, and Willie Smith, with a voice and original lines and songs.

MR. AND MRS. F. T. JONAS GIVEN WEDDING RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Jonas were given a reception at the home of Mrs. Jonas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogel, of Dewey Park, Saturday evening, in honor of their marriage on December 19 last. The evening was spent in singing and dancing. The music was furnished by the Dunellen Social Club. A collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas received many presents, among which were a hand-painted clock and a mahogany table from the Dunellen Social Club. Over a hundred guests were present from Raritan, Bound Brook, Jersey City, Dunellen and this place.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The big bazaar arranged for tomorrow evening by the management of Proctor's Theatre will eclipse all its predecessors. The management has taken extraordinary care in the selection of the presents and promise a big comedy surprise that will "bring down the house." "Come and see the fun and bring your friends along." The program the first half of the week includes the excellent Triangle plays, which introduce Willard Mack and Enid Markey in "Aloha Oe," the greatest of all thrilling and spectacular productions and the Keystone comedy entitled, "The Village Scandal," in which those two funny fellows, Raymond Hitchcock and Roscoe Arbuckle, furnish barrels of fun. The vaudeville entertainment consists of The Four Comedy Harmonists, who offer a sensational musical and singing novelty, which is interspersed with clean, wholesome comedy. This is a "big time" act and comes here direct from the largest of the New York vaudeville houses. Ada Mead, a dainty singing comedienne, will be remembered for her excellent work in this season's Winter Garden musical extravaganza, "A World of Pleasure." This is her first attempt in the vaudeville field. Hunter and Chappele, two colored entertainer, dispense an original line of patter and also sing a number of popular hits. Terence O'Dare possesses a splendid tenor and scored a decided hit yesterday. Remind the children of the big toy matinee Saturday, at which time a whole wagon-load of gifts will be given away. The children look forward to this event all week long and they are never disappointed.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Raven," a gripping film production by the Essanay Company of Edgar Allen Poe's epic poem, featuring Henry Walthall, the star of "The Birth of a Nation," was the feature dramatic film at the U. S. Astor Theatre yesterday, and will be repeated this afternoon and tonight. "The Raven" adheres closely to the story by Poe. It is gripping in the extreme and not the least important feature of the play is the splendid acting of Mr. Walthall, who is as good, if not better than when seen in "The Birth of a Nation." After appearing in the big Griffith master piece, Mr. Walthall rested a few months, and "The Raven" was the first film in which he appeared after he returned to harness. Wednesday and Thursday the feature film at the Astor will be "Out of Darkness," starring Charlotte Walker, who on the stage this season is playing opposite Edward Sothern. The scenario for this drama was written by Hector Turnbull, former dramatic critic of the New York Tribune, who now is a member of the Laszky literary forces. Friday and Saturday, "The Case of Becky," with Blanche Sweet, will be the feature attraction at the Astor.

WARNED NOT TO KEEP BOYS OUT OF SCHOOL

Richard Harvey, a driver for Schloss Brothers, was warned by Judge De Meza, in police court this morning, not to be caught again with a small boy on his delivery wagon. Complaint against Harvey was made by Miss Mary Holly, attendance supervisor for the city schools. She charged that the driver had been using small boys who should have been in school to assist him in his work, and that he had repeatedly been warned to stop. The specific case on which the complaint was based was that of Shepherd Smith, a thirteen-year-old boy, who was found on the wagon of Harvey. Judge De Meza explained the law to Harvey, and notified him that another violation would mean a fine of $50.

A. V. SEARING, JR., NEW SCOUT HEAD

Council Elects Him as Commissioner of the Boy Scout Organization Here.

SUCCEEDS A. E. BEALS

Brockholst K. Miller is Chosen Secretary and Treasurer and A. Russell Bond is Made Third Deputy Commissioner.

Augustus V. Searing, Jr., was elected Boy Scout Commissioner of Plainfield and vicinity at last night's meeting the Boy Scout Council in the library of the Plainfield High School. He succeeds Allen E. Beals, who was elected Boy Scout executive for the district to permit to resume the scoutmastership of combined troops in the city who are without scoutmasters. Brockholst K. Miller was elected secretary and treasurer of the local movement to succeed Dr. George T. Moore, who, because of his work in the State Dental Society, has been obliged to give up his secretaryship although he will continue his membership in the council.

A. Russel Bond, author of the Scientific American Boy and other works, and one of the orignal members of the Plainfield Scout Council was elected to the office of third deputy commissioner upon advancement in rank of E. A. Sprowl from second deputy commissioner to first, and F. E. Bach from third deputy to second. These promotions were recommended because of faithful work in the scout movement here performed by these men. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mayor Leighton Calkins, of this city; former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and President George P. Mellick, of the Plainfield Playground Commission, were elected to membership in the Boy Scout Council.

Upon the motion of Louis H. Hosmer a resolution was adopted "expressing the thanks and appreciation of the community, through the Plainfield Boy Scout Council, for the services rendered in the upbuilding of the Boy Scout movement by the retiring commissioner and secretary-treasurer, same to be properly engrossed and presented to them." Lindsey Best spoke of the long and faithful service performed by Dr. Moore since the movement was started in this city half a decade ago. Mr. Best was chairman of the original organization meeting that resulted in the election of the first commissioner, Charles R. Bostwick, now in the Hawaiian Islands.

President Theodore G. Davis was in the chair, and members present were Edward Harding, Louis H. Hosmer, Lindsey Best, L. M. Leek, F. M. Genung, Brokholst K. Miller, Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., and Second Deputy Commissioner F. E. Bach.

It was reported that the cost of the Boy Scout Camp building has been entirely paid for through subscriptions from friends of the Boy Scout movement. This entire structure has been projected, organized, erected, financed and paid for within five months, a fact, according to the belief of the members of the council, that proves the place the scout movement has in the hearts of the people of this city.

Applications for examination to first class rank in scout work were made by Scouts Walter Sutphin, Troop 14; Ernest K. Powlison, scoutmaster, assigned to Dr. George T. Moore. Gerald Robins, Troop 14 first class, assigned to Clarence E. Bond. Application was made by Scout Howard Hall, of Troop 10 William H. Olmsted, scoutmaster, for examination in the subjects of signaling, public health, cycling and gardening. He was assigned to Howard W. Satterfield.

The resignation of Scoutmaster J. Raymond Manley, from Troop 11, of Grace Episcopal church, was read and accepted with regret. First Deputy Commissioner Sprowl reported that he had a prospective successor to Mr. Manley to take up the scout training at that troop. Deputy Commissioner Sprowl also reported Robert Fuller, of Troop 14, and Judson Blake Troop 8, H. Douglas Davis, scoutmaster, as having passed first-class scout examinations.

A letter of thanks was authorized to the Young Men's Christian Association for the generous use of parlors there for meeting places during the last four years. A similar letter was authorized to be sent to Alexander Milne for Y. M. C. A. memberships to ten Boy Scouts. A committee was appointed to arrange a place for a lecture by A. J. Van Brunt, director of safety of the Public Service Corporation, and also to take up with Dr. Waldo, president of the Plainfield Public Library Board, the matter of establishing a regular meeting place for the monthly executive council of the local scout movement. Deputy Commissioner Bach reported that Paul Peck and Norman H. Thorn had passed entrance requirements for membership in Troop 14 of the First Baptist church.

President Davis urged upon all the members of the council to be present at the Plainfield High School Auditorium tomorrow night to pay fitting tribute to Dr. Howard W. Beal, chief surgeon and general director of Red Cross work in England during the first year of the war, and who is in this city on his way to Washington to report his observation to the American Red Cross Congress. Mr. Davis said that Dr. Beal's achievements had attracted the attention of the medical and surgical profession the world over because of the remarkably low death rate among the wounded soldiers brought back to England. It is this fact that prompted King George and Queen Mary, of England to call him before them to give him their personal thanks for the wonderful work he did there. The story Dr. Beal has to tell the people of Plainfield will, in part, be that which he will report at Washington. There will also be an exhibition of Plainfield Boy Scout Red Cross work. Suitable souvenirs of the visit of Dr. Beal to this city will be distributed in special compliment to the guest of the Plainfield Boy Scout Council.

ASSEMBLY IN SESSION

Speaker Pilgrim supplemented President Read's plan by urging the Assemblymen to introduce their bills early in the session, and to pass at an early sitting a resolution fixing the day of adjournment. President Read stated after the session today that if all the bills were introduced by the middle of February, final adjournment could be reached by March 15, giving a session of ten weeks.

After the two Houses had gotten under way, L. Edward Herrman, secretary to Governor Fielder, appeared with the Governor's annual message, delivering it to each House. It was read and ordered printed in the journals.

The Capitol was gaily decorated for the starting of the law wheels. The corridors were embellished and each arch with flags and bunting tastefully arranged, while special decorations were in place in the Senate and Assembly chambers. These consisted of flags and bunting draped above the desks of the presiding officers, also on the front of these desks giving a patriotic touch to the proceedings. To this were added banks of palms, ferns and other plants on either side of the presiding officers' desks. Each of these desks was also graced with a handsome bouquet of cut flowers, including American Beauty roses.

The desks of many of the legislators were filled with elaborate floral pieces, the gifts of admiring constituents, making each chamber resemble a conservatory. Hundreds of visitors were at the State House from all parts of New Jersey. All this morning the Democratic and Republican leaders were busy with conference and corridor confabs, completing the details for the organization and iron ing up matters so there would be no hitches in the arrangements.

As the law-making session was launched, the galleries presented a animated and picturesque scene. The were crowded with interested spectators, both men and women, anxious to witness the opening of a Legislature that would, with the aid of the Governor's pen, turn out laws that would affect more than 3,000,000 Jersey folks.

Senator Rathbun, the Republican leader, called the Senate to order, after which the Senators-elect took the oath of office. They were: Harold B. Wells, of Burlington; Lewis T. Stevens, of Cape May; Thomas F. McCran, of Passaic, Republicans, and George F. Martens, Jr., of Hunterdon; William Edwin Florance, of Middlesex, and Samuel T. Munsen, of Sussex, Democrats. Martens and Munson were re-elected, the others being new in the Senate. Stevens and McCran have seen service in the House of Assembly.

Prayer was offered by the chaplain of the last Senate, Rev. Dr. Edward Griffin Read, of Union county, after which the organization was taken up. Senator John A. Ackley, of Cumberland, Democrat, was made president pro tem. by a unanimous vote, this honor always being given to the minority. Senator Read, of Camden, was nominated for president, by the Republicans, and the Democrats named Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy, of Bergen. Senator Read, of course, was elected by the strict party vote of 13 to 8. He was escorted to the president's desk amid applause.

The principal officers elected in the Senate, all being Republicans, were as follows:

Secretary, Francis B. Davis, of Gloucester; assistant secretary, John W. Clift, of Union; journal clerk, William H. Stiles, of Salem; supervisor of bills, William H. Johnson, of Essex; assistant supervisors of bills, Fletcher L. Fritz, of Morris, and Raymond O'Donnell, of Somerset; assistant journal clerk, John Dubois, of Cape May; calendar clerk, Edward L. Sturgess, of Gloucester; bill clerk, Charles L. Waterbury, of Essex; sergeant at arms, Lewis E. Anderson, of Mercer; assistant sergeant at arms, Harold Chafey, of Ocean.

After these officers had been chosen, a committee was appointed to notify Governor Fielder that the Senate was ready for business; also one to give the same notice to the House of Assembly.

At this juncture, Secretary Herrmann appeared with the Governor's message.

President Read announced the appointment of J. Charles Winters, of Camden, as his secretary. Alvin I. Oliver, Democrat, of Asbury Park was elected secretary to the Democratic minority.

As the next item of business, President Read announced his list of Senate committees, as follows:

Standing committees—Agriculture, Gaunt, Allen, Martens; appropriations, Smalley, Gaunt, Wells, Barber; banks and insurance, McCran, Mathis, Florance; boroughs and towns, Ships, Wells, Hutchinson, Munson; clergy, Hutchinson, Pierce, Ackley; commerce and navigation, Mathis, Stevens, Hennessy; corporations, McCran, Rathbun, Egan; education, Gaunt, Smalley, Askley; election, Rathbun, Hutchinson, Ackerson; federal relations, Edge, Wells, Hennessy; finance, Pierce, Smalley, Egan; game and fisheries, Mathis, Rathbun, Munson; highways, Gaunt, Corlate, Martens; judiciary, Rathbun, Edge, Ackerson; labor, industry and social welfare, Stevens, Mathis, Munson; militia, Colgate, Edke, Ackerson; miscellaneous business, Edge, McCran, Martens; municipal corporations, Edge, McCran, Egan; printed bills, Allen, Stevens, Hennessy; public health, Wells, Colgate, Barber; railroads and canals, Colgate, Gaunt, Florance; revision and amendment of laws, Hutchinson, Pierce, Florance; riparian rights, Stevens, Colgate, Hennessy; stationery and incidental expenses, Smalley, Hutchinson, Barber; unfinished business, Allen, Pierce, Ackley; taxation, Pierce, Allen, Ackley.

Many bills were introduced, many of them being the respective party measures embodying the platform pledges, after which the Senate adjourned until next Monday night. Senator Ackerson, of Monmouth, officiated as the minority leader.

The Assembly was called to order by Upton S. Jefferys, of Camden, clerk of the last House. Then the sixty members took the oath of office all standing at their desks, with their right hands raised. The oath was recited in concert, obligating the lawmakers to support the constitution of this State and of the United States.

The Republicans nominated Charles C. Pilgrim, of Essex, for speaker, and the Democrats selected Assemblyman George J. Brackner, of Hudson, as their candidate. Pilgrim was elected, receiving the 40 votes of his party, to 20 for Mr. Brackner.

The Republicans filled all the other offices, the principal ones elected being as follows: Clerk, Upton S. Jefferys, of Camden; assistant clerk, James Parker, of Passaic; assistant to the clerk, Henry E. Hathaway, of Mercer; journal clerk, George H. Johnston, of Union; assistant journal clerk, George Embly, of Mercer; supervisor of bills, George P. Coles, of Essex; sergeant at arms, William R. Swan, of Essex; bill clerk, Richard J. Chaplin, of Morris; assistant bill clerk, Charles Troxler, of Essex.

Speaker Pilgrim appointed W. Stanley Naughright and Roger E. Salmon, both of Essex, as his secretaries.

The joint committees appointed were as follows:

Home for Feeble-minded Women, Smalley, Edge, Ackley; Home for Feeble-minded Children, Wells, Gaunt, Martens; New Jersey Reformatory, Edge, Wells, Ackerson; passed bills, Hutchinson, Mathis, Egan; public printing, Rathbun, Stevens, Hennessy; public grounds and buildings, Colgate, Edge, Martens; Sanatorium for Tuberculosis Diseases, Allen, McCran, Barber; School for Deaf Mutes, Mathis, Stevens, Florance; sinking fund, Pierce, Colgate, Hennessy; Soldiers' Home, Stevens, Mathis, Ackley; State Home for Boys, McCran, Rathbun, Florance; State Home for Girls, Hutchinson, Allen, Ackerson; State Hospital, Rathbun, Hutchinson, Barber; State Library, Pierce, McCran, Munson; State Prison, Colgate, Allen, Munson; State Village for Epileptics, Gaunt, Smalley, Barber; treasurer's accounts, Smalley, Wells, Egan.

A notification committee was sent to the Governor and another to the Senate, after which the Governor's message was received. After the introduction of a raft of bills and the clearing away of routine business, the Assembly adjourned until next Monday night.

GOVERNOR URGES MANY REFORMS

Fielder Points to Healthy Condition of State Treasury.

SECOND ANNUAL MESSAGE

Favors Larger Appropriations For Many Public Institutions—Points Out Need of Conservation of Natural Resources—Much of His Message Urges Necessity of Better Roads. Would More Rigidly Supervise Railroad Rates.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 11.—Following is the second annual message of James F. Fielder, governor of New Jersey, to the one hundred and fortieth session of the state legislature:

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly—It gives me considerable satisfaction to be able to inform you that the financial condition of the state is better than for several years. At the opening of the preceding session of the legislature a state tax or a bond issue was thought imperative to raise the money required to meet the appropriations for state departments and institutions for the fiscal year Nov. 1, 1914, to Oct. 31, 1915, but it later became apparent that the direct inheritance tax act of 1914 would provide the necessary funds. The fact is that while no additional revenue was provided by the legislature of last year upward of $2,000,000 were added to the state's income by the act referred to. The requisition act of 1914 also helped, in that it gave the state's financial officers a proper supervision and control over all expenditures of money and provided a much needed check against the prevalent practice of incurring obligations in excess of appropriations. The latter act also made it possible for the comptroller to keep account not only of disbursements, but also of the state's contractual obligations, so that for the first time within my recollection of state affairs the statement of our financial condition at the close of a fiscal year included among the liabilities all items for which the state was bound on uncompleted contracts, and the statement to Nov. 1, 1915, therefore shows exactly where we stand. The reports which the comptroller and treasurer will present to you show that at the close of our business year, Oct. 31, 1915, with every outstanding obligation provided for and deducted, we had an actual and not a fictitious balance in the treasury amounting to $305,421.01. This balance, though small, has the great merit of being real, and we start the new year knowing that we have money in hand. In former years the statements of cash balances, besides taking no account of outstanding contracts, included as much as two and three-quarter million dollars of railroad taxes belonging to municipalities for their schools, but the balance I have mentioned does not include one cent of such taxes.

Favors Larger Appropriations.

Considering that the legislature of last year provided no additional state revenue and was not sure what the state's income would be, it showed wisdom in placing the appropriations for the current year at the very lowest figure. Because that appropriation act has been in force but little more than two months, it may not be possible to say definitely at this time whether the state departments and institutions can be run ten months longer on the sums alloted to them; but, comparing the estimates of their needs with their appropriations, I think many have not been given sufficient. For example, the repeated requests of institutions for enlarged accommodations with which to meet the demands on them cannot much longer be ignored. More money than was made available for the current year is needed by all the new departments created under the so called economy and efficiency bills. The state board of children's guardians must have additional funds with which to perform the duties imposed upon it by the widows' pension act, new buildings must be erected for the ever increasing number of the insane, the state printing board cannot print the reports of departments and commissions with the money given it, the national guard must have a further allowance, or the encampment at Sea Girt will again be abandoned; the additional circuit court judge which the legislature thought necessary must be provided with a salary, or he cannot be appointed, and the department of banking and insurance requires a larger appropriation for the prompt and efficient examination of the financial condition of our building and loan associations. These and similar cases which I could instance will, I know, receive your careful thought. Our finances will not permit us to do all we might wish, but we must not cripple our state work. Believing that the sum realized last year under the direct inheritance tax law will be equaled, if not exceeded, this year and that the other sources of state income will show the usual increase, I feel you can safely grant many of the requests which will surely be presented to you for further appropriations.

Would Conserve Resources.

The conservation of the state's natural resources deserves earnest consideration. A policy has been adopted for the conservation of our potable water supply, and plans are now maturing which will soon make an important supply in North Jersey available for the people of that section. The proposition to acquire a south Jersey tract of land, known as the Wharton tract, with its water flowage, was submitted to the voters at the last general election and was rejected. I am satisfied that this result occurred because little information was in the possession of any state board or department to give to the people to enable them to judge of the merits of the proposition. It was defeated by a majority of 20,539 out of a total of 227,451 votes cast for and against it, while at the same election there were 415,236 votes polled for candidates for office. That is, nearly 50 per cent of those who voted at that election refrained from voting on the water proposition, presumably because they did not understand it. The counties of Essex, Hudson and Passaic, whose residents have learned by experience the importance of state ownership of water supplies, gave a majority of 14,837 in favor of the proposition, while in all other counties it was defeated. I believe that the time will come when the ownership of water rights will be of vital importance to the people of south Jersey and that we should not wait until that time to consider the acquisition of the Wharton tract. Only a careful examination of the property by experts can produce the facts upon which to base an intelligent opinion, and I would prefer that these facts be presented to the legislature, where they can be examined and discussed and where it can be determined whether or not the proposition has sufficient merit to be again submitted to the people for their approval or rejection.

I, therefore, recommend that you empower the state water supply commission or the department of conservation and development to make or have made an expert examination of the tract in question and adjoining tracts for the purpose of determining whether any part thereof should be acquired by the state, and, if so, how much, what the probable value thereof may be, and that the report, with the detailed information obtained, be made to you or to the next legislature for determination as to whether the people should be asked to vote upon the question of a bond issue for the purchase of such property and water rights. Of course the direction to investigate should be accompanied by an appropriation of sufficient funds to make the investigation thorough.

Good Road Legislation.

A committee was appointed by the last legislature to revise road legislation and to lay down a road policy for the state. I hope its investigations will result in a report which will form the basis for intelligent legislation, because the most important and difficult problem now pressing for solution is the improvement and maintenance of our roads. Proper provision for vehicular transportation is of vital moment not only to our business interests, but the aid the states should give in preparation for national defense includes a system of highways desirable and suitable for military reasons. The increasing and insistent demand for good roads imposes upon the legislature the duty of providing them. A few years ago pleasure travel was not so great, and freight, material and commodities of all kinds were generally transported by rail or water. We were then chiefly concerned with the improvement of a few main arteries, so that the farmer and manufacturer could get their supplies and products to and from nearby railroad or water shipping points, or the local markets, by wagon, but we must now reckon with the automobile. We average one automobile for every thirty-two of our population, which means about six automobiles to every mile of our roads, excluding city streets. The commissioner of public roads, in his report for the year recently closed, estimates than an automobile paying an annual license fee of $7.50 and making 6,000 miles a year, damages the roads to the extent of $30 or $35, while the damage caused by the ordinary two horse team and wagon will not cost over $8 to replace. It is, therefore, evident that the general use of automobiles for pleasure and business purposes adds tremendously to the traffic burdens the roads must bear, and thus the new and difficult problem is presented to us. The commissioner of public roads also estimates the total mileage of the state, exclusive of streets, at 15,000, of which 10,500 are still unimproved, and he says it will cost $51,300,000 to properly improve the whole mileage. The state's share of this expense would be about $15,000,000.

The annual appropriations heretofore made have been as liberal as the financial condition of the state would permit, and it does not seem possible to materially increase them. Last year the appropriation to the state road fund was $500,000, in addition to which there was the convict labor appropriation and the motor vehicle fund, from which sources the state actually disbursed for road construction and repair the sum of $1,235,160.23 as follows:

	Construction.	Repair.
State road fund	$301,831.51
Convict labor appropriation	64,903.90	$17,149.93
Motor vehicle fund		851,214.89
	$366,735.41	$868,364.82

This does not take into consideration all moneys expended for salaries and for office and clerical expenses.

Would Readjust Entire Policy.

Should the counties be willing to undertake the improvement of all their roads with state aid, and should the state be able to appropriate $500,000 annually thirty years would elapse before all the roads could be built, and in the meantime some of those improved will have worn out and will require partial, if not whole, reconstruction. It is apparent that our policy of road maintenance and construction requires readjustment, because we cannot, under the plan now pursued, properly maintain our roads with the added uses to which they are put and keep pace with the progress the state demands in building new highways. Other states, recognizing the importance of good roads in the development of the state's municipalities and industries, are spending vast sums for this purpose. How then shall we secure the money the state needs? It is not wise or expedient to raise all the money required at once. The counties could not stand the strain and the road department could not be so organized as to handle the vast amount of work which would follow an attempt to construct 10,000 miles of road in one or two years. Perhaps there should be a slight increase in automobile license fees and a portion of these fees devoted to construction work, but it is not just that automobile owners should bear the whole cost, because improved roads benefit the owners of other vehicles; they bring more buyers to the merchants' doors; through them property owners see increased land values, and nearly every individual, including non-road users, gets the benefit of commercial automobile travel in quicker and cheaper transportation of commodities. I think, and therefore advise, that the necessary funds should be raised by a state tax laid specially for road construction purposes and that the work should be spread over a period of fifteen years, in which event the state would need a million dollars annually, or over ten years, for which a million and a half dollars would be required each year. The state board of taxes and assessment has recently reported the assessed valuation of the real and personal property of the state, subject to local taxation, as $2,583,953,595.29. To raise $1,000,000 a state tax of less than four-tenths of a mill would be necessary and a tax of less than six-tenths of a mill would raise $1,500,000. This small tax, amounting to but 40 or 60 cents on each $1,000 of assessed valuation, would not be felt, and I believe would be willingly paid if it were to be the means of securing a magnificent road system."

Grades and Bridges Important.

Alignment, grading and grubbing and the construction of bridges is work of a permanent nature, while the foundation, if skillfully and honestly laid, will last for years and will not need frequent renewal. Annual state appropriations and the automobile license fees could be wholly devoted to maintenance and resurfacing work, and thus we could keep our roads in first class condition. But you should also provide for a definite and comprehensive system of road maintenance by patrolling squads, not only for state highways, but for every road which the state aids in maintenance or repair. The present method of constructing a road and then permitting it to wear out is unbusinesslike and wasteful in the extreme.

The work of the counties on road building is also unbusinesslike in that it lacks uniformity in policy as to the kind of material used, the method of construction and failure in co-operation between counties in connecting up highways. A policy adopted this year is subject to alteration next year through changes in the board of freeholders. The county engineering department and road employees change, too, with changes in membership in their boards. The counties are parts of a great whole, separated only by a stream, by a road or by an imaginary line, and for the whole a definite policy for road construction should be laid down by you, to be carried out under the direction of the state department, by county engineers, supervisors and inspectors who should be experts, protected by tenure of office and not subject to every political change that may occur.

Development of Schools.

The development and improvement of our public schools is of the utmost importance. In observing the direction of the constitution to provide for a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the children of our state you must give thought to the encouragement New Jersey was one of the first states to establish a normal school for the training of teachers, but the demands of the schools have outstripped our teacher supply, and we employ from outside the state teachers almost equal in number to those who are graduates of our normal schools. We are now unable to provide accommodations for all applicants for admission to the normal schools, and our high school graduates are rapidly increasing, and I believe a greater proportion of these graduates would become normal students and later teachers in our schools if we could offer the additional normal school facilities now tendered them. I recommend that you give careful consideration to the demand which has been voiced for another normal school and that the necessary appropriation be made therefor.

The legislature of 1913 made provision for the promotion of vocational education, offering state aid to those districts desiring to establish and maintain this form of instruction, but limiting the annual expenditure of state funds to $80,000. Largely as a result of this legislation more than 7,000 persons were enrolled in vocational day and evening classes during the school year ending June 30, 1915. Of this number more than 1,000 were boys and girls and upward of 6,000 were young men and young women. The popularity of this very practical form of education has certainly been demonstrated, and in a state so conspicuously industrial as ours it seems fitting that this useful line of instruction should be properly encouraged. To do this it will be necessary to raise the limit of the annual expenditure fixed by the act of 1913, and I recommend that it be done and that further funds be provided to carry on this system of education now so well established.

Public Service Rates.

I would direct your attention to what appears to be an unintentional, or, if intentional, then an improper, limitation upon the power of the board of public utility commissioners to supervise and regulate rates or charges to be fixed or made by the public utilities of our state. It is contended that under the public utilities act, chapter 195 of the laws of 1911, the board is without power to compel a common carrier to initiate a rate and that its jurisdiction is limited to the review of rates now in existence or which may be voluntarily proposed by the carrier. This point is directly presented in proceedings in which many south Jersey commuters are interested, now pending before the board, to compel certain railroads to sell certain forms of tickets for transportation to and from their Camden terminals, similar in form to those sold between Philadelphia and New Jersey stations, so that Camden users of these tickets may not be compelled to pay for ferriage they do not use. The question is also interesting to north Jersey travelers who use the Hudson and Manhattan railroad and whose journey ends at Hoboken or Jersey City, but who are forced to pay for transportation they do not require beyond the limits of the state. The Pennsylvania railroad, against which the south Jersey commuters complain, issues special forms of tickets at special rates, available for transportation between Philadelphia and points in New Jersey, and also issues such tickets between Philadelphia and other points in Pennsylvania, but it refuses to issue the same kind of tickets between New Jersey intrastate points. Thus this carrier maintains a practice for interstate transportation and for transportation wholly within the state of Pennsylvania which it refuses to follow within the state of New Jersey, thereby discriminating against our state, from which it holds a valuable franchise, and it contends that the board created to protect the rights of our citizens is without power under our law to compel it to give us the same privileges the company accords to citizens of our neighboring state.

It seems entirely proper and fair that the board should have the power to inquire into the justness and reasonableness of this difference in practice, and if found unjust, discriminatory or preferential against our citizens to order that the railroads sell us the same form of ticket they offer for interstate or intrastate travel and fix the rate therefor. I therefore recommend that an amendment or supplement to our public utility act be passed which will vest in the board of public utility commissioners the power to order carriers operating in New Jersey to issue any form of ticket the board may deem proper for intrastate travel and to fix the rate therefor or to require such carriers to put into effect forms of tickets and classifications of rates for transportation similar to those covering transportation on its lines between points in any other state or in interstate commerce. I also recommend that this power be made general, so that the board may not be limited to the review only of those rates initiated by public utilities, but that it be authorized to fix and establish special rates for services when the conditions may appear to the board to warrant them.

Favors Fewer Shorter Laws.

Through previous messages your attention has been called to what I believe to be the sentiment of the people of our state in favor of a short, businesslike session and fewer laws. Each legislature announces its determination to dispose of its business speedily, but the regular session of last year consumed fifteen weeks, 413 laws and six joint resolutions were enacted, and a special session was necessary to correct defects in the act providing for the submission of constitutional amendments. I know of no reason for prolonging this session, and it seems to me quite possible to dispose of all necessary legislation in a period of two legislative months. I recognize that the time consumed by the appropriation committee in preparing the annual and supplemental appropriation bills places an obstacle in the way of a short session. Other legislative duties required of members of this committee interfere with and lengthen its hearings, and the legislative session frequently drags along awaiting the completion of these bills, which when finally ready are rushed through the legislature, but few members knowing anything of their contents. I suggest as a plan for facilitating the business of this committee and shortening the session that on or about Feb. 1 you take a recess of four weeks, during which time the appropriation committee shall sit frequently and have its bills ready when you reconvene, and that after the recess no more than four weeks be devoted to legislation. This method would give you and the public a chance to examine the appropriation bills before they are passed, it would materially shorten the session and would result in fewer laws.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. FIELDER, Governor.

BLAMES IT ON CLAYTON BILL.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Declaring the psychological depression that this country experienced shortly before the outbreak of the European war was brought about solely by domestic causes and blaming the Clayton act for the alarm and apprehension created in the business world, Senator Newlands, chairman of the committee on inter-State commerce, today flayed his Democratic colleagues for putting into immediate effect the reduction in tariff.

Over one hundred of the two hundred tickets that are out have been sold to date. Two new members were taken into the organization last night.

SOME SOCIAL OBSERVANCES.

The Call.

The common ordinary call is a minging of pleasure and duty—of pleasure when we are referring to it in the presence of the one called upon, and of duty when we are talking to ourselves. It lies at the root of all social impulses. It is the foundation stone of society. The lamentations of Mrs. Noah have not been recorded, but we know how badly she must have felt after that little freshet that took place some paltry centuries ago, to think there was one left to send out cards to. Mrs. Noah, so to speak, had to raise her own callers, and then she was too old to enjoy calling as it ought to be enjoyed. When Mrs. Shem or Mrs. Japhet dropped in and remarked how pretty the artificial flowers in the glass case in the parlor were, and whether they were picked fresh that morning, Mrs. Noah no doubt had not the youthful vein of sarcasm to reply in a way that would show her caller the measure of her appreciation of something which she knew was intended to make her uncomfortable.

Since Mrs. Noah's time, women have gone on making calls more or less frequently, and men have avoided them, with much the same dogged persistence that has marked a Columbus or a Carlyle.

A man's idea about making a call is that it is one of the best and finest and most desirable and easiest things not to do; and he believes this a good deal more than he does religion or politics. The proposition in logic that all men are not callers,—Jones is not a caller, therefore Jones is a man,—is a fundamental axiom, and no one but a woman would ever think of contradicting it. The only time when the average man takes a genuine pleasure in a call is when he holds four aces.

The average woman, on the other hand, is a caller by nature, temperament, tradition, premeditated design and inclination. She not only calls to show what she herself has on, but also to find out if what the other woman has on is any better—thus killing two birds with one stone. The ordinary call is also to her a social training school, whereby she learns to talk without thinking. It is easier to talk without thinking when one is in a crowd, all doing the same thing, but one is apt to become self-conscious where there is only one other listening, and this in itself is good practice.

A call is not properly a call when there are more than two participants. It then becomes a community of impiency and is on the edge of being a function.

Among women, the common or ordinary call is complete when two women meet for twenty minutes to decide (1) which one has the better clothes; (2) which one has the better husband; and (3) which one has the better servant. It is then time to go.

INCREASING INTEREST IN REVIVAL SERVICES

Great interest is being manifested in the special services which are being held during the month at the Grace M. E. church. This is attested by the large attendances which have been present. The Rev. E. C. Gillespie, the pastor of the church, has charge of the services. The music at these services has been inspiring, the choir being led by Robert A. Boyd, of Elizabeth.

Following the services last night, the choir went to the home of Mrs. George H. Bolen, No. 130 Westerfelt avenue, and practiced a few hymns. Following the practice a social hour was enjoyed during which games were played and refreshments served. There were 35 or 40 present.

On Saturday evening the members of the church will take the 5:13 train for Trenton where they will hear Billy Sunday. The train will arrive at Trenton at 6:30 just giving those who go time to get to the tabernacle for the service. Reservations have been secured for 200.

CONTINENTAL ARMY STRUCK.

Washington, Jan. 11.—A vital blow was struck at the administration's continental army plan for developing the military defense of the country today, when Representative Hay, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, informed President Wilson that he was flatly opposed to the idea, and favored an expansion of the militia in the various States.

Contradictory Science.

The infinitely little and infinitely vast alike baffle the understanding, developed as it is by our concrete finite life. Creation is typified by the sphere. A circle is a straight line that at every point ceases to be a straight line, and the earth's surface is a plane that every moment ceases to be a plane. Following the surface of the earth does not carry us to the under side, because there is no more an under side than there is an upper side. There is only a boundless surface. But if it were possible for us to build a globe on the globe as large as the one we inhabit, would it not have an upper and an under side?

The rain causes the grass to grow and the sun causes the snow to melt, but we cannot apply the idea of cause in this sense to nature as a whole, but only to parts of nature. Gravitation caused Newton's apple to fall, but what causes the earth to fall forever and ever and never to fall upon the body that is said to attract it?—John Burroughs in Atlantic Monthly.

International Questions.

International questions constitute one of the greatest known boons of the human race. International questions are so broad that they do not require any close reasoning in order to express opinions about them. That is their great beauty. One can strike in almost anywhere without any great danger of hitting bottom, and one can say almost anything about an international question without being called to account except by some one who is equally unreliable. Local questions are quite different in that respect. Local questions are much more prosaic and less romantic. One must be surer of his data and more consistent in his conclusion. In explaining local questions there is always danger that the man you are explaining to knows more about the matter than you do yourself. If you must make ignorant statements do it in the way that best conceals your ignorance.—Life.

THE GOVERNOR'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

Aside from the recommendation that a State tax be imposed on all the people to pay for the roads which the automobiles tear up, there is little that is new or unexpected in Governor Fielder's second annual message to the Legislature, which went to that body at noon today.

The tax proposed, if the matter is taken seriously by the lawmakers, will cause more trouble than any legislation that has been proposed in recent years. The Governor calls attention to Road Commissioner Stevens' annual report in which it is stated that an automobile which pays $7.50 a year tax, making 6,000 miles a season, does $30 to $35 damage to the roads of the State. To supply $15,000,000 as the State share of some $51,300,000, which it is figured is needed to permanently improve about 10,500 miles of road, the Governor suggests the collection of $1,000,000 or $1,500,000 annually for ten or fifteen years.

To get this money the Executive suggests an annual State tax of four-tenths or six-tenths of a mill, according to the amount to be raised. In other words, the Governor believes that the damage which the automobilists do should be paid for by the general public. We believe that those who do not own automobiles will offer strenuous objection to such a suggestion, while the automobilists will welcome the opportunity of having many good roads erected primarily for their use at the expense of the large majority of people who do not own cars. Such legislation will probably encounter rough going.

That the economy measures of the last Legislature, coupled with the new inheritance tax law, have placed the State in a better financial condition, is stated by the Governor, there being a free balance on October 31 last of $397,702.10. But at the same time, he says that the economy program has curtailed the activities of some branches of the government to such an extent that larger appropriations must be made if their work is to continue.

Although the people of the State, by a decisive vote, turned down the proposition to purchase the Wharton tract in South Jersey, the Governor believes it should be taken over and suggests an expert examination of the property to determine whether the matter shall be again submitted to the voters. Another normal school is recommended, as well as an increase in the provisions for vocational education.

Added powers for the Public Utility Commission to initiate rates are needed, according to the Governor. He suggests an amendment to the utility act, vesting in the Board power to order carriers operating in this State to issue any form of ticket the Board may deem proper for intra-State travel and to fix the rate therefor. That such power is needed is undisputed.

If the entire program for the Legislature should be confined to acting on the recommendations in the message it would be the shortest session the State has ever known.

CONGRESS ON NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Just how far the United States will go in the matter of preparedness for national defense is the problem that Senators and Representatives are tackling this week. Much has been written and said from all angles and the subject has been before the American people for over a year. There is a wide divergence of opinion as to how far to go; but the statesmen at the Capitol are generally agreed that something must be done. The shifting of a policy of long standing, the sudden awakening that danger lurks despite the superficial joining of hands by nations for universal peace, and the determination of President Wilson that America must prepare to assert herself have the general endorsement of the people.

The Administration has put the soft pedal on these appropriation measures, but there is an insistent demand from various localities that they go through, and the attitude of a number of Representatives may threaten the defense measure. Chairman Sparkman, of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, is disposed to report a bill calling for at least $40,000,000. Chairman Shackelford, of the Good Roads Committee, is introducing a bill appropriating $25,000,000 or more, and the Public Buildings Committee has decided to go ahead with its omnibus bill. The Ways and Means Committee is in a quandary regarding the means of raising revenues to meet even the defense program, and if the fifty to one hundred million additional is voted, the revenue situation will be seriously complicated, it is said.

It is predicted that there will be fairly clear sailing for the naval increase program recommended by Secretary Daniels. These proposals will undoubtedly be attacked as too moderate, and the main argument advanced against them may be the suggestions of the Naval General Board, which call for an increase some three times as large as the Administration program. Many members of Congress believe that practically all of the money to be voted for additional preparedness should be spent on the navy, and they base their belief on the showing of the British fleet in the present European war. It is argued that, with the United States occupying an isolated position, a strong fleet would prevent invasion from abroad and give the nation plenty of time to recruit, train and equip an army sufficently large for any eventuality.

But the disagreement on the naval appropriation will be insignificant in comparison with that of the army. The formation of a Continental army as proposed by Secretary Garrison, is very unpopular in both houses of Congress. The proposal is criticised by those who want a strong standing army, by those who believe the plan will not work out, by those who favor this or that scheme for attaining greater military efficiency, and by the "little army" men. Chairman Hay, of the House Military Committee, has introduced a bill that omits any provision for the Continental army proposed by Secretary Garrison. Gossip has attributed disagreements to Secretary Garrison and Representative Hay that are cited as a cause for their failure to work together.

Chairman Chamberlain, of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, has introduced a bill providing for the adoption of the Swiss and Australian systems of compulsory military education. But he states that this bill is merely suggestive, so that this plan will at least be considered.

After reading Dunn's annual review of finance and trade for the year just passed an ordinary citizen is of the opinion that money is "phenomenally free," but this opinion soon wears off when it is rubbed against our little world.

Buses (U Silent, As In Mud)

Buses are of three kinds: Omni, Jitney and incu.

Sometimes the first two become the latter, and then there is a "for sale" ad.

The omni is perhaps the commonest kind, taking the towns by and large, especially by.

The regular village omnibus is a cross between a milk-wagon and a hearse.

It is as springless as the Sahara desert, and is lighted for the trips to the night train with a seventeen - skunk - power-one-sixteenth-candle-power kerosene glim, whose chimney is in deep mourning.

The jitney bus is of newer vintage, but is already accumulating a characteristic perfume.

In fact, it has always been in bad odor with street railway companies and their stockholders.

The incu kind may be almost anything from a wife to a carouncle.

The plural of incubus is incubi.

And while an incubus is a singular thing, it is almost always in the plural.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Concerning A Certain Cat

CERTAIN of our friends who do not altogether approve of us insist that they wouldn't have us "doctor a sick cat." We crave their indulgence for intruding these simple remarks about the doctor's own cat. Surely a doctor is entitled to mistreat his own animal.

Well, Tom is a giant and a royal household pet. Without a purr of protest he has submitted to a nine months' study which, we think, has not been entirely barren of results.

On one meal a day Tom has a pulse rate of 100, feels well, lazy, affectionate and contented with himself and his treatment.

On two meals a day, one being milk, the other mixed food from the table, the heart beat is 120 per minute. Tom is rather irritable, sometimes ugly. And we have some reason to assume that his liver troubles him at times.

On three meals a day, two of them consisting of meat, Tom exhibits a need of a good cholera mixture, his pulse rises to 130, his heart is irregular, and in other ways he shows evidences of a marked toxemia, or, as it is better known, autointoxication.

So we put him back on the original one meal a day plan, and presently he is himself again—friendly, docile, lazy, good to the children.

We haven't the slightest doubt that if we kept on feeding Tom with an excess of animal protein—meat, etc., not really necessary for him, he would have a series of fits and die, and we would be wondering which of the wicked neighbors gave our poor old cat poison? Certainly many a neighbor, and many a household pet, reaches this conclusion.

But the purpose of our story, the moral to be drawn, is obvious: Too much meat will kill even a cat.

And remember how it works: It poisons the cardio-vascular system—the heart and arteries.

Then consider the fact that the death rate for persons over forty years of age is higher to-day than it was ten or fifteen years ago, although the death rate for all other ages is declining.

Finally, look over the meat bill and see how foolishly you are squandering your money.

As a matter of fact, corn meal, in the shape of Johnny cake or that incomparable delicacy, fried corn meal mush, will "stay by" the hard-working man quite as well as meat, at a trifling cost, and without the meat toxemia.

MATRIMONY

MATRIMONY is the United States of Love. It is a union of the settled state, the contented state, the busted state and the states of rapture, resignation, distraction and many others.

Matrimony is also a very peculiar form of arithmetic, in which one and one make one and later on nine or ten. As soon as a young man and a young woman find that one parlor, one chair and one name are quite enough for both of them, they are made one by law and are then privileged to get along on one income for the rest of their lives.

Matrimony is the origin of the home, the hall mark of civilization, and the hope of the census bureau. Without matrimony man is a useless cumberer of boarding houses and woman a lonely antique. But there is such a thing as being too enthusiastic about matrimony. It is very easily carried to excess. To marry two wives without a vacation between is considered worse than to vote twice at the same election. In uncivilized nations, men frequently have half a dozen wives at the same time and support them in luxury. This is called polygamy. Polygamy is a very peculiar form of misplaced bravery.

When a man marries, he swears to love, cherish and protect his wife and to endow her with all his worldly goods. Men are so wicked, however, that a great many of them persistently hold out cigar and lunch money. When a woman marries, she swears to love, honor and obey her husband. However, the word "obey" is being cut out of many ceremonies as a dead letter law which shows that the married state is more careful about dead letter laws than most other states.

Getting married is a serious matter and yet young people tackle the job with the utmost intrepidity. A young man who does not earn enough money to keep himself in fuzzy hats will rush boldly and cheerfully into matrimony with a young woman who has never had to wash two consecutive dishes and would stab herself to death with the needle if she tried to darn a sock. Naturally a great many such marriages are failures, but nowadays the motto in matrimony is: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

There is such a thing as being too enthusiastic

Matrimony is blessed with children, good home cooking, pleasant home evenings, golden weddings, and is at other times afflicted with green eyes, soggy bread and hair-trigger tempers. When a selfish person marries, the victim is to be pitied, but when two selfish persons marry each other, great good results. They are not only removed from circulation, but they get what has been coming to them from their youth up.

Views Of The Press

It Pays To Advertise

WHEN CANADA recently undertook to float a purely domestic loan of $50,000,000 the amount was over-subscribed more than twice, and this result was attained by advertising. Five-thousand-line contracts were made with all the daily newspapers of Canada. The advertising began on November 22 and the full space was used by November 30, when the subscription list closed. The Canadian Minister of Finance has stated that to underwrite the loan in the ordinary way would have cost the government $625,000.

This was not the first experiment in advertising conducted by the Canadian government within the last year and a quarter. In the fall of 1914 a 5,000-line campaign in seventy dailies and a few national weeklies resulted in a remarkable increase of the domestic demand for Canadian apples, and thus prevented to a very great extent the heavy loss with which the growers of Canada had been threatened through the sudden shutting off of the foreign demand. It pays governments, as well as individuals and firms, to advertise in the newspapers.—Newark Star.

The Words Of A True American

THESE WORDS breathing the loyalty of a true American were spoken in New York at a banquet of the Pennsylvania Society by the mayor of Philadelphia, Rudolph Blankenburg, a man born in Germany but a naturalized American citizen who has been trusted and honored in his home city, as thousands of naturalized citizens have been trusted and honored throughout the country for their worth and loyalty as citizens.

"To me neither German-Americans nor Irish, Scotch, French, Italian or Russian-Americans appeal. If we tolerated the growth of any unnatural division, we would encourage dissensions that might eventually lead to most disastrous results in any conflict that might arise between our country and foreign nations.

"Let us therefore prepare to abolish all distinction that may lead to ill-feeling, and call ourselves, before the whole world, Americans first, last and all the time.

"Let preparedness be our watchword—preparedness against any and every foreign foe, so that no power on earth may ever succeed in overthrowing our Republic or in restricting its growth and development. But let preparedness also be our watchword against the visible and invisible domestic foe.

"I am speaking of the thick-and-thin partisan, the shouter whose ardent appeals to patriotism are used as a cloak for the promotion of his personal advantage and that of his fellow-partisans, to the undoing and at the expense of his fellow-countrymen."

These are words worthy of commendation far and wide and ought to be read by native and naturalized, voicing as they do the sentiments of patriotic people without respect to land of birth, and placing loyalty where too many have put the hyphen.

Railway Tickets Good For One Day

Q. I spend the greater part of my time traveling, mostly locally, and it frequently happens I cannot use tickets on one trip, but use them on the next. Although it says on these tickets, "Good only one day after date," they are full fare first-class tickets and I understand the courts of Ohio have decided such tickets are good until used. Owing to my uncertain address, it is not convenient for me to redeem them unnecessarily. After several years, one conductor says if I use one more than a day old in future he will make me pay a full cash fare in addition to the one I have already paid represented by the ticket, and that he "does not care what the courts do say." Am I right, and, if so, what recourse have I if I refuse to pay two fares and he puts me off the train at a very great financial loss?

A. A railroad ticket is a contract—or, strictly speaking, it constitutes the evidence of a contract—between the company and the passenger. If there is no stipulation on the ticket as to the time limit within which it will be honored for passage, the presumption will be that the time is unlimited. Railroad companies, however, have the right to make reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of their business, and when a limitation or restriction as to time is printed or stamped upon the face of the ticket, the courts generally hold the passenger is bound by such limitation or restriction. While the question of the reasonableness of the time limit is sometimes open to debate, some authorities have gone so far as to hold that a time limit of one day is not unreasonable. If your ticket is not honored because of the fact that the time limit has expired, it would be advisable for you to pay the cash fare and later present your unused ticket for redemption.

A Fence—Offence

Q. My neighbor has crowded a fence on the back part of my lot so that it is almost falling over on to my side. He has filled in so much higher since I put up a fence that it is almost ready to fall and it is leaning over on to my side now about three feet. Can I compel him to build a retaining wall to hold back the dirt?

A. If you think your neighbor is damaging your property, it would be well to ask him to take such steps as may be necessary to remedy the matter. If he fails to do so, you will have a right to maintain an action for such damages as are proximately caused by his fault or negligence.

Indorsed "Without Recourse"

Q. If one indorses a note "without recourse," does he escape all liability?

A. No. The law permits him, to a limited extent, to qualify his liability, but he is still liable as a seller of commercial paper.

Protection For Music Writers

Q. Is the writer of a musical composition entitled to have it copyrighted? A. Yes.

Intestate

Q. What is meant when it is said that a man "died intestate"?

A. That he died without leaving a will.

Cobwebs

The undiligent Housewife has no corner on the Cobwebs that appear here and there in this world. You who are a Man carry their duplicate in substance, if not in form, about with you in the pockets of your clothes in the shape of uncarried out memorands.

Clean up your Cobwebs.

You who work at a desk, your Cobwebs are the little bits of unfinished and put-off duties that face you day after day, without being finally performed and cleared up. Also, here and there, tucked away unfinished into the drawers of your desk and into the little pigeonholes, holding in themselves tasks that should be finished, these are Cobwebs too.

Clean up your Cobwebs.

You who hold Grudges and Unkindnesses toward your fellow workers and fellow men, these things are the little Cobwebs that clog up your Character. Get them out of your system and out of your mind. Get square with the men and women that misunderstand you and misjudge you.

Clean up your Cobwebs.

The Singing Cops

Commissioner Woods of New York has decided to train the policemen under him in the art of song.—News Item.

A big blue racing motor came careering up the street,
Impinged upon a traffic cop and knocked him off his feet.
And when again the cop beheld the glorious light of day
The distance-gobbling vehicle was seven miles away.
But while from underneath the wheels of other cars he swang,
He dusted off his uniform and huskily he sang:

"You put me where I am to-day, I hope you're satisfied;
I'll lock you up for mayhem and attempted homicide.
I'll never sleep until you're put right where you belong,
That you will do time
For this ruffian crime
Is the curse of a copper's song!"

A surreptitious burglar, after going through a flat,
Sneaked up behind a bench whereon a big policeman sat,
And to allay suspicion, which is ever hard to bear,
He tapped the slumbering bluecoat with a sandbag on the hair.
Now, when the officer awoke, he scented something wrong,
And gazing sternly down the street he sang this little song:

Goodby, Bo, you're through!
I know you robbed that flat,
A clever yegg like you
Might get away with that,
But when you break my slumber
I'm going to get your number—
A ten-year term for yo-o-ou!
Goodby, Bo, goodby, Bo! Good-night Bo!
You're through!

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened To the Lonely Sugar Pig.

"I'm Lonely, Too," Said the Hungry Mouse.

"ONCE upon a time there was a sugar pig who had passed the best of his life on the very tiptop of a little boy's Christmas tree," said daddy when the children shouted for a story. "He was made of barley sugar and had raisin eyes, but when Christmas joys passed and all the gay balls and popcorn strings and wax candles had been packed away in silver paper for next year the sugar pig was still left hanging in the tiptop of the tree, because the little boy's mamma was not tall enough to reach him. One day her cook came into the room, seized the tree and, with the sugar pig still a-sitting on it, carried it right off to the cellar. But before the garbage man came to cart it away the sugar pig managed to pull himself off and wiggle into a dark, dusty corner.

"One day he felt a sharp pain in his left leg and yelled, 'Who's hurting me?' 'It's only I—Mr Mouse,' said a small, quavering voice. 'I am very hungry, so I took the liberty to nibble your leg. I do hope you don't mind. You looked so forlorn I thought you were dead. Who are you, anyway?' 'I am a lonely sugar pig, and I hoped to be your friend till you tried to eat me!' 'I'm lonely, too,' said the hungry mouse, 'and if you will come home with me and be my servant I won't eat you. We might even be friends.' So tears of joy ran down the sugar pig's face, almost washing off his snub nose, and home with Mr. Mouse he ran, where he lived for about a week in a snug, dry hole. But soon he got very restless and longed to see more of the sunlight. So he said to his comrade: 'You have been very kind to live with, but I crave a larger life. So goodby to you!' And off he waddled till he came to the edge of a well, where sat a huge green frog. 'A pleasant day, sir,' the sugar pig remarked to the huge green frog. 'Can you tell me the best hotel near, where I can put up for the night?' The frog looked him all over and rather liked him. 'I'd be pleased to have you spend the night with me, sir,' he assured the sugar pig. Delighted with this attention, the sugar pig joined arms with the huge green frog without even asking him where his home was. The frog gave a leap, thinking everybody liked water, and landed kerplunk right in the well! 'Isn't it delightfully clean and cool here?' he asked the sugar pig. Getting no answer, he looked around, and nothing was left of the poor sugar pig but his raisin eyes, which floated around a minute and then sank to the bottom of the well," daddy finished.

"I love that story, daddy!" cried Evelyn. "Tell it again?" But daddy just smiled and kissed her.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS DIA LEONARD

Mother Morton Pays Molly Sutner a Visit.

"Mrs. Morton! How glad I am to see you," exclaimed Molly Sutner in delight, as she drew up the most comfortable chair for her guest. "I was thinking about you today, and wishing so much that I could see you. I believe my thoughts brought you."

"Maybe. I just had a taking to come to Fairport, and of course you were one of the people I wanted to see." The old lady looked critically at her over her spectacles. "Have you been taking good care of yourself? I believe you have," she added as Molly smiled into her face. "You look as if you were succeeding in keeping fret and worry away."

"I am doing better, dear friend. Both John and I have much to learn yet, and we often lose our tempers, but we have never both lost them at once since we began all over again When one of us forgets the other knows it is very necessary to hold on to self-control. So we have not had any very bad breakdown." Molly sat holding the toil-roughened hand.

"That's good; it does me good to hear it. And you are getting out of debt?" she continued, looking around the room for traces of extravagance.

"Nothing has stopped the payment of five dollars a week toward the debts, and I have a boarder. I think I shall have a little to add to that sum out of my profits," announced Molly proudly.

"Now, that does me good." The old lady patted her hand approvingly.

"And I have been so happy. It isn't so hard to be poor when you accept it and learn to make the best of it. And John has been so appreciative, so kind." Tears stood in Molly's eyes. "We have a home."

"Now I am glad." The old head nodded approvingly.

"And it is all because you so patiently taught me. While you cared for my sick boy, you healed my sick soul as well. I can never repay you."

"Oh, yes you can. If you find someone in trouble, in need of help, pass your lesson along. That is the best pay. It keeps truth circulating, and only by passing on your truth can you keep it from becoming stagnant. It must be a living spring within you."

"If I only could be of some help to someone how glad I should be," breathed Molly.

"You will be. That is the test of real character. When we are what we should be, we do good just by being alive."

"What we should be," repeated Molly. "I am far from that."

"No, indeed. You are honestly trying; you are doing your best day by day. You are teachable, ready to accept suggestions, and you are growing like the corn in the night." There was a kindly light in the fine old face.

"I was so rejoiced when Dick told me about the discovery of the plot to ruin your husband's good name. I want to know that plucky young girl that trapped the thief, and when his trial comes off I hope he will be brought to justice."

"Oh, I want you to know her; she is so fine. You know she has gone back to work, don't you?" said Molly eagerly.

"No. I thought she was to be married to the young detective Mr. Jaynes sent to Kansas City for."

"She was to have married him, but the engagement is broken off and I am so unhappy about it.

"Now I must get my potatoes on and you will stay to supper and meet my husband. When I come in I will tell you all about Julia Osgood. Perhaps you can think of some way I can help her, you are so resourceful," continued Molly.

"Let me come right out in the kitchen with you. We can talk while we work. I feel more at home in the kitchen, anyway. Most of my life has been spent there." She laughed as she followed Molly from the room.

POULTRYMEN GETTING RESULTS

Charles Hicks-Barrow, of Prospect avenue, Dunellen, reports that his fourteen Rhode Island white pullets layed 204 eggs for the month of December, which netted him a profit of $8.40, or 60 cents each. This is a remarkable record when the weather during this period is taken into consideration, and it looks as if Mr. Hicks-Barrow's assertion of this breed of fowl being the greatest egg producer of the present day is pretty near true. Another innovation of this remarkable breed is that Mr. Hicks-Borrow has just hatched out nine chicks from a setting of twelve eggs. The chicks are as lively as crickets and growing to beat the band.

FED WAR NOT THE FIRST ON ORGANIZED BASEBALL; THERE HAVE BEEN SIX SINCE THE NATIONAL LEAGUE STARTED BACK IN 1876

The Fed war, recently brought to a close, was not the first attempt ever made to throw a scare into organized baseball. Since the birth of an organized game, which was the establishment of the National league back in 1876, there have been six different attempts on its life. The only one that had the least success was the fracas that produced the American league and this undoubtedly was good for the game.

ELKS MEET TONIGHT.

The meeting of the Elks' Club bowling committee was postponed from last night until tonight. The principal business to be transacted is the formal acceptance of a franchise in the City League. The meeting was not held last night because the chairman, V. W. Nash, Jr., who represented the lodge at the league meeting, could not be present.

RECREATION ACTIVITIES OF WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The West End Community Center, in co-operation with the Recreation Committee, whose activities are held in Washington School, announce that, in addition to the various energies being conducted under their auspices, will inaugurate a gymnasium class, for girls, under the leadership of Miss Ethel Skillman, and there will also be a choral society, for colored people, with Dr. Hobson, and [illegible] Mr. Jones in charge.

These two additional activities should appeal to all those interested in callisthenics and music, it being an opportunity very seldom offered to the residents of the West End.

The women and men, devoting their time to the different affairs earnestly request that the people will co-operate with them by their presence on Thursday evenings at Washington School promptly at 8:1[illegible] o'clock.

The sewing class, under the management of Miss Scarborough, will also meet on Thursday evenings, instead of Fridays, as heretofore. The residents of the West End who have not as yet availed themselves of the privileges accorded at such a small fee as is charged, are missing an opportunity seldom offered, therefore you are requested to come and see for yourselves what is being accomplished in your midst.

HIGH SCHOOL LIGHTWEIGHTS START BASKETBALL TOURNEY

A team that has not appeared on the Plainfield High School court in a number of years will line up against the Red and Blue quintet tomorrow afternoon, when Rutgers Freshmen will show their ability. The boys from the banks of the Raritan have a reputation for being fast, and, figuring on the showing the locals put up at Montclair Saturday, the affair is sure to be a good one. Coach Patch will use the line-up that started the Montclair game but will give the others on the squad a chance in order to pick out the strongest line-up for the first N. P. H. S. fracas on Saturday.

NEW TRACK RECORD.

The world's swimming record for 150 yards was bettered last night at the New York A. C. Herbert E. Vollmer was clocked in 1 minute 20 4-5 seconds.

N. P. H. S. SHOWS BIG IMPROVEMENT

Change of Tactics Aids in Piling up 53 Points to Kearny High's 40.

BYRNES MAKES GOOD

West Orange Referee Picked for City Championship Battle Next Saturday on His Satisfactory Showing Yesterday.

Showing a complete reversal of the form previously displayed, the North Plainfield High School administered a severe trimming to Kearny High School yesterday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall. The score was 53 to 40. The boroughites displayed the best shooting attack of the season, besides playing a better game in all the other departments.

The locals changed their style of play in yesterday's contest. The short passing, which has been characteristic of the attack of the borough school, was eliminated, and the results were highly gratifying. The defense, which has been weak heretofore, has been greatly strengthened, and although a slight lapse was noticeable in the middle of the second period, the showing on the whole was very encouraging.

By practicing the rest of the week the North Plainfielders expect to be in good trim for the contest Saturday afternoon with Plainfield High School. The Canadian team will be granted the use of the P. H. S. gym Thursday afternoon, from 4:15 to 5:15.

The game yesterday was refereed by Joe Byrnes, of West Orange. Coach Ralph Patch and the P. H. S. squad were present to view the refereeing of the Orange man. The Plainfield faction heartily approved of his work, so he will officiate at the contest Saturday afternoon.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also is the most effective way to break a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

DR. BEAL WILL BE GIVEN RECEPTION

Business and Professional Men Plan to Hear Distinguished Speaker Tonight.

EXHIBITION A FEATURE

Boy Scout Handiwork Will Be Shown in Public for the First Time—Souvenirs of Dr. Beal's Visit to Be Distributed.

Word was received here last night to the effect that a delegation of business and professional men from New York would be present at the lecture to be given at the Plainfield High School Auditorium this evening by Dr. Howard W. Beal, chief surgeon and director of the hospital work in England for the American Women's War Relief Fund.

Dr. Howard W. Beal.

The program as arranged for this evening includes an informal reception to Dr. Beal, either shortly before the meeting takes place or after, depending upon the time of his arrival in this city. At this time special arrangements will be made for the members of the medical profession in this city to meet the man who was director of the Red Cross work in England during the first year of the war, and who is here only temporarily, pending his return to resume the work.

Knowing the interest Dr. Beal has in Red Cross work and in Boy Scouts, a special request has been made to have some of the crack Red Cross scouts give exhibitions of their prowess with bandage and stretcher work. Eagle Scout Thomas P. Fitch, of Champion Troop 5, and Caryl Dunavan, first class, Troop 9, of the First Methodist church, will give exhibitions of stretcher drill and ambulance work and bandaging under first aid rules on the platform at the conclusion of Dr. Beal's address. Joseph A. Garner, scoutsmaster of the colored Boy Scout Troop 7, plans to have an exhibit by his boys of pyramid for signalling purposes.

These will be extra attractions not down on the official program, in addition to the exhibit of scout handicraft that will be shown in Plainfield for the first time as an exhibit this evening. Provision has been made for a large number of people. There have been numerous inquiries as to whether any of the seats will be reserved. The only ones set aside for special occupancy are those in the first center block, which will be occupied by the uniformed Boy Scouts. Souvenirs of Dr. Beal's visit will be given to every person attending tonight's meeting. There will be no admission fee or collection.

FREEHOLDERS OF SOMERSET MEET

Money is Due From Federal Government, Attorney Tells Them.

Somerville, Jan. 12.—The regular monthly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders was held yesterday at Somerville. County Attorney Clarence E. Case informed the Board that prospective buyers of the Riggs farm, located on the North Branch road, want to know if the Board can deed the old Toll Gate House if the deal goes through. This matter will continue under advisement of Mr. Case.

An attorney named Reeves, of Washington, D. C., appeared before the Board and informed it that there is money due Somerset county from the Federal government. Mr. Reeves did not state what amount is due but said he would want thirty-three and a third per cent. of the total to collect it.

This matter was not acted on.

Owing to the absence of Freeholder George Kirch the matter of electing a road supervisor was laid over until the February meeting.

The annual reports of Warden James Major and County Superintendent of Weights and Measures Thomas P. Gallagher were read and filed. Both reports were satisfactory.

MANY BILLS ARE BEFORE ASSEMBLY

First Day Saw Thirty-three Presented in Each House.

SENATOR PIERCE ACTIVE

Has Already Begun to Make Good on Pre-election Promises—Committee Appointments of Union County Assemblymen.

(Special to the Press.)

Trenton, Jan. 12.—A total of thirty-three bills was introduced in each House of the General Assembly on the afternoon of the first day. Practically all of them were advertised in advance as planks in party platforms.

Senator Pierce, of Union county, led in the number of laws proposed on the first afternoon. He introduced a bill compelling each railroad company to abolish one grade crossing annually for each forty miles of track operated by it, and also put in his tax reform bill, which is similar to his measure of last year on the same subject. This abolishes county tax boards and substitutes similar boards with a county assessor as chairman and two side members at greatly reduced salaries. Senator Pierce said today this bill, if enacted, would save the State $60,000 annually. The bill also abolishes elective assessors, and provides assessors shall be appointed by the local government body. Another provision is for the appointment of a State supervisor of assessments.

Senator Edge, of Atlantic, introduced his bills for a State budget sys-

Carranza Not Blamed.

Secretary of State Lansing today announced that no American official had been authorized to grant permission to Americans to go into southern Chihuahua. He said that while it was true that General Carranza at the time he was recognized had agreed to protect Americans throughout the republic he could not be expected to do so in sections controlled by rebels.

Congress Demands Action.

Representative Dyer today introduced in the House a resolution calling on the President for information in regard to the murder of American citizens in Mexico. EXCESSIVE GRIEF FATAL TO PARENT

Mrs. Frank Putnam Dies Following Nervous Shock Produced by Son's Death.

END CAME LAST NIGHT

Found Unconscious Sunday Remaining in That Condition Until the Last—Husband Recovering From Illness Also a Victim of Shock.

Within six hours after the body of her son had been interred in the cemetery at Scotch Plains, Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Second street, passed away at her home last evening, a victim of excessive grief. The demise of her son, Frank A. Putnam, early last Friday morning produced a severe nervous shock to her system which continued to grow worse until Sunday when she was found unconscious in her room. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the family physician, found that she had suffered a blood clot on the brain and although everything medical skill could devise was resorted to she failed to rally. She remained unconscious to the end which came at ten minutes to six last night. The official diagnosis gives apoplexy as the cause of death, this having been an aftermath of the dire results produced by the extreme nervous shock.

Mrs. Putnam was a devoted mother and was always more of a companion to her son than a parent. Previous to the death of the young man she had been in her usual health, but a decided change was apparent when she realized fully that Frank had

SOLD WHISKEY TO BUILD A CHURCH

Brother Novak Gets in Bad Working for a Good Cause.

Somerville, January 12.—Whether wrong is right if committed in the cause of right is a question that must be decided by the courts of Manville in the case of Steve Novak, arrested there yesterday.

It is admitted that Novak's intentions were good and that he was laboring in the cause of the Lord when he transgressed against the man-made laws of the State of New Jersey, but bootlegging whisky and beer is against the law, even though it is done to raise money for a new church, say Manville authorities.

Novak is an officer in a church society at Manville. Last week his church held a fair for the purpose of enlarging a fund for a new edifice, and Novak added his mite to the fund by presiding over a booth. His booth proved to be the most popular at the fair, and it was noticed that many who were on the list of "sinners" contributed often to the cause through the worldly agency of Brother Novak. An investigation made by a detective from the prosecutor's office revealed the fact that Novak was selling five and ten cent tickets, and that a five cent ticket could be turned in for a glass of beer and a ten cent one swapped for a drink of whisky. Novak is charged with the illegal sale of intoxicants.

TALENTED ARTISTS TO GIVE A CONCERT HERE

Randall H. Trumpe, well-known in musical circles and formerly a tenor in the choir of the First Baptist church, with Mme. Clementine de Vere, the famous opera and concert star, will give a concert at the Plainfield High School on Friday evening, January 28.

Mrs. Beatrice Horsbrugh, an English girl, and pupil of Aver, will play a violin and piano sonata with Miss Olga Sapio. Signor Romualdo Sapio, who directed the operatic season at the Chicago Auditorium, where Patti sang, will accompany Mme. de Vere and Mr. Trumpe.

SAURER EMPLOYE HURT.

William Mack, of 734 West Front street, foreman of the casing department at the Saurer Motor Shop, was struck by an auto truck in the company's yard early this morning, sustaining injuries that necessitated his removal home. Dr. J. H. Buchanan found after examination that he had suffered no broken bones but was severely bruised about various parts of the body. The injuries are painful and will keep him confined for perhaps a week.

COUNCIL CONFERS ON NEW CITY HALL

Supervising Building Committee is to Be Named at Once.

Details of the construction of the new City Hall for Plainfield were discussed at a conference between members of the Common Council, Mayor Calkins and Corporation Counsel Reed, held last night in the office of the Mayor. It was decided that a building committee should be appointed at once. It will be made up of members of the Council, and will formulate detailed plans for procedure and present same to Council, with its recommendations. This committee will later supervise the work of construction, furnishing and other matters incident to the building of the new home for Plainfield officials. Another conference will be held within a short time, and they will be held at frequent intervals until a definite plan is adopted and put into execution.

MONTENEGRO IS FACING CAPTURE

Austrians Take Mount Lococen Which Controls Adriatic Sea.

NATION IS DOOMED

New King of Serbia Proclaimed—German Socialist Leader is Thrown Out of Reichstag When He Proposes Humane Measures.

London, Jan. 12.—Another nation is about to be wiped off the map by the Teutonic armies, according to war experts who have digested reports of Austro-German successes against the Montenegrins. Mount Lovecen, the Gibraltar of the Adriatic, has fallen, according to claims of Austrian success sent out from Vienna, and they are given credence by Allied newspapers. This means that Montenegro will soon meet the fate that befell Belgium and Serbia when they were found to be in the way of the advancing Germans.

In the capture of Mount Lovecen the Austrians have gained complete control, not only of the Montenegrin coast but of the Adriatic Sea, and there is no possibility of rescue from Italian soldiers as they are unable to move transports. This also cuts off all food supplies to Montenegrin soldiers or starving peasants except those that are sent through the Austrian and German armies.

The Montenegrin army is now completely surrounded and is being attacked on three sides. It can hold out but little longer, experts agree, although parts of it will remain free in the mountainous regions until starved into surrender.

New King of Serbia.

A Rome despatch to the Star states that a natural son of the late King Milan, of Serbia, has been proclaimed king of Serbia, despite the fact that all of that country is in the hands of the Austro-German and Bulgarian armies.

German Socialist In Protest.

Berlin, Jan. 12.—Herr Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, addressed an interpellation to the government in the Reichstag, yesterday, regarding the condition of the peoples in the conquered territories. The Chancellor refused the information and Herr Leibknecht protested vigorously. A disturbance followed and Liebknecht finally retired from the House under protest.

Austria Did Not Sink Persia.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Austria today assured the United States that no Austrian submarine was responsible for the sinking of the British liner Persia, with the loss of at least two American lives, following receipt of instructions from his government, Baron Erick Zweidniek, Austrian charge, went to the State Department and filed a formal denial. The charge stated that the Austrian admiralty now has received word from every one of its submarines operating in the Mediterranean. None was in the vicinity where the Persia was sunk and none saw the P. and O. liner. The Austrian government suggests that either a mine or an internal explosion was responsible for the loss of the Persia.

FIREMEN VS. BARACAS.

The firemen of the borough matched their bowling strength against the crack Baraca "five" on the Presbyterian alleys, last night. Between the "keep your courage up" sentences of Captain Voorhees, such as "here we go, boys, here we go," "we'll get 'em lads, we'll get 'em," and the racket made by the falling pins and the rolling balls, the fire laddies couldn't have heard the bell of the Presbyterian church if it had been rung.

Prior to the meeting of the commissioners of the Madison avenue storm drain, last evening, the Council held an informal session to act on J. Calvin Gardner's resignation as one of the commissioners. Hervey B. Walters was elected in Mr. Gardner's place. The other commissioners are former Mayor Charles E. Richards and J. Alfred Wilson. The meeting was called as required by law to give a hearing to property holders with objections to offer. No one appeared.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Several prominent High Schools of Northern New Jersey have formed a debating league. At the preliminary meeting three Newark schools, one each from East Orange, Bayonne, Passaic, Plainfield and Hackensack, were represented. There will be elimination contests, and a final contest between the victors at Rutgers College. The topic for debate is timely and important. It is: "Resolved, that the Federal law prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors should be enacted and its constitutionality conceded." This movement to establish a debating league ought to accomplish two things for the schools participating. Their intellectual life will be stimulated, and a school spirit, important to a High School institution, will be created. Elizabeth ought to be represented.—Elizabeth Journal.

WILL DEMONSTRATE THE VALUE OF MUSIC

Recreation Committee to Present Interesting Program at Franklin School.

An interesting program is to be presented at the Franklin School Auditorium on Saturday afternoon, January 15, to which the public is cordially invited. The Public Recreation Committee for more than a year has been conducting piano classes in the public schools, and is taking this opportunity of bringing the work before the public. The secretary of the famous music settlement of New York city is to tell of similar work done there. She is to bring with her a trio of young musicians, who will entertain with violin, piano and trio work. The need for classes of this kind in Plainfield has been fully demonstrated. Miss Lillian Lamson, in speaking of this work, says:

"We must first, last and all the time insist that music is an educational essential, not to be neglected by the teacher because other school activities are more insistent, not to be abandoned because the taxpayer's pocket squeals. Music is as real in its service to humanity as the multiplication table.

"Why does a boy whistle when he needs heart? Why did the soldier boys sing 'Dixie' or 'Marching Through Georgia' when there was danger of over-much thinking of 'Home Sweet Home,' or of the picture of the morrow's carnage? Why doesn't the boy repeat the multiplication table? Why don't the soldiers have a spelling match? When you need music you need it more than you need the list of irregular verbs.

"Why has every evangelist had his Sankey, Alexander, or Excel to warm up the audience until the blood tingled and thrilled like the springtime sentiment of youth? Why not start a revival with a recitation of definitions? Why do the volleys of theological thunder need an audience that has been set a tingling before the sermonic oratory belches forth?

"Why do wedding bells chime joyous music in the happiest hour of a girl's life? Why are social reformers so afraid of the cabaret? Why is it that music sets the brain a-whirling, the heart a-thumping, the feet a-going? Why is it that music possesses the soul of most people as nothing else does? Is it because it is a non-essential, a side issue, a trifling incident in one's life? Is it so unimportant in life, in war and politics, in love and religion, that it has no place in education?"

SALAAM TEMPLE TO GIVE A REAL CIRCUS

Colossal Indoor Affair Will Be Presented at First Regiment Armory in Newark.

In the First Regiment Armory in Newark all next week Frank P. Spellman, formerly circus director of the New York Hippodrome, will present a colossal winter circus under the auspices of Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. There will be three rings, two elevated stages, 300 people, 250 beautiful horses, 40 clowns to provide fun for the kiddies—and for the big folk, too,—a herd of elephants, drove of camels, groups of bears trained so that they do not have to be caged and work in the open with their trainer, and scores of features picked from all the big top shows of the United States and from the vaudeville fields of this country and Europe. All the cast are professionals, no local talent being employed.

There will be a circus band of 40 pieces under the direction of the chief musician of the Barnum & Bailey shows, and every evening after the performance there will be dancing, for which there will be no extra charge. There will be afternoon and evening performances from Monday to Saturday, inclusive. In addition to the regular circus there will be added features by Salaam Temple and visiting delegaions of Shriners from some of the largest temples of the mystic organization in this section of the country, each of which will be accompanied by its Arab Patrol, attired in gorgeous Oriental costumes, and its band.

At the afternoon performances throughout the week the Shriners will have as their guests children from orphanages and other institutions of which children are the inmates, trolley transportation being provided for them to and from the armory.

Monday night will be "Shrine Night." Governor James F. Fielder and Mayor Thomas L. Raymond and other State and city officials have been invited to be the guests of the Shriners on Thursday night, and there will be special features on other nights.

UNITED STATES BUILDING UP ITS RIFLE RANGES

Washington, Jan. 12.—The meeting today of the board of directors of the National Association marks the first step in the new movement to bring the rifle ranges of the country under Federal control, as one of the fundamental measures for the national defense. It will also be decided whether there will be annual matches during 1916. Sentiment outside the War Department seems to be unanimous for these matches to be held annually, but the department is expected to take the stand that it is impossible to spare the troops for the matches during manoeuvre year, which comes in 1916. This objection may be met by using National Guardsmen to do the work.

Tomorrow the annual meeting of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice will be held in the office of the Assistant Secretary of War. There will also be meetings of sub-committees on rules and range construction and legislation, and it is probable that meetings will be held with the military committees of the House and Senate.

Congress is being asked at the present session to provide for a commission to investigate the entire subject of rifle range construction from a national defense standpoint. Such a commission should survey the entire country, according to the promotion board, and recommend a permanent national policy or rifle range construction and fix the localities where such ranges should be provided.

The National Rifle Association, which is meeting here today, is asking for a national charter at this session with an annual appropriation of $25,000 from Congress to assist it in carrying on the rifle shooting propoganda as it should be done. It is also the intention of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice to seek, through the Secretary of War, an increase in their annual appropriation from $10,000 to $50,000.

ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE

The wine tasters, whose duty it is to test all product of vineyards, never swallow the wine. They can detect the slightest differences of grade by studiously keeping away from its effect on the system.

It is said that the streets of London, if laid end to end, would stretch from New York to San Francisco.

The housewives of Glasgow have been forced to hardships through their failure to lay in a supply of broom handles before the war. These handles came from Northern Europe, and are now lacking. All sorts of sticks and saplings are being adapted.

A Babcock, the president of the association, presided during the meeting, which was termed a "Question Box Meeting." Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the local schools, answered all questions submitted by the parents of pupils. During the meting Miss Lillian Lamson, the supervisor of the recreation activities in Plainfield, told of the musical that will be given in the Franklin School Auditorium Saturday afternoon in order to demonstrate the need of teaching music lessons to the youth of a city.

At that meeting Miss Seymour, an instructor of such work in the Recreation Center in New York city, will come to this city with a trio of young children, who will entertain with violin and piano selections. Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed, and refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. John F. Dunn, the chairman of the refreshment committee.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily By Plainfield People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

C. L. Treat, painter and paperhanger, 411 East Third street, Plainfield, says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble and for years couldn't get relief. My back ached constantly and I had pain across my kidneys. My kidneys were in bad shape and I was all run down in fact, was almost a physical wreck. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and my experience was so satisfactory that I cannot make my endorsement too strong. I simply wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Treat had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water, and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twings of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

The most notable feature of education during the year just closed is the widespread adoption of university extension—the general awakening throughout this country and all the countries at peace to the realization that the function of the university was not confined to college walls. This big idea in modern education has spread from Wisconsin to all educational centres. No longer does a small group of scholars cloister itself to imbibe the higher learning, to the exclusion of the rabble. Today the universities of America are trying to make the whole people intelligent and well-informed, and to spread their range to include the teaching of everything worth while. There are those who fear the expense and the effort are too great, and that the university is weakened by its numerous branches. In this land of evolution there can never be too much education, declare the advocates of the extension system. The popularity of the system in Wisconsin, where it was conceived and first put into practice, is sufficient answer as to the way the people greet the spread of higher education. And the fact that other States and countries are working along the same lines with hearty response is enough to make the outlook promising for the educational uplift of the general communities.

The shifting of the "black belt of illiteracy" is another important development that was particularly noticeable from observations made during 1915. It is now asserted by the U. S. Bureau of Education that in nineteen States the number of adult white illiterates are steadily increasing. The majority of these States are in New England and the Middle Atlantic section. The number of illiterates in that industrial belt has increased alarmingly, not by mere thousands, but by hundreds of thousands. This has been due, of course, to immigration. But in these Northeastern States no general scheme of elimination has been in force during the period of heavy immigration before the war, and as the tides of workers arrived there was not real incentive held out to them to adopt the language and customs of Americans. Here and there an effort was made; but a general campaign such as the South has conducted with such handsome results was lacking. It would therefore seem, from the reports recently published, that the belt of illiteracy as shifted from the South to the industrial centers of the East. The South has lessened its illiterates by one-third during the past decade, and by fully one-half during the past twenty years.

Atlanta, Ga.—Under the auspices of the Georgia State Industrial College and the U. S. Department of Agricultural a railroad car exhibiting the farm products grown by colored farmer in Southeastern and Middle Georgia is visiting here. A lecturere is explaining the work that has been done, and the car is a forceful example of what can be done. The Mayor of the city greeted the exhibit and the negro schools and colleges were given a holiday so that they might furnish their scholars with an inspiration toward thrifty agriculture.

NEIGHBORHOOD RECEPTION.

A neighborhood reception will be held in the Harrison Avenue School, Friday evening. This will be one of many similar affairs to be held in the school with the idea of making it a community social center. An attractive program has been arranged for the occasion. There will be addresses by Mayor W. L. Smalley, former Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Dr. J. H. Cooley, Colonel A. G. Perry and Mr. Aungst, supervising principal of the schools. In addition there will be patriotic songs by the school pupils and music by an orchestra. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

DEATH COMES TO JOHN WAGNER

Well Known Civil War Veteran Passes Away at Soldiers' Home in Kearny.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

At Outbreak of Rebellion He Enlisted in First Pa. Light Artillery and Served With Distinction Throughout Conflict.

John W. Wagner, for many years a resident of Dunellen, but equally as well known in this city, and bearing one of the most remarkable records of any local veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday afternoon in the Soldiers' Home at Kearny. He had been an inmate of the institution for the past three years, and in recent months had been in the hospital department most of the time. His death was not unexpected, and was the result of the infirmities of age.

Mr. Wagner, who was about eighty-eight years old, was born in Western Pennsylvania. At the outbreak of the rebellion he hurried to Harrisburg, where the First Pennsylvania Light Artillery was being organized, and enlisted in Company F. The regiment was one of the first to reach the scene of action in Virginia, and for the full four years that the war lasted Wagner served under the Northern colors. He passed through a total of thirty-eight of the most memorable engagements, one of which was Gettysburg, but only three times was he hit by bullets, all of them inflicting minor wounds. He was present at Appomattox when Lee surrendered to Grant, and one of the stories that he loved to talk about most was the sight, never to be forgotten, that he saw on April 19, 1865. At Gettysburg he was pressed into cavalry service, and twice during the terrific fighting his horse was shot from under him. According to his comrades, Wagner was totally devoid of fear, but no matter in what danger he placed himself, it seemed as though he bore a charmed life, emerging again and again from a perfect hail of shot and shell without so much as a scratch. When he was mustered out, however, it was practically as a cripple. Rheumatism, contracted through sleeping on rain-soaked ground, left him permanently disabled, and, in addition, he injured himself internally making a flying leap on a horse when his company was surprised one night by an attack from the Rebels. This latter injury sent him to the field hospital for a time, but as soon as he was able to ride a horse again he was back to the front. Wagner's record is given in full in the Washington war records, and those of Pennsylvania, all of them paying high tribute to him as a soldier and asserting his record to be one of the most remarkable of any enlisted private.

Mr. Wagner came to Dunellen shortly after the end of the war, and for a number of years was employed by the New Jersey Central. He lived for a long time on the former Todd place at New Market road and Grove street, this being his last residence in the borough. His wife died many years ago, and so far as known, he had no other relatives living. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and even after he entered the Kearny Home, attended all its gatherings. Captain William C. Smith went to Kearny this morning to make arrangements for the funeral. The body will be brought here tomorrow, and interment will be in the soldiers' plot in Hillside cemetery, full military honors being accorded. The members of the post will assemble in the post rooms at 2 o'clock in order to be in atendance.

BRIDEGROOM LEAVES TO JOIN CANADIAN FORCES

Elizabeth, Jan. 12.—Answering England's call for volunteers, John N. Bethune, a British subject, but a resident of Westfield for the last year, has joined the Canadian army, leaving his bride of a day.

Bethune and Miss Esther Mae Lightfoot, of Cumberland street, were married in New York on January 7, the ceremony having been hastened because of Mr. Bethune's decision to volunteer.

MISCHA ELMAN CONCERT SEASON'S MUSICAL EVENT

The appearance of Mischa Elman, the Russian violinist, at the Plainfield High School, Wednesday evening, February 9, will undoubtedly be the musical event of the season. The world-famed artist will come here under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Circle of The King's Daughters, and the profits will be used to build an addition to The Day Nursery.

Since the tickets were placed on sale at Miller's drug store last week there has been a steady demand for them. However, there are a number of choice seats to be had.

MILLIONS SENT TO WAR SUFFERERS

Over $215,000,000 Spent For Relief In European Nations.

AMERICANS MOST GENEROUS

More Than $150,000,000 Has Been Expended For American Food, Clothing and Hospital Supplies—Aid Extended Belgium Has Cost $110,000,000. America Has Given Practically All.

Summaries carried to the end of 1915 show that more than $150,000,000 has been spent for American foodstuffs, clothing and hospital supplies which have been forwarded to the war zone by relief agencies. Nearly all of these purchases have gone to the countries of the allies.

Of the total approximately two-thirds, or $100,000,000, was raised and spent in the latter part of 1914, after the last week in August.

In addition, relief for the Germanic side has been provided in money, which has been used in payment for supplies made in Germany and Austria. Individual donations in this country and elsewhere account for more than $40,000,000, and cash contributions for Germans and Jews have exceeded $25,000,000.

Of $110,000,000 expended by the commission for relief in Belgium about $30,000,000 was given outright by persons and societies in all except the Germanic countries. All of the $110,000,000 was spent in this country. American cash donations for this work are estimated at within $15,000,000. John D. Rockefeller put $1,000,000 individually into Belgian relief.

Aid Sent Belgium.

The commission has sent to Belgium 139 shiploads of supplies. The war relief clearing house for France acts for 1,300 organizations in this country. It has shipped since November, 1914, 17,500 cases of supplies, containing 2,000,000 articles. There are affiliated committees in France, Russia, Belgium and Italy, which act as distributing agencies. The clearing house is forwarding agent for the American Red Cross and other agencies.

Since October the National Allied Relief committee has undertaken to make known the needs of sufferers in the allied countries. It has raised in cash over $110,000.

The largest relief organization is the American Red Cross, which has received more than $1,000,000. In one week the Red Cross shipped 400 tons of food stuffs for Servian relief and hospital garments and supplies for the American Women's War Relief hospital in South Devonshire, England.

Raised by Other Agencies.

The war relief committee of the Vacation association, headed by Miss Anne Morgan and Miss Mary Parsons, has received $186,123, of which $32,500 came from the Flotilla fund, and to which also the American fund for French wounded, the Secours national and the American Polish relief committee contributed. Clothing and surgical dressings are made in the vacation sewing rooms, where several hundred women have been employed since the beginning of the war.

Belgian children have received 100,000 pairs of American made shoes, bought with $67,415 raised by the dollar Christmas fund, of which Henry Clews is chairman. The Belgian relief fund, of which the Rev. J. H. Stillemans is president, has raised $1,075,277, and $15,000 has been forwarded for Belgian relief by the Cardinal Mercier fund.

The Servian relief committee has collected $187,429, the American branch of the Prince of Wales national relief fund $146,156, the American Polish relief fund $125,000, the American ambulance hospital fund $90,000, the American committee's fund $170,337, the war children's relief fund $10,000 and the committee of mercy, August Belmont treasurer, $430,202.

Other Sums Collected.

The American fund for French wounded, Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin chairman, has collected $15,575; the La Fayette fund $102,124 for soldiers' kits; the Secours national $121,728 for French women and children and Belgian refugees; the fund for relief of women and children in France, Mrs. Whitney Warren chairman, $122,000; the Polish victims' relief fund, $205,555.

The American Jewish relief committee has collected $981,944, the central Jewish committee $500,000 and the people's relief committee $80,000.

Of the German organizations the German Red Cross has collected nearly $2,500,000, the general relief fund for Germany, Austria and Hungary $600,000 and the German relief fund $224,120.

The American branch of the Deutschwehr sent $50,000 last month for Christmas presents for German children. It is helping to rebuild German territory devastated by the war. The German Herold of New York has raised $30,000 for the Deutschwehr and the Staats-Zeitung $169,000.

Christmas Candy Marries.

Among those who obtained marriage licenses recently at the courthouse at Harrisburg, Pa., was Christmas Candy, twenty-three years old, an engineer, of Tyrone. He told the marriage license clerk that he was born on Christmas day and that his parents gave him the odd name for that reason.

GRIEF FATAL TO PARENT

gone. When she was found unconscious Sunday it was believed that it was only temporary and the burial of the son which was scheduled for Monday morning was postponed until Tuesday, in the hope that she would be able to accompany the body to the grave. She was still unconscious yesterday and the interment took place at noon. Mr. Putnam, the father, was a victim of grip and complications last week and although suffering a severe shock by the loss of his son and wife within a few days was reported this morning as being able to be about the house.

Mrs. Putnam was a native of Scotch Plains, where she resided until the time of her marriage to Mr. Putnam about twenty-five years ago.

Her maiden name was Ida Frentz, daughter of Augustus Frentz, a well known contractor, who now resides at Bound Brook. Her father and several other relatives, also her former rector at All Saints' church at Scotch Plains, Rev. Dr. Mulford, now located on Long Island, were present at the bedside when the end came. Mrs. Putnam had always made her home in the East End of the city since her marriage and while she is best known in that section of Plainfield she enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout this vicinity. She was a woman of quiet, unassuming demeanor, but was possessed of a true Christian character and all the attributes that make a loving wife and mother.

Beside her husband, father and one daughter, Miss Hazel Putnam, Mrs. Putnam is survived by four sisters, and three brothers. These are Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, of Westfield; Mrs. Bertha Seil, of Bound Brook; Mrs. Charles Hazell and Miss Jean Frentz, of East Second street, this city; Charles, Henry and George Frentz, all living at Great Falls, Montana.

The funeral service will be held at the late home, but will be strictly private.

MANY BILLS BEFORE ASSEMBLY

tem, the preparation of the budget to be in the hands of the Governor, and for a State central purchasing bureau, under the control of the State House Commission. The purchasing agent is to be appointed by the Governor at a salary of $5,000. Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, introduced a measure amending the Geran election act so as to eliminate the necessity of a voter when he registers stating his exact age, merely stating that he is over the legal age of twenty-one years, also cutting out the necessity of stating the exact room occupied at home by the voter or whether he owns the property.

Senator Hutchinson also reintroduced his resolution of last year providing for the appointment of a commission of three members by the Governor to revise the election and primary laws. His resolution was passed last year, but no commission was ever named. Another measure introduced by Senator Hutchinson amends the State requisition act so as to limit the functions of the State Comptroller in requisitions to decide whether a bill is within the appropriation and providing further that no requistions shall be needed for salaries fixed by law and provided for in the appropriation act.

For the Democrats, Senator Ackerson, of Monmouth, introduced the State budget bill of his party. It provides for a permanent budget board of five members, consisting of the Governor, State Comptroller and State Treasurer, without extra salary and two citizens to be appointed by the Governor, who shall receive $500 a year each. Senator Ackerson also introduced a bill for the creation of a State Commission Market to provide for the proper marketing of farm and sea products as a step to reduce the high cost of living. Another bill by Senator Ackerson aims to prohibit the sale of impure seed to farmers.

Senator Egan, Democrat, of Hudson county, introduced a bill to repeal the Ramsey insurance act. He claims this act has enabled the insurance men to establish a trust to keep insurance rates at the highest figure and he says he is going to fight to abolish it.

The Assembly batch included the eight bills carrying out the recommendations of the Municipal Financing Commission, and several bills of minor interest to Camden. Mr. Godfrey reintroduced the bill extending Labor Commissioner Bryant's term one year, and Mr. Iobst offered a bill compelling the reading of the Bible in public schools.

Union county representatives have few important committee assignments in the Lower House. Assemblyman Runyon is chairman of the corporations committee and a member of the judiciary committee.

Assemblyman Pierson is chairman of the social welfare committee and a member of the labor and industries and appropriation committees.

Assemblyman Morgan is a member of the banking, claim and pensions, education and incidental expenses committees.

John LeMatty, assisted by the workers of the Rescue Mission, will have charge of the service at the Salvation Army Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. All interested are invited to attend.

BARRINGER AT P. H. S. TODAY INSTEAD OF RUTGERS FRESH

An eleventh hour postponement of the basketball game between Plainfield High School and Rutgers Freshmen, scheduled for this afternoon has been made by the local management, and in its place Barringer High School will appear on the local court this afternoon at 4:30. It was thought that a game so close to the N. P. H. S. game on Saturday with a team such as the college boys have might have disastrous results on the Red and Blue's chances Saturday.

DEFEATED FOR CAPTAINCY, SAYS ELECTION WAS UNFAIR

Somerville, Jan. 12.—Jacob Faulk, a student in the Somerville High School, who has played good football for the school, was elected captain of the eleven yesterday. Frank Jewett, who is a frat man, was captain last year, but was defeated by Faulk.

Shortly after the election Jewett went to Principal H. K. Dilts and charged that the election was not fair to him. Jewett demanded a recount. Faulk received eight votes and Jewett five.

The resignation of Raymond Hamilton as president of the Athletic Association was accepted.

BILL COMMANDS RESPECT FOR U. S. ARMY UNIFORM

Washington, Jan. 12.—Senator Tillman, chairman of the naval affairs committee, has reopened the old fight to command public respect of the U. S. uniform. He introduced a bill today making it a punishable offense for enlisted men in uniform to be refused service by common carriers and public amusement places provided they are sober and orderly. The bill provides a fine from $50 to $1,000 for offenders or imprisonment of 60 days to 18 months.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Charlotte Walker, than whom there is no more popular actress among Plainfield theatre-goers, will be the feature attraction today and tomorrow at the U. S. Astor Theatre in "Out of Darkness," adapted from a scenario written for the Lasky Company by Hector Turnbull, formerly the dramatic critic of the New York Tribune.

"Out of Darkness" affords the accomplished Miss Walker, who this season is appearing on the stage in support of Edward Sothern, just the kind of a role she likes best. The story is one of gripping interest throughout the five reels of the play, with just enough comedy to afford relaxation. This film cannot be recommended too highly. Lovers of high-class dramatic proto-plays will find it suits their taste perfectly.

Friday and Saturday the feature photo-play will be "The Case of Becky," starring Blanche Sweet. It is a story of a dual personality and one of the most interesting ever released from the Lasky studios in Hollywood. Miss Sweet, of course, triumphs anew in this subject.

NEW PASSPORT RULES IN FORCE

Regulations May End Frauds That Have Been Practiced.

FULL DETAILS OF JOURNEY

Oath of Allegiance, Duplicate Affidavit and Three Photographs Are Now Required—Where One Is Going When Abroad and Why Must Be Explained In Full.

To prevent passport frauds the United States government has put into effect the new passport system authorized by President Wilson's executive order of Dec. 15. This requires a double application for a passport and three photographs of the applicant and provides for the introduction of an inspection system by which every passport will be countersigned by a United States treasury inspector when the traveler boards ship, as well as the establishment of a special passport bureau in New York city.

All applications for passports must be made in duplicate. These applications must be sent to Washington, where passports will be issued by the state department, as in the past, although in emergency passports may be issued by the bureau in New York.

The original application will be kept on file in Washington. When the passport is issued it will be sent to the bureau in New York, accompanied by the duplicate copy of the application. The applicant will be notified to call at the bureau for his passport. The duplicate application will be placed in the hands of an inspector for use in examining the holder of the passport when the latter boards ship to sail.

Must Tell About Intended Trip.

The application must name the countries it is intended to visit and give the object of the trip. The passport will contain this blank: "I intend to leave the United States from the port of —, sailing on board the —— on ——, 1916," which must be filled in. No passport will be issued to a person who fails to state the vessel on which he intends to sail. Passports will be good only on the designated steamers.

One of the three photographs required to be furnished in each case will be retained in the state department in Washington, another will be attached to the passport and the third to the duplicate application to be used by the inspector. When the applicant calls at the New York bureau for his passport the photograph on the passport will be consulted; again, he must be checked up by photograph when he boards ship to sail.

The new requirements have been adopted as a result of the recent passport frauds. They are intended to give the American passport greater value and prestige, as well as to prevent fraud. The reforms decided upon are based partially on reports sent to Washington by Richard W. Flournoy, chief of the bureau of citizenship of the state department, who has spent several months abroad studying the passport situation as affecting Americans.

How Passports Are Issued.

No one but the secretary of state may grant and issue passports in the United States, and he is empowered to refuse them in his discretion. Passports are not issued by American diplomatic and consular officers abroad, except in cases of emergency, and a citizen who is abroad and desires to procure a passport must apply therefor through the nearest diplomatic or consular officer to the secretary of state.

The applicant must take the oath of allegiance to the United States, and his application must be accompanied by a description of himself.

In addition to these requirements, "a person born in the United States in a place where births are recorded will be required to submit a birth certificate with his application." In the case of a person born abroad whose father was a native citizen of the United States application must show that the father was born in the United States, resided therein and was a citizen at the time of the applicant's birth. The department may require that this affidavit be supported by that of one other citizen acquainted with the facts.

A naturalized citizen must transmit his certificate of naturalization or a duly certified copy of the court record thereof with his application.

A passport expires six months from the date of its issuance. A new one will be issued upon a new application, accompanied by the old passport, and may be renewed abroad by a diplomatic or principal consular officer of the United States. No passport will be renewed more than twice.

American citizens going direct to France from the United States are required to bear passports vised by French diplomatic or consular officers in the United States. An American citizen who sojourns in some other foreign country before visiting France should inquire of the American or French diplomatic representatives in such foreign country concerning the special formalities which it will be necessary for him to fulfill before entering French territory.

Russian regulations require that a passport must state definitely the names of the places in Russia which the holder expects to visit and the objects of his visits thereto.

GENERAL DODGE AS SOLDIER AND BUILDER.

After Brilliant War Service, He Constructed Union Pacific Railroad.

Major General Grenville M. Dodge, who died the other day, was the last but one of the surviving corps commanders of the Union army. The other is Brigadier General Peter J. Osterhaus, now in Germany. General Dodge was a soldier born and bred and during the civil war was identified closely with many of General Grant's campaigns.

While his military record was unsurpassed perhaps by any of his compatriots, he was known better as the chief constructing engineer of the great Union Pacific railway.

"I am building my monument," he often told his friends when they urged him to give up what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles.

He was born in Putnamville, near Danvers, Mass., April 12, 1831, and when ten years old drove a but her's cart and sold fruit and vegetables in Salem. In 1851 he entered Norwich university, taking the military and scientific course, and was graduated as a civil engineer in 1850. He was employed by the Illinois Central in 1851 making surveys and later was an engineer in the service of the Rock Island. In 1854 he landed in Council Bluffs, Ia., where he made his home. He engaged in business and established a banking house, which is now the Council Bluffs Savings bank.

With the civil war he organized a regiment and entered the service as a colonel. At Pea Ridge he commanded a brigade, had three horses shot under him and was badly wounded.

General Grant assigned him to the command of the Second division of the Army of the Tennessee, and he organized the slaves and refugees. General Grant, while at Vicksburg, recommended his promotion as a major general, and he was at the head of the list of recommendations made by Grant for commissions as major generals in the regular army.

REJECTED MEN WEAR ARMLETS

Britons Who For Medical Reasons Are at Home to Be Distinguished.

It has been announced officially that the armlet scheme, which is already in force for men enrolled under the Derby scheme, has been extended to give the right to wear a special armlet to men who have been refused for military service on account of medical reasons.

Lord Derby has issued a booklet on the administration of the group system. He says in a preliatory note: "It is recognized by the general staff that the duration of the war will depend on the manpower the allies are able to put in the field. If it were possible for the allies to put in the field such an overwhelming majority of men and guns that, no matter what the cost, the offensive could be pursued until the enemy armies were largely destroyed and their country invaded the war would not be prolonged. Every man who can possibly be spared for the army and navy directly assists in shortening the war and thereby diminishes the industrial loss."

A Belgian royal decree has been issued creating the Golden Book to commemorate the acts of generosity and charity toward Belgium during the war.

The book will contain three parts. The first will give a complete list of the monetary gifts that the generosity of the peoples of the world has placed at the disposal of Belgium. In the second part will be a notice of each organization created to feed and help the Belgians during the German occupation, with the names of the persons who directed the organizations. The third part will describe the work of the various institutions formed abroad or in the unoccupied territory to succor refugees, wounded prisoners, and in general all Belgian victims of the war.

NO DRY BATTERIES.

They All Contain Moisture or They Would Be Useless.

So called dry batteries are in common use for small electric call bell systems and private telephone lines and were used extensively for ignition on earlier makes of automobiles. Applying the word "dry" to the battery is misleading, for there is no such thing as a "dry" battery. There never was, nor will there ever be.

If it were dry no current would generate, as it requires moisture to produce chemico-electric activity when the circuit is completed from the plus to the minus elements.

The so called dry battery is really an "inclosed wet battery," which retains its moisture to its limit of life, whether in service or not. The limit of life depends on the stored capacity, how frequently the circuit is applied to it, evaporation due to age and deterioration of the conducting elements.

The battery consists of a zinc cylinder case containing a carbon in the center, the intervening space filled in with a paste compound of one part zinc oxide, one part sal ammoniac, three parts plaster of paris and two parts water. The quantities are greater as the capacity of the battery is increased.

As soon as a circuit is completed a chemical combination is started, and the current flows from the internal part of the zinc to the carbon, then out from the carbon to the appliance and returns to the zinc. The external terminals of the battery are the reverse of the internal.

When the battery is exhausted it can be recharged by sending current into it from a close circuit battery, such as a little or sulphuric acid cell. Pouring water through a small hole at the top of the battery is an aid to the return of its life, but neither this nor the former will restore the battery to its original efficiency. — New York World.

THE MYSTERIOUS EAGLE.

Curious Ancient Monument Left to Us by the Indians.

On the broad top of a stony, rain gullied hill in middle Georgia there lies a very large eagle, concerning which conflicting stories are told. The one point that seems to be certain is that the Indians left the eagle as a legacy to the state. A hundred years from now it will probably be found lying on its back, with outspread wings and tail, even as it lies today. For it is made of quartz rocks so cunningly placed that it would require a pick in a strong man's hands to displace any one of them. The rocks lap and overlap in such a manner as to represent feathers. No cement holds them in position, and the stones vary in size, weighing from a half pound to three or four pounds. The image rests on a very firm foundation, for the stonework extends several feet into the ground.

Once, perhaps twice, treasure seeking vandals dug into the breast of the eagle, but the work must have proved too laborious, for the diggers gave up before they had reached the bottom layer of overlapping stones.

Rough but fairly accurate measurements of the bird show the length of the eagle from the middle of the tail to the head to be 102 feet and from tip to tip of outspread wings 120 feet. The length of the beak is ten feet, and the height of the body at the center of the breast is ten feet. The eagle lies with its head to the west.

Tradition does not give any satisfactory explanation of the age or the meaning of the great stone mound. It may have had religious significance to the red men who built it, and it may be the burial place of some great chief. It is one of the most mysterious and most interesting of prehistoric monuments in the United States.—Youth's Companion.

PAVING PROJECT AWAKENING OLD ECHOES ON HISTORIC ROAD

WHERE STAGE COACHES TARRIED ~ The CROOKED BRIDGE ~

The old national highway, authorized in Jefferson's day, which afforded access by stage to the capitals of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, is being repaved through Ohio, largely with brick, in order to prevent it from falling again into its recent state of decay.

The north central states were settled chiefly by people who passed over this road. Scores of stage coaches and hundreds of wagons made up its daily traffic prior to 1850. Among the interesting relics of the earlier period is the crooked bridge in Belmont county, whose lines describe a [illegible] curve. The shape of the bridge has always been a mystery. It is as substantial as when built and will be utilized for the new pavement.

The flavor of antiquity about this road; its inns replete with traditions of noted guests, coupled with its modern surface, is expected to make it a favorite route for auto travel.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

While The Passenger Was Arguing With The Ticket Agent About The Time of Leaving, The Train Left.

Fortunes have been lost by delaying the moment of action. Procrastination has robbed all of us of many things we might have had and enjoyed if we had but acted.

There are a lot of folks in this town who have heard of our remarkable ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA and expect to own a copy. But they think that any time will do — that we will always have a copy for them.

But will we? Already the pile is getting low. We have telegraphed to the publishers for an additional supply only to be advised that the number printed for 1916 have all been disposed of.

Another case of "standing room only", as the theatres put it. SOMEONE IS GOING TO BE DISHED OUT OF THE COPY THEY EXPECTED TO GET. And that someone is going to be he who waits just a little too long.

On the same principle of a starting train or boat, the one who delays until the bell strikes generally get left.

"Early Bird" is always getting the juicy things because he is ahead of the other fellow.

—And, this is but another instance where Early Bird wins out by getting the most accurate—most authentic—ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA of the year.

For scope of subjects — for reliable information upon every topic, subject or matters of information there has never before been offered a book the equal of this one.

Every one who has a copy is amazed at the wide range it covers. They marvel that such a wealth of knowledge could ever be gathered together and yet so condensed as to contain the full gist of the subject — not the slightest sacrifice made nor words used that would in any way cloud the information.

Already is the ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA settling arguments. Already is it imparting information to its owners upon questions—features—places—cities—events—historical spots they have heard of but never known the real "inside facts" about before.

You, too, have still time to obtain this wonderful

REPUBLICAN RESPONSIBILITY.

The Republicans of New Jersey are in control of both branches of the General Assembly now in session and all laws enacted by it must be credited to this party, if they work for the good of the people, or charged against it if they are bad. The responsibility was sought and was entrusted by the voters of the State after certain promises, expressed and implied. There seems to be little doubt but that the expressed promised, those publicly made and widely advertised as planks in the Republican State platform, will be carried out, but already there are whispers of too much politics. The year 1916 is a political one. Before its last page has been torn from the calendar many things are to happen in this country and those who live with it will witness the greatest fight Republicanism has ever made—a fight not only for national supremacy, but for existence. Republican leaders, and we mean the self-appointed Essex county politicians who control, are cautious. They realize that a false step now would not be forgotten by a fickle constituency before a Presidential election is held, and they also have a United States Senator and a Governor to elect in 1916. This means that little legislation of material importance may be expected from the New Jersey Assembly now serving, if those with their ears to the ground are right. It is a case for caution, perhaps, but already the Republican party is too closely identified with the sort of conservatism that blocks progress, and its greatest fight this year will be to break away from this popular conception. Caution is well enough, but caution is too often cowardice, and unless the Republican Assemblymen perform some act of constructive legislation during the early months of 1916 they need not expect to be given greater responsibilities in the late months of the year.

There is no need of a long legislative session. Whatever good is to be done in the way of lawmaking for the State of New Jersey by the General Assembly that is now in session can be done in a few weeks. Those who are in charge of the deliberations of this body realize this, as does every voter in the State, and the demand for a ten week's session is practically unanimous. The statue books of the State of New Jersey are overcrowded already and if those elected to enact new laws will conduct the business before them with the despatch of an ordinary fifteen dollar a week bookkeeper there will be no excuse for more than twelve weeks of the Assembly at the most. President Read of the Senate, and Speaker Pilgrim of the Assembly, have both urged this on the members of the respective bodies. Senator Read's warning was:

"There's one other question I wish to bring to your attention, and that is the usual demand for a short session. It is unnnecessary for me to remind you that under our rules, which are adopted with the idea that the public shall have full notice of contemplated legislation and have a chance to enter their objections if they consider it harmful, a bill cannot receive final consideration less than two weeks from the time of its introduction, and the same consideration by the other branch of the Legislature means that almost a month must elapse before such bill becomes a law. Therefore I urge upon you and trust that you in turn will ask your constituents to see that all legislation which you may have in mind for introduction at this session of the Legislature shall be prepared and introduced as early as possible. A short session lies as much in the hands of the public that demands it as it does in ourselves."

Sunday the British announced that they had abandoned all positions on the Gallipoli peninsula and escaped from the Turks without the loss of a single man. Monday they learned how it was done when reports from Africa showed that the Turkish army was very busily engaged hundreds of miles below.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The Triangle Plays offered at Proctor's, starting tomorrow and continuing the rest of the week, include Lillian Gish and Roszika Dolly in "The Lily and the Rose," and Charles Murray, in "The Great Vacuum Robbery." Miss Gish will be remembered for her portrayal of Elsie Stoneman in "The Birth of a Nation," recently presented here. Roszika Dolly is no other than the world-famous danseuse, who recently appeared at the New York Winter Garden, and is now featured in Ziegfeld's "Follies." With such a cast and direction this feature cannot but help be perfect in every respect. Charles Murray, who can always make one laugh, is at his best in "The Great Vacuum Robbery," and assumes the part of an amateur detective. The management well deserves the appreciation of the patrons for their untiring efforts to provide clean, wholesome entertainment for the amusement seekers of this vicinity. The vaudeville bill starting temorrow includes one of the most stupendous productions ever offered in this city. It is entitled "Forty Leagues Under the Sea," and carries a whole carload of scenery. The lighting and scenic effects are beyond description, and this feature will prove a revelation to the patrons. Mr. and Mrs. John Ellison will entertain with an original line of patter and song. The Carre Sisters offer an exceptionally brilliant musical act, and Silver and Duval are classy entertainers, who will immediately win favor with the audience. Don't forget the big bazaar tonight. There will be handsome presents given away, and a special comedy surprise will be introduced. "The Red Circle," Pathe's newest serial, which is appearing at Proctor's Theatre every Friday, the second episode being presented on Friday of this week, is one of the greatest serials ever produced. It is even better than the "Exploits of Elaine" and "Neal of the Navy." The stories were written by Albert Payson Terhune, one of America's greatest writers, and famous for his gripping tales of love and adventure.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Worry

IN A WELL regulated household there should be a fair and equitable division of the worrying. The father, for instance, should worry about his life insurance premiums, his sick and accident insurance premiums, his income, his character and his future existence or non-existence, as he believes. The mother should worry about her bread and cakes, her new clothes, the children's cleanliness and health. Whatever more worrying may be necessary should be passed around so that every one may have a share.

The great trouble in some households is that father or mother assumes the burden of doing all the worrying. This is hardly fair. It makes father or mother very difficult to get along with, if not easy to get along without. Generally it is mother who worries most. Somehow she imagines she will be happier if she has plenty to worry about, so she borrows some of father's worries, and father just grins and bears it the best he can.

Father has a way of coming home at night and wondering why mother is so anxious to get out and gad the streets or hang round the bargain sales. Home looks pretty good to father when he arrives home from work. If he had to stay around the plant where he is employed, and make himself generally useful there 168 hours a week, you can rest assured that he too would be only too anxious to welcome any chance diversion which might relieve the monotony.

Whoever worries ought to do so privately.. If one is afraid little Johnny's illness or accident is more serious than one's husband or wife believes, or that business is going to be bad next month on account of the backward season, or that the sun is going to cool off and stop warming the earth pretty soon, keep it strictly private. Why spread gloom? Be a Christian. Do good in the world. Be an optimist. Look on the bright side and ignore the darker side. Genuine cheer or even spurious cheer goes a long way toward the making of a happy, healthy family.

Take invoice, you who worry. How much has worrying netted you to date since you first stocked it?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How To Find Out

Kindly advise me what kind of examination is necessary to determine whether one has tuberculosis. Is it sufficient to tap on the upper part of the chest and listen with the ear? Do these symptoms suggest tuberculosis: Anemia, frequent headache, nervousness, soreness in right chest, blood pressure 143?

Answer—The patient must remove all clothing above the waist line. The examination must cover the entire chest, fore and aft, above and below. The temperature, pulse and breathing must be observed. All these things must be done on different occasions, possibly half a dozen times, in order to reach a positive conclusion in an early case. The symptoms you describe do not suggest tuberculosis, but neither do they exclude it.

Blood Pressure And Tonsils

Have been advised to have my tonsils removed—have had repeated attacks of quinsy. But an insurance examiner finds my blood pressure a little high. Would that make the operation inadvisable?

Answer—It would be better to have the tonsils removed.

CHARITY

CHARITY consists of giving things to the poor. Some people use it in place of religion, some indulge in it as an amusement, while others manufacture the very finest kind of advertising, disguised as pure reading matter, from it.

If it was not for charity, many of our richest women would die of ennui, most of our captains of skindustry would still be feeling mean about it and some of our poor would be poorer than ever.

Charity has been praised and written about since writing was invented, and a great many famous remarks have been made about it. "Charity begins at home," is one of these. If husbands were as crazy about staying at home as charity is, many of our most successful divorce lawyers would be hauling dirt for a living.

Another writer advises charitable people not to let one hand know what the other is giving. This advice is greatly misunderstood. Some people think that because the left hand can't hear a brass band or read a scarehead story, it isn't going to get onto what the right hand is giving anyway.

"Charity endureth all things," is another vast truth. Charity, for instance, has to bear up under the burden of the boodle alderman who inflicts bad water, poor food, and ancient sanitary protection upon the poor people and then wins great fame at Christmas by giving each family a pair of shoes as a sort of rebate.

There are many very beautiful forms of charity, such as free hospitals, day nurseries, orphans' homes, employment bureaus, and relief stations. There are other very creditable charities too, such as taking a library off of Andrew Carnegie's hands, buying something from the poor, starving beef trust, or telling a young lady of forty-nine that she has a Mary Pickford dimple. Charity consists not only in relieving the appetite and the wardrobe, but the mind also, in just such manners as this.

One of the most popular forms of charity is the Charity Ball. By means of this excellent institution, the dressmakers are given work, the hackmen are made prosperous, the poor struggling musicians are relieved from want and the caterers are enabled to boot the wolf from the door next day with a cheerful smile.

Views Of The Press

Growth Of Language

THE HESITANT, though by now nearly universal adoption of the word movie, unquoted, to designate a motion picture, is but one among nearly a score of new words and phrases whereby the art of the screen (there you go) has enriched the English vocabulary. And, of course, these have their counterparts in foreign tongues, for the movie recognizes neither space nor boundaries except as it is officially censored. To begin with, there are the rough and ready verbs rooted in the several nouns; for example, "movieize," one of the newest and hardest to swallow; "filmize," "pictureize" and "scenarioize." In direct descent from these are such offspring as "filmization" and "picturization." Both of these now have the sanction of general usage. Film is a word of long and honorable standing, but a "five-reel film" is something new and distinctive, as is the phrase "on the screen." Everyone knows what it is and no one thinks of it as anything other than that. It is a real addition. Then there are "picture plays" and "releases," both definitely subservient to the new art, to say nothing of the cinematograph and nickelodeon. The last word seems to have been grafted on the great motion-picture tree by professional slang breeders. It had its day, to be sure, but it soon ceased to apply and has died a natural death. Cinematograph also is now infrequent in this country, but in Latin-speaking lands its abbreviation, "cinema," has become the standard appellation. In South America this has been still further and affectionately contracted to "cine," and of the "cine" our Spanish-speaking neighbors are among the most faithful adherents. A film can be carried across mountain trails and exhibited in amusement places that would give the starring artists nervous prostration. This growth of the vocabulary is none the less interesting because the automobile, aeroplane, trolley car and all leading inventions have exerted a like influence on language. Some of the terms may follow "nickelodeon" into obscurity. Many of them are so clumsy that this seems desirable and inevitable. But at present the facts must be faced. What would one have thought twenty years ago to read that "Charlie Clickford, the famous movie star, will be seen on the screen at the 'Film' tonight in a five-reel picturization of 'The Queen of the Cinema,' a thrilling picture play just released by the X Y Z Motion Feature Corporation"? —Springfield Republican.

The Lease And the Landlord

Q. (1) Some months ago I leased a house. At the time the lease was taken, I paid the first month's rent and it was stipulated in the agreement that the landlord would make certain improvements, such as installing sewerage, water, etc., which were to be completed and the house ready for occupancy by a certain date, the date being the time the lease began to be in force. It was, however, a month or more after the lease had been in force before these improvements were completed, through the negligence of the landlord. The house was not ready for occupancy, but we moved into it on the thirty-first day of the month, because it was necessary for us to vacate the house we were then occupying. We had placed some of our property in the house about the middle of the first month of the lease, but the house was not ready for occupancy and by doing so then we were put to much inconvenience by reason of the unfinished work. In view of the above facts, would I be within my rights to deduct, now or at the time my lease expires, the amount I paid for the first month's rent? (2) With the consent of the landlord, I had certain work done on his property. Neither of us knew what such work would cost and no limit for this expenditure was mentioned, but it was expressly agreed between us that I should pay for the work when finished, and he—the landlord—would reimburse me for the full amount. Has the landlord any right to raise objections now to the payment of this amount to me because he thinks the charge made by the workman excessive, it being the usual rate charged for such work? Will he be bound by our agreement?

A. (1) If the landlord violated his agreement, and there was no act amounting to a waiver on your part, he should compensate you for such breach. (2) The amount of the compensation would depend upon what could be considered a reasonable and fair restitution.

The Ambassador's Son

Q. (1) May a person vote at a primary although not of age at that time, if of age before the election? (2) Can a United States ambassador's son hold the office of President of the United States if born in a foreign country?

A. (1) No. (2) No.

We Are In The Dark

Q. How may a stockholder in a company know the financial resources of the company and how may the stockholder know whether he or she is getting a square deal? If the company guarantees a certain per cent., isn't it obliged to pay, even though the concern is in debt?

A. An answer to your question depends upon the character of the corporation. The facts are not stated in such a way that you could be definitely advised. Consult your lawyer and give him detailed information.

When The Receipt Is Valid

Q. If a receipt for the payment of money has not been contradicted, does it constitute evidence of payment? A. Yes.

An Unpublished MS.

Q. Does one have property rights in an unpublished manuscript?

A. Yes.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Pepper Talks

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I Would Rather

I Would Rather—

Be a plain Friend, Valued, Trusted, Honored and held at all times unquestioned in my motives—just Loved and Believed in—than to have all the Wealth of the Richest, or all the Fame of the most Famous. Wouldn't you?

I Would Rather—

Do my work today, Humble and Plain though it may be, so long as I do it Honestly and Courageously and Efficiently, and enter a report at its close that represents the best of which I am capable, than to be given the handling of large affairs and feel at the end of my day that I had slighted here and there and that the importance of the job had taken from me my feeling of Responsibility and torn away those little attentions that make the finished job right. Wouldn't you?

I Would Rather—

Have a Character that at all times would represent Courageous Service performed, and Helpfulness put afloat wherever its influence might touch, than to have all the Acclaim that might follow in the wake of mere Reputation or Hereditary Honor, which might be shattered in a single day by some single stroke of Fortune. Wouldn't you?

I Would Rather—

Be a believer in the ultimate Great Reward for all Service and in Absolute Goodness as a permeating force among men, than to be a Doubter and a Questioner and thus lose the hourly joy and happiness that never fails to enter the life and very soul of the man who has the courage to Believe. Wouldn't you?

Food For The Gods

Upon Pazazza's bill of fare
(O that expensive place!)
The ruling price of pommes de terre
In agony I trace;
And as I pay for fricassee,
Or other such fal-lal,
My fancy chaste goes back to taste
The sandwich made by Al.

How often, oh, how often in
An earlier, happy day—
When empty-pocketed I've been,
With pay-day far away—
I've sought, at noon, that Dutch saloon
And sung a madrigal,
And bit apart that work of art,
The sandwich made by Al.

Art? Yea, 'twas architecture too;
A structure all supreme,
Such as a Richardson might view,
In some inspiring dream.
You gloat upon the Parthenon,
From base to capital?
Pish, pooh and pshaw! You never saw
The sandwich made by Al.

He didn't cut the bread too big,
For Al had artist's pride;
But oh! the quantity of pig
He deftly placed inside!
It was a meal for men of steel,
Like Roland or his pal,
Or any man Gargantuan—
The sandwich made by Al.

Lucullus knew one way to dine—
We have historians' words!
When melted pearls within his wine
Washed wings of humming-birds.
But, gee! I'll bet Luc' never set
A dish before his gal,
Though costing much, that e'er could touch
The sandwich made by Al.

INTEMPERANCE OF PROHIBITION,' TAFT TOPIC

FORMER PRESIDENT TAFT as HE APPEARS as A PRIVATE CITIZEN

Declaring himself in favor of temperance, former President Taft has just struck a blow at what he calls the intemperance of proposed prohibition in California. His declaration, before a convention of California hotel men, has become a big topic in the Golden state, where it is being given wide circulation by the bonifaces.

"I believe in temperance," said Mr. Taft, "and what I want to avoid is that the men who do not believe in temperance and the men who are moderate in their views of everything should not be ground between the top and the nether millstones of the extremes on both sides of that question.

"Therefore, I am opposed to either saloon-keeper rule or to the extreme of prohibition. Let us deal with the matter in a common sense way. Let us deal with human nature as it is. Understand what the conditions are and then adopt the laws to ameliorate them. Do not put a lot of laws on our statute books that we know in our hearts we can't enforce—just an attempt to fool the people.

"Let us have a system of local option where in a community they will support the enforcement of law."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Holland's Famous Boy Spent His Time.

Painted His Mother Over and Over.

"THE neat little country of Holland," daddy began, "has a wonderful coast that its brave people have won from a greedy sea. For hundreds of years they have forced the waves back, back and by their clever dikes held it there. So you must please imagine a low, flat country without our beautiful hills and valleys, always hanging in blue-gray mists that the sunlight has a wonderful way of making look greenish. Next to the dikes what you would notice first would be the windmills that grind the grain for the little Hollander's bread."

"Tell us about the children, please, daddy?" asked Jack.

"I'll tell you about one famous Dutch child instead. He was the son of a miller, and from the time he was old enough to toddle away from his mother in his little wooden shoes that went 'clop-clop, clop-clop' every time he stepped, he spent his time in his father's dim old mill, lighted by only one window, which threw a shaft of light upon a few objects and left the rest in deep shadow.

"Now, this seems like a very small thing, but you must please always remember what an important part it played in this rare child's fate. But before his fate really came to him he spent long hours walking across the gray-green Dutch meadows and studying the flowers and plants that grew in the parks near the old University of Leyden, close to his home. He loved the river Rhine and spent hours watching the ships come and go and the sunlight frighten on its waters. When it came time for him to go to college his parents wished to make a priest of him, but by this time the boy himself knew that he wanted to be an artist. This all happened 200 years ago, but this dreaming boy who loved to play in the dim old mill with its one sunbeam is still known all over the world as one of the masters of light and shadow."

"Who was he, daddy?" cried both children.

"He was Rembrandt van Rhyn, which means Rembrandt of the Rhine. So he studied and worked hard, hoping always to be a great artist, and one of the first things he painted was his father's old mill. Over and over again he painted his mother, sitting so sweet and still with her Bible in her hand. What money he made selling his pictures he gave to her, and moving up to Amsterdam, he passed all his long life making beautiful pictures of rooms with one light beam across shadows, his mother and the simple, quaint Dutch people that he never cared to travel far from. Some day, if you are both good children, I will take you to see a copy of his famous 'Night Watch.' The real one is in Amsterdam," daddy promised.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

Mother Morton Has a Plan for Rectifying a Great Mistake.

"Give me a knife and I will help you peel the potatoes," said Mrs. Morton, sitting down with the pan in her lap.

"Now, what is this about Julia Osgood's broken engagement?" she asked when she and Molly were busily working on the tubers.

"The first we knew of the trouble was when she came back to work," began Molly. "John and she were always good friends and she told him something about the trouble. It seems that his mother is very aristocratic and will not consent to having her son marry a stenographer. She threatened to disinherit him if he persisted. Julia had an idea that it would be too much of a sacrifice for him to make. She said he would tire of a woman who had cost him so much."

"I should think he would be the judge of that," interrupted Mrs. Morton.

"Well, she let her imagination run away with her and thought he wanted to break it up, so she gave him back his ring. He thought perhaps that she did not care to marry a poor man. Both of them are miserable and it is all so useless," said Molly desperately.

The old lady snorted as she rapidly dropped the parings into the pan.

"There is a strong prejudice against meddling with people's love affairs, perhaps because of the ancient superstition that matches are made in heaven. As to that we have only to keep our eyes open, to be sure that we could hardly bungle worse than heaven, if that is the case." She smiled grimly.

"I know the old proverb says, 'Mind your own business,'" remarked Molly, "but——"

"I never minded my own business but once, and then I was sorry." She bobbed her head fiercely. "The old proverb sums up the wisdom of selfishness. It is the result of the harrowing experiences of people who tried to help someone who resented it, and if one is looking for comfort it is wisest to follow it. I have had several scratches myself." She smiled reminiscently. "But with good blood they heal quickly. We have got to the place where it is proper to offer help in time of physical troubles; perhaps the time will come when even heart troubles will offer a chance to help."

"Can you think of any way in which I could help?" asked Molly. "Julia is very proud and she would resent any interference. The help must come 'unbeknowns,' as the delivery boy says."

Mrs. Morton worked in silence for some time.

"When does that trial of Tyler's come off?" she asked.

"Next month," replied Molly.

"Now, he will be there. Couldn't you get a chance to sound the young fellow? You could soon tell whether he cared for her or not, and if he does, let him know the true state of affairs. That would be all that would be necessary if he is the right sort," suggested the old lady.

"How could I manage that without Julia's suspecting anything?" Molly's tone was full of doubt.

"Make an appointment, if necessary. You and your husband could go out together, but I believe a woman would be less likely to make a bungle of it if she was alone. I was never any good at anything like that; never had a bit of tact," continued Mrs. Morton, "but I believe you would succeed all right. It is ticklish business, though," she added, shaking her head.

"Well, I will think about it and see if I cannot plan some way to see him," said Molly thoughtfully.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

Temperance NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by THE W. C. T. U.

Just before Xmas the Plainfield branch of the W. C. T. U. packed three barrels of clothing and Xmas gifts. One was sent to the Vineland Training School and two barrels to the Mission Yacht Association, Brooklyn.

Letters of acknowledgement have been received in which Capt. Benn writes that men, women and children living in the boats, men along the waterfronts, captains and officers of ships, and the homeless sailor no longer able to work were all made happier and more comfortable by the gifts sent by the Union. "I assure you of our sincere appreciation. With your generous co-operation, the work of the Mission Yacht has become far more efficient, and the good literature we distribute among the sailor men is carried by them into all the world, and passed on to others."

The two barrels contained fruit, candy, picture books, toys, games, comfort bags and money, $15 having been collected by Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, who is superintendent of work among soldiers and sailors.

The Vineland Training School has 150 feeble-minded children, who were all made happy by the suitable gifts which their barrel contained. The superintendent reports that every child had a present.

Petersburg, Ind., Jan. 5.—While a man begged that the liquor be distributed among the physicians of the town to be used as stimulant, members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, late yesterday destroyed seven gallons of whiskey, a quantity of wine, and several cases of beer which had been confiscated in recent raids on "blind tigers."

The Indiana Brewing Company closed its brewery and went out of business. The reason given out is that prohibition under local option votes has so increased in the surrounding territory as to make the business unprofitable.

An editorial in the Lexington Daily Leader says:

"A prominent distiller, who was in the city today, said that the output of distilleries throughout the State has been materially reduced, largely because of the prohibition activity, and that some manufacturers were warehousing only one half of their former crops."

The presence in a State of even one man who works energetically for prohibition, thoroughly frightens the liquor men.

A former saloonkeeper, recently converted, relates how, when he took charge of a saloon owned by a prominent Trenton brewer, the brewer, a financial magnate, said to him: "You are about to start in a wonderful business, but if you would succeed take my advice—Sell it! Don't drink it!"

The illustration below and comments, clipped from Every Week, tell the same story from the viewpoint of the man behind the bar:

"All day long he stands watching lips that touch liquor; but no liquor ever touches his. Beer-barrels to left of him, beer-barrels to right of him, volley and thunder; but he walks through the swinging doors at night as dry as one of Mr. Bryan's speeches. You may not know it, but it's a fact that many, many bartenders never touch a drop. 'The stuff rots your shoe-leather, I notice,' says this one, 'and if it does that to shoe-leather what must it do to stomachs?'"

With the dawn of 1916, State-wide prohibition laws already adopted will go into effect in seven more States, namely, Colorado, Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa, Oregon, South Carolina and Virginia.

These States, by the latest census, contain a population of approximately nine million people.

Thus, nine million more of our fellow citizens have voted themselves free from the curse of the alcoholic liquor traffic.

This is the largest number of people that ever won prohibition within one year.

During 1916 the following States will vote on State prohibition: Vermont, Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan and California, with doubtless others to follow. Utah and Florida will likely win prohibition by act of the Legislature.

So that 1916 promises a continuous fight against the traffic, with hope of many victories.

STANDARDIZE BAKING POWDER

Washington, Jan. 12.—Hoping to standardize baking powders so that the health of American people will not be endangered by frauds, a gathering of baking powder experts will meet with the government joint committee on definitions and standards at the Bureau of Chemistry here, on Friday. This committee is undertaking to find out just what constitutes the accepted formulas for foods and drugs, in order that some standard may be defined. This is necessary in order that the Federal and State officials may be aided in enforcing the food and drug laws.

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES IN TABS' HALL FRIDAY NIGHT

The T. A. B. S. court will be the scene of a great battle Friday night, when the Plainfield A. A. will clash with the Abstainers. Dip Jones says he has fed his crew on raw beef ever since they licked the Y. M. C. A. bunch last Saturday night, and has made them more ferocious than ever. Dip has also got a masked marvel whom he will spring on the Abstainers if the game is too close.

The T. A. B. S. Seconds will buck up against the fast-going Mohawks in the preliminary game. The Mohawks gave the Second a good walloping a few weeks ago, and Dispin says he has to even up things by putting a victory over on the Mohawks.

SPORT NOTES

The meeting of the Central Association at Burlington, Ia., today, promises to develop a fight to oust M. E. Justice as president of the league. Frank Norton, of Burlington, who was formerly president of the Iowa State League, is a candidate to succeed Justice, and the northern clubs are said to be backing Norton, because of Justice's action on the enforcement of the "four-veteran" rule next year.

The sportsmen of Kentucky are meeting today at Frankfort to discuss changes in the game laws of that State. Some of the contemplated changes are: Prohibiting snaring of rabbits, shortening the squirrel and bird season, limiting the size of fish caught in streams, a bag limit on certain game, and a new form of combined fishing and hunting license.

The billiard interest this week centers in the match between Edward Oro, the Cuban star, and Jerry Cosgrove of Los Angeles for the professional three cushion title. De Oro is defending the title against Jerry's challenger, and there is a side wager together with a purse put up by Sig. Murray, of Boston, at whose billiard hall the match takes place. The first block of 50 points will be contested tonight, and similar blocks will be played tomorrow and Friday. The Cuban is in better form than ever before, but Jevne has been showing marvellous stroke in his practice games in Chicago.

The winner of the big mill at St. Paul next Tuesday night between Mike Gibbons and Young Ahearn will be given first chance at a match in Sydney with Les D'Arcy, Snowy Baker's 160 pound wonder. The St. Paul bout promises to be one of the best of the winter.

The Grand Circuit dates for next summer and the suggestions for the improvement of the harness meets will come up today at the meeting of the stewards of the Grand Circuit at Cleveland. The limitation of winnings is sure to crop up again at the meeting. President Devereux having revised the proposition which came near to being put through in 1913. Tom Murphy's grand clean-up with that wonder, Peter Scott, has agitated the question of restriction of winnings, which was smothered three years ago.

The adjourned meeting of the International League brings the magnates of that circuit together again today in New York. It is likely that the Harrisburg club will be shifted to Worcester, Mass. The club is sure to go to New England, with Springfield and Hartford as possibilities.

Freddie Welsh and Johnny Dundee will meet tomorrow night for ten rounds in New York, as the opening event of the new club managed by Charles Harvey, former secretary of the State Boxing Commission. Welsh has a tough and gritty opponent, and the lightweight champion will be obliged to show something if he is to regain popularity.

The trapshooting schedule for the year gets under way next week, the first event being the annual handicap tournament of the Pinehurst Country Club. The seventeenth Grand Handicap, set for August in St. Louis, will wind up a long season for the gunners.

The Alaskans have added a fore-runner to their dog-race classic. The Anchorage Kennel Club will stage a race from Anchorage to Matanuska, starting next Saturday. This is a try-out race for the big event which will be held March 15, the annual run over the snows from Anchorage to Seward and return.

The bantam-weight championship will be settled on February 7, when Kid Williams and Kid Herman clash in a 20-round bout at New Orleans, according to an announcement of Tortorich.

RE-ENTER MAGNETO SPARKS FROM THE MOTORCYCLE CLUB

Matthew Persad is having the time of his life with his new 1916 Harley Davidson. They say he is using his lamp a lot these days.

W. DeW. Miller, who used to keep the records of the club, rides a bicycle downtown since an auto bumped him while he was riding through Morristown recently. The autoist paid all the expenses and Mr. Miller's boat will soon be at sea again.

Julius Dickhudt was in town recently with a lot of hot stove stuff. Jule, well known as the Flying Dutchman, is about to sell another acre of his South Plainfield property.

Bill Addis wants to know where you can get motorcycle chain that won't break. Ask Hampson, Bill.

L. Hampson, owing to a puncture in his foot, cannot ride his machine. That is the reason there is so much blue smoke on East Fourth street these days.

Cream Tandem Keiderling says the ride to Newburg, N. Y., is very bad for machine and rider. Never again for Jim, so Hampson says.

C. Van Benscheten and Bro. Ed. of Dunellen, who ride tandem in all kinds of weather, just put their machine back on the road after a good overhauling, and are now ready for the 1916 season, sixty miles an hour and the hospital.

H. Alberts, our president, was up around Whitehouse last Saturday after his machine and side car, which he left there a short time ago during a snow storm. Herb won't be so lonesome now.

F. Fleming, of New Market, has been home with the grip during the last week. Fred has used his machine every day this winter between his home and New Brunswick, where he is employed.

Elmer Gayle, who does most of his riding after dark, was in and expects to hit the road again just as soon as weather permits. His motorcycle and himself are again in first class shape in spite of Madison, N. J. trains. They say that the engine needed a coat of paint after Elmer got through.

P. J. Banks doesn't care how wet and slippery the road is, but show him a handful of sand and he tips over at once.

Wanted—Information concerning the whereabouts of P. Meyers and A. Herrlick. Will be thankfully received by members of F. M. C.

Next meeting of the Club Thursday, Jan. 20, at 8 p. m.

NEWARK TO HAVE AUTO SHOW EARLY IN FEBRUARY

Newark, Jan. 12.—Newark's eighth annual automobile show, to be held during the week of February 1926, in the First Regiment Armory Sussex avenue, Hudson and Jay streets, is being organized on a scale of size and splendor never before approached by similar exhibitions in any section of the country outside of New York and Chicago. In fact, since the local armory represents the greatest area of any show place in the State, containing, as it does, upwards of 50,000 square feet.

While most of the North Jersey automobile dealers were in attendance at the New York show last week Manager C. Louis FitzGerald and his corps of assistants were busy handing out application blanks to scores that have applied at the committee's headquarters in the Kinney building, and they have been kept busy listing those who have already handed in their signed reservations for space.

ELKS NOT TO GO IN CITY LEAGUE

Bowling Committee Finds Out Club's Best Pinners Are Pressed for Dates Now.

WILL ENTER NEXT YEAR

Decision, Which is Surprise, Arrived at After a Discussion Lasting More Than Three Hours—Four Teams in League Now.

At a meeting of the Elks' Club bowling committee last night, it was decided not to enter a team in the City Bowling League.

The decision was a big surprise, even to some of the committee members who voted in favor of entering the league. The discussion lasted three hours, and resulted in the opinion that the only bowlers in the club good enough to roll on the team could not find enough nights to roll.

Almost a dozen of the leading bowlers in the club were approached, and it was learned that between the dates taken up by the Junior and Senior Leagues, the house tournament, lodge meetings, and various other activities, there would not be more than one or two dates during the remainder of the season in which there would not be a confliction with dates on the calendar of one or more members.

The committee went on record as being heartily in favor of entering the league, and stated that the Elks would positively enter such a loop next season, provided the schedule was arranged early in the season.

The withdrawal of the Elks leaves four teams in the league. They are the Columbus Club, Eagles, T. A. B. S. and Imperials.

POSTPONE BOTH MATCHES IN WESTFIELD LEAGUES

Both matches scheduled in Westfield bowling leagues last night were postponed. The Baptist-Presbyterian S. S. League match was called off on account of a death in the family of one of the Baptist men, while the captains of the Royal Arcanum and Loyal Association teams agreed to postpone their Westfield League games because all the members of the Arcanum five could not be present.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with in accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—Adv.

MORTGAGES AS INVESTMENTS FOR IDLE FUNDS

There is no better form of investment for those who desire a higher rate than the 4% aid in our Special Department, than mortgages on well selected property on a 50% basis.

This Company invests a certain portion of its funds in gilt edge mortgages and is willing to sell participations in these mortgages from time to time to persons desiring conservative investments.

We are always pleased to talk over investments with persons having idle funds in an endeavor to be of service and will be glad to submit our offerings to anyone who may be interested.

SAYS AMERICANS ARE ALL SELFISH

Red Cross Head Pleads for Principles of the Boy Scouts.

JUST BACK FROM WAR

Dr. Beal Declares Movement Would Never Want for Anything Here if People Could See Work Being Done in England.

Declaring that the United States was a land of selfishness and wastefulness and that its people thought of nothing but pleasure-seeking and the chase of the dollar, Dr. Howard W. Beal, who has just returned from duty with the American Red Cross in England, last night brought home to an audience in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School the need of Boy Scout training, not only for the boys of today, who are to be the citizens of tomorrow, but of the grown-ups.

Dr. Beal told of the wonderful work being done by boys in England. There the Boy Scouts assist in caring for the wounded that come in from the front in car-loads, and they also serve in the war office, aid the constabulary, or police, and otherwise take the places of men who have gone to the front.

He said that the reputation of America in Europe was that of a nation of people eternally engaged in chasing dollars, and from the remarks of Dr. Beal it was easy to read that he, too, holds this opinion. America and Germany shared his criticism about equally, but he evidenced an interest in America by suggesting a means of reform. He is an American citizen who has been engaged in Red Cross work for a little more than a year.

Dr. Beal said that the dollar would not buy preparedness. He declared that the resources of America were being wasted and that her government was inefficient. This, he said, was the fault of her citizens, and he urged that the ideals of the Boy Scouts be adopted generally as a means of salvation for the country, declaring that until this was done there would never be efficient government in this country.

In introducing his plea for the advancement of Boy Scout work in this country, Dr. Beal said that if those in his audience could see the work being done by members of this organization in England the movement would never want for anything in Plainfield. He said he was in charge of one of ten units of Red Cross nurses and physicians that sailed from the United States early in the war for service in foreign countries. One of the greatest indictments made against the Germans since the war began came from Dr. Beal in his remarks. He told of the equipping of a ship for Red Cross service. It was originally manned by a German-American crew, he said, but they were prevented from leaving with the ship by the government. After the boat had been out two or three days, according to the story told by him last night, engine trouble developed and an investigation showed that the pumps had been clogged with overalls and other garments, the machinery damaged by wrenches and articles of a like nature. He made the direct statement that these acts were committed by the German-Americans who made up the original crew, and added "this was our first taste of the Germans."

The hospital in which he worked, he said, was the only one in England supported by the American Red Cross. Well equipped trains bearing wounded soldiers from the front arrived every day and Boy Scouts aided in the work of unloading the wounded and seeing that they were properly placed in the hospital. He said that the spirit of the soldiers was "fine" and that they were always cheerful and resigned to their fate, no matter how serious their wounds.

Dr. Beal told of one young Scotchman who was brought in suffering from fifty wounds, every one of them in the back. He recovered, the physician said.

Among the many duties assigned to the Boy Scouts of England was that of patrolling the coast line. This work, he said, was being done by boys and done as well as if in the hands of men.

Dr. Beal told of two trips to the front in which he related experiences almost identical with those of American newspaper men who have published stories in all of the important metropolitan dailies.

In introducing Dr. Beal, Theodore Davis, president of the Plainfield Boy Scout Council, thanked all of the residents of the city for their loyal support in organizing and maintaining the troops. He announced that a campaign to raise $2,000 was to be started within a short time and explained that the money was needed

PARISH DECIDES ON IMPROVEMENTS

Church of the Heavenly Rest to Purchase An Organ and Build Extension.

After hearing the report from the committee at a joint meeting of trustees and parish of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, held at the rectory last night, it was decided to go ahead and build a sixteen foot extension to the church and to install a new organ just as soon as the money can be secured. The extension will cost about $3,000, and will provide a new chancel and choir room, while the new organ will cost about $1,200, both of which are greatly needed by the parish.

Charles Davis, organist of Holy Cross church, whose advice in the matter of securing an organ was sought, explained somewhat in detail the result of his investigation, and the instrument he recommends will cost about $1,250.

Clarence Brazer, of New York, an architect, was present and presented plans for the proposed extension. Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the church, told those present of the need not only for more room at the church, but for a new organ, whereby the musical part of the worship could be greatly improved. All those present agreed with the rector. The treasurer gave a brief report of the present financial condition of the parish and amount in the rectory and organ funds. Mr. Mallery appointed Juan A. Babcock as a committee of one to act with the rector in financing the propositions.

After the business of the evening there was a social hour, and refreshments were served by the Misses Alice, Jessica and Clare Mallery.

JUDGE CAREY MAY RUN FOR GOVERNOR

His Friends Are Urging Him for Nomination—Others Named.

Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, is the latest New Jersey notable to be suggested as a possible Republican nominee for governor this year. While Judge Carey has not agreed to enter the campaign, his friends are urging his name and strong sentiment in his favor is being developed in Hudson and Middlesex counties. Judge Carey is looked upon by many as the strongest independent candidate to be pitted against the Essex machine. There are many other Republicans in the State who are in a receptive mood and whose friends are quietly urging their qualifications. The strongest candidacy yet is that of Senator Austin Colgate, of Essex, who is believed to be the Dalrymple choice for the nomination. Others being mentioned as gubernatorial possibilities from the Republican ranks are Vice Chancellor Vivian Lewis, of Passaic; Carlton Godfrey, of Atlantic; Senator Walter Edge, of Atlantic; John D. Prince, of Passaic. Senator William Read, of Camden, had been considered a strong factor in the governor's race until a short time ago when he was agreed on for the position of State treasurer.

LOCAL OPTION BILL UP

Fight for Passage of Bill in Senate is Being Led by Anti-Saloon League—Claims of Its Advocates Indicate Chance of Passage.

Trenton, Jan. 13.—In an effort to win approval for the local option bill now pending in the Senate and soon to be introduced in the House, the entire Legislature has been invited to attend one of the meetings of the Rev. Billy Sunday, and an effort will be made to have the legislators present when he delivers his famous sermon on "Booze."

An invitation to attend the Sunday revival was delivered to the House, Tuesday, by Assemblyman Harry J. Iobst, of Hunterdon county, who is a Methodist minister. It was referred to the social welfare committee, but will later be referred to a joint committee of the Senate and Assembly.

This is said to be a part of the fight to get a local option bill passed. The bill is being urged by citizens from all over the State, led by the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League. Following the introduction of the measure in the Senate, Tuesday afternoon by Senator Gaunt, of Gloucester county, who handled it last year, the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League began the work of lining up sentiment in favor of it.

A vigorous campaign is to be maintained until February 2, when a monster demonstration is to be held in Trenton in favor of the bill. This demonstration will include a meeting in the morning in the Billy Sunday tabernacle, a march to the State House and a return to the tabernacle where the Rev. Mr. Sunday will preach his famous sermon on "Booze."

The Anti-Saloon League claims there are already twelve votes for the bill in the Senate and nineteen in the Assembly. The bill passed the Senate last year by the vote of eleven to ten, those favoring it being: Ackley, of Cumberland; Allen, of Salem; Gaunt, of Gloucester; Hennessy, of Bergen; Hutchinson, of Mercer; Martens, of Hunterdon; Mathis, of Ocean; Pierce, of Union; Rathbun, of Morris; Smalley, of Somerset, and Wheaton, of Cape May. Wheaton has been succeeded by Stevens, who is a local optionist, and Senator Wells, of Burlington, is a new recruit to the local option ranks. Therefore, if all those who voted for it last March stand pat, it is sure to go through the Senate again this year. The measure has gained six supporters in the House: Roberts, of Burlington; Ackerman, Bailey and Winne, of Bergen, and Dadley and Adamson, of Passaic. Politicians say the Assembly will defeat it this year as it did in 1913.

The bill provides that upon the filing of a petition in any municipality signed by thirty per cent. of the legal voters, an election shall be called on the question of permitting saloons to exist. If a majority vote against the saloons, then they must cease business. The measure this year is No. 204 and was referred to the Municipal Corporations Committee. This committee is composed of Senators Edge McCran and Egan, all of whom are opposed to local option.

BOYS ATTEMPT TO FOOL CHIEF KIELY

Tell Story of Robbery, But Admit They Just Left the Reformatory.

John Witenac, aged 11 years, and Charles Socalisky, aged 15, walked into the police station at 8 o'clock last night and told an exciting story of having been held up near the depot and robbed. They said the highwaymen got $202.50 of their money and that they were unable to go on to Philadelphia.

Both boys were well dressed, especially Whitenac. They told their story in a way that impressed, but Chief Kiely had his suspicions aroused by their manner and he questioned them closely. He asked Whitenac where the new clothing came from. The boy insisted that his father had given it to him, but would not tell where his father lived. After close questioning the boys admitted that they had not been robbed. They said they had just been released from the Jamesburg reformatory, and that they lived in Jersey City. Chief Kiely called the father of both boys and asked what disposition should be made of them. Whitenac said that he would come for his son today and take him home, but the father of the Socalisky boy said he wanted nothing to do with the youngster and to kindly send him back to the reformatory. This will probably be done.

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO THOMAS F. SYKES

Well Known Resident Passed Away at Muhlenberg Hospital Today.

Thomas Francis Sykes, aged 51 years, of 202 East Ninth street, a resident of this city for many years, died at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning from pneumonia. He was taken ill on Saturday, his condition being critical from the first. Mr. Sykes was a native of New York State, but for a number of years resided at Scotch Plains, where his late father, Rev. C. S. Sykes, was one of the first rectors of All Saints' church.

Mr. Sykes had been engaged in business in New York as a stock broker for many years, his connection more recently being with the firm of Robinson & Co., of 26 Exchange place. He was of a quiet, retiring disposition and never took any active part in civic affairs. He was a communicant of Grace Episcopal church, where he was a regular attendant.

There survives a mother, Mrs. Charles S. Sykes, and a sister, Miss Caroline Sykes, of this city, and a brother McCready Sykes now living in Boise City, Idaho. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Mrs. B. F. Tallamy, as vice president, was in charge in the absence of Mrs. James E. Kimball, the president, who was detained at home by illness.

There was a short business session, after which Miss Lillian Lamson gave a talk on recreation work. This was followed with a talk by Principal Cook, his remarks being helpful to the mothers who have children in the school. The program closed with a recitation by Miss Garda, which took the place of a talk by Miss Jackson, the domestic science teacher, who is also ill. During a social hour refreshments were served. The association will meet again on Wednesday, February 9.

COUNSEL IN NEAL CASE ORDERED TO FILE BRIEFS

Elizabeth, Jan. 13.—After a hearing in the Frank S. Neal will case in the Orphans' Court yesterday, Judge Connolly ordered counsel to file briefs, and also to prepare for a further oral argument at a date to be fixed later. Mrs. Florence Neal Williams, of Plainfield, daughter of the testator, who died in November, 1910, contends that the $40,000 estate has not been properly managed and has filed exceptions to the executors' accounting. The executors are the widow and two sons, William E. and Frank A. Neal. Mrs. Williams was a minor at the time of her father's death. Through her counsel, William A. Coddington, she sets up the claim that the executors went beyond their legal rights in assessing personal expenses, and that only improper management could result in the paring of the estate down to $5,000, an amount due on a second mortgage held by the estate.

To back up this contention she cites that realty valued at $32,000 was disposed of and that a house in which the Neals lived, is worth at least $10,000. F. A. Pope, of Somerville, represents the executors.

French engineers have blown up the important railway bridge over the Struma river at Demir-Hissar, and it is announced that this was done to retard the advance of the approaching Teutons.

The Central powers have begun an attack on the British lines in the Doiran zone. Artillery bombardment of these points lasted all of yesterday. Bulgarians, Austrians and Turks are aiding in this drive, and it is said to be the assembled attack on Saloniki.

BURGLARS ROB STORE, BOYS ARE SUSPECTED

Burglars, supposed by the police to have been boys, broke into the store of Olson & Givens, grocers, on East Front street, sometime last night. They carried off about $20 worth of cigars and tobacco. From the manner in which the crime was committed it is believed that the burglars were amateurs, probably boys. There is no clue to the identity of the robbers.

FOG CAUSES TROUBLE IN NEW YORK HARBORS

New York, Jan. 13.—A heavy fog which paralyzed traffic caused accidents in the waters around New York today. A Hamilton avenue ferry boat carrying quite a number of passengers was driven ashore on Governors Island, but no one was hurt, and the boat was hauled off shortly afterward by tugs. A Staten Island ferryboat crashed into a coal lighter causing considerable excitement on board. The Boston freighter Pequotic rammed a cattle boat loaded with 600 cattle and sheep killing some of the steers, but the damage to the boat was small. Four big ocean liners were held up at quarantine and sailings were also delayed.

PLAN FOR DANCE.

COM. SMALLEY IS EXONERATED

Charges Brought Against Dunellen Official Are Proven Groundless.

WITNESS IS UNWILLING

Has to Be Brought Before Council—Apologizes for His Accusations—Counsel Says Others Are to Blame for Affair.

Street Commissioner Isaac V. Smalley, of the borough of Dunellen, was completely exonerated of charges made against him recently at a public hearing before the Mayor and Common Council of Dunellen held last night. An attempt was made by Abram Van Arsdale, who preferred the charges, to evade the hearing and his testimony was secured by the Council only after he was almost literally dragged into the Council chamber. There he admitted that there was no justice in his statements and publicly apologized.

In a communication to the Council sometime ago Van Arsdale stated that Commissioner Smalley was paying men out of the money of the borough and working them in his private business. He cited two instances, giving dates and the names of two city employes, Henry Hill and a man named Johnson. A few days ago the mayor received a letter from Van Arsdale stating that he had found his charges to be false and asking that the hearing be dropped. Commissioner Smalley and members of the Council refused to agree to this, however, and insisted that a public hearing be held.

One of the charges made against Commissioner Smalley was that he paid Hill for a half day's work out of the city's money and used the man delivering furniture for three hours and a half. The date was given and it was shown by the records and by witnesses that Hill had worked four and one-half hours for the city that day, or a half-hour more than a half day.

The Borough Hall was packed to its capacity when promptly at 8 o'clock, his honor, Mayor Latham, called the Council to order, every councilman being at his desk. After the usual formalities and stating the object of the meeting the charges were read and F. J. Blatz, counsel for the accused street commissioner, entered a plea of not guilty. Borough Counsel Von Minden called Van Arsdale's name as the first witness and it was then discovered that he was not present in the room but had sent a letter requesting that he be allowed to withdraw his charges and offering an humble apology to both the Mayor and Council and the street commissioner. Both the corporation and counsel for the street commissioner insisted that Van Arsdale should be compelled to appear in person and be examined. The Mayor accordingly ordered the borough clerk to go after Van Arsdale and bring him before the Council. After a long wait the borough clerk returned and stated to the mayor that Van Arsdale was in the outer hall and asked whether he could not be excused from appearing. However, he was finally produced before the Council and sworn. His testimony was largely to the effect that somebody else had informed him as to the alleged delinquencies of the street commissioner and when pressed by counsel to name his informants he named a former street commissioner and then stated that there were several others whom he did not remember. After a vigorous cross examination, he stated that he found he had been mistaken and wished to withdraw the charges. Street Commissioner Smalley was then sworn and specifically denied each of the charges. His attorney, Mr. Blatz, in an eloquent plea set forth his views as to why his client should be acquitted and asked for a resolution of acquittal by the Council. Corporation Counsel Von Minden then took the floor and in a powerful address concurring with Mr. Blatz's plea pointed out the utter collapse of the plaintiff's charges explaining that on account of the seriousness of the charges and their utter failure upon trial that in future persons filing complaints should be careful as to the nature of such complaints, saying that it was quite evident that Van Arsdale had been made a puppet.

Mayor Latham remarked that while the Council was always ready to give a fair hearing to any citizen on any complaint that he might wish to make yet he felt that frivolous and baseless complaints made for ulterior purposes should be condemned. Councilman Jones then moved a resolution that the charges against the street commissioner should be dismissed and by unanimous vote of the entire Council the same was done and the street commissioner duly acquitted.

Tuesday he boarded a train back to New Market and returned to his home in the afternoon.

After being the only recorder that Fanwood borough has ever had, Charles Sheelen has retired from that office after threatening to do so for several years. Notwithstandinig his reappointment by the Mayor he will not qualify, as business has made such a demand on his time that he has all he can do to fill the office of collector as it ought to be. How his services will be missed was demonstrated last night, when Marshal Logan took two men in custody for unnecessary loitering, and Mayor Logan was the only one he could take the men before.
